CROSSES BAY TO LA UNION

Trip in Launch Is Rough—Salvador Government Heads Honor Him at Dinner.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LA UNION, Salvador, Nov. 26.—Citizens of two Central American republics heard President-elect Hoover of the United States in the first speeches of his tour of good-will and friendship today, here and at Amapala, Honduras, express in terms of highest idealism the wish of his countrymen for friendly relations with their southern neighbors.

The battleship Maryland, carrying the Hoover party, steamed into the Gulf of Fonseca, bordered by the three Republics of Honduras, Salvador and Nicaragua, soon after 9 o'clock this morning and dropped anchor four miles off Amapala.

A stiff breeze was blowing and the naval launches which carried the President-elect and his party to the pier, where an official reception committee was awaiting them, danced about on the surface of the bay in a manner reminiscent of last Saturday's storm, which brought the Maryland twenty-four hours late to her first anchorage. But otherwise the day was perfect, with brilliant sunshine and an almost cloudless sky.

Built on an island and huddled at the base of an old volcano, its picturesque red tile roofs standing out against the green of the foliage, the town of Amapala made a striking setting for the President-elect's first visit.

Small Boats Fill the Bay.

Despite the choppy seas, scores of tugs and small river craft darted about the harbor, their whistles blowing salutes and gaily colored streamers flying from their yardarms. Almost as soon as the big battleship's propellers stopped turning for the first time in nearly a week her guns opened a salute of twenty-one salvos. As the last echoes rolled across their sunlit bay a Honduran battery replied with a similar salute.

The rattle of anchor chains forward had barely stopped when the launches which were to carry Mr. Hoover and his party to land were dropped over the side and the visitors began preparations for going ashore.

Detachments of sailors and marines lined the deck of the battleship, their rifles at "present arms," as Mr. Hoover walked along the deck to the gangway and descended to his launch.

The American Chargé d'Affaires at Tegucigalpa, Herschel V. Johnson, had boarded the Maryland as soon as she anchored, and during the trip to shore pointed out points of interest to Mr. and Mrs. Hoover.

Cabinet Chiefs Welcome Him.

It was nearly 11 o'clock when the party landed. President-elect Vincente Majia Coindres and five ministers of the Honduras Cabinet were waiting at the wharf as the naval launches drew up. President Barahona of the republic had been obliged to remain in the capital.

After Mr. Hoover had exchanged greetings with his welcomers and a group of Nicaraguan girls in native costumes had presented Mrs. Hoover with a huge bouquet of flowers, the party was escorted through two lines of Honduran soldiers to the heart of the city. There he was officially welcomed by Honduran officials, who expressed the assurance that Mr. Hoover would bring a spirit of better understanding to Latin-American relations.

The change, they predicted, would be toward less aggressive lines and grounded more upon mutual understanding and friendship.

Mr. Hoover replied, assuring his audience in a few words of the friendship of his country and the desire of its citizens for better understanding with their neighbors to the south.

Go in Launches to La Union.

After a luncheon, the Hoover party crossed the Gulf of Fonseca to La Union where, with the wind still unabated, they experienced some difficulty in climbing up from the launches to the wharf.

Storm May Force Hoover To Spend Night in La Union

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LA UNION, Salvador, Nov. 26. Herbert Hoover was held in this city this evening due to a half gale in the harbor, which was preventing the return in small boats to the Maryland. Although due to sail on the battleship at midnight for Corinto, Nicaragua, the Hoover party may have to remain here overnight.

It is now doubtful if Mr. Hoover will go to Costa Rica, where his itinerary called for landing at Punta Arenas and an overland trip to the capital, San José. A wireless message reports storm conditions in that republic, with bridges down, and it is not believed repairs can be made in time for Mr. Hoover's visit.

TEXT OF HOOVER'S NEIGHBORLY TALKS

Addresses at Amapala, Honduras and La Union, Salvador, Set Forth Aims of Tour.

HE STRESSES FRIENDSHIP

To Both Peoples President-Elect Says His Visit Is to Secure Warmer Understandings.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The text of the speeches made by President-elect Hoover today at Amapala, Honduras, and at La Unión, Salvador, as cabled to and made public here by Lawrence Richey, Mr. Hoover's representative in Washington, are as follows:

AT AMAPALA.

I come to pay a call of friendship. In a sense, I represent on this occasion the people of the United States extending a friendly greeting to our fellow democracies on the American Continent. I would wish to symbolize the friendly visit of one good neighbor to another.

In our daily life good neighbors call upon each other as the evidence of solicitude for the common welfare and to learn of the circumstance and point of view of each, so that there may come both understanding and respect, which are the cementing forces of all enduring society.

This should be equally true amongst nations. We have a desire to maintain not only the cordial relations of governments with each other, but the relations of good neighbors through greater understanding that comes with more contact. We may build up that common respect and service which is the only enduring basis of international friendship.

It is also my desire to learn more of our common problems in the Western Hemisphere that I may be better fitted for the task which lies before me; and we are all of us in the West interested in one great common task. That task is the advancement of the welfare of the people of our respective countries.

We are each of us pledged through the blood of our forefathers to national independence, to self-government, to development of the individual through ordered liberty as the only sound founda-

HIGH BAIL HOLDS FIVE IN ROTHSTEIN INQUIRY; GRAND JURY GUARDED

WOMAN LINKED TO KILLING

Her Indictment With Two Others Sought—Secret Papers of Gambler Disappear.

TWO IN HOTEL ROOM NAMED

Files in Court Connect Slain Man to Labor War—Police Protect Jury Room During Hearing.

Under a police guard, a precaution never before taken in grand jury procedure, the grand jury yesterday began its investigation of the murder of Arnold Rothstein, the gambler, in the Park Central Hotel on the night of Sunday, Nov. 4.

Four witnesses out of seventy called by the police and District Attorney Banton were heard and some of the secret documents from the slain gambler's two large steel filing cabinets were inspected. The investigation was adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning and is to be continued from day to day until the jury is ready to file first-degree murder indictments against at least three persons.

Woman Named in Murder Plot.

Expressing satisfaction with the progress of the investigation, District Attorney Banton revealed the following developments for the day:

1. Nate Raymond, Alvin C. Thomas, better known as Titanic Thompson, and Jimmy Meehan, alleged participants in the card game in Meehan's apartment last Sept. 8, in which Rothstein lost $300,000, and Sidney Stajer and Martin (Red) Bowe, former intimates of the slain gambler, are held in exceptionally high bail as material witnesses, after the prosecution informed Judge Mancuso that threats had been made to intimidate important witnesses, that attempts had been made to hamper the grand jury investigation and that secret documents from the Rothstein files had disappeared, or had been stolen.
2. A woman, whose identity was concealed, and who was referred to in General Sessions merely as "Jane Doe," had been tentatively "involved" in the testimony before the grand jury as an actual participant in the plot to murder the gambler.
3. Testimony at the grand jury inquiry revealed the names of ten important witnesses who had not been brought into the case before the day's four witnesses, including Mrs. Ruth Keyes of Chicago, had testified, and the revelation of the prosecutor that Mrs. Keyes, on completing her testimony, had been secretly hurried out of town to prevent possible attempts to kidnap her.

Two Men in Hotel Identified.

4. The identity of two of the three persons in the Park Central room with Rothstein on the night he was shot has been definitely established, with the probability that, before the grand jury investigation is ended, the identity of the third person will have been cleared up and will be included with those of the first two in the murder indictments.
5. Because of the evidence already adduced, it is probable that indictments also will be handed up against persons alleged to have aided George (Humphrey) McManus, gambler occupant of the Park Central room; the as yet unidentified actual slayer, and other important witnesses, to remain in hiding and out of the jurisdiction of the court.
6. The grand jury has found in the secret Rothstein papers evidence of the connection of Rothstein and others with the financing of communist strikes in the garment and fur trades in this city two years

City Shivers on Coldest Nov. 26 in 11 Years; Snow Falls Up-State, Storms Delay Ships

The first real winter weather this season was felt here yesterday when the temperature dropped to 21 degrees at 7 A. M. and, with the exception of a few minutes around 1:30 P. M., remained below the freezing mark throughout the day. It was the coldest Nov. 26 in the past eleven years.

All along the Eastern seaboard from Jacksonville north the cold wave was felt and the lowest temperature in the United States was recorded at Greenville, Me., where the mercury dropped to 8 degrees.

A northwesterly wind that blew at twenty-seven miles an hour added to the discomfort in this city and furs and heavy overcoats were in order.

Incoming steamships were delayed from six to fifteen hours by storms. All transatlantic liners reported rough crossings.

The cold spell will be short-lived, however, according to the local weather bureau, the forecast for today being for warmer weather followed by rain on Wednesday night or Thursday.

Heavy snowfalls were reported in many sections of the country, according to The Associated Press, the heaviest being in Western Pennsylvania, where snow plows were needed to clear some of the mountain roads.

There was a fall of eighteen inches in the Ligonier Mountains.

A snowstorm over Ohio was blamed for the crash of two mail planes whose pilots evidently had become lost. Snow also forced down a pilot on the golf links at Southbridge, Mass., and two army planes made forced landings in a snowstorm at Waterloo, N. Y.

Heavy snowfalls were reported in the northern part of the State, Malone and Saranac Lake having a fall of six inches.

The first death from freezing this Winter occurred at Trenton, N. J., where Frank Wilson, a baker, was found frozen in the backyard of his home.

As is generally the case when the first cold spell of the Winter occurs, there were an unusually large number of fires yesterday and in Manhattan and Brooklyn the fire apparatus was continually on the run.

LAWMAKERS ATTACK HAGUE WRIT JUDGE

Jersey Legislature Asks That Fallon Be Relieved by Chief From Passing on Case.

HEARING FOR TODAY UPSET

Jersey City Court Scheduled to Sit, but Trenton Motion Is Expected to Halt Session.

The habeas corpus proceedings by which Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City defeated the plan of the New Jersey Legislature to try him yesterday afternoon at Trenton for contempt in disobeying an investigating committee subpoena last month, became so involved in new technicalities yesterday that Vice Chancellor Fallon of Jersey City said he did not know whether the proceedings would be resumed before him today at 10 A. M., as had been scheduled.

At Trenton the State Senate and Assembly adopted a resolution instructing Russell E. Watson, counsel for the Case Legislative Investigating Committee, which has been making an inquiry into political affairs in Hudson County, Hague's stronghold, to request Chancellor Walker to relieve Vice Chancellor Fallon of the habeas corpus proceedings instituted by the Hague lawyers after the Mayor's arrest last week.

Watson to Make Move Today.

Mr. Watson, who has been leading the legal opposition in the Hague case remained in Trenton last night, planning to make the formal application to Chancellor Walker at 10:30 o'clock this morning in open court at the State House.

Mr. Watson said over the telephone from Trenton last night that he had no intention of appearing in Jersey City before Vice Chancellor Fallon today. He said he had advised the Vice Chancellor by telegraph that the Legislature had directed him to appear before the Chancellor and asked that the Vice Chancellor move his hearing to the next convenient day.

Vice Chancellor Fallon said shortly after 9 o'clock last night that he had heard "only indirectly" that Mr. Watson had telegraphed to another member of Mayor Hague's legal staff, Thomas J. Brogan, Corporation Counsel of Jersey City, explaining that an adjournment of the case would be necessary.

"So far as I know," Vice Chancellor Fallon said, "the case is scheduled to go on. Mr. Watson has been clamoring for speed and here he is asking an adjournment."

He was asked if the adjourned habeas corpus proceedings would be resumed as scheduled today, and he answered that he had not heard from Mr. Watson about the action at Trenton. He would not say whether or not he would go on with the case, but he declared he did not know what would happen today.

He was asked what would happen in the event that Mr. Lane appeared in court at Jersey City and insisted on disposition of the case.

"I do not know what will happen tomorrow," Vice Chancellor Fallon answered. "As a great statesman has said, 'I am confronted with a condition and not a theory.' Mr. Lane may insist that the case go on."

Mr. Lane told interviewers that he did not know whether he would go to Trenton to oppose the request that Chancellor Walker relieve Vice Chancellor Fallon of the case.

Mayor Hague's lawyers said the Jersey City executive, whose failure to appear before the Case Legislative Committee on Oct. 29 at Trenton caused the Legislature to cite him for contempt, remained in the city yesterday but did not go to his office in the City Hall.

VESTRIS DECLINED AID OF CEDRIC AFTER S O S

Radio Log Shows Captain Told Liner 180 Miles Off 'We Do Not Need Your Help.'

USE OF NAVY BELTS URGED

Would Have Cut Toll, Wyoming Master Hints—Line Official Wants Valves Accessible.

"We do not need your help!" was the radio message Captain Carey of the Vestris sent to the master of the steamship Cedric at 10:56 A. M. on Monday, Nov. 12, about two hours and a half before the vessel sank, with the loss of 111 lives.

This testimony was brought out by United States Attorney Tuttle at the Vestris inquiry in the Federal Building yesterday from John S. Smith, representing the Marconi International Marine Communication Company. Smith produced a radio log of all messages dealing with the Vestris sent or received by any ships using the Marconi service from Saturday, Nov. 10, to the following Monday.

It showed that after Captain Carey had sent his S O S at 9:58 A. M. Monday the Cedric replied at 10:50 that she was 180 miles away and would go to the assistance of the Vestris if no other vessels were nearer. Six minutes later Captain Carey replied with the message not to come.

The record showed that several ships that went to the scene had been nearer than 180 miles, but it also showed that the Berlin, which made rescues, had been about 180 miles away, and the battleship Wyoming, which did likewise, was much further away.

Sank East of Position Given.

Captain Luther M. Overstreet, U. S. N., commanding the Wyoming, testified that the Vestris sank thirty-seven miles east of the position she gave in her distress messages. This may explain the failure of the Ohio Maru, the Giorgio Ohlsen and other ships which were consecutively ordered to come to get there in time to save any one.

Two recommendations for greater safety at sea were made at yesterday's hearings. Captain Overstreet suggested that passenger steamers be required to use navy lifebelts, which keep the wearer's head out of water. He said the Wyoming passed several bodies floating in lifebelts, with the heads immersed, and that the victims probably had become so exhausted they could not keep their heads above water by their own actions.

Harry Wheeler, New York superintendent of Lamport & Holt, recommended that shipbuilders be required to construct vessels in future with sea outlets located where they could be available for inspection and repair at all times. The testimony has made it clear that the leak or leaks which sank the Vestris were somewhere in the coal bunkers, covered with coal and inaccessible.

Wants Proposals Drafted.

United States Attorney Tuttle urged immediate formulation of recommendations growing out of the inquiry, by all parties to the case, so that they might be presented to Congress as soon as possible after it convenes.

The owners of the Vestris were sued in the Federal Court yesterday by the administrators of the estate of Isaac Nahem, an importer and exporter who was lost in the disaster. They asked $500,000 damages for the loss of Mr. Nahem's life and $10,000 for the loss of his effects. He is survived by a widow and eight children. Lawyers for the estate explained they were taking advantage of a provision in American law which permits a suit to be filed also under English law in cases involving loss of life on the high seas.

Captain Overstreet, who was the first witness called at the Tuttle inquiry, explained the fact that the Vestris sank thirty-seven miles east

COOLIDGE ON COURT SURPRISES BRITONS; SUCCESS DOUBTED

Officials Feel Powers Will Not Likely Yield on Reservation Five to Permit Our Entry.

NO APPROACH TO BRITAIN

League Circles Are Glad That Question of Our Joining World Tribunal Is Revived.

OUR RESERVATIONS STAND

Coolidge and Kellogg Will Devise Procedure to Seek Assent of Signatories to Them.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 26—Considerable surprise was expressed here today in British official circles at the news cabled from Washington that President Coolidge either has approached or soon will approach foreign powers to get their assent to the principle of the fifth reservation attached by the Senate to American entry into the Permanent Court of International Justice at the Hague. No approach by America has yet been made here.

It is not Britain alone which has questioned that fifth reservation, it is pointed out, but practically all the powers that are members of the League and adhere to the Court. These powers, all anxious to get American participation in the Court, accepted four of the reservations made by the Senate. The fifth—forbidding the Court, without the consent of the United States, to entertain a request for an advisory opinion touching "any question wherein the United States has or claims to have an interest"—is deemed just as difficult of acceptance now as when it was first considered.

The Liberal Evening Star remarks:

"It is obvious that such a reservation largely nullifies the usefulness of the court."

Chamberlain Back at Work.

Sir Austen Chamberlain returned to the Foreign Office this afternoon. He told his associates there that he was completely restored to health and expected to attend the House of Commons either tomorrow or Wednesday. He will see Premier Baldwin tomorrow. He spent this afternoon studying the dispatches which have passed between Lord Cushenden, Acting Foreign Secretary in his absence, and various governments.

His associates saw little likelihood that a conference with America over freedom of the seas, such as was suggested by Viscount Lee of Fareham, would be held in the near future. Although, as The Daily News will say tomorrow, Lord Lee "has done both countries a great service in suggesting a practical means of giving effect to the friendly feelings which unite the British and American peoples." One gathers that the British Government is reluctant just now to take on any important new venture.

The general elections are coming on. A new administration in the United States approaches. The Cabinet will have plenty to think about between now and next June in driving through Parliament its great scheme to reform local taxation and to readjust the machinery of local government. It is also occupied with the settlement of the reparations problem.

Move on Court Pleases Geneva.

GENEVA, Nov. 26 (AP).—Inasmuch as the League of Nations is about to take up the question of reorganization of the World Court of Justice, including the problem of advisory opinions, international circles regard as exceedingly timely the re-

Nungesser-Coli 'Message' Found on English Beach

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—A piece of linen bearing a penciled message relating the ill-fated attempt of the French airmen Captains Nungesser and Coli to fly the Atlantic in May, 1927, was received by The Daily Mail tonight from a reader who picked it up on Dungeness beach. The message reads:

"Nungesser-Coli's ouest Azores latitude [figure undecipherable] demandent vivres."

The Daily Mail says that if the message is genuine it implies that the airmen were forced down on the sea west of the Azores and their provisions exhausted.

SWANSON DECLARES FOR KELLOGG PACT

Support of Ranking Democrat Held to Assure Approval of Treaty by the Senate.

NORRIS BALKS ON CRUISERS

Nebraskan's Stand Counters the Truce of Borah and Hale on the Two Measures.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Senator Swanson of Virginia, ranking Democratic member of the Foreign Relations Committee, today announced his support of the Kellogg anti-war treaty. His adherence is accepted as carrying Democratic support. Present indications point to the pact's being considered in the Senate on a non-partisan basis with the way virtually cleared for its approval.

It is now believed that no responsible group in the Senate will sponsor reservations to the treaty, although there have been reports of late that reservations will be offered, in particular, one respecting the Monroe Doctrine.

These reports at first credited Senator Swanson as one who believed reservations were necessary. It is understood that he has no such belief and will whole-heartedly support the treaty without reservations.

Possibility of a Filibuster.

President Coolidge, who is manifesting great interest in the treaty, feels that no reservation is necessary to protect American rights and interests and that the Senate should show prompt good faith in ratifying the treaty without change and promptly.

Progressive members of the Senate, including Senator Norris of Nebraska, are pledged to approve the treaty. In fact, the leaders of all the groups seem to be in accord upon it.

A situation may develop in the Senate, however, to delay ratification of the treaty in the short session, should dilatory methods be adopted to force an extra session. The cruiser bill does not have the same general support and at the present time there is no certainty that the Kellogg treaty will have safe sailing, not because of opposition but, if at all, because of the possibility of a filibuster that may be staged to force an extra session.

Snag in Procedure Threatens.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP).—The only difficulty in which the Kellogg treaty now seems likely to be involved is one of procedure. Senator Norris declared today that he would ask to have the treaty brought before the Senate for ratification before the Administration's cruiser bill is taken up.

"If we ratify this treaty renounc-

RULER MAKES UPHILL FIGHT

CRISIS DUE IN 1 TO 3 DAYS

British Monarch Maintains His Strength and Pleurisy Has Not Spread.

RICH AND POOR AWAIT NEWS

Expert Says Disease Is Pneumonia, but Royal Doctors Have Not So Termed It.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—King George is more ill than the public here is permitted to know. His doctors have so far refused to give his complaint this name, but an authority believed trustworthy said today that it was lobar pneumonia. If that is so, the King may grow worse before a turn for the better comes, and in any case it will be another week before he can be pronounced to be out of danger.

He was worse today. Tonight at 8:30 a bulletin stated:

His Majesty the King has not had a comfortable day. His temperature is now 101.6, but the pleurisy has not extended further and his strength is maintained.

STANLEY HEWETT,
DAWSON OF PENN.

The bulletin this morning was as follows:

The King has passed a restless night. Variability in the fever and spread of the pleurisy must be expected at this stage of his illness.

The King's doctors returned to Buckingham Palace a little before 11 o'clock tonight and left at 11:30.

The sudden recall of the doctors to the palace at 11 o'clock was due, it was later learned, to the unsatisfactory condition of their patient. Earlier hopes for his rapid recovery have not been realized, and it is now evident that the King's constitution is being put to a test by a long, uphill fight.

Some London newspapers are beginning to speculate whether the King's trouble is "dry" pleurisy. From the medical bulletins it would appear that it must be either that or pneumonia.

Dry Pleurisy Is Least Serious.

There are only three kinds of pleurisy. One is dry pleurisy, another is fibrinous or plastic pleurisy, which is nearly always secondary to pneumonia, or some other acute lung disease. The third is schofibrinous pleurisy, which is the commonest variety and produces a large effusion into the pleural cavity.

The most satisfactory method of treating the latter is early and, if necessary, repeated aspirations of this fluid. There has been no mention of such treatment, or even of any necessity for it, in any news coming from the palace. It would appear therefore that the pleurisy referred to in the bulletins must be either dry pleurisy, which is the least serious form, or fibrinous pleurisy, which usually accompanies pneumonia.

Another symptom mentioned by the doctors has been congestion of one lung. The old name for pneumonia was "congestion of the lungs."

If the King has pneumonia and progresses favorably, the "crisis" is to be expected in from six to eight days from the date of its onset, that is, between Wednesday and Friday. After the crisis a rapid convalescence might be looked for.

The treatment of pneumonia comprises careful nursing, the relief of any special symptoms and the use of vaccine or sera. The vaccine, if used, is generally made from the organisms in the patient's own body. This takes several days, but the results are considered more certain than from the use of "stock vaccine."

Bacteriologist's Visit Recalled.

It will be recalled that Dr. Ernest Whitby, a brilliant young bacteriologist from the Bland Sutton Institute of Pathology, was called to Buckingham Palace Friday by the King's physicians. It was explained, though not officially, that this was for a bacteriological examination, but such examination and the preparation of vaccine are corollaries.

Sir Stanley Hewett arrived at the palace this morning at 9 o'clock and was followed a few minutes later by Lord Dawson of Penn. They were earlier than on previous days but remained with the King only an hour. It is understood that the restless night passed by the King was due to the increase in his temperature to 101, noted yesterday.

After leaving the King, his physicians remained in the palace talking to members of the household, and they also saw the Duke and

Gov. Smith 'Outplays' Bobby Jones at Golf; Harrison as Scorer Astounds Atlanta Crowd

By The Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 26.—It was a lucky chance for Bobby Jones that he had Governor Alfred E. Smith as a golf partner today, and a stroke of fortune for the New York executive that Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi kept score.

For the Governor, radiant in lavender and gray accessories, won every hole but one in an uncompleted 18-hole match in which he and Jones were paired against the Mississippi Senator and William M. Meehan of New York.

In addition, Governor Smith far outdistanced the national amateur and former international champion in medal score, and while most of those in the large galleries believed Jones displayed the best golf, there was little tendency to question the card turned in by Senator Harrison.

It showed Governor Smith went to total of 97 strokes, and that he played the four concluding holes in 14 strokes.

Jones, on the other hand, who seemed to the gallery to be shooting with his usual deadly precision, was credited with the unheard of total of 56 strokes for the outward trip and took, according to Senator Harrison, the first nine holes in the astounding score's figures, twenty-four strokes for the four holes of the unfinished inward journey.

The match finally ended on the thirteenth green with the score, as turned in by Senator Harrison, returning Smith and Jones the victors by 13 up and 4 to play.

The gallery, unable to account for the unusual scoring system, eventually concluded golf is scored differently in Congressional circles.

Governor Smith declared here today that although he must go back to private work soon, his political knowledge and experience would "always be at the beck and call of the Democratic party."

A luncheon tendered him during a one-day stop over here by his host, Major John S. Cohen, editor of the Atlanta Journal and Democratic National Committeeman from Georgia, was the occasion for the New York executive's remarks, in which he also thanked Georgia for its support in the general election. He and his party had planned to leave here for New York tonight.

Zogu Breaks Engagement With Albanian Girl; Talk of King Marrying a Princess Is Revived

By The Associated Press.

TIRANA, Albania, Nov. 26.—King Zogu, it was reliably reported today, has written to Lela, the 23-year-old daughter of Shevket Bey Veriatzi, wealthy landowner of Elbasson, saying that for reasons of State he must break the engagement made between the two six years ago.

This became known today soon after the government had announced a postponement for the third time of the coronation of King Zogu. On the ground that accommodations could not earlier be made ready for the numerous personages who are expected to attend the ceremony, the date was set back until next April.

Contractors are now constructing a new palace for Zogu and a modern hotel for visitors, which will be the first in the history of the country to contain bathtubs, electric lights and telephones.

It was stated in well-informed circles that King Zogu has decided that he must have a princess of royal blood to share the throne with him when he is crowned as "Imperator" at Kraya, the town which is known as the cradle of Albanian independence.

The reports had it that the tall, handsome, 34-year-old King wrote to his fiancée saying that he deeply loved her, but that reasons of State compelled him reluctantly and sorrowfully to give up the idea of their marriage. She was reported as unreconciled and well-nigh heart-broken and as saying that she could never love any man except the King.

This development has aroused renewed discussions of reports that the Princess Giovanna of Italy might become Queen of Albania. Moslem subjects of King Zogu refuse, however, to admit the possibility of such a union. They argue that the daughter of King Victor Emmanuel would not be ready to sacrifice her Roman Catholic faith and they declare that King Zogu would be even less likely to abandon Islam, of which he is a devout adherent.

There remains the possibility of a union between King Zogu and the daughter of some titled Moslem family. In this connection it was recalled that when King Zogu first announced his plans for making a Kingdom out of Albania there was a coincidental rumor that he intended to espouse a daughter of King Fuad of Egypt.

Bulletins Sent to the Heir.

Princess Mary, who is staying at the palace, went out this morning for a few hours. The Duke and Duchess of York lunched with the Queen and in the afternoon the Queen, accompanied by the Duchess and Princess Mary, left the palace for a drive. As their motorcar passed out of the grounds the Queen acknowledged with a bow and a smile the sympathetic attitude of the waiting crowd who stood with raised hats.

More people lingered near the palace than even yesterday. About 11:30 o'clock two officials emerged and suspended a typed copy of the latest bulletin, enclosed in a glass-fronted frame, from the courtyard railings. The crowd pressed forward to read it and showed marked disappointment that Saturday's improvement had not continued.

Though the day had turned cold there was again a large crowd to read the evening bulletin when it was issued at 8:30. Even at a late hour there was still a knot of people outside the courtyard railings.

Frequent bulletins on the King's condition are now being sent to the Prince of Wales. They are dispatched to Dar-Es-Salaam, Tanganyika, and reach there in two hours. From there they are sent to Dodoma and forwarded by motor truck to the Prince's camp at Kondau. That no immediate apprehension is entertained is indicated by the fact that the Prince has not yet been recalled.

There was a remarkable scene at a London cinema house tonight when an American talking film of the King's speech at the opening of the Tyne Bridge last month was shown. When a close-up of the Sovereign was flashed on the screen the entire audience rose to its feet and then sat down in perfect silence.

A London Times dispatch from Delhi states that the Moslems have offered prayers at the Juma Mastid Mosque for the King's speedy recovery.

Hopes Not Fulfilled.

LONDON, Tuesday, Nov. 27 (AP).—The Daily Mail in its second edition this morning displays prominently the following comment on the condition of King George:

"We regret to state that the hopes entertained two days ago have not been fulfilled and that up to the present there has been no progress toward recovery. It is realized that the King is engaged in a hard uphill fight and that his constitution is being put to a severe test.

"The original infection persists and, in the most favorable circumstances, the battle must be of a prolonged and anxious nature. The condition of any one at the age of the King (63 years) suffering from such an illness must be considered serious."

Prince in Temporary Camp.

A dispatch to The Daily Mail dated Sunday said that the Prince of Wales was then in a temporary camp about 160 miles north of Dodoma, Tanganyika, Africa. A courier left Dodoma Friday afternoon with telegrams for the Prince and returned on Saturday afternoon.

The Mail's correspondent, who traveled to Dodoma with the Prince's party, said that the courier found the Prince's party near Kindoa, where 100 porters were being collected for a move to a new camp more than fifty miles to the north. This camp had been chosen by Baron von Blixen, a big game hunter, who has been with the Prince.

The party was expected to march many miles afoot after rhinoceroses, buffaloes and lions. The Prince's original plan was to return to Dodoma this afternoon and entrain at midnight for Kigoma.

Dodoma is the nearest point of communication with the outside world and there are no telegraphs, telephones or radio beyond it. In event that the Prince is recalled he will return by a fast car and travel in a special train to Dar-es-Salaam, a trip of nineteen hours.

Prince George is in Bermuda.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 26 (AP).—There has been no indication here that Prince George, youngest son of King George, is planning to return home because of the illness of his father. The warship Durban, on which he is serving, is in port here and the Prince is staying at the admiralty house.

ANXIOUS CROWDS WAIT HOPEFULLY AT PALACE

Men and Women of All Classes Come All Day to Scan Official Bulletins.

LONDON, Nov. 26 (Canadian Press).—Smartly dressed men and fur-clad women rubbed shoulders with shabbily attired working men in the crowd which all day today pressed close to the railing before Buckingham Palace to read the terse sentences of the official bulletin on the King's condition.

The bulletin was for the first time displayed to the public, typewritten within a wooden frame suspended on the railings, and it had an unfailing attraction.

Few motor cars or taxicabs driving past failed to stop for their occupants to peruse the bulletin.

Two doctors who had been attending the King left the Palace at 9 o'clock. The later official bulletin was posted at 9:30 P. M.

The anxious crowd pressed forward hopefully to read the notice, but as word spread that it stated that the King had passed an uncomfortable day, murmurs of disappointment were heard. It had been expected that the bulletin would contain better news.

Newcomers swelled the gathering and late tonight a large throng still stood before the Palace gate, hopeful that cheering news would be forthcoming.

PRINCE BAGS FIVE LIONS.

Wales Holds Court in Africa, Which Many Chiefs Attend.

DAR-ES-SALAAM, Tanganyika Territory, Africa, Nov. 26 (AP).—The Prince of Wales has bagged five lions at Babati, the largest of which measured eight feet eight inches from tip to tail. His tour from Arusha to Dodoma has been most successful and he has thoroughly enjoyed it. He is in excellent health.

The Prince held a successful baraza, or native court, at Dodoma which was attended by chiefs from all over the territory.

The Governor, Sir D. C. Cameron, presented the Prince on behalf of the territory with an 84-carat diamond from the Mabuki mine.

Venetian Celebration Proposed for Midnight Sailing—Porto Rico Invites President-Elect.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Nov. 26.—President-elect Hoover is expected to arrive at Rio de Janeiro Sunday morning, Dec. 16, and to depart the next day at midnight.

The government has offered, through the Brazilian Ambassador, the use of the beautiful Guanabara Palace, which is the presidential home, but it is not known whether Mr. Hoover will accept, as he plans to stop in the legations and embassies in almost all the other countries on his tour. Apparently he is not going to Sao Paulo on account of lack of time.

The program for celebrations has not been organized yet, but it is known that President Washington Luis is arranging a big banquet and that Congress will have a special session. Possibly the program will include a Venetian celebration on Guanabara Bay on the night when Mr. Hoover is sailing away.

Considering the shortness of Mr. Hoover's visit, Senhor Mangabeira, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, has ordered prepared for Mr. Hoover and his party a booklet covering the territory, production, population and national wealth of Brazil. It will be translated into English and delivered in Montevideo. It will have a special chapter on Sao Paulo.

Porto Rico Urges Hoover's Study.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Nov. 26.—Porto Rico was pictured as the key to Latin America in a message today to President-elect Hoover, urging him to stop here on his return to continental United States from South America.

The Chamber of Commerce, in joining Governor Horace Towner in the invitation cabled to Mr. Hoover, said:

"You will have an opportunity to study on the ground our complex problem, which also is a problem of the United States.

"The successful solution of this problem would not only promote the welfare of 1,500,000 American citizens here but would also be the best proof we could give to the Latin-American peoples of our friendship for them."

WILL FIND SUMMER IN CHILE.

Hoover Will Get Cool Weather Only in the Andes.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 26.—While a sudden cold wave is visiting the State of New York and the battleship Maryland and other vessels have been rocked by gales and storms at sea, Chile is in the midst of sweltering heat. The temperature has been gradually rising for the past fortnight and the inhabitants of the capital, donning their light clothing, lazily stroll along the streets, hat in hand, wiping perspiring foreheads.

It is more than probable that President-elect Hoover and his party will be able to appreciate to the full extent warm Summer days during their crossing of Chilean territory from the coast to the Andes range.

That part of his journey carrying him over the snow-covered valleys amid the high Andean packs, however, will prove somewhat milder and a refreshing break before the train winds its way down again into the blazing sun that bathes the Argentine pampas, with no relief from forests.

It had been expected that the program for Mr. Hoover's visit would be outlined before the departure of President Ibanez early tomorrow morning for the Southern provinces, but the fact that nothing definite was known regarding the length of Mr. Hoover's stay has made it difficult to complete arrangements.

It now appears that the Maryland will not visit Arica. Consequently the plan to send a cruiser with the official reception committee has been held up pending further news indicating whether the Maryland will put in at any other Chilean port before touching Valparaiso, at this point the Hoover party will say good-bye to the Maryland and, after a short stay in Santiago, start the transcontinental railway journey to Buenos Aires.

Chilean newspapers have not coupled Mr. Hoover's visit with the Tacna-Arica question beyond publishing the fact that a Peruvian magazine has mentioned the possibility of the tour helping toward a solution of the border issue.

In general, Chilean public opinion regards the coming of Mr. Hoover as simply a good-will visit from which he can derive no more than fleeting impressions, although the welcomes these countries will give him will be a lasting memory.

NEWSPAPERS LAUD HOOVER.

Oldest in Central America Declares Misunderstandings Will Disappear.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Nov. 26 (AP).—Among the several special editions published in honor of the visit of Herbert Hoover today was one by the oldest publication in Central America, the magazine Renacimiento. The editor said that the election of Mr. Hoover had aroused the greatest hopes throughout Latin America and elsewhere.

He expected that misunderstandings between the United States and its Southern neighbors would disappear in a new spirit of understanding and that real friendship would develop as the result of the policies of Mr. Hoover.

The newspaper El Cronista said that Honduras is honored by the first visit of a President or President-elect of the United States.

"We believe in Hoover, we admire Hoover, we have confidence in Hoover," said the paper in an editorial. "We see in him a strong civilizing spirit, capable of understanding and working for the solidarity of the New World, eliminating ancient errors and prejudices and opening instead an ample, generous road where the activities and aspirations of all Americans can march successfully in loyal cooperation to their destinies."

ARGENTINA TO HAIL HOOVER.

One Newspaper Complains of the Brevity of the Visit.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 26.—Although El Diario, one of the most conservative Argentine newspapers, published today a caustic disapproval of what it called President-elect Hoover's rapid tour of Latin-American countries, there is no doubt that his decision to stay two and a half days in Buenos Aires instead of one is enthusiastically received by the Argentine people, who will give him a tremendous welcome, if only because of the curiosity the visit will arouse and his personal prominence.

The newspaper said Mr. Hoover is establishing a record among presidential tours and complained that despite Argentina's predominence as the most important South American country, Mr. Hoover apparently is not giving her any more of his time than to other small sister republics, and declared his visit will not bring the results he wishes because it is impossible to obtain intelligent impressions and knowledge of the countries visited in so short a time.

El Diario overlooks the fact that Mr. Hoover will be in Argentina about four days, including the time spent in running across the fertile pampas to Buenos Aires, and will have seen more of the Argentine territory and resources than many Argentines themselves have seen.

While there is disappointment that he is not to stay longer, there is a willingness on the part of the more important newspapers to understand that President-elect Hoover's time is necessarily limited and that the exceptional effort he is making to show friendship toward Latin-American countries is worthy of praise.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Nov. 26 (AP).—The Presidential train, carrying government representatives and members of the press, will leave here tomorrow for Puntas Arenas to greet President-elect Hoover and his party when they arrive on the Maryland Wednesday.

A warm reception is promised Mr. Hoover when he arrives in the capital. School children will form lanes through which the American party will pass.

STORM SWEEPS COSTA RICA.

Capital Is Isolated by Railroad Damage—Crops Ruined.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BALBOA, Nov. 26.—Port Limon, the principal Atlantic port of Costa Rica, has been cut off from the capital, San José, and practically isolated by the recent storms which destroyed bridges and many sections of the Northern Railway and flooded the valleys near the coast and in addition the cable line has apparently been broken or cut by a ship, according to reports brought here today.

On account of the floods and strong winds, great damage has been done to the banana plantations of the lower valley of the Reventason River. The most serious damage has been inflicted on the coffee plantations of the Atlantic Slope, where the crops are harvested early.

KELLOGG SELECTED FLETCHER.

Secretary Explains Why Ambassador Accompanied Hoover on Trip.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Secretary Kellogg today cleared some uncertainties as to the significance attached to the presence of Henry P. Fletcher, American Ambassador to Italy, with President-elect Hoover on the latter's visit to Central and South America. Mr. Kellogg explained, in response to inquiries, that he and not Mr. Hoover had selected Mr. Fletcher for the trip.

Mr. Hoover, it was stated, asked the State Department to assign an expert on Latin-American affairs to his mission.

As Secretary Kellogg felt that he, himself, required the services here of Francis White, Assistant Secretary of State in charge of Latin-American affairs, and was sending Stokeley W. Morgan, chief of the Latin-American division of the State Department, to Mexico City as counselor of the American Embassy, he named Mr. Fletcher.

Mr. Fletcher is one of the most experienced of American diplomats in Latin America because of his service as Minister and later as Ambassador to Chile, as Ambassador to Mexico and earlier in his career as Secretary of American Legations in Latin America.

Rumors have been current for some time that Mr. Fletcher might be appointed Secretary of State by Mr. Hoover, but confirmation of them never has been obtainable here. All reports from close personal and political friends of the President-elect are that he is contemplating strictly his own counsel in the matter of the Cabinet appointments.

Arkansas District to Elect Mrs. Oldfield, Making Fifth Woman in Short Term House

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The name of another woman, Mrs. Fannie Pearl Oldfield, widow of Representative William P. Oldfield of Arkansas, probably will be added to the roll of the House in the session that begins on Monday.

Mrs. Oldfield is a candidate to serve out the unexpired term of her husband in the present Seventieth Congress from Dec. 3 to March 3. She will probably be unopposed, and would be the fifth woman member in the December session.

Besides Mrs. Oldfield, there will be Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts, Mrs. Florence P. Kahn of California, Mrs. Katherine Langley of Kentucky, Republicans, and Mrs. Mary Teresa Norton of New Jersey, Democrat. Mesdames Rogers and Kahn, as well as Mrs. Oldfield, are widows of former House members.

BRITAIN AND IRELAND DISCUSS PENSION ROW

Both Sides Hope Negotiations Will Prevent Crisis Over Defiance of Privy Council.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Informal negotiations between the British Government and the Irish Free State to settle their controversy over the Privy Council's decision in the Wigg-Cochrane pension case have been begun here, it was learned today. The negotiations followed word that the Cosgrave Ministry had decided to stand by a declaration of Ernest Blythe, Minister of Finance, that he would not pay retiring civil servants a "farthing more" because of the Privy Council's ruling.

Under a decision of the Council, the empire's supreme court, the Free State would have to pay about £50,000 (nearly $250,000) more in pensions than it considers equitable under its treaty with Great Britain. One result of the dispute, it is already admitted here, is that no more appeals from Irish courts will be brought before the Privy Council, although Kevin O'Higgins, before he died, consented at the last imperial conference to leave the matter in abeyance until the next one.

A factor speeding the negotiations is an announcement in Dublin that numerous suits will be brought against the Free State once the decision of the Privy Council is promulgated in due form. Both the Cosgrave Government and authorities here are anxious to prevent a constitutional crisis, which would then occur, with the Free State defying the Privy Council ruling and throwing cases out of court. There is an intimation from Dublin that the Free State would not object if England chose to settle the matter by paying the difference between the rate Ireland holds quitable and the rate the court decrees.

BAHIA WILL SUPPORT FALLING COCOA PRICE

Governor of the Brazilian State Blames Bear Speculators, Saying Market Conditions Are Good.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Nov. 26.—The Bahia State Government has decided to support cocoa prices, which have fluctuated considerably, falling two months ago and with a downward movement accelerated in the past weeks. Producers have made strong representations to the State Government, saying they were losing 40 milreis, or about $5, a sack.

Vital Soares, Governor of the State, who is an experienced banker, indicates that the drop was not caused by the law of supply and demand, as the crop is smaller than last year's and market stocks are low. Therefore he believes the price drop is explainable only by the operations of the speculators.

The Governor, acting in accordance with the State's Constitution, has resolved to authorize the State Treasury to make an agreement with one or several responsible Bahia firms handling cocoa for the defense of cocoa, counteracting the bear movements. The agreement would be in force until the present crop is disposed of. Contracts will be submitted for the approval of the government and Legislature, which is assured.

Cocoa is a big Brazilian export item and Bahia's leading export. Bahia's revenues greatly depend on the cocoa crop and prices on account of the export tax levied on the value. The price fall has had a serious effect on the State Treasury. The United States is the principal buyer of Bahia cocoa, which is produced in the humid coastal section of the southern part of the State.

UNIVERSAL LOSES BRITISH FILM SUIT

Americans Ordered to Pay $132,550 on Counter-Claim for Losses on Pictures.

REFEREE SCORES LAEMMLE

Says He So Dominates Industry That No Trade Witness Could Be Called—Scout Picture Figured.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—That Carl Laemmle dominates the film industry to such an extent that no trade witness could be called to give evidence of the inferiority of some Universal Picture Corporation's films, was a statement of Sir Francis Newbold, official referee, in giving judgment today against the Universal for $132,550 and interest and costs.

Universal had sued the Transatlantic Film Company of London for $90,000 for films alleged to be unaccounted for and exploited by the English company outside of an agreed area. The Transatlantic made a counter-claim for $500,000 for losses on films not supplied and inferior films supplied.

Sir Patrick Hastings, for the English company, contended that Universal had been guilty of a "mean commercial fraud" in connection with a Boy Scout film. The film was produced by the English company on condition that half the profits should go to the Scouts, he said. The American company wished to exploit it in the United States and, to enable them to register it, paid the English company the nominal sum of fifty dollars.

English Demanded Accounting.

When the English firm demanded an accounting of the profits so it could hand over half to the Scouts, the American company, according to Sir Patrick, replied that for the $50 they had acquired all rights in the picture. Owing to the loss of certain correspondence the English firm at first was unable to exert its rights, but the missing letters were found and they showed that Universal had recognized its obligation to render an account, counsel said.

Barrington Ward, for Universal, said the expenses of the Universal film had exceeded receipts but that rather than have a discussion the American company was willing to pay the Scouts $5,000.

The official referee, although giving judgment against Universal for $132,550 and 6 per cent interest from January, 1920, and costs, ordered the return by the English company to Universal of all Universal films held by them.

Says Scout Film was Not Issue.

R. H. Cochrane, First Vice President of the Universal Picture Corporation, said last night that he knew that the suit between his company and the Transatlantic Film Company was being heard in London, but that he had received no official notification of the judgment. Siegfried F. Hartman, New York counsel for the Universal, pointed out that the judgment handed down did not refer to the Boy Scout film mentioned by Sir Patrick Hastings.

Judgment in the case of the Boy Scout film, according to Mr. Hartman, who recently returned from London, was reserved by the referee early in the suit until an accounting had been rendered by both companies. This accounting would be rendered in the near future, he said.

"The Universal company has never denied its obligation to the Boy Scouts," Mr. Hartman said. "At the time the film was made with the cooperation of the English Boy Scouts the Transatlantic Company belonged to Universal. Since then the Transatlantic has been sold to English owners, who now claim that we owe them the percentage due the English Boy Scouts. As a matter of fact, Universal lost money on the film in America, but we have never denied that we owed the Boy Scouts an accounting and that accounting will be made to them and not to the Transatlantic."

HOOVER IS GREETED BY TWO COUNTRIES

ury of Salvador, and Martinez Suarez, Minister of Foreign Affairs, representing President Romero Bosque, welcomed the Hoover party at the wharf, and again the President-elect was conducted through lines of soldiers and the picturesque streets to the centre of the city where another official reception awaited him.

Officials of Salvador thanked Mr. Hoover for his visit and predicted that it would lead to a better understanding henceforth between the United States and her Latin-American neighbors. Mr. Hoover answered with another short speech, in which he expressed to his hearers the good wishes of the people of the United States and their desire for such understanding and friendship.

He Greets Two Republics.

By The Associated Press.

ABOARD THE U. S. S. MARYLAND, OFF LA UNION, Salvador, Nov. 26.—Opening his Latin-American good-will tour today, President-elect Hoover declared in response to welcomes from the governments of two Central American republics, Honduras and Salvador, that the United States desires to maintain not only the cordial relations of governments with each other, but "the relations of good neighbors."

"Through greater understanding that comes with more contact," Mr. Hoover said in his speech at Amapala, Honduras, his first public utterance of his tour, "we may build up that common respect and service which is the only enduring basis of international relationship."

Similar sentiments marked the second speech of the President-elect, delivered at La Union, in which he urged the creation of mutual respect between nations as a means of fostering international amity.

Before his Honduran audience at Amapala, Mr. Hoover expounded his motive in making the good-will tour, saying it was "my desire to learn more of our common problems in the Western Hemisphere that I may be better fitted for the task which lies before me."

Mr. Hoover by visiting both Amapala and La Union was able to pay his respects to the leading officials of the two countries. The picturesque seaports lie almost opposite each other on the Gulf of Fonseca.

Amapala Shore Is Thronged.

AMAPALA, Honduras, Nov. 26 (AP).—More than 4,000 of the 5,000 persons living in this Pacific seaport, with a delegation from the capital headed by the President-elect of Honduras, today assembled on the waterfront to welcome Herbert Hoover on his first visit to a foreign country as the President-elect of the United States.

The battleship Maryland, which had brought Mr. Hoover from San Pedro, Cal., after a week's cruise down the west coast, was sighted off this port at 8:15 A. M. The great warship anchored at 9 A. M. east of Menguerra Island, Honduras, in the Gulf of Fonseca, seven miles west of Amapala.

There were hundreds of small craft in the bay, forming a lane through which the launches from the Maryland carried the Hoover party to the shore. The boats were brilliantly decorated with flags and bunting.

Dr. Don Vicente Mejia Colindres, who will soon become Executive head of this country, expressed the profound regret of President Miguel Paz Barahona at being unable to leave Tegucigalpa in order to welcome the guest of the nation personally.

Besides the President-elect, the official welcoming party included Vice President Rafael Diaz Chavez, Foreign Minister Augusto Coello, Minister of War Ricardo Pineda, Minister of Finance Julio Lozano, Juan Galvez, secretary to the President, and Mario Ribas, editor of the monthly magazine Renacimiento, published in Tegucigalpa and the oldest publication in Central America.

Luncheon at Private Residence.

An official luncheon was given for Mr. Hoover at the residence of José Rossner, a wealthy business man, who is the owner of the most beautiful home in Amapala.

Giving the official welcome of Honduras at the luncheon, President-elect Colindres praised the good-will trip of Mr. Hoover, which he believed would be most effective in cementing relations between the United States and Latin America. The trip, he said, would be acclaimed in all countries of Central and South America as ushering in a new era of friendly relations in the Western Hemisphere.

While the exchange of official greetings took place between President-elect and President-elect, the popular feeling was shown by a special edition of the Amapala morning newspaper La Coalicion, filled with pictures and special articles on Mr. Hoover and, with an editorial expressing an enthusiastic welcome and lauding the object of the trip.

The public feeling was also shown by the gathering of practically the entire population of the town when Mr. Hoover came ashore.

Crossing to La Union Rough.

LA UNION, Salvador, Nov. 26 (AP).—President-elect Herbert Hoover this afternoon had a rough passage across the Gulf of Fonseca from Amapala, Honduras, to pay his second good-will visit in Latin America here.

The launches from the battleship Maryland in which the Hoover party made the ten-mile crossing bobbed about disconcertingly on the choppy surface of the bay, which is little sheltered from the broad Pacific.

The landing here was a little awkward because of the motion of the boats, but Mr. Hoover made it all right, as did Mrs. Hoover. She declined the assistance of the sailors.

The launches were towed up to the foot of a staircase descending from the pier about ten or fifteen feet above. Mr. Hoover and the others in his party skillfully swung from the sharply shifting boats to the steps.

Mr. Hoover's trip across the Gulf of Fonseca, while rough, was none the less a delightful experience. Along the shores towered high volcanic mountains, none of them active at present, the sides of which in most cases were covered by a rich tropical green. Clouds cut off the glare of the tropical sun. The bay is dotted with islands which are the tops of other submerged mountains.

3,000 Greet Him at Pier.

The landing was made at 4 P. M. Three thousand persons were assembled on the pier.

As the guests stepped ashore cannon boomed out a twenty-one-gun salute and the band struck up the national anthems of the United States and Salvador.

Salvadorean military cadets in brilliant blue and red uniforms made a guard of honor lining the route over which Mr. Hoover passed to the waiting reception. Foreign Minister Martines Suares headed the delegation of Cabinet members and other leaders who greeted Mr. Hoover.

The town of La Union is more than a mile from the pier. Because Mr. Hoover had been delayed by the choppy seas of the bay, plans to entertain him in the town were abandoned and the reception was held in the International Railway building with resulting saving in time.

Foreign Minister Suares presided at the dinner given by the government, which followed. He praised the good-will mission of Mr. Hoover, expressing a belief that it would bring about a greatly improved spirit in all countries. He expressed the regrets of President Romero Bosque at his inability to be present.

More than 200 prominent government officials and others, including most of the Americans who live in San Salvador, had arrived from the capital on Friday night before they learned that Mr. Hoover would not arrive on Saturday as was first planned. They remained patiently at La Union. It was hoped up to the last minute that Mr. Hoover would find it possible to make a longer visit and perhaps to go to San Salvador.

tions of human society. We know it is the only true road to human progress and we know that the nations and the institutions we have created can flourish only in peace and mutual prosperity.

Devoted to Common Principles.

In turn we know that these institutions and these ideals themselves form the greatest security of peace. We of the Western Hemisphere all of us believe in those principles with a devotion which has arisen from the proofs of our century of common experience.

We of this hemisphere have not been free from the misfortune of war, but the record of a century shows we have been vastly more free from it than any other part of the world.

Each of our nations has developed in its own traditions, its own pride of country. Under these great doctrines, each of our democracies has become a laboratory of human welfare, the daily experiences of which are a common contribution to the advancement of all of our nations.

We in the United States have learned much from the experience of our Latin-American neighbors and we in turn take pride in our contributions to the common goal of human advancement in these 150 years.

Therefore I have felt that the larger personal acquaintance, both with our neighboring countries and with their points of view, and above all with the men who have been elected to responsibility in their governments, would be valuable in the task which lies before me. It would perhaps enable me to better cooperate with you. Those who know the United States know also that we have only one desire and that is to cooperate to a constantly improving understanding, to common progress and to common attainment.

AT LA UNION.

I have already stated today that my purpose is to pay a call of friendship on behalf of the people of the United States. The lations between neighbors require that nothing should be omitted to upbuild these contacts and that sentiment which creates understanding. Out of such understanding comes that mutual respect which is the foundation of all sound international relations.

We perhaps hear more of economic and trade relations between countries than any other one subject in the field of international life. This may be easily explained, for out of our economic life do we build up the foundations upon which other progress rests, and our international economic relations can have but one real foundation. They can grow only out of the prosperity of each of us. They cannot flourish in the poverty or degeneration of any of us.

Our economic progress is mutual. It is not competitive. We each of us have the responsibility to carry forward such policies within our own countries which in the long view will contribute to our individual prosperity.

The long view of our prosperity must, however, embrace the recognition of the mutuality of prosperity among the whole of us.

Urges Broader Exchange.

But economic development does not and should not be the sole basis of exchange between nations, but rather the incident of it. We have the mutual problems of strengthening the foundation of peace, building up confidence and friendship and the institutions and ideals of our nations.

The exchange of our social and political accomplishments, of our advances in education, of scientific thought, all of those things which contribute to the higher aspects of life, is perhaps of first importance.

Each and every one of us has made some of these great contributions to human advancement. The larger exchange and the larger understanding of these contributions become the enduring basis of mutual respect.

The most precious possession of each of us is our love of country, of race, our traditions and our institutions. We have in this hemisphere a parallel of struggle for independence in conflict with nature, the creation of institutions of freedom and liberty which themselves are an imperishable bond.

George C. Sprague, of the law firm of Hunt, Hill & Betts, proctors for the libellants, said that in this suit advantage was taken of that provision of the American law which permits a suit to be pressed also under the English statute, known as Lord Campbell's act, in cases involving loss of life on the high seas. This English statute, it was explained, prevents action for the limitation of liability in suits growing out of accidents to English vessels.

Mr. Nahem was evidently one of those who went down with the ship without attracting especial attention from the survivors. It is known that he sailed on the Vestris and none of his friends have heard anything from him since. The complaint alleges that Mr. Nahem lost his life by reason of "the wrongful acts, fault and neglect of the respondents, their agents and servants." The large amount of damages sought is due to the fact that Mr. Nahem, who was forty years old, earned "an excellent income" and contributed "an average of $25,000 to $30,000 annually" for the support and education of his children.

The complaint alleges that the ship sailed in "a unseaworthy condition, manned with incompetent officers and undisciplined crew, and equipped with unsafe lifeboats and other lifesaving devices."

It is also alleged as follows:

"That on Nov. 11, 1928, because of her initial unseaworthy condition, the Vestris began to make water in large quantities and to take a heavy list to starboard which eventually put the steamer's boilers out of commission and prevented the operation of the engines. That by 7:30 P. M. of Nov. 11 the situation of the vessel was extremely critical because of the increasing list and the large quantities of water that she was making, but due to the incompetence of the ship's officers no call was sent out for assistance until about 10 A. M. on Nov. 12, when the vessel was in practically a sinking condition and so badly listed that it was impossible to properly launch life boats except from the starboard side.

"Due to the incompetence of the officers, the lack of organization of the crew and the defective releasing devices with which the lifeboats were equipped, only a few of the ship's lifeboats were successfully launched. Owing to the negligent delay in sending out a call for assistance the Vestris sank long before any assisting vessels arrived and with many of her life boats unlaunched, and many of the passengers, including libellants' decedent, Isaac Nahem, lost their lives as a result thereof."

The defendants named in the complaint are the Liverpool, Brazil and River Plate Steam Navigation Company, Ltd., and Lamport & Holt, Ltd.

ARRIVES TO PROTECT OFFICERS OF VESTRIS

British Insurance Director Here to Guard Men Against Losing Their Certificates.

Captain William H. Coombs, joint managing director of the Navigators and General Insurance Company, Ltd., of London, who arrived on Sunday on the North German Lloyd liner Columbus, said that he had come over to look after the interests of the officers and engineers of the Vestris. He explained that he had not come to attend the inquiry in New York in an aggressive capacity but from a purely protective point of view.

Captain Coombs explained that his organization insured officers and engineers of the British mercantile marine against losing their certificates and guarded their financial interests, including the assessment of income tax. For $7.50 the Navigators indemnity policy guarantees the best possible legal assistance in any part of the world and in the event of the certificate's being suspended it also guarantees the prompt payment of financial compensation. He added that 9,000 British officers and engineers were already enrolled among its members.

Captain Coombs, who is a master mariner, said that he would attend the investigations into the loss of the Vestris before United States District Attorney Tuttle and the United States Steamboat Inspection Board to ascertain what blame, if any, attached to the officers and engineers for the loss of the ship.

WALKER WELCOMES LICORISH IN CITY HALL

Mayor Stresses Tolerance in Greeting Negro Hero—Straus to Give Seaman a Medal.

Lionel Licorish, Barbados negro quartermaster of the Vestris, who rescued twenty persons after the ship foundered, was guest of honor at a reception at the City Hall yesterday afternoon. After being praised by Mayor Walker, United States Attorney Tuttle, Nathan Straus and James Weldon Johnson, secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Licorish said in a brief address that his actions had been prompted by a sense of duty.

Members of the clergy and negro residents of the city attended the reception. Throughout, until he finished his own speech, Lincorish's demeanor was modest and grave. As he closed his remarks with a boyish declaration that "the Americans treat me so nice that I hope I never get out of sight of them," he laughed quickly. The roomful of people applauded vigorously and laughed in response.

"When you left that ship and reached out your hands to save some one else's life, it is fair and reasonable to suppose that no one asked you what race you belonged to—no one asked you where you were born and no one was interested in your color. They were mighty glad to have your arms around them, and they were mighty glad to accept the assistance you brought them.

"That was all right out there in the raging waters. That was fine when the ship was going down. But I am rather inclined to believe that if we did a little more, while the ship was sailing safely, along the same line, if we had the same willingness to accept assistance and the same absence of discrimination, even this would be a greater country then it is today."

Mr. Straus said that as a young man "the ambition of my life was to have one life—if I could save one life I would be a hero; and I was more anxious to see this boy here than almost any other person on the face of the earth, because of what he did."

Mr. Tuttle referred to tales of valor by negro members of the Vestris crew, brought out in the investigation he is conducting. Mr. Johnson declared that Licorish's feat demonstrated that "courage knows no limitation of race, creed and color."

Mr. Straus, who started a fund for Licorish with a check for $250, announced yesterday that he was having a gold medal struck off for the young negro.

Yesterday Mr. Straus turned over checks totaling $302 to THE TIMES for Licorish. Besides his own contribution, these included $10 from Miss Melrose A. Day, $25 from Mrs. Emil Heller, $10 from Miss Elizabeth Bellairs, $5 from Mrs. Charles Hendricks, $1 each from Mrs. Jay C. Cook and Mrs. Ned Greene.

With the $412 already received by THE TIMES, this brings the total receipts to date to $714. Through the Royal Bank of Canada and the Bank of America, this will be placed to the account of Licorish.

Movie of Vestris Survivors Reveals Long Lost Brother

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—A Glasgow woman, while watching a movie of the sinking of the Vestris, was overjoyed today to see among the survivors her brother, John Ross, formerly a sailor, who went to America several years ago in search of a job.

Since he left the family had not heard a word from him and all efforts to trace him proved useless.

As soon as the film was over, the woman rushed to the offices of the Gaumont Company, where a private showing convinced her the man was her brother, alive and well.

SIX RESPOND IN WRECK SUIT

Men of Vestris Crew Examined by Lawyers in $52,000 Action.

Six men of the Vestris crew were examined yesterday in the offices of Bigham, Englar & Jones, counsel for Orrin S. Stevens, who lost his wife in the disaster and is suing the owners of the steamship for $52,000. About a hundred subpoenas have been served on survivors to gather the story of the wreck from them in support of the suit.

The examination was conducted by Henry N. Longley, a member of the law firm. He declined to comment on the inquiry. The examination of the many witnesses will begin in earnest at 7 o'clock this evening and will continue tomorrow evening, all day Thursday, despite the fact that it is a holiday, and regularly thereafter until the work is finished.

The evening sessions were made necessary, according to Oscar Houston, another member of the law firm, because Chauncey I. Clark, of counsel for the owners of the Vestris, is busy during the day at United States Attorney Tuttle's inquiry. The witnesses examined yesterday were Gilbert Ford, Lionel Licorish, Joseph Boxill, Thomas Cannor, Samuel Parfitt and Thomas R. Edwards.

HEAR FIRING IN BULGARIA.

Yugoslav Frontier Guards Report Shooting—Envoy Denies Trouble.

STRUMITZA, Yugoslavia, Nov. 26 (AP).—Frontier guards this afternoon reported hearing sustained firing in Bulgarian territory.

It is believed here that government troops have clashed with Macedonian comitajis near the village of Slatarev.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Conditions in Bulgaria were reported normal by Trajan Kodding, Charge d'Affaires at Sofia, in a message under yesterday's date to the State Department.

"The situation in Sofia and environs is entirely normal nd orderly, according to Mr. Kodding," the department said, "and he has been reliably informed that the frontier district is also normal."

BYRD'S MEN RUSH WORK TO GET AWAY

United Crews of the Expedition Pull Together at Dunedin for Start Into the Antarctic.

SCIENTISTS AS STEVEDORES

City of New York Will Sail at End of Week—Eleanor Bolling Will Try to Go Twice Through Ice.

By RUSSELL OWEN.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUNEDIN New Zealand, Tuesday, Nov. 27.—The Byrd expedition, once more united, has been working its collective head off to get away for the Antarctic.

Yesterday the entire crew of the City of New York, just arrived after a tiresome three months' trip, met Commander Byrd at the train when he arrived from Christchurch and cheered him just to show how happy they felt at being together again.

It was a remarkable exhibition of morale, for anyone might have been excused for feeling a bit morose after such a long trip in sailing a ship through the tropics, but every man showed his happiness at rejoining his comrades and the leader.

The first day in port they spent stretching their legs and seeing Dunedin, but this morning all were at work on the piers struggling with crates and boxes, checking material and looking over the supplies each one is personally responsible for.

Friends at home would have been amused over the occupations of some of the more versatile members of the expedition. Larry Gould, the professor of geology, was sorting stores, lugging boxes around and moving them into convenient piles so that they might easily be selected for the various bases and ships.

His assistants were Captain McKinley, the aerial photographic expert, and "Cyclone" Haines, the meteorologist, and THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent.

Dungaree-Clad Rivals in Speed.

All were resplendent in dungarees. Syd Greason was busy marking boxes. Down in the other sheds Bernt Balchen, Harold I. June, Dean Smith and Captain Alton V. Parker, the aviator pilots, were loading cases and pushing trucks around as if they had been stevedores all their lives.

Every man was bantering his neighbor into working a little harder and setting a pace, with the result that no professional gang of stevedores could have been more rapid in their movements.

No large group of men gathered together from all over the world could show more remarkable skill, cooperation and enthusiastic determination to conquer every difficulty lying before them. And the difficulties are many.

Most energetic of all is Richard G. (Dick) Brophy, recently appointed second in command, who until the present has been in charge of the ordering and assembling of supplies on the expedition.

The complex assortment of materials gathered by him and Commander Byrd from all quarters of the world would appall any one but Mr. Brophy. He seems to know what is in every crate, whether he has seen it before or not, and, by being in about a dozen places at once and encouraging and urging the men to greater efforts, he has proved himself a master of details.

The project of getting materials sorted and in the proper ships is unusually difficult, but Mr. Brophy has groups of men each working to bring about a certain result in each division of the expedition, so there is little confusion and there is rapid accomplishment of each task.

Although the City of New York did not come out of drydock until this morning, she was unloaded this afternoon and it is hoped that she will get away in three or four more days for the base.

Commander Byrd himself has supervised the major tasks of separation and all day may be seen moving around on the dock with his dog, Igloo, deciding matters of policy and making decisions which will affect the more important movements of the expedition.

Bolling Will Try Two Trips.

Several important points were decided last night at a conference of the pilots and ships' masters. An attempt will be made to send the Eleanor Bolling through the ice to the Bay of Whales twice this season instead of once, a feat which never before has been attempted.

If successful, it wil give the expedition a much greater opportunity of bringing the entire force of the personnel together on the task of exploration in the first season instead of waiting until the second year to get everything together.

The plan now is to send the City of New York with the bulk of the personnel, including the scientists, the aviation units and the dogs, out at the end of this week. The ship will carry one plane and the work of exploration and the laying of the bases will be done as soon as she arrives at the Bay of Whales.

The Bolling will follow about Christmas time when the ice becomes more rotten and broken up, carrying the other planes, houses and supplies. When the Bolling arrives, the complete unit for scientific and aviation work will be on the ice equipped for the Winter.

Then, if the Bolling can make the proposed second trip, the group at the base will be enlarged to permit doing away with multiple duties and permitting each group to work independently, as well as permitting the departure of a larger group to handle the big planes at the base.

Byrd Pleased at Prospect.

Commander Byrd is much pleased at the possibility of having more men there this year, but even if the Bolling does not get through the second time, the original group of twenty-five men, forming a complete organization, will be able to spend the Winter and prepare for the flying and scientific investigations next year. If the second trip is made, the party at the base will be the largest ever assembled in the Antarctic.

A few changes have been made in the crews of the ships, and men are being shifted from one to the other to make a more efficient working force on each, although the Bolling has been stripped of superfluous workers and all available accommodations on the City of New York utilized to the utmost.

Questions of rank are all forgotten in mutual accommodations, and officers camp alongside coal-passers in the forecastle with the utmost good humor. There are no formalities of precedence on an Antarctic expedition, where each man's life may depend on the effort and cooperation of every one else.

This spirit of mutual tolerance and good-will has become marked since the entire expedition got together, a factor which will mean much for the success of the expedition and the happiness of the personnel while living together in such cramped quarters.

WIN BRIDGE CHAMPIONSHIPS

Maurice Maschke Among Victors in Matches at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 26 (AP).—Maurice Maschke of Cleveland, Republican National Committeeman for Ohio, and Mrs. Anna Rosenfeld, also of Cleveland, won the mixed pair championship at the closing meeting last night of the American Auction Bridge League.

Winners of the contract pair championship of the United States were Baron Waldemar von Zedtwitz of Austria and Theodore Lightner of New York.

The contract team championship was not determined, a team representing the Cavendish Club of New York having tied with one from Chicago. It was left to the committee to decide which will receive the title.

VESTRIS SPURNED AID OF CEDRIC AFTER SOS

of the position she gave in her distress messages as possibly due to the northeast current of the Gulf Stream, modified by the north wind then blowing, which would have caused an eastward drift.

The Wyoming made careful calculations on this drift in carrying on her rescue work, and it was on its account that she cruised to the west of the other rescue ships after reaching the scene at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning. Persons in the water would be carried by the current and wind less rapidly than the lifeboats, Captain Overstreet explained.

Their calculations were confirmed, he said, when Fireman Boxill drifted by on some wreckage at 8:32. The line thrown out landed squarely across his chest, and a cheer went up on the warship, but it was silenced an instant later when it was observed that the fireman made no effort to grasp the rope, but lay apparently lifeless.

"He had passed out," Captain Overstreet continued; "he had his arms locked around the pole of an old hatch cover and he had a sort of death grip on it."

When he was on the stand, Boxill testified that he remembered nothing after a point when it was still pitch dark, until he woke up on board the Wyoming.

An hour later, Captain Overstreet said, a lifeboat was lowered and two members of the crew and two women passengers, Mrs. Batten and Mrs. Ulrich, were picked up. After another interval of an hour a second lifeboat picked up Mrs. Inouye, Mrs. Fernandez and Mrs. Dosil.

All those picked up in the water had been exposed almost to the limit of possible human endurance, he said, and could not have remained conscious much longer. The value of lifebelts which would have kept their heads out of water thereafter could be deduced from that, he explained.

"The five women we picked up were all of different nationalities," he concluded. "The vitality of those five women was really rather remarkable."

Chief Engineer in Collapse.

Chief Engineer Adams, who has testified twice, is in a nervous collapse, it was revealed after Mr. Wheeler took the stand. Mr. Wheeler questioned him Sunday in his own inquiry into the causes of the disaster and he collapsed during that interview.

Mr. Wheeler testified that the main outlet to the sea of the sanitary plumbing system of the Vestris passed through the starboard coal bunker. The flooding of that bunker, from causes yet unknown, is regarded as the primary cause of the foundering of the ship. Captain E. P. Jessop, one of the experts at the inquiry, who has been asking questions for several days on the subject of sea outlets which might have caused the flooding of the bunker, regarded Mr. Wheeler's testimony as possibly the most significant clue yet developed in the inquiry.

The leak in the starboard bunker, experts in the inquiry and officials of the line are agreed, must have resulted either from a rupture in the hull, defective coal ports or a broken sea outlet in the bunker. On the first possibility there is no testimony, on the second testimony is conflicting, while the sanitary plumbing outlet, five inches in diameter, is admitted to have been sufficiently large to have caused the crucial leak.

Ask About Alleyway Hatches.

The only other testimony taken yesterday bearing on the causes of the sinking of the ship centred on the leaking starboard half-door, which has figured in testimony almost daily. The question was raised whether hatches in the alleyway inside the half-door, leading into the coal bunkers, were covered or not, and if not, whether sufficient water might have gone through to flood the bunker.

Testimony of several witnesses indicated that the hatches were battened down with canvas Sunday afternoon, but that these covers were washed off Monday morning, when the water had risen in the alleyway and covered them. Captain William Heasley, assistant marine superintendent of the line, testified that the hatches were supplied with regular wooden covers, but no one on board the ship seems to have seen these covers.

Captain Jessop pointed out that the half-door leak, while a contributing cause in the disaster, could not have been the initial cause, since it could not leak materially until the vessel had listed sufficiently to bring the half-door, which is normally ten feet above the water line, under water. It is the cause of that initial list which is now the focus of the investigation.

Captain Heasley, who is Mr. Wheeler's assistant, was called primarily to tell whether all repairs on the Vestris's repair list before she sailed on her fatal voyage had been attended to. The only one which he found had been neglected was a new glass covering needed on a docking telegraph on the afterdeck.

Engineers and Stokers Disagree.

Engineers of the Vestris and two firemen who testified yesterday disagreed on whether the firemen had refused to continue stoking the boilers Monday morning. Both firemen were positive that all their fellows obeyed orders to the end, while one engineering officer attributed the failure of the starboard boiler to the fact that the firemen quit, and another said that only two firemen stayed in the boiler room after the conditions became trying Monday morning.

Reginald Dixon, the sixth engineer, testified that the chief engineer had sent him to the captain to report that the firemen refused to work and that Captain Carey had gone up to the firemen who were on deck and said, "For God's sake go down and lend a hand down below." They went, he said, but immediately came up again by another route.

Both Dixon and Harry Forsyth, the third engineer, seemed unable to give much information. Forsyth seemed to have no recollection of time in respect to events during the last twenty hours on the Vestris, and he partly repudiated an affidavit taken from him anywhere in Syracuse, which quoted him as attributing the sinking of the vessel to the leaking half-door, the filling of the bunkers and the clogging of the pumps with coal from the bunkers. He merely assumed that the pumps would clog, he said, because dirty water was coming from the bunkers.

Dixon's memory appeared no better than Forsyth's, but the effort to elicit information from him was not carried as far. He did remember that the water in the engine room had been kept under control by the pumps until 11:30 Monday morning, and he remembers quite emphatically that the failure of the starboard boiler an hour and a half earlier, which previous testimony has attributed to the rising water, was the result of the firemen's refusal to work. The chief engineer made no effort to control the men beyond sending him to the captain, he said.

Discrepancy on Time.

Joseph Garner, the first fireman to testify yesterday, fixed the time of the starboard boiler's failure at 4 o'clock, six hours earlier than the time set by Dixon. It was before 10, he said, when the chief officer ordered all firemen on deck to go below, and they all went. He himself returned to deck at 10:30, he said, in the hope of "finding something to put in his mouth," since he had been without food since Saturday. But he was sent down again, and remained for another hour, he testified, when he again went on deck, and was put to work lowering lifeboats.

Garner described the conditions in the boiler room as very bad during the last hour he was there. He said that the water was almost knee high even on the high side of the hold, where it was most shallow. Only one of the three boilers, that on the port side, had a fire in it then, he said.

The witness said that lifeboat 10, which had been his regular assignment, and in which he left the ship, was overcrowded, with sixty persons in it, and leaked very badly. Boat 7, to which he transferred, also leaked badly, he said, and was without flares of hatchets.

"Was there any time when the colored members of the crew refused to obey orders?" was the last question asked the witness.

"Most emphatically not, sir," was the reply. "If I may say so, sir, I was greatly surprised to see the calm manner in which every one behaved."

Samuel A. Parfitt, chief fireman, who estimated the list of the vessel at fifteen degrees on Sunday evening, confirmed Garner's estimony as to the behavior of the crew. He also gave a similar description of the bad conditions in the stokehold on Monday.

Ash Hopper First Trouble.

George J. Prestwick, the fourth engineer, gave a connected story of the engine room developments. The ash hopper leaked at 9:30 A. M. Sunday, giving them their first trouble, he said, and was repaired by noon. The bilge pump was not sufficient to carry off the water, however, and the general service pump was connected, and appeared sufficient for a time.

The ash pump was added to the battery Sunday evening and the three held the water and prevented a further rise until after 9 Monday morning, he said. At that time he noticed dirty water coming down the white bulkhead at the end of the engine room toward the stokehold. He was about the last to leave the engine room at the end, he testified, and just before he did that the bulkhead gave way and a deluge of water came in from the bunker behind it.

Ernest Smith, second refrigerating engineer, and the last of the engineering officers to testify, declared only two firemen were the in stokehold at 10 A. M. Monday, and he added that two or three others came down, but would not stay. He, too, saw the bulkhead give way and the water pour in just before leaving the engine room. He said he went up then, although even at that time no order to go on deck and abandon the ship had been sent down.

Smith knew more about the half door and the hatches in the alleyway, because his work took him frequently to that part of the ship, and he said that much water was going through the hatches into the bunkers below on Monday morning. The hatches were covered with canvas Sunday afternoon, but the covers were gone Monday morning, he said, and the water was then above the 8-inch coamings around the hatches.

The inquiry will resume at 2 o'clock this afternoon, Commissioner O'Neill having decided against a morning session at the request of the two nautical experts, who wish to go over technical testimony and diagrams of the ship.

Opportunity for $10,000 Account Executive or "One-Man" Advertising Agency

THIS will interest a man who is looking for an environment affording greater opportunity for expansion and who is capable of utilizing our facilities to support his selling abilities.

We are a well-known New York advertising agency whose internal line-up has recently undergone a readjustment, and are in a position to advance rapidly. Our officers and staff all have a sound and wide background in advertising and merchandising in many fields.

We have established a record for the creation of original, dramatic selling and advertising ideas, and can amply help the man we have in mind to get, hold and develop desirable business.

In order to qualify, such a man must have already built up for himself a business warranting an income of not less than $10,000. We are adequately financed, and, as every man here is a producer, we want to add to our staff only in the same direction.

This opportunity might appeal equally to some small agency, over-developed on the selling side but inadequately serviced or financed, which could see in the merging of complementary abilities the means of offering to the clients of both present organizations a more complete service.

Letter giving sufficient details to warrant interview will be held in strict confidence. The members of this organization all know about this advertisement.

TURKO-GREEK ROW HALTS NEGOTIATIONS

ITALY TRIES TO END DISCORD

Fascist Foreign Minister, Now in Angora, Seeks to Arrange Treaty Between the Two Nations.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 26.—Despite Premier Mussolini's efforts to help settle the outstanding Turco-Greek difficulties that prevent the signing of a Turco-Greek treaty, serious discord has developed in the discussions between Athens and Angora.

Last week when the horizon seemed bright Premier Mussolini sent the Fascist Foreign Under-Secretary, Signor Grandi, from Rome to Angora. Meanwhile the Turco-Greek mixed commission under a neutral chairman, M. Holstadt, a Swede left here for Thrace to investigate the question of the exchange of and compensation to the Turks in Greek Thrace.

Yesterday the commission returned precipitately because the Turk and Greek members had quarreled. The discord arose when the Greek members objected to a Turk member examining Moslems regarding the treatment accorded them in Greek Thrace.

The Turk member questioned certain Moslem witnesses outside the commission meeting and charged that Moslems had been subjected to cruel oppression by the Greek police, and that the Greeks refused to let Moslem pupils attend school because they abandoned the fez for hats.

As a result the Turko-Greek treaty and Premier Venizelos's visit to Angora, scheduled for December, are indefinitely postponed. The burden of the Turkish charge, that Turks in Greek Thrace are oppressed, banishes, some say, the hope entertained last month in both countries and Italy that a Turko-Greek accord was possible.

The Fascist Under-Secretary is still in Angora and a move by Premier Mussolini through him seems to be the only hope of mending the present discord.

Athens Blames Turkish Press.

ATHENS, Nov. 26 (AP).—The Greek government has decided to postpone negotiations for settlement of various pending Greco-Turkish questions, the reason given being an Anti-Greek campaign in the Turkish press, including the semi-official organ. A scheduled visit of Premier Venizelos to Angora, consequently, has been postponed indefinitely.

POINCARE WILL USE REPARATIONS BOARD

Decides to Let It Ask for American Experts and Name French Ones.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—It will be through the Reparations Commission, which still functions, that the invitation will be sent to the American Government to permit American experts to take part in the negotiations for final fixation of Germany's reparations debt.

This body, which used to be all powerful, has since the Dawes plan was put into operation shrunk somewhat to status of a recording office of payments made. Its high salaried officials have given place to others of lesser lustre. But out of its partial oblivion Premier Poincaré, with a jurist's conception of how everything should be done, has summoned it to the task of nominating the French experts to the new commission and issuing the necessary invitation to the Americans.

Such procedure, of course, is correct, but it is possible that it would not have been resorted to unless it fulfilled a very useful purpose. In the first place, it will give the experts something more of that air of independence which the Germans ask than if they were named directly by the Governments. Secondly, it will interpose a useful barrier between the experts themselves and the Government. Thirdly it somewhat shifts responsibility from the Government in case of friction or difficulty.

All these reasons, it is stated, led to the Cabinet's decision today not to name the experts itself but to use the commission.

RUSSIAN PRINCESS SUES FOR ART SOVIET SOLD

Grand Duke Paul's Widow in London Claims Return of $240,000 Worth of Property.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The sale of art treasures worth $240,000 by the Soviet Government was contested in the King's Bench Court here today by Olga Princess Paley, widow of the Grand Duke Paul and aunt of the late Czar.

The Princess claimed the immediate return of furniture, tapestries and pictures from the syndicate of dealers and merchants who bought them last Spring, eight years after the Soviet troops removed them from the former palace at Tsarskoe Selo. Thus the case is similar to those brought in France and Germany by former Russian aristocrats whose property was confiscated after the revolution.

Although she never transferred the ownership of her possessions when she fled from Russia in 1919, the Princess learned they had been sold and discovered some recently in a warehouse in Wapping, a dingy district in London's East End.

The Princess divorced her first husband and married the Grand Duke in 1902 against the wishes of the Czar, who refused to consent to the marriage. She was never allowed to sit thereafter at the "high table" at the Czar's State dinners but she was, nevertheless, recognized as a member of the Romanoff family and lived at the Czar's Winter Palace.

HIGH BAIL HOLDS 5 IN ROTHSTEIN CASE

ago and the possible bribing of the police and other officials in attempts to free or obtain light punishment for gangsters in acts of sabotage, shootings and blackjackings in those strikes.

Mr. Banton refused to reveal the identity of the woman who had been named as a participant in the shooting of Rothstein. He explained that it was possible that when information obtained by the grand jury from witnesses yesterday had been run down she would be cleared of the murder charge.

"There is a woman in the case," the prosecutor added, "but the fact that she has been named as an actual participant in the murder doesn't mean anything just now, although it may mean much later as we progress with the presentation of the evidence to the grand jurors. I can't discuss the identity of this woman because that would interfere with the investigation. The public will have to wait for the end of this grand jury investigation before anything can be revealed as to the known central figures in this murder."

A further effort to obtain information from the prosecutor whether the woman was the person suspected of having first telephoned to Rothstein at Lindy's restaurant before he was called to the hotel by McManus met with the response that everything would be done to hide her identity.

"There are some witnesses in this case who are very timid," continued the District Attorney. "They have been afraid to tell what they know, lest they suffer personal violence. I have assured them of protection against personal violence, and I must be cautious to carry out that assurance. In this connection and in connection with other phases of the case, the investigation has been progressing very satisfactorily.

Seventy Witnesses to Be Called.

"We developed ten more witnesses today, bringing the total of witnesses to be called before the grand jury thus far up to nearly seventy. We have gotten information about these new witnesses, whom we did not know existed in this case, through some of the testimony given today.

"It may be that in investigating the other branches of the Rothstein case—the threats and interference with witnesses, the stolen Rothstein documents and the conspiracy on the part of Rothstein and others in the strikes—the evidence which we already have brought to light may be found to be invaluable in connection with the murder."

"Why was Mrs. Keyes secretly taken out of the city after her appearance today before the Grand Jury—were you afraid she might be kidnapped?" the prosecutor was asked.

"Well, I don't know anything about any possible plan to kidnap her," Mr. Banton replied, "but I will say that we are doing our best to see that no such thing takes place."

"Is it a fact that you have received information about the recent hiding place of McManus and his wife?" was another question.

"It is not," was the reply. "I haven't heard anything since the start of this investigation about the whereabouts of McManus or his wife."

Soon after it became known that the Grand Jury had impounded the Rothstein secret files, Assistant Federal Attorney Blake, who had been conducting an investigation before the Federal Grand Jury in connection with Rothstein's alleged leadership in an international ring which had smuggled millions of dollars in drugs into this country in recent years, called up Mr. Banton and arranged for a conference with him this morning.

Later, when asked about the proposed conference, Mr. Blake announced that the Federal inquiry "would await nobody's convenience," and intimated that he would demand that Mr. Banton and the local Grand Jury permit the Federal officials to continue with the inspection of the Rothstein files for evidence in the drug smuggling conspiracy.

Criticizes Moving of Files.

Later, in telling of an agreement with District Attorney Banton's office in connection with the Rothstein files, Mr. Blake several times used the term "Tammany influence."

"When the papers were at Rothstein's home," he said, "a cabinet containing the files was removed to the Bank of America branch at Broadway and Forty-first Street. We got after that and looked through it, but we were not told later that it had been removed to the District Attorney's office by Mr. Burkan or any of those from whom we might have expected such information.

"Assistant District Attorney Unger agreed, while the files were being gone over last week at Mr. Burkan's office, that they were not to be taken possession of by this State or the United States without due notice. Yet Saturday afternoon, when we knew nothing about such a project, they were removed from Mr. Burkan's office."

Coincident with this possible interruption of the Rothstein Grand Jury's investigation, counsel for the trustee in bankruptcy for Edward N. Fuller and William J. McGee, the former brokers, made a motion in the Federal court to make the temporary administrators of the Rothstein estate defendants in an old suit against the dead gambler for the recovery of $366,768, which it was contended Rothstein won from the two brokers in gambling before the failure of their firm and their conviction and sentence to Sing Sing.

Other legal moves were the signing of two orders by Surrogate O'Brien in connection with Rothstein's estate. One order called on the representatives of McAleenan's pawn shop at 1,330 Broadway, the Provident Loan Society, Simpson's and other pawnbrokers in the city to appear before the Surrogate today for questioning regarding jewelry and other property Rothstein may have pledged at their establishments before the shooting. The second order framed the issues that are to be submitted to a jury when the contest over the death-bed will of the slain man comes up for trial.

The first intimation that Mr. Banton was seeking a first-degree murder indictment against a woman in connection with the Rothstein shooting came to light when Assistant District Attorney Hastings, who had presented the evidence in the Grand Jury proceeding, after a conference with Mr. Banton, Assistant District Attorney Brothers, who probably will be in charge of the State's case at the murder trials, and Assistant District Attorney Marro, head of the Homicide Bureau, who originally was in charge of the Rothstein investigation, appeared before Judge Mancuso in General Sessions and asked that Raymond, Thomas, Meehan, Stajer and Bowe be held as material witnesses and committed to the House of Detention in default of bail.

Mr. Hastings submitted to the court five affidavits, signed by the District Attorney, headed "the State of New York in the case against Jane Doe, John Doe and Richard Roe," in connection with the murder of Arnold Rothstein. The five witnesses had been taken into custody a few minutes before by detectives at the conclusion of the Grand Jury session. All five witnesses previously had made statements to the District Attorney in the presence of a stenographer, in which they denied they knew the identity of the person who shot Rothstein, or of a motive for the killing, although Raymond, Thomas and Meehan had admitted participation in the card game in which Rothstein lost $300,000, of which Raymond admitted he had won $219,000, while McManus lost $51,000.

Banton Asks $100,000 Bail for Four.

Raymond, Thomas and Meehan had not been called before the grand jury, while Bowe had testified and Stajer was in the midst of his testimony, when the session ended for the day. In asking that Raymond, Thomas, Meehan and Stajer be held in $100,000 bail each, and Bowe's bail be placed at $10,000, the District Attorney's affidavit applying to each of the five men declared that he was "a necessary and material witness" who, the prosecutor was afraid, would not appear to testify when needed; that he was a friend of persons implicated in the murder and "therefore hostile to the investigation."

The affidavits added that "material and necessary witnesses in the murder investigation already have been tampered with, that documentary evidence, material to the investigation, has been destroyed and stolen," and from the attitude of the five men "it is apparent that they will not be available" to the District Attorney when they are needed for further questioning.

Judge Mancuso acquiesced to the demands of the District Attorney, and the five witnesses were led out of court in two groups. Raymond, Thomas and Meehan were taken to Police Headquarters when they announced that they were not ready to furnish bail. There they were fingerprinted and later taken to the House of Detention at the West Fifty-third Street station. Bowe and Stajer were taken to the West Forty-seventh Street prison. Bowe and Stajer were that he could not furnish the required bail, while Bowe said that he was certain he could obtain the $10,000 bail in his case. Bowe and Stajer were fingerprinted at the station, after which Stajer was taken to the House of Detention, while Bowe was returned to the District Attorney's office, where he was released on a bond furnished by a surety company.

The police, in denying a report that the five witnesses also had been photographed, refused to reveal the purpose of taking their fingerprints, but it was learned that the motive for this was to compare their finger impressions with impressions on the two whisky bottles and the three empty glasses found in McManus's room at the Park Central after Rothstein was alleged to have been mortally shot there.

Stajer is under bail in the Federal court in connection with his arrest with two other men several weeks ago at the Prisament Hotel by Federal narcotic agents in an alleged drug smuggling offense. Before the three men were taken from the hotel that night, Rothstein appeared and subsequently furnished bail for them. Stajer had been questioned by Assistant Federal District Attorneys Blake and Sylvestre soon after the murder in an effort to obtain through him definite proof of the gambler's connection with the smuggling ring.

Subsequently he was questioned in the murder investigation by Chief Assistant District Attorney Pecora, but, according to Mr. Pecora, while admitting that he had been a close friend of Rothstein for twenty years, Stajer denied that he had been Rothstein's bodyguard, that he knew anything about the murder or its motive.

He admitted, however, that about a week before the shooting Rothstein had told him about losing a large sum of money gambling, about being pressed for payment by the winners and adding "now they have brought tough guys into the matter." Stajer was permitted to go that day, but it was reported yesterday that a check-up by detectives of some of the statements he had made to Mr. Pecora had developed discrepancies and that it was because of these and other evidence Mr. Banton had obtained that Stajer was considered a very important witness in the murder case and should be held in high bail.

Soon after Raymond, Thomas, Meehan and Stajer had been placed in the House of Detention, Isaiah Leebove, counsel for Raymond, Meehan and Stajer, appeared before Supreme Court Justice Tierney and obtained writs of habeas corpus calling for the arraignment of his three clients in the Supreme Court at 11 o'clock this morning on his motion to discharge them from custody. He contended in his application that the action of the District Attorney in demanding that each be held in $100,000 bail was without justification.

Later Mr. Leebove, who formerly was Rothstein's lawyer, denounced the prosecutor for his action.

Grand Jury Guarded Against Spies.

Before the grand jury assembled shortly before 11 o'clock yesterday forenoon, the most elaborate precautions to prevent spying on witnesses and possible interference with the progress of the Rothstein investigation had been taken by District Attorney Banton and the police. The grand jury chamber is on the third floor of the Criminal Courts building, and is connected by a bridge over White Street on the north with the building occupied by the prosecutor at 137 Centre Street.

At 9 o'clock in the morning, Captain Barry of the Elizabeth Street station and fifteen of his uniformed policemen appeared at the prosecutor's office and were assigned to special posts with imperative orders that they were not to permit anybody to enter or leave the grand jury quarters or the District Attorney's building, without special permission of the prosecutor's secretary, John P. Donlin.

The grand jury investigation, with Mrs. Keyes as the first witness, had been in progress a short time when Maurice Block, Democratic majority leader of the Assembly, started to go through the corridor outside the grand jury chamber to the bridge leading to the District Attorney's office. He was stopped by one of the policemen stationed there, and, although he insisted that as counsel for a defendant in another case he had a right to go to the prosecutor's office, he was told that he would have to go down to the street and to to the main entrance of the prosecutor's office. He got in there only after running a gauntlet of policemen and detectives.

In the late afternoon, when telling of the inclusion of the woman as one of the murder suspects, Mr. Banton said that he and his aides had laid out in detail all the evidence that was to be presented to the grand jury. The manner of calling witnesses in accordance with how their testimony would dovetail with the evidence the prosecutor and the police had obtained had all been arranged, he said, and everything possible was done for its presentation with a smoothness and a clarity which would expedite the work of the grand jury in arriving at a decision to return first degree murder indictments and the other indictments which may result from the investigation.

It developed that when Stajer's arrest was ordered, the District Attorney also placed in the hands of a detective a subpoena for William McCabe, another gambler, who had made a statement to the prosecutor the week before. his subpoena had not been served, it was understood, up to a late hour last night. He had told the prosecutor that he was on the steamship City of Chattanooga, returning to this city from Savannah, Ga., on the day Rothstein was shot, and arrived a few hours after the death of the gambler in Polyclinic Hospital. Mr. Banton refused to reveal whether a check-up of McCabe's statement had brought about his decision to issue a subpoena for him.

There was a report in the midtown district that detectives last night were seeking a man named Gill as a new witness in the Grand Jury investigation. It was said that the police had obtained information that Gill visited McManus in the Park Central room a short time after Mrs. Keyes's visit and remained there until a few minutes before Rothstein was shot. Gill also was described as McManus's former "pay-off man" in gambling enterprises.

District Attorney Banton denied having ordered the arrest in Philadelphia the night before of Frank Corbo, alias Frank Tucker, in connection with the Rothstein case. He said that the names of Corbo, or Tucker, and two of his alleged associates not under arrest, John (Chickie) Clark and "No-nose" Burke "mean nothing to me in the Rothstein investigation."

AMERICANS LAUNCH FRENCH TAX INQUIRY

Agents, on Washington Orders, Investigate Effects of Proposed Levy on Foreign Companies.

ANTICIPATE COURT RULING

Business Circles Urge Informal Action Stressing Harmful Effects Before Decision Is Reached.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—Acting upon instructions from Washington the American officials are making a careful investigation to ascertain the effect upon the large American business interests in France of the expected decision by the French Supreme Court requiring all foreign concerns operating in this country as subsidiary French corporations to pay many millions of dollars in additional taxation. As the case has gone against the foreign companies in the decisions of two lower courts there is little likelihood that the highest tribunal will reverse those rulings, American business men here feel.

The critical situation with which the American companies would be faced in the way of increased taxation running into the millions in the event of a final adverse decision was disclosed in a dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES of Oct. 17. Since then the State Department has received a number of anxious inquiries from parent American companies which do a large business in France through what are known as "sociétés anonymes."

It is understood that the investigation being made by American officials has thus far made it more than apparent that an unfavorable decision by the Supreme Court would in all probability place a burden of taxation upon the American firms under which many of them would find it too great to operate.

While some American jurists in Paris have taken the attitude that the case is aimed only at those American and other foreign companies which, by one means or another, have been avoiding the existing taxes, the majority of American lawyers, as well as business men, are genuinely disturbed over the prospects.

There remains a certain amount of doubt as to how the new tax—18 per cent—would be computed, but it is felt there is little doubt about what the French tax authorities will do if the high court sustains the two previous decisions. Feeling that tax collectors the world over are eager to roll up the highest possible totals for their respective departments, Americans say it would be very unwise to depend upon the benevolence of the French fiscal department. As has ben explained in previous dispatches, the projected tax would be collected after the current 15 per cent tax on profits and the 18 per cent tax upon distributed profits or dividends had been assessed. It would be arrived at by comparing the profits, distributed and otherwise, of the parent company and all its branches with the profits of the French subsidiary. The assessor would then fix an arbitrary figure and the tax would be paid on that amount.

For example, one firm operating in France as a subsidiary was presented with a bill for an 18 per cent tax on 15 per cent of the parent company's business totally outside France.

When the American officials have concluded their investigation and forwarded the results to Washington it is quite likely that some sort of unofficial representations will be made to the French Government. The American Government must proceed cautiously, since the Supreme Court decision has not yet been made known, but many Americans are in favor of informal action before then on the theory that the foreign interests should make known the harmful effect which an adverse decision would have.

The discussion invoked by the disclosure of the situation has already led some French circles to question the wisdom of collecting the new tax.

DUTCH WOULD CURB GYPSIES

Officials Suggest League of Nations Regulate Wanderings.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 26.—A suggestion was made today by Dutch officials that the League of Nations should regulate the international wanderings of gypsies, because of the difficulty of guarding the Dutch-Belgian border against the incursion of these undesirable nomads. The Dutch government is maintaining between eighty and 100 frontier guards, reinforced by military police, on duty day and night to keep them out. Some of these gypsies are in very poor circumstances. Some claim to be Dutch subjects and seek admittance on the ground of their nationality, but they are unable to prove it. Others are apparently of Swedish nationality and ask for permission to pass through Holland to reach their own country, but they also are not allowed to enter. Many come from France, and even further south, and they request admission in order to attend the Dutch farmers' horse shows and markets.

The authorities are exercised lest the gypsies who have been trying to enter Holland during the past three months should elude the frontier guards. It might then be impossible to send them back, since the Belgians, who do not want these unwelcome visitors, would likely see to it that they did not return over the frontier.

DECLARES STONES "LIVE."

German Reports Process in Crystals Analagous to Breathing.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—Stones live, Professor Rinne, mineralogist, of Leipzig University, declared in a lecture on "Living and Dead Matter," which he delivered before the Saxon Academy of Science. Taking crystals as an example, the professor showed that numerous processes which we know to exist only in living substances can be observed functioning in an analogous manner in inorganic matter.

A difficulty was that neither the human eye nor even the strongest microscope could reveal such activities with sufficient sharpness, he said, but modern science had found a way to uncover the secrets by using Roentgen rays.

It had been discovered that crystals showed a number of characteristics closely resembling the nutritive and breathing processes, the aging and death of human beings. Crystals absorbed and ejected vapor carbonic acid gas, said the lecturer. That clearly resembled human and animal breathing. Not only crystals but also hard rocks, like granite, after a time showed signs of age. They finally broke up into sand, which meant that they actually died.

Concluding his lecture, the scientist said that the production of a living substance in the laboratory was not only possible, but probable, in the not very distant future.

GLASS SEES FAILURE OF ALL MAJOR BILLS

Declares Fair Tariff Revision at Short Session Impossible—Doubts Vote on Farm Relief.

KELLOGG TREATY "FUTILE"

Virginia Senator, on Visit Here, Says Pact Is Attempt to Salve Some Consciences on League.

There is little likelihood of the enactment of any legislation other than the usual appropriation bills at the coming short session of Congress, in the opinion of Senator Carter Glass, Democrat, of Virginia, expressed in an interview at the Biltmore yesterday. Senator Glass was in New York to attend a meeting of the board of trustees of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation last night.

Senator Glass said that each of the four major issues pending before Congress, tariff revision, farm relief, Boulder Dam and the Kellogg anti-war treaty, was likely to arouse strong antagonisms, although he said that he could see no reason why the Kellogg treaty should do so.

"It is perfectly harmless—and perfectly futile," he said. "It is merely an attempt on the part of some people to salve our consciences for keeping this country out of the League of Nations."

Senator Glass declared that it was obvious that no fair and intelligent revision of the tariff could be made at the short session because of the amount of work involved. He thought it unlikely that Senator McNary's revised farm relief bill, from which the equalization fee has been omitted, would reach a vote.

The Senator said he had not determined what his attitude would be toward the measure, although he voted against the McNary-Haugen bill containing the "vicious" equalization fee. He said there was too much readiness to push forward "poisonous" legislation if only it was labeled for farm relief.

As for Boulder Dam, Senator Glass said that Senator Johnson was confident of a majority for the Swing-Johnson bill if he could force a vote, but that any determined opposition would make that difficult. The bill's chief hope lies in the reaching of a compromise agreement between Senators Johnson and Ashurst, leaders of the two contending factions, he said.

SUES TO ENFORCE CROSSING REMOVALS

Transit Board Asks Writ Against Long Island and Staten Island Roads.

In accordance with a resolution adopted last week the Transit Commission filed yesterday in the Supreme Court suits to compel the Long Island Railroad and the Staten Island Rapid Transit Railway Company to carry out grade-crossing elimination orders affecting forty-four points in Richmond and Queens. Supreme Court Justice John M. Tierney signed orders giving each company until Dec. 17 to file answers and fixed Dec. 21 as the date of hearings in the actions.

Four separate suits were filed, two against each company. In each instance a writ of mandamus was asked to compel submission to the commission of plans and specifications for the grade-crossing eliminations required by four of its orders. The commission asserts that the orders have been ignored.

CITY CHRISTMAS SALE OPENS

Municipal Wards Have Made Wide Variety of Articles.

Shoes and ships and sealing wax are just a few among the many things for sale at the annual Christmas bazaar on the tenth floor of the Municipal Building under the general direction of Welfare Commissioner Bird S. Coler. All the articles have been made by wards of the city in the various welfare institutions and the money derived from the sale will go to the unfortunates, many of them cripples, whose handicraft is represented.

They range in price from $40 for a hand-made rug down to 25 cents for a napkin ring. The shoes referred to are knitted baby shoes, the ships are models of full rigged sailing vessels and there are bits of sealing wax in artistic holders and toys, baskets, pocketbooks, humidors, footstools, hand embroidered linen sets and an almost endless variety of things.

"The Battle of the Angels," hand-carved on a footstool, is the work of a cripple in a wheelchair, who has also carved an over-mantel piece later to be exhibited at the Anderson Galleries.

The sale open today and will continue until the goods are dispsed of.

Freeze Delays WEAF Program.

Radio station WEAF failed to transmit four programs scheduled between 6:45 and 10:45 A. M. yesterday because the low temperature froze the cooling system of the transmitting tubes at the plant at Bellmore, L. I. Engineers who effected repairs declared that if the cold weather had been anticipated measures would have been taken to prevent damage to the cooling system.

AGAINST ITALIAN URBANISM.

Prefects Take Measures to Send Peasants Back to Their Land.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Nov. 26.—Vigorous "back to the land movement," backed by legislative enactments rendering it possible to send peasant immigrants in the cities back to the country, has been begun by prefects of several provinces in pursuance of Premier Mussolini's theory that "urbanism" is chiefly responsible for Italy's falling birth rate.

The measures so far adopted consist in making it obligatory for any peasant family wishing to take up residence in a city first to ask the permission of their prefects, who has the right to refuse it. The prefects are also empowered to oblige peasant immigrants to return to their original homes. Other prefects have made arrangements with employers in cities to refuse work to peasants from the country, thus discouraging them from crowding into cities and swelling the ranks of the unemployed.

Such measures have for the present been adopted only in some provinces, but similar steps are being considered elsewhere, so that it is probable that they will become general throughout Italy.

Premier Mussolini is convinced that large cities should be combatted with every possible means on the ground that urban life tends to sterilize man and in addition makes him a prey to all sorts of physical, social and moral maladies. He wishes the Italian population to increase as much as possible but wishes it to remain spread out in the country and in small rural centres.

LINER FOUGHT HEAVY SEAS.

Deutschland Docks After Stormy Voyage—Veteran Purser Aboard.

The Hamburg American liner Deutschland arrived yesterday after one of the stormiest voyages she has ever made. Though she was only a few hours late, Captain Otto Langer reported almost continuously bad weather. In the North Sea his vessel encountered the severe storm which recently ravaged England. He said that he picked up six S O S calls within an hour, but that as the vessels were all extremely distant and in shallow water he proceeded on his way.

On board the Deutschland were Commander M. A. Pierce, Lieutenant Charles E. Bauch and Lieutenant Thomas G. Settle of the United States Navy. They were guests of the German Government on the homeward bound trip of the Graf Zeppelin. They are now on their way to Lakehurst.

The arrival of the Deutschland marked an anniversary for one member of its staff. Otto Ritter, the chief purser, and well-known to Atlantic travelers, celebrated his twenty-fifth year in the service of the line.

His first ship was the old Auguste Victoria, one of the crack liners of the beginning of this century to which he was appointed in 1903. Other ships on which he has served include the Hohenstaufen, Bayern, Teutonia, Thuringia, Westphalia and Reliance.

White Satin and Suntan

This overwhelming vogue for white satin evening gowns started because white satin was so becoming to sunburned skins.

And now smart skins are simulating sunburn in order to wear white satin gowns.

White satin is the smartest and most important evening fashion of this year, Franklin Simon & Co. will present today for Madame and Mademoiselle, a new collection of white satin evening gowns—crisp, fresh and lovely, in just the correct tones—gowns which typify not only the vogue for white satin, but for uneven hemlines, new decolletages and unusual draperies.

TIGHTER ALIEN CURB DEMANDED BY LABOR

Federation Asks Quota System for Mexico and Latin America and Safeguards on Canada.

STRIKE 'ENDOWMENT' URGED

Miners' Chiefs Propose Fund for Defense and Relief—Priest Warns Unions to Have 'Clean Hands.'

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 26.—Drastic action seeking to restrict immigration to the United States from Mexico, Canada, the West Indies, South and Central America and the Philippines whose citizens are not covered by the present quota law, was taken today at the Convention of the American Federation of Labor.

Alarmed over reports that more than a million immigrants were illegally resident in the United States and concerned because of the vast influx of Mexicans and Canadians not subject to the quota law, the delegates adopted the following declaration:

"We believe the restriction against entry of aliens into the United States should be more rigid in character though tempered with human considerations and applicable to all aliens."

Detroit Resolutions Carried.

Detroit delegates who complained of the daily migration of 20,000 aliens from Windsor, Ont., to the Detroit factories, obtained from the convention the adoption of a resolution opposing Rule 86, promulgated by the Department of Labor in interpreting the right of workmen to enter this country from Canada.

The resolution insisted that "no rule, order, proclamation, practice or procedure be permitted by any department of the Government that will evade, avoid or make difficult the enforcement of the immigration laws."

The federation also urged that the entry of aliens "by quota or otherwise should be surrounded with greater safeguards and exercised with greater care."

The convention further recommended that the Executive Council make a complete study of the entire subject in order to propose further legislation that will "safeguard and promote the economic, industrial, social and political well-being of all the people in the United States in general and of the wage-earners in particular."

Lewis Proposes "Endowment Fund."

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, thanked the Federation for its support of his union in its last strike and suggested that organized labor emulate the example of great universities and raise a large endowment fund for the purpose of helping smaller unions in times of stress. He asked the Executive Council to consider the matter.

The miners' leader defended his union from the "slander" that the union was dying and declared that the miners' organization was as solvent as the Federation.

Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the miners' union, told the delegates that the union had spent $5,000,000 in strikes in the past three years exclusive of relief. The item of relief alone, he said, amounted to $400,000 a month during the recent strike. He placed the paid-up and exonerated membership of the union as 425,000.

He suggested that the delegates consider the advisability of raising a gigantic defense fund, to be supervised by the federation and used to support the families of strikers.

President William Green of the federation, a former secretary-treasurer of the miners' union, cited the strike in reply to those critics who, he said, were asserting that the miners' union was no longer militant.

Denounces Bootlegging of Aliens.

Relief from the abuse of injunctions in industrial disputes was advocated in a resolution which proposed that legislation defining the jurisdiction of the equity courts be adopted and that the anti-trust laws be repealed or amended to exclude labor from their provisions. Opposition was voiced to the substitute for the Shipstead anti-injunction bill.

Criticism of the bootlegging of immigrants and of the daily migration from Canada to factories on the American side were uttered by Delegates D. O. Collins, Frank X. Martel and John J. Doyle.

Mr. Martel said that Detroit was an "open-shop" city largely because of the vast floating labor reservoir in Windsor, Ont.

Mr. Collins asserted that aliens in Canada were able to sneak into the United States and scatter all over the country.

Mr. Doyle, declaring that "the scum of continental Europe is using Canada as a back-door entry into the United States," charged that strikes on the American side had been broken by alien strike-breakers from Canada.

Priest Warns Labor to Clean House.

Support was pledged to the Kellogg anti-war treaty, the only negative vote being cast by President Andrew Furuseth of the International Seamen's Union.

The Rev. J. W. Maguire of St. Viator College, Bourbonnais, Ill., in an address, scored the use of injunctions in labor disputes and pleaded with labor to "clean house" of those who "betray the high and holy cause of labor."

"Let the American Federation of Labor bring its causes into the legislative bodies of the land with clean hands and expel the criminals, racketeers and grafters from its ranks," Father Maguire declared.

At a meeting of the Union Labor Life Insurance Company tonight, President Matthew Woll read a letter from Charles E. Hughes, which said:

"To my mind nothing is more significant and impressive than the enlightened efforts of labor organizations to advance the economic interests of their members by intelligent plans for the promotion of thrift and for affording security to the homes. You have my best wishes for the prosperity of your enterprise."

Mr. Woll reported that the company had broken all record for building up surplus and for writing new insurance within the last ten-month period.

TILSON DECLARES FOR EXTRA SESSION

He Would Have It Called Soon After March 4 to Enact Tariff Revision.

URGES FARM AID FIRST

House Leader Says It Could Be Put Through at the Short Session of Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Representative John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, Republican floor leader of the House, today advocated holding an extra session of Congress at the outset of the Hoover Administration to revise the tariff and to deal with the inter-related problems connected with agricultural relief.

Mr. Tilson holds that a revision of the tariff on agricultural products is necessary to supplement any general farm relief bill that may be passed, and that as time would not permit adequate revision of the tariff at the short session to convene Monday a special session should be held for the purpose in the Spring of next year. Regarding farm relief, he said he saw no good reason why such legislation could not be passed at the coming short session.

Mr. Tilson believes the Ways and Means Committee, which initiates tariff legislation, should hold hearings on the subject this Winter so as to be prepared promptly to report a bill immediately upon the convening of Congress in special session by President Hoover.

Representative Bacharach of New Jersey, a member of the Ways and Means Committee, also advocated today an extra session to revise the tariff upward in favor of agriculture and industry.

He said that it was necessary for President-elect Hoover to call Congress into extraordinary session to keep the pledges of the Republican Party made in the campaign.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP).—Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, today issued an invitation to the executive officers of "all bona-fide farm organizations" to meet in a joint session with the purpose of reaching an agreement on the major features of a national farm legislative program.

The invitation was issued by Mr. Taber as a result of a meeting of the executive committee of the Grange which closed its annual convention here last week.

PRINCIPALS OPPOSE 'GRADED SALARY' LAW

Bronx Administrators Say Scale Based on Size of School Is Professionally Unfair.

Opposition to the "graded salary" law, providing for salaries for principals in proportion to the size of the schools they head, was expressed last night by Bronx administrators at a dinner-meeting of the Bronx Principals' Association. The meeting was held at Rosenhain's, Fordham Road and Grand Concourse, the Bronx.

It was pointed out that the license earned by principals enabling them to administer schools is of a type equally applicable to all sizes of institutions and that therefore the differentiation in salaries on such a basis is "professionally unfair." There has been increasing discussion in school circles, particularly among principals, regarding the working out of this method of adjusting salaries.

Plowden Stevens Jr., Principal of Public School 44, the Bronx, said that principalships should leave time for research work in educational problems and that the administration of large schools monopolizes too much of the time of the principal. He said that, as a result, principals of small schools do more research work than those of large units.

The association went on record as opposed to the "death-bed" option of the retirement law. Dr. John Loftus, president of the New York Principals' Association, spoke of the functions of a principals' organization. Consolidation plans of the two principals' bodies are being discussed. Dr. Patrick R. Kinney, principal of Public School 71 and president of the Bronx association, was toastmaster.

FIRE RAZES SCHOOL ON PRINCETON CAMPUS

Destroys the John C. Green Science Building—Loss Is Estimated at $200,000.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Tuesday, Nov. 27.—Fire early today destroyed the John C. Greene School of Science building on the Princeton University campus, causing a damage estimated at $200,000. The roof of the building collapsed two hours after the fire started.

Fanned by the southeast wind, the flames, which broke out at midnight, crept through the southeast tower of the building and then to the main structure. Local volunteer firemen fought the blaze for more than three hours. It was believed the fire originated in the electric wiring.

The building was erected in 1878. It had been used by the Engineering School for the past fifty years until this Fall when the school was moved into a new structure near by. Since then, the Departments of Economics, History and Chemistry have used the building.

Students, aroused by the fire sirens, poured out of their dormitories to watch the blaze. Many of the students and professors collected valuable surveying instruments and other portable apparatus and carried them to a concrete laboratory across the street.

Printers Hold Thanksgiving Dinner.

More than 200 members of the New York Employing Printers and their guests attended their annual Thanksgiving dinner at the Hotel Astor last night. Don C. Seitz, formerly of The New York World, said they could be thankful for the high state of perfection to which the art of printing had been brought. I. Van Dillon, president of the organization, presided. Others present were E. F. Ellert, chairman of the Board of Directors; Secretary Robert Goldstein, Vice President C. Frank Crawford and A. E. Cramen, counsel for the organization.

Part of childhood's memories...

There are countless thousands of active, energetic men and women today, in all walks of life, to whom the name Coward is as familiar as the name of the town where they were born. To them the periodic visits to the Coward store to get shoes are part of the whole glamorous background of childhood and early youth.

For generations, intelligent mothers have brought their boys and girls here for their shoes. These mothers have not always been in easy circumstances, but they all were wise. They knew it would be cruel folly to economize by encasing the sensitive, plastic feet of their boys and girls in any but the finest of children's shoes.

And that, inevitably, brought them to Coward. Many of our customers today tell us they were raised in Cowards. In most cases it is obvious that they must have been. Fine, normal feet—straight toes, high arches, freedom from deforming bunions and corns—such are the feet that wore Cowards through the formative years of life.

Your children today need the best shoes that scientific designing can create. Coward has always been acknowledged the leader in creating just such shoes.

NEW DEBT DETAILS REPORTED IN MEXICO

De Oca Is Expected to Offer Bankers $12,500,000 as First Annual Payment.

$40,000,000 IN FIFTH YEAR

President to Decide on Possible Transfer of Railways to Private Control.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 26.—The new financial agreement, which Finance Minister Luis Montes de Oca expects to close with the international bankers' committee on Mexico toward the end of the year, probably will include as a main clause provision for a first payment by Mexico of 25,000,000 pesos (about $12,500,000), it was stated tonight in reliable quarters.

The payments would increase annually toward a maximum of upward of 80,000,000 pesos within a period of five years. The latter amount is reported to be the figure which the bankers' experts, after local study of Mexican financial and economic capacity, believe the country is capable of paying.

It is understood that Mexico's representatives at conferences held here emphasized that the question of whether a new financial compact must be subject to a decision by the Mexican Chief Executive as to the possibility of adopting wholly or in part the recommendations of Sir Henry Thornton for placing the National Railways of Mexico on a self-supporting basis. Sir Henry is reported to have recommended the entire elimination of political influences, with absolute private control.

Recent reports published in New York, to the effect that President Calles, on leaving the executive office, will become chairman of the board of the railways, could not be confirmed tonight; sources consulted hold the view that the immediate future will see that the republic's present ruler will devote himself to the leadership of the great new revolutionary party, which it is now confirmed will be organized soon after President Calles leaves the national palace.

In the meantime Mexico is preparing to celebrate that rare incident—a peaceful transfer of the executive power—on Friday, when in the city's great stadium President Calles will hand over the reins of office to the Provisional President-elect, Emilio Portes Gil.

That is somewhat in contrast, as regards political stability, with events reported last night from the southern city of Puebla, where the elections for State Governor and Deputies to the State Legislature were held in an atmosphere more reminiscent of the World War than of a minor event in a small Mexican State. This morning's newspapers say, although the news is not yet confirmed in official quarters, that five persons were killed and four wounded in clashes between overheated partisans. All the dispatches from Puebla lay considerable blame for the sanguinary incidents on certain politicians who were using an automobile identified as belonging to the Mexican Federal Chamber of Deputies.

It is reliably reported that before morning some twenty-five officers, including Cabinet Ministers, will offer their resignations, leaving their chief assistants in charge with full authority until Señor Portes Gil nominates his own Cabinet and other officials.

STATISTICAL PARLEY OPENS.

Russia Attends League Conference and Accepts Invitation to Another.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Nov. 26.—The Soviet Government informed the League of Nations today of its acceptance of the invitation to participate in the international conference for the suppression of counterfeiting that will be called soon in Geneva.

In contrast to earlier communications M. Litvinoff's note to Sir Eric Drummond was extremely amiable and omitted the usual Soviet comment that such pourparlers were useless.

Russia is also attending the statistical conference that convened today with forty-one nations represented. In the opening speech at this conference William Rappard, its president, complimented delegates on the presence of six non-League powers. The conference divided in two sections, one for the consideration of commercial and the other of industrial statistics.

GENEVA, Nov. 26 (AP).—Putting economic order into the world has been judged so vital by non-members of the League of Nations that the following sent representatives today to the opening of the conference on standardization of economic statistics: The United States, Russia, Mexico, Brazil, Ecuador, Turkey and Egypt.

The American delegation to the conference included Dr. E. Dana Durand, chief of the Division of Statistical Research of the Department of Commerce; Asher Hobson of the Department of Agriculture, James F. Dewhurst of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia and Eldridge D. Rand, Consul at Geneva.

SEEKS RIO JANEIRO PHONES.

American Company Is Among Bidders for Service Now Leased.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Nov. 26.—A representative of a large unannounced American company is in Rio de Janeiro to submit a bid for the Rio de Janeiro telephone system, according to the newspaper Estado de Sao Paulo.

The journal's Rio de Janeiro correspondent of the journal says the American company desires to buy the service when the contract between the city and the Companhia Telephonica, a subsidiary of the Brazilian Traction Company of Toronto, expires next month. The municipal treasury did not renew the contract, which has been in operation several years, and the Mayor was authorized to call for bids.

Albert Loewenstein, the Belgian banker, who fell to his death from an airplane over the English Channel last Summer, tried unsuccessfully to get control of the Canadian company once, and doubt as to present control enters into the reasons for letting the contract lapse.

COUNT BERNADOTTE HERE FOR WEDDING

Nephew of the King of Sweden Is Accompanied on Liner by Royalty and Nobles.

FIANCEE MEETS HIM AT PIER

Party Will Go Sightseeing Until the Ceremony Saturday—Will Be Morgan's Guests Tomorrow.

Count Folke Bernadotte of Visborg, nephew of the King of Sweden and fiancé of Miss Estelle R. Manville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Edward Manville of Pleasantville, N. Y., arrived yesterday on the Swedish American liner Gripsholm. Count Bernadotte and Miss Manville will be married at Pleasantville next Saturday. He was accompanied by his wedding party.

Among members of the party were Count Carl Bernadotte of Visborg, elder brother of Miss Manville's fiancé; Countess Marianne Bernadotte of Visborg, Count Carl's wife; Countess Elsa Bernadotte of Visborg, sister; Baroness Sophie Fleetwood, another sister; Prince Gustavus Adolphus, Duke of Vesterbotton and eldest son of the Swedish Crown Prince, who will be Count Bernadotte's best man; Prince Sigvard, Duke of Uppland, second son of the Crown Prince; Count and Countess Bonde, Count Wachmeister, Baron Carl Eric von Platen, Countess Gunhild von Platen, Count Eric von Rosen, Baron Sigfried Raalamb, Lieutenant Gösta Paull, Lieutenant August Enhöring and Lieutenant Lagercrantz.

Manvilles Meet Them at Pier.

They were met at the pier by Miss Manville and her parents, who experienced some difficulty in boarding the liner because they did not have passes. The bridal party will return to Sweden on the Kingsholm on Dec. 8.

Count Folke Bernadotte is a descendant of Jean Baptiste Bernadotte, the former Prince Oscar, second brother of King Gustave V of Sweden. His mother is Ebba Henrietta Munck of Fulkila, who is of noble but not royal birth.

Prince Oscar had to renounce his rights to the throne of Sweden before his marriage and become known as Prince Bernadotte instead of Prince of Sweden. The title of Count or Countess of Visborg by which all his children are known was conferred by the Grand Duke of Luxemburg, a half-brother of their grandmother, the late Queen Sophia.

Count Bernadotte was in great good humor on his arrival. He was photographed and interviewed. When asked what he thought of American women, he said that he did not think that such a question was necessary.

"I've picked one of the best," he said.

The only time that he seemed unwilling to be followed by interviewers was when he strode down the main stairway to greet Miss Manville.

"You are not allowed now," he told reporters and photographers.

Brings Greetings to Reporters.

When his suggestion was disregarded, he laughed heartily and was not annoyed. The other members of his party displayed the same affability. Prince Gustavus Adolphus sought out reporters, instead of waiting to be looked for, and said that his father had sent his regards to them.

"He told me," said the Prince, "that when you asked me who Babe Ruth was I should be sure to know. He thought it was a great joke that he did not know who Babe Ruth was. But of course I know all about him."

Count Bernadotte said that after his marriage he and his bride would return to Sweden, where he would return to his post as a lieutenant in the Royal Horse Guards. He said they would live in a modest apartment but that it would be equipped with a radio, artificial refrigeration and all modern conveniences.

He and his party went from the steamer to the Mayfair House, where they are staying. They will visit the Stock Exchange tomorrow and will be guests of J. P. Morgan at a luncheon. It is probable that they will make a short visit to Washington.

Count Bernadotte and his party occupied boxes 17 and 19 and orchestra seats at the Metropolitan Opera House last night as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Manville, witnessing the performance of "Norma." Before the theatre party the Manvilles entertained at a dinner at Mayfair House.

Ezra Meeker's Condition Grave.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 26 (AP).—The condition of Ezra Meeker, 97-year-old trail-blazer of the Northwest, who is seriously ill at a hotel here, was reported today by physicians as unchanged. Relatives held little hope for his recovery. Only occasionally is he able to speak and then only in a whisper. The pioneer came to the Pacific Coast from Indiana in 1852, arriving in Seattle when it was a tiny settlement. In 1906, on the fifty-fourth anniversary of the hazardous trip, he again traveled over the old Oregon Trail with an ox team and wagon. He made a third trip in 1910, and a few years ago crossed the country by airplane.

TO MEET ON RUHR LOCKOUT.

Owners and Men Will Hold Joint Conference Today.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—The negotiations which District President Bergman resumed separately with the owners and the unions concerning the Ruhr metal lockout this morning will be continued tomorrow in a joint conference.

This is taken as a favorable sign, but whether the optimism is really justified is rather doubtful, in view of the fact that the unions insist that the works be opened immediately.

Three labor unions in a joint letter have warned the employers that they will be held responsible for all the damages caused. The Christian Labor Union, which is generally very moderate, has passed a resolution demanding that the government should take action and pass an emergency law to enforce the reopening of the plants.

The appeals which the industrialists intend to carry to the Supreme State Labor Court at Leipzig against the Duisburg court's finding will probably not be decided before Chirstmas, and if the present negotiations fail over 250,000 workmen's children will look in vain for Santa Claus.

TORAL DECISION FRIDAY.

Mexican Court Will Rule Then on Appeal From Death.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 26.—José de Leon Toral, convicted slayer of President-elect Alvaro Obregon, will know his fate on Friday, that being the date when the Seventh Superior Criminal Court will publish its verdict on his appeal from the death sentence and that of the alleged "intellectual author" of the killings, Madre Concepción de la Llata, from hers of imprisonment for twenty years.

If the appeal is dismissed, the procedure will be for the Judge who tried Toral to transfer the prisoner to the Governor of the Federal District, whose duty it will be to fix the place and time for Toral to face a firing squad.

PHYSICIANS ELECT REGULAR TICKET

"Socialized Medicine" Is Again Rejected in Balloting by the County Society.

DR. STETTEN NEW PRESIDENT

Progressives Claim Gains in the Election—Delegates to State Group Chosen.

The administration ticket won a clean sweep in the election held yesterday by the Medical Society of the County of New York, held at the Academy of Medicine, Fifth Avenue and 103d Street.

Dr. DeWitt Stetten, the administration candidate for president, received 832 votes, whereas the candidtae of the Physicians' Progressive League, Dr. A. J. Rongy, had only 453. For the post of assistant secretary, Dr. J. M. Mabbott received 875; his progressive rival, Dr. Emanuel M. Josephson, 218.

Dr. George W. Kosmak was unopposed for first vice president, Dr. Charles Gordon Heyd for second vice president and Dr. Daniel S. Dougherty for secretary. Those elected as delegates for the State society were Drs. Henry W. Cave, Edward M. Colie Jr., Dr. Ten Eyck Elmendorf, Wallance B. Hamilton, Albert S. Hyman, William Z. Jerome, Samuel Kleinberg, Henry S. Patterson, Henry K. Taylor and Terry M. Townsend. The candidates for other posts were unopposed.

"Socialized medicine" was an issue in the balloting for the second time in the recent history of the medical organization. There were, all told, 1,285 votes cast, a decrease of 600 from the last election. The Progressives pointed out last evening that their decrease was only 100 votes, showing that they had gained ground against the Conservatives. The latter said, however, that they had not mustered their full strength.

The Progressive League has made its campaign on a platform favoring study of economic status to remedy "economic maladjustment," opposition to public pay clinics and foundations, and the employment of legal steps to curb such agencies.

The administration made its plea to the members on the basis of its record, pointing out that "It is the 'conservative' county society which has initiated and carried out every current movement to align the medical profession with the economic and social trends of the day."

A report of the committee on civic policy, of which Dr. Samuel J. Kopetzky is chairman, characterized fee-splitting as "one of the most vexatious and persistent evils with which society is called upon to deal. While in some instances," the report continued, "it is undoubtedly a manifestation of economic stress, in others it is equally indubitably the product of ill-controlled commercialism and greed.

A questionnaire bearing on this topic was supplied to the physicians as they balloted. It was deposited unsigned in a separate ballot box and asked for information on income, whether or not the physician believed that his income was affected by "dispensaries, pay clinics, life extension institutes, compensation bureaus, and health clinics as at present conducted," an opinion on fee-splitting, an opinion on whether the family physician receives adequate pay and also whether he should be associated in the treatment of a case sent to a hospital by a consultant.

GIVES SIX-MONTH TERM TO HIT-AND-RUN DRIVER

Court Also Imposes $100 Fine on Motorist Who Ran Into Mounted Policeman.

The drastic penalty of six months in the workhouse and $100 fine was imposed on a hit-and-run driver yesterday by Chief Magistrate McAdoo. The man sentenced was Harry D. Singer, 29 years old, of 231 Lincoln Place, Brooklyn, whose automobile ran into Mounted Patrolman Edwin C. Johnson of Traffic A at Ninth Avenue and Fortieth Street last Saturday.

Johnson's mount was pushed against an elevated pillar and the patrolman was thrown to the pavement. He was taken to New York Hospital, suffering internal injuries and a wrenched back. He appeared in court today with a cane.

Singer was charged with having continued on his way after the accident, but was overtaken at Ninth Avenue and Thirty-ninth Street by several patrolmen. In Singer's car, the police said, they found ten five-gallon jugs of alcohol.

RECEPTION OPENS ART SHOW

Academy of Design Reverts to Old Custom in Winter Exhibition.

The National Academy of Design opened its Winter exhibition last night with a reception at the galleries of the American Fine Arts Society, 215 West Fifty-seventh Street. In opening the show with a night reception the academy has gone back to an old custom. For the last three decades the custom has been to inaugurate the exhibit with a reception on the afternoon of varnishing day.

Several thousand guests were received by Cass Gilbert, president of the academy, and the council. The four galleries occupied by the exhibition contain more than 400 paintings, sculptures, drawings, etchings, engravings and prints by members of the academy, associates and nonmembers. The exhibition will be open to the public from today until Dec. 16, from 10 A. M. to 6 P. M. on week days and from 1:30 to 6 P. M. on Sundays. On Mondays there will be no admission charge.

MAYOR BUYS HEALTH SEAL

Public Sale of Christmas Stickers to Begin on Friday.

Mayor Walker purchased yesterday in the City Hall the first Christmas seal the New York Tuberculosis and Health Association. He bought it from Miss Dorothy Gish, motion picture star.

John W. Evans, 72 years old, who designed and engraved the 1927 and 1928 Christmas seals, witnessed the sale and posed for a photograph with the Mayor and Miss Gish. He is said to be one of the few surviving master exponents of the art of wood engraving and his works of art have been exhibited in the principal art centres of this country and Europe. The public sale of the Christmas seals will be begun next Friday.

ROOSEVELT URGES LOCAL TAX SAVINGS

Declares More Efficiency by Towns and Counties Essential to Farm Relief.

SAYS STATE LEADS WAY

But Adds It Will Assume No Bigger Burden Unless It Is Met Half Way.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 26.—Reorganization of town and county government in New York State must be pushed through in connection with farm relief, Franklin D. Roosevelt asserted here today, after reading newspaper accounts of suggestions for relieving the rural tax burden offered last Saturday at the conference of agricultural experts he had called in New York.

The Governor-elect pointed out that the suggestions, not to all of which he subscribes to the last detail, called for the transfer to the State of a larger share of public expenditures to provide one way of helping the farmer. But this saving, he added, must be met by the establishment of more efficient town and county government.

Mr. Rosevelt, in effect, asserted that, if the State helped the farmer, the farmer and the resident of the small community must help themselves by introducing modern and sadly needed economies in their local government. The Governor-elect is said to believe that this will prove a good bargaining point in getting the representatives of rural Republican districts in the hostile Legislature to work with him in carrying through the main features of both programs.

Plans Meeting Upon Return.

"I have read with great interest the newspaper accounts of the conference of farm experts in New York," he said. "I have not yet received the report, which is being forwarded, but I expect it soon. I shall study the tentative recommendations of the conference during the next two weeks and hold a meeting with those who were present, together with possible additions, when I get back to New York.

"There seem to be two general considerations in the suggestions as presented in the newspapers. First, the reduction, in various ways, of the tax burden in rural communities by transferring a portion of the present local expenditures to the State; and, second, reducing the rural tax burden by lowering the cost of town and county government by putting their work on a more business-like basis.

"It seems obvious that the two general proposals go hand in hand. We have, as a State, taken the lead in placing government on a business-like basis. Anyone familiar with the majority of town and county governments in the State knows that a good many millions of dollars could be saved if they, too, were put on the same efficient and business-like basis.

Cooperation Held Essential.

"Every dollar thus saved in town and county government means either a reduction in taxes or more money available for public improvements. The choice rests with the voters of the town or county, and this again is an example of the extension of home rule.

"It is useless to consider having the State assume a larger share of the public improvement program than it now carries, unless the towns and counties go half way in making an equal saving."

FOR ROOSEVELT STATUE.

President of Panama Approves Bill for Memorial.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BALBOA, Nov. 26.—President Arosemena approved today a bill authorizing the erection of a statue of President Roosevelt in De Lesseps Park, the name of which has been changed to Roosevelt Park.

Funds for the erection of the statue will be raised in part by public contributions, the Government paying the rest.

$5,000,000 Voted for Four Incinerator Plants; City Plans to Stop Dumping Refuse at Sea

The Board of Estimate, sitting yesterday in Committee of the Whole, reported out for approval an appropriation of $5,000,000 to defray the cost of purchasing sites and constructing and equipping four new incinerators to be used by the Department of Street Cleaning in Manhattan and the Bronx for the disposal of garbage and refuse in these boroughs.

Two of the incinerators are expected to be located in Manhattan and two in the Bronx. These, together with the five incinerators now in operation and the three others now in course of construction, are expected to take care scientifically of the city's refuse material and to do away with the present objectionable custom of dumping garbage at sea and burning municipal rubbish on Riker's Island.

It is understood that the sites for the new incinerators have been tentatively selected by Street Cleaning Commissioner Alfred Taylor, but they have not yet been approved and their locations have not been disclosed.

At present there are two incinerators in operation in Manhattan and three in Brooklyn. With the three which are being built, also in Brooklyn, the twelve which will eventually be in operation will end the pollution of beaches from refuse dumped at sea, which has been protested repeatedly by the Federal government.

SCENIC SOCIETY FIGHTS CLUB IN PARK CASINO

Opposes Any Lease That Would Close Part of Building to the Public.

The American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society adopted a resolution yesterday opposing the leasing of the Central Park Casino to any persons who would make of it other than a resort for the general public either in the restaurant or in any other part. The action of the society, it was explained, was the outgrowth of a taxpayer's suit brought by Samuel Krengel to restrain Mayor Walker and Park Commissioner Herrick from leasing the casino to the Dieppe Corporation at the expiration of the present lease which is held by C. F. Zittel.

In an affidavit filed recently, Krengel asserted that the present lessee pays a rental of $5,000 under a license granted in 1919, which expires in February, and that $8,500 has been offered by him for a renewal of the lease. This lease, he said, authorizes music and dancing in the park by special permission of the Park Commissioner.

Krengel alleged that as a result of secret negotiations a new lease was to be executed to the Dieppe Corporation at a rental of $8,500 and providing for various forms of entertainment without specific limitations, which would virtually make of the casino a "private club," and exclude the general public from all but one end of the building. Alexander Rose, attorney for Krengel, said last night that briefs in the case will be filed tomorrow with Justice Ingram.

AGREE ON WAR BUDGET.

French Ministers Compromise With Chamber Committee.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—An understanding was reached today between the Finance Committee members and the government over the Ministry of War's budget, which has been one of the sharpest points of controversy in the bill before the Chamber.

The Radical Socialists, who attacked the army and navy credits at their meeting at Angers which upset the former Poincaré Cabinet, announced a meeting tomorrow to determine their action on the question, but the Finance Commission move would indicate that the compromise the government has offered in curtailing a portion of its demands will be accepted and receive the support of the Chamber regardless of the attitude taken by the Radicals.

In the Chamber today the Finance Minister, Henri Chéron, obtained general support in his plea for speeding up the budget discussion. He demanded that the Chamber complete its discussion by Dec. 5 and hold night sessions if necessary to complete the work that has been scheduled.

BRITISH REDS GET ORDERS.

Moscow Instructs Them to Fight Labor Party's Policies.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—If the orders from Moscow are obeyed, the breach between the British Labor party and the British Communist party will be made wider than ever.

A long manifesto embodying orders of the recent world congress of the Communist International to affiliated Communist parties in all parts of the world instructs the British Communist party to conduct a "ruthless struggle against the Labor party" and to "conduct an active struggle against the foreign policy of the government and the Labor party."

Furthermore, British Communists are ordered to make "energetic exposure of the 'industrial peace' with the Fascist chemical king, Mond," and to "lead a strike movement." They are "to fight against intervention in China and against preparations for war against Russia and to support an Indian revolution."

The Communist party in South Africa is instructed to undertake as its central task the organization of the toiling negro masses and to fight against "white chauvinism." It must advocate complete equality for negroes and "organize the peasants for the struggle for an agrarian revolution." Foreign imperialism in all forms is to be fought.

OPERA FOR CHILE AND PERU

Governments Forget Boundary Dispute to Invite Italian Singers.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 26.—Although the Tacna-Arica boundary dispute is still unsettled, the recently restored good feeling between Chile and Peru has developed to such an extent that the two countries are collaborating to bring opera singers to their capitals from Italy next year.

The Chilean Minister of Finance arranged with the Peruvian Ambassador for the formation of an opera company to visit Lima and Santiago in July and August. Both governments agreed to offer contracts in Italy in order to make sure of getting first-rank singers.

The visit to Lima will be made at the time of the Peruvian national feasts and afterward the company will come to Santiago for two months. The Santiago theatre will lend that at Lima complete necessary installations for its season.

FREEZE WITH HEAT — The ELECTROLUX Refrigerator

It costs far less to operate!

The total cost of operating the Electrolux — including both gas and water — averages only $1.50 to $2.75 a month in New York and vicinity

Low operating cost is only one among many advantages of this refrigerator. It has no moving parts to wear out or go wrong. Hence there is no noise or vibration. The freezing action is continuous and free from bother. There's no machinery to oil, to mess with. And as for the life, scientists can see no good reason why the Electrolux should ever give out.

FAR from being a luxury, the Electrolux is the most economical refrigeration system in existence. It gives you constant cold, noiselessly—plenty of pure sparkling ice cubes, at a lower monthly cost than any other refrigerator.

Until you've owned an Electrolux you don't really know what perfect refrigeration is. The Electrolux has no machinery, no moving parts at all. For that reason it is noiseless. A tiny gas flame and a trickle of water do all the work. Cold is produced by the action of the flame upon a freezing-liquid. The action is continuous and entirely automatic. It goes on quite independent of you, once the little flame is lighted.

Discovered by scientists at the Royal University of Technology, Stockholm, Sweden, in 1922, the unique principle of the Electrolux is fast revolutionizing home refrigeration, with many thousands now in use. Today the Electrolux is on sale by hundreds of leading public utility companies in this country. But before adopting the refrigerator, these companies put it to every conceivable sort of test. And in every case the final reports were enthusiastically favorable.

If you are thinking of buying an automatic refrigerator—if you ever hope to own one some day—visit the nearest display room now and see the wide range of models for all sizes of families, and types of kitchens. You'll also see the loveliest color harmonies that ever added tone to modern kitchen decoration—Biscay Blue, Crystal Green, Ivory Tan, and Silver Grey—colors obtained by a new "veiling" process that is exclusive with us.

Prices range from $225 to $550. A small deposit puts the Electrolux in your kitchen and the balance you may pay monthly, a little at a time.

SHANGHAI SCANDAL IN OPIUM REVEALED

Military and Police Chiefs Insinuate Each Other Accepted Bribes From Smugglers.

TRAFFIC ON LARGE SCALE

Rival Squads of Soldiers and Detectives Clash in Making $50,000 Seizure.

By HENRY MISSELWITZ.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 26.—Discovery of a wholesale opium traffic in Shanghai and a scandal in high places in connection with the seizure of a shipment said to be valued at more than $50,000 were revealed today in an announcement that the Nationalist Government had ordered an official inquiry. The Minister of the Interior declared the incident one of the worst in the history of opium-suppression efforts and ordered his agents to conduct an investigation and submit the fullest possible report to the State Council.

The names of responsible military authorities are linked with opium running here and elsewhere. The press this evening gives wide display to the seizure last week of a shipment from the interior on a Yangtse River steamer.

Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang, who is among the leaders seeking enforcement of the opium and prohibition laws, after a conference with members of the government's opium suppression bureau yesterday, announced that a thorough investigation of the case would be instituted forthwith.

The official inquiry was forced after the lifting of the ban on publication of the news of the seizure of an opium shipment Wednesday. Detectives assigned by the military garrison commander of this area to make the seizure clashed with a squad of Chinese police assigned to the same task. The garrison men boarded the river steamer as it was alongside the bund and the detectives boarded it from launches on the other side while it was unloading opium prior to permitting any one to land.

As they were loading the illicit cargo on trucks on the Chinese bund a squad of Chinese police arrived. When they sought to take over the cargo the military men surrounded them, arrested the entire group and forced the police to proceed with the military detectives to headquarters, where after an exciting scene their inspector was placed in jail and the rest of the squad freed.

These happenings came to light today after a meeting of high officials of the city, Kuomitang heads, garrison police and civil authorities. General Hsiung Shih-hui, the garrison commander, and Colonel Tai Shihfu, chief of police activities, whose men form the basis of the inquiry, each has insinuated that the other was involved in opium traffic bribery. Proceedings of the preliminary sessions were not published.

Police allege that only a small portion of the shipment seized reached military headquarters and that the rest was trucked to the foreign settlements and that two garrison detectives were arrested carrying opium.

BRITISH DE-RATING BILL EXPOUNDED TO HOUSE

Ministers Says It Will Lift $120,000,000 Burden From Industry —Rejection Moved.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The government's magnum opus—its de-rating scheme for the relief of industry and the reform of local government—was expounded to an interested House of Commons in a speech lasting two and a half hours by Arthur Neville Chamberlain, Minister of Health, today.

Labor and Liberal critics, with the powerful aid of an important section of the British popular press, have been working up public opinion against the bill. After Mr. Chamberlain's speech, however, which was in the nature of a personal triumph, its passage appeared likely to be a good deal easier.

Exhibiting some of the remarkable dialectical skill of his famous father, the Minister pointed out that most of the provisions of the bill merely carried out the recommendations made by Joseph Chamberlain and other experts, at intervals during the last forty years. English local government, he said, was half a century out-of-date. Among the results of its anachronisms were the injustices of the rating system, which was slowly strangling industry and agriculture, and the chaos in the relationship of local to national finance, which resulted in the poorest local authorities receiving the least help and in a gross overlapping of functions, he said.

The relief of industry by lowering the rates was neither a subsidy nor a bribe, but an act of justice, since under the present system a factory might be heavily taxed though it was steadily losing money, the Minister continued. The rates were actually ruining industry and dragging down local government by drying up its sources of revenue.

The bill would lift a burden of $120,000,000 from industry as a whole and $90,000,000 from the more depressed industries, Mr. Chamberlain declared.

LONDON, Nov. 26 (Canadian Press).—After Mr. Chamberlain had moved the second reading of the Government's bill embodying the final stage of the de-rating scheme, a Labor amendment to reject the bill was introduced and was also supported by Liberal members of the House.

The debate, which was adjourned until tomorrow, will last three days.

WIDOW DEFENDS HUSBAND'S SLAYER

Mrs. Beatin, at Baltimore, Says She Warned Ledbetter They Would Be Killed.

LETTERS IN POLICE HANDS

She Wrote New Jersey Man Affection for Some One Else Caused Their Separation.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md. Nov. 26.—Conflicting stories as to circumstances of the fatal shooting of Thomas J. Beatin when he ca" d on his wife at the apartment of Frederick Ledbetter are being investigated by the police.

Mrs. Betty Beatin, the widow, stood firm in defending Ledbetter, declaring he shot because she told him her husband, who forced his way into the apartment, would kill both of them.

The police reported the discovery of evidence showing, they said, that Beatin had no intention of killing his wife or Ledbetter, and no weapon was found when his body was examined.

Beatin came to Baltimore to take his wife and child to his home, at Roselle Park, N. J. When he learned that his wife had not returned to her apartment after visiting Roselle Park last Thursday, he told Mrs. Catherine Seeger he was going to her and ask her and Ledbetter to agree to let him have a divorce, it was said.

Police Have Wife's Letters.

Mrs. Seeger, with whom Mrs. Beatin had left her four-year-old son, said Beatin told her he would not do anything rash, but would only go to Ledbetter's apartment to get evidence he would require in a divorce suit.

Police obtained letters which Mrs Beatin left behind at her Catonsville apartment for her husband. The letters say, in part:

"Tom, I am sorry, but I can't go through with this. My heart is breaking, and I am almost crazy. I love somebody else, and I can't live with you, loving some one else.

"Though I hate to hurt you, I can't bring my love back to you. Please forgive me and forget, and do what is right for junior's sake. Because I love him, too, and would give the world to have him, but I know that is asking too much of you. Only, please, do not leave him away from you, as you know he ought to have one of us with him all the time.

"I do hope with all my heart you will understand. Just think how much you love me. Well, that is how much I love some else. If I have to live without him, then I am going to die. I never will be happy."

Reconciliation Seemed Success.

Special to The New York Times.

ROSELLE PARK, N. J., Nov. 26.—Thomas G. Beatin, 26 years old, who was shot and killed by Frederick Ledbetter, in whose apartment he surprised his wife yesterday in Baltimore, had planned to bring his wife and child here for Thanksgiving after a reconciliation which friends said was effected last week. The couple had been estranged for two years.

Beatin, who was assistant to the manager of the Roselle Park Theatre, had been sleeping in the theatre to save money to bring his wife and child to Roselle Park. After a visit to Baltimore last week, when the reconciliation is reported to have taken place, he rented a small apartment and furnished it for his family. A week ago Mrs. Beatin came to Roselle Park and from all outward appearances the reconciliation was a success, friends say. Mrs. Beatin left Friday for Baltimore.

W. R. MEAD'S ESTATE BEQUEATHED TO WIFE

Morrow Named as Executor—Luther's Widow Chief Beneficiary.

His widow receives all the estate of about $350,000 left by William R. Mead, New York architect, it was revealed yesterday when Mr. Mead's will was filed with Probate Clerk Killoran in the Surrogate's Court. Dwight W. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico, named as executor, has applied to Surrogate O'Brien for the appointment of an administrator to aid in settling the estate because his diplomatic duties will prevent his doing the work alone.

Mrs. Olga K. Mead, the widow, is in the American Hospital in Neuilly, France, where she is suffering mental shock. Mr. Mead, who was a partner in the firm of McKim, Mead & White, died in Paris on June 20.

The will of Edward Staats Luther, President of the Industries Development Corporation of 21 East Fortieth Street, was filed for probate yesterday, naming his wife, Harriet Lewis Luther of 322 Central Park West as the chief beneficiary. Mr. Luther died on Nov. 18.

Justice Keogh's Will Filed.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 26.—The will of Martin J. Keogh, for twenty-eight years Supreme Court Justice in the Ninth Judicial District, who died at 628 Pelham Road, New Rochelle, Oct. 24, was filed today with the Surrogate of Westchester County. To his son, Martin J. Keogh Jr. of 628 Pelham Road, New Rochelle, was bequeathed $45,000, with a stipulation that the executors deduct $29,000, the value of real estate he had deeded to his son before his death. The rest of the estate goes to the widow, Mrs. Katherine E. Keogh.

F. W. STEVENS LEFT $801,679

The estate of Frederic W. Stevens, retired banker, who died Jan. 20, last, was appraised yesterday at $861,846 gross and $801,679 net, of which $786,203 was in securities. He gave to his widow, Alice C. Stevens of 925 Park Avenue, a life interest in $662,295 until their daughter, Frederica S. Auerbach, is 21 years old, and thereafter two-thirds of the income. The daughter gets all the income upon the death of her mother and if she leaves children they will inherit the principal. If she has no children half the $662,295 will go to Yale and the other half to the decedent's children by a previous marriage. They are Joseph Sampson Stevens, Mrs. Frederick Allen, the Countess des Monstiers-Merinville and the Countess Orlowska.

At the time of his death, at the age of 88 years, Mr. Stevens had served fifty-seven years as a director of the Chemical National Bank, longer than any other bank director in the United States.

Mrs. Armour Left $656,998.

Mrs. Jane Livingston Armour, widow of Herman O. Armour, member of the family of meat packers, left an estate valued at $656,998 gross and $597,445 net, according to the appraisal filed yesterday by Deputy Tax Commissioner Stephenson. She died Feb. 22.

Of $111,000 in bequests to charitable and religious organizations, the largest was $50,000 to the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions. The Board of National Missions of the same church got $20,000. The New York Mission Society got $25,000, and $10,000 went to Presbyterian Hospital. The rest of the estate went to relatives, friends and employes.

Hart Lyman, editor-in-chief of The New York Tribune from 1906 to 1913, who died Oct. 30, 1927, left an estate appraised yesterday at $67,139 gross and $62,436 net, which was divided equally among his daughters Katherine L. Steele and Marion L. Stebbins, and his son, Huntington Lyman. The assets consisted of $1,748 in cash, personal effects worth $955, silverware valued at $313, a loan to his son amounting to $1,000 and $54,543 in securities, which included 200 shares of the Lyman Brothers Company valued at $30,000. The sum of $2,859 was due him from the estate of Erastus Lyman.

He Says City May Be on Transcontinental Air Route—Denies Rumor of Engagement.

Special to The New York Times.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 26.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh reached here today after a non-stop flight from San Antonio, Texas. He will take off in the morning for New York and hopes to reach Curtiss Field some time in the afternoon.

He denied reports that he was engaged to be married to Miss Elizabeth Morrow, daughter of the Ambassador to Mexico. He said that the hunting trip in Mexico, from which he has just returned, was a huge success.

"Game was plentiful and I had a great time", the flier said. "I met some fine folks and renewed friendships with a lot of fellows I knew down there. Mexico is a great country and will some day be a lot greater than it is now".

The Colonel said that Memphis will probably be on a "zapper" air line, operated by the Transcontinental Air Transport Company and joining the transcontinental air route at Kansas City.

"I had a fine trip over from San Antonio," he went on. "There were no storms, just fine flying weather. I came through in six hours and didn't have to burn up the motor doing it.

"There may be a fog in the morning. If that is so I will be delayed taking off but I hardly expect it. There is no indication of such a condition in the weather reports.

As usual the Colonel is flying alone. He is piloting a big Curtiss Falcon. This ship was given him to replace the plane in which two of his friends died in September when caught in a dense fog over the mountains of Eastern Pennsylvania.

LEONARD FLO STARTS CANADA-CUBA FLIGHT

Former Mail Pilot Expects to Land at Havana Inside 20 Hours.

WALKERVILLE, Ont., Nov. 26 (AP).—Leonard Flo of Ann Arbor, Mich., former army and air mail pilot, took off from the Walkerville airport in a Spartan biplane at 11:07 tonight on an attempted non-stop flight from Canada to Havana.

Flo hoped to complete the flight over an 1,800-mile route in eighteen to twenty hours. He planned to fly over Dayton, Cincinnati, Atlanta, Tampa, Key West and across the 140 miles of water to Camp Columbia, Havana.

His plane, a three-passenger ship powered by a Wasp nine-cylinder motor, carried 225 gallons of gasoline, which was expected to give him a 20-hour cruising range at 100 miles an hour. It was equipped with the latest type of navigating instruments. The plane is owned by Flo, who said he was financing the undertaking in the interest of aeronautics.

Accompanied by Austin F. Bement, an advertising man, Flo attempted a similar flight in a cabin monoplane last January and was forced down at Parris Island, S. C., by heavy fogs and adverse flying conditions. He served with the First Pursuit Group of army fliers at Selfridge Field in 1924 and 1925, and for a year flew the mails between Atlanta and Miami, Fla.

The all-year-round Thanksgiving that your help can bring to thousands . . . .

WON'T YOU ENJOY your Thanksgiving dinner more if you know that through your help hundreds like this boy have been made happy?

ONLY a few weeks ago you would have said that nobody in the world had less to be thankful for than Tony.

"Heading on fast for tuberculosis," the doctors said—and took Tony to one of the 59 non-municipal hospitals in New York where people like Tony are given free medical care.

And on Thanksgiving day, Tony is going to sit up in his white bed—all washed and brushed and combed for the occasion—and for the first time in his life is going to taste turkey.

All because throughout this big city there are people who can't sit down happily to their Thanksgiving dinners until they have done what they can to bring Thanksgiving to others less fortunate than themselves.

Every year at Thanksgiving time you are given an opportunity to help with this work.

And how better could you give thanks for the blessings that have come to you during the year than by helping to bring to thousands the greatest of all blessings—health?

The great doctors and surgeons give their services free—but more beds are needed, and food and medicines, and all the numberless supplies required for the care of the sick.

There is no way to carry on this work except by voluntary contributions to the fund, established for the purpose and managed by New York's leaders of business and professional life.

DR. HIBBEN DEPLORES COOLIDGE NAVY PLEA

Is Distressed by 'Challenge to World With an Aggressive Attitude of Superiority.'

FEARS SENATE ON TREATY

Princeton President Talks to 1,000 Jersey Clubwomen, Who Urge Unreserved Ratification.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 26.—President Coolidge's armistice anniversary address, in which he advocated more cruisers for the navy as required by "world standards of defense eliminating all competition" and recommended restriction of financial advances to European nations, was criticized here today by Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton University, as "a challenge to the nations of the world, with an aggressive attitude of superiority."

Dr. Hibben, who spoke before 1,000 representatives of women's clubs from every section of New Jersey, declared that "if war comes involving this country it will not be because of aggression by America, but it may come because of the attitude of the American people toward the other peoples of the world." He compared the American motto, "America first," to the German motto "Deutschland uber Alles," and said that the only reasonable excuse for putting America first was to put it first in the movement toward peace and international understanding rather than toward self-aggrandizement.

"The most forward-looking step toward peace," Dr. Hibben asserted, "has been the Kellogg treaty. The only element of pessimistic doubt in my mind is what the Senate will do. The Senate is in the habit of making reservations. If it makes reservations with the Kellogg pact, such as will show that it is not really behind the Secretary of State, the resulting effect will be most unfortunate."

Distressed by National Attitude.

"I am distressed," he said, "when I hear that America is sending out, even on Armistice Day, a challenge to the nations of the world with an aggressive attitude of superiority. We must learn as a nation, as well as individually, what the Lord requires of us. That is to do justice, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with our God. At present we are not walking humbly with our God, nor before the nations of the earth. We are like the Oriental despot who said: 'Is not this great Babylon which I have builded?' And the record states his kingdom was taken from him."

Bruce Bliven, another speaker, asserted that the future of the Kellogg pact would have a pronounced effect on the future of humanity. "If the United States will ratify the Kellogg pact," he said, "the rest of the world will. Responsibility for the pact lies strictly in America. Europe and Latin America are waiting to see what the United States will do."

Although expressing the opinion that the chances that the treaty will be ratified are good, Mr. Bliven made a plea for more widespread public endorsement of the pact. "If we do not now ratify this treaty," he said, "we will have done the most irreparable harm to our moral prestige that can be conceived for the next generation. If we fail, the Europeans will wipe their hands clean of us and with good reason. Failure to ratify would be the greatest impetus for war in a hundred years."

Dean Alden Alley of the New Jersey Law School, who spoke on public responsibility for the preservation of peace, warned that "on pledge ever settled anything unless the people who take it, back it up by action."

Regrets International Anarchy.

"Americans," he said, "are anarchists in the realm of international affairs. Anarchy will not work in New Jersey, in the United States, nor in the community of nations. We have got to create a world legislature, a world court and a world police force. We can't lecture other nations on their shortcomings and our virtues. We can't talk about 'God's own country' or we will lose all our friends. 'Charity vaunteth not itself.' It is not puffed up. A swelled head is a bad thing to have."

Mrs. Robert E. Speer of New York, who spoke also, declared that the old standards have gone forever, and said the only thing that can make the world safe today is good will. "There is a groove in human thinking," she said, "which we have got to get out of before we stop taking for granted this collective murder which we call war. It is only by eternal vigilance that we can create peace. The problems of the world will be solved not on battlefields but by patience, good-will and the World Court. Hatred means worship, not of God, but of the devil."

Other speakers were Professor Edwin W. Kemmerer, who will go to China next year as financial adviser to the Chinese Government; Walter Van Kirk of the Federal Council of Churches, the Rev. Gill Robb Wilson, former national chaplain of the American Legion, and Miss Josephine Schain of the National Committee on the Cause and Cure of War.

A resolution, copies of which signed by the clubs represented and their affiliated organizations, 450 in all, will be sent to Secretary Kellogg and Senator Borah, urging ratification of the Kellogg pact without reservations, was adopted at the meeting.

LIFE SAVER "PUNISHED."

Unemployed German Loses Dole by Giving Blood and is Left to Starve.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—Because he gave a half-pint of his blood to save a child, Friedrich Fuchs, a Berlin working man, has been sentenced practically to starvation. The hero, who has been unemployed since August, recently voluntarily offered at the Kaiser Friedrich Children's Hospital to submit to a blood transfusion when informed that a 13-year-old boy would surely die unless somebody gave his blood to him.

After the transfusion, which weakened Herr Fuchs enormously, the hospital authorities paid him 40 marks, or less than $10. Although this was not even sufficient to restore his strength, the board charged with the care of the unemployed canceled his weekly dole, holding that he had earned money while out of work.

Herr Fuchs is still without means of support.

COOLIDGE ON COURT SURPRISES BRITONS

ported decision of President Coolidge to renew negotiations for the adhesion of the United States.

It was recalled in official League circles today that the conference of powers in 1926 which accepted all but the fifth American reservation touching on advisory opinions, especially invited the United States to pursue the negotiations, but that since then no official word has come from Washington.

Officials emphasize that the League will welcome an expression of American views and desires.

Switzerland has proposed that the Council define whether unanimity or a majority vote is necessary in the Council in asking for a court opinion. Establishment of the unanimity rule would facilitate American adhesion because the veto privilege, which Washington wants on the court's power to grant these opinions could be rendered effective by giving to the United States the right to vote with the League Council.

But many jurists fear that if the Council's rules are definitely clarified, a majority vote of the Council would be declared to be legally sufficient. They prefer unanimity because advisory opinions frequently possess great political importance and form the basis of the actual settlement of disputes. Meantime, officials express the hope that the United States will be content with the same powers and the same uncertainty accepted by members of the Council.

COURT RESERVATIONS KEPT.

Assent of Signatories to Them Expected to Be Sought.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—While no formal move has been made by the State Department in the interest of clearing the way for American participation in the World Court, the matter will be taken up with President Coolidge by Secretary Kellogg at or after tomorrow's regular meeting of the Cabinet. The prospects appear to be that the President's desire to round out his term by bringing this government into affiliation with the Court will soon take definite form.

What method will be followed in exchanges with the nations which have adhered to the court protocol is something that Secretary Kellogg is not yet ready to disclose, granted that he has reached a conclusion on the subject.

Mr. Kellogg said that he had not seen the President since the latter disclosed his World Court intentions to a group of Senators on Saturday, and therefore did not care to comment now on the information that an effort was to be made to overcome the obstacle to American adherence to the Court Protocol presented by the Senate reservations.

After he had talked with the President, the Secretary said he probably would have some definite statement to make.

Procedure on Reservations Sought.

With reference to Secretary Kellogg's reticence, which excited comment at first, it was learned that the President had made it plain to his Senatorial visitors that no recent communication on the subject had been received by this Government from any foreign nation.

At the State Department it was explained that no approach from or to any of the Governments which are members of the court had been made recently.

Other information obtained at the State Department was that the World Court impasse had been brought to President Coolidge's attention by Secretary Kellogg from time to time, but that no agreement had been reached to renew exchanges on the subject.

Those interested are hopeful that when Secretary Kellogg sees the President tomorrow at the Cabinet session they will agree upon a method of seeking the assent of the interested governments to the troublesome Senate reservations.

All that was learned today indicated that the President had no other thought in mind than to attempt to persuade these nations to withdraw their objections to the reservations.

Unlikely to Modify Reservations.

A rather widespread opinion among Senators is that there is no likelihood that the Senate will modify any of the reservations to suit the views of foreign Governments, and there is reason to believe that the President has no intention of taking that course.

A pessimistic view of the situation is taken by some of the Senators who participated in Saturday's White House conference. They feel that in view of the animosity produced in Europe by the President's Armistice Day speech, this is not a propitious time to attempt to persuade European powers which subscribe to the court protocol to make concessions to the United States.

Senator Gillett of Massachusetts, author of a resolution calling on the President to reopen the World Court matter with the signatory governments, intends to let the resolution lie dormant in the Committee on Foreign Relations pending the result of the effort to overcome foreign objections to the Senate's reservations.

Explaining the status of the Senate's ratification of the court protocol with reservations, Secretary Kellogg said today that the reservations had been accepted by some nations; many had not answered the original communication of this government submitting the ratifying resolution and some had proposed a new form of agreement.

This government, he said, had not answered these communications. He added that it had been his intention for some time to take up the matter with the governments concerned and that he now expected to do so.

ing war," the Nebraskan declared, "we won't have to build the largest navy in the world. There seems to be an agreement, however, among administration leaders to hold back the treaty until after the Senate has voted on the naval bill."

In the matter of procedure, Chairman Borah of the Foreign Relations Committee and Chairman Hale of the Naval Committee have agreed to a truce whereby they won't wrangle about the position of the peace treaty and the navy measure on the Senate's calendar. Because the navy bill is already on the calendar, as it was approved at the last session by the committee, it has been the belief that it would receive priority.

However, it is expected that President Coolidge will forward the Kellogg Pact to the Senate for its ratification immediately upon the reconvening of Congress next week. It first would go before the Foreign Relations Committee for consideration.

"By Joe! it's good to smoke Luckies."

Felix Count Luckner

"Lucky Strikes? By Joe, yes. Let me tell you. I was cruising in my raider in the South Pacific. It had been damp, rainy weather and every bit of tobacco we had on the ship was mouldy and could not be smoked. We began to be desperate. The men were—what you call—grouchy. Along came an American ship. We captured her and after taking the captain, officers and crew aboard my raider and finding comfortable places for them to stay, I and my officers went over to the captured ship to see if there was anything aboard her that we wanted. We searched her. And what do you think? Under the cushions of a seat in the captain's cabin we found 500 packages of Lucky Strikes! I tore off the end of one and lit it and filled my lungs with it, and By Joe, I was a man again. We had enough for all the crew and we were all cheered up and we all became friends once more. By Joe, I was sorry to sink that American ship that had brought us those smokes. Lucky Strikes, they are wonderful, and my Countess, of course, wishes a fashionable, slender figure. She smokes Lucky Strikes when she is offered fattening sweets. And my life has always been an active one and I must be trim and fit. I love to feel what you Americans call 'peppy.' So no sweets for me. Give me a Lucky Strike instead. By Joe, it's good for us to smoke Luckies."

100 MEN AND 20 SHIPS LOST IN 4-DAY STORM

Furious Seas Along Europe's Coasts Smash Vessels or Sweep Sailors Overboard.

MANY GALLANT RESCUES

AIR ONLY WAY TO FRANCE

Belgian Dikes Collapse — Floods Cause Havoc in France, Holland and Germany.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Although the gale abated on land today, heavy seas are still running around the coasts and numerous S O S calls have been received from vessels in distress. Skippers of vessels reaching ports after battling the huge waves report the worst weather in their memory.

The Cunarder Carinthia, which arrived at Liverpool today, picked up sixteen S O S messages but all were canceled before she altered her course to respond to them.

The White Star liner Cedric, another arrival, reported a rough passage, but got through without damage or appreciable discomfort to the passengers. She also received several S O S calls which were canceled.

Mysterious unfounded reports have been circulated both in London and the Provinces that the White Star liners Olympic and Homeric had sunk. The origin of the reports was not traced when that concerning the Homeric got about yesterday. Many persons, including sobbing women, called at the company's offices at Southampton and were relieved by official assurance that the report was false. The Olympic at noon yesterday was 697 miles east of Ambrose Lightship on her way to England. The owners stated tonight that they had received no news of any mishaps.

Ships Struggle Out to Sea.

Dislocation of shipping in the Mersey during the last four days has been so great that this morning there was a two hours' procession of delayed ships striving to get seaward. Two which succeeded in getting through were the White Star liner Baltic and the Cunarder Antonia, both bound for New York.

The congestion in the river and docks is such that many vessels were compelled to anchor in the stormy waters, with the result that tugs were called upon to assist some which dragged anchors.

The cross Channel services to France and Belgium have been delayed many hours, as Ostend, Calais, Boulogne and Dieppe are unapproachable. The regular services were maintained today, however, by the Imperial Airways. One pilot reported that the mole and piers at Boulogne were covered by great waves and were invisible from the air.

Eighty members of the crew of the German training ship Pommern, which was abandoned near Guernsey yesterday, were brought to Plymouth today by the German tug Heros, which rescued them. They told a thrilling story of how they were saved.

About noon on Saturday, when the Pommern was forty-five miles from Plymouth her three masts came crashing down in rapid succession and with them the wireless was carried away. The Bremen steamer Rhoem, which was standing by, signaled for assistance and the German tug Seaflake rushed from the Lizard to the scene, but attempts at towage only resulted in the Pommern's anchor chain being puller away.

The Seaflake abandoned her attempts and the Pommern began drifting rapidly across the channel. Then the Heros arrived from Plymouth. The skipper persevered and several times was able to get tow ropes aboard the Pommern, but each time the ropes snapped and further efforts had to be postponed until morning. Meantime the Pommern's five lifeboats were smashed and in the morning it was found that water in the hold was rising so rapidly that the only course was to abandon the vessel. The crew were assembled on deck and told to put on their best clothes, fasten their lockers and leave their quarters neat and tidy.

The plucky crew of the Heros then got to work again and after many heartbreaking failures threw a lifeline across the Pommern by a rocket apparatus, and the work of rescue began. The Pommern's crew were pulled in turn through the raging seas for a distance varying from 100 to 300 yards and then the line broke.

The Heros, nothing daunted, got to work again and succeeded in getting another lifeline across, and after more than six hours' strenuous and heroic efforts had landed everybody safely aboard the tug.

The captain and chief mate were the last to leave the Pommern. The mate insisted on remaining until the last as he feared the captain if left alone might be loath to leave the vessel to which he was so devoted.

Widespread Property Loss.

LONDON, Nov. 26 (AP).—The recurring hurricanes which have been scourging the west coast of Europe with ruthless fury for four days had heaped up tonight an appalling list of marine disasters which involved, perhaps, 100 deaths and the loss of a score of vessels of substantial tonnages.

In England the lives lost ashore were no great number, but the property damage was great over wide areas. The shipping intelligence tonight was full of reports of gallant rescues of mariners from angry seas, of abandoned or sunken ships, of unidentified derelicts whose crews may or may not have perished, and of crippled craft crawling perilously toward a safe anchorage.

British lifeboats between Montrose, Forfarshire, Scotland, and Tor Bay, Devonshire, during the past ten days have been launched on thirty-four expeditions and have saved sixty lives from shipwrecks.

The German steamer Flora this afternoon rescued the entire crew of the German steamer Kate Grammerstoft which was in a sinking condition and is now a derelict in the North Sea.

Many ships arriving in port or reporting by radio have told of officers and seamen washed overboard and lost. An Italian steamer, at first reported to be the Segunto but now believed to be the Salento, was wrecked and all aboard were believed lost.

The Italian tanker Lucania, which grounded in the Mersey River on Sunday, lost both anchors, damaged her rudder and was adrift near the bar today. Tugs were rendering assistance.

Waves Crush Belgian Dikes.

There was general and widespread suffering with heavy losses in Belgium along the coast between Ostend and Blankenberg, where at high tide in the afternoon the waves raced over the dikes. The augmented waters of the Scheldt broke their barriers and covered the lowlands. The Antwerp dockside warehouses were seriously damaged and the district on the left bank had been inundated. The entire city was without drinking water.

The rivers Nethe and Rutel had also overflowed in the vicinity of Brion and Terhaegen.

Holland was also ravaged by the winds and large parts of the country were flooded, with the rivers still rising. Along the northwest coast many ships, principally of Scandinavian and German registry, have been in distress. Three men were drowned while the Dutch life-boat President Van Heel was rescuing the crew of the Norwegian steamer Michelsen, which had gone ashore.

The British steamer Nearth Abbey tonight asked immediate help and reported that she was in a dangerous position off West Kapel.

British weather experts tonight believed that the storm had nearly blown itself out and predicted better weather.

Wrecks Strew French Coast.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—Channel services were suspended throughout the day and the liner Lancastria, after going to the aid of the German steamer Pommern, was unable to disembark passengers booked to Havre and went to Southampton without attempting to make the French port.

Toward afternoon the storm abated, but distress signals continued to be heard at Dunkirk station and other points and gales were signalled in the Mediterranean. Predictions of the Weather Bureau indicated resumption of the Atlantic storms within twenty-four hours.

Meanwhile, the list of damage done last night and yesterday in France and other European countries continued to increase. Rain fell steadily and rivers in all parts were rising, threatening serious floods. The State Railroad between Paris and La Rochelle suspended its service on account of washouts, and there were long delays on a line to the Channel, due to washouts near Beauvais.

The American steamer Liberty and the steamers Niagara and Ontario, scheduled to leave Havre today, remained in port.

Word was received from the steamer Marcris that the French ship Amiral Ponty, which was damaged and helpless off Ushant Light yesterday, had been taken in tow by the tug Iroise, but it was believed that she could not reach Brest for another two days. Statements that there were passengers on the Ponty were denied.

Storm Rages in Mediterranean.

PARIS, Nov. 26 (AP).—The destructivr gales that have been raging in the North Atlantic and in the English Channel for the last four days, crippling and wrecking twenty-one craft of all sorts between the Hook of Holland and Cape Finisterre and strewing the French coast with wreckage, were abating tonight.

Coming on the heels of the destruction, however, were floods in several parts of France.

No mail reached Paris from England today, and no ship entered either Boulogne or Calais. The Channel steamer Empress was hurled against a breakwater at Calais and will be laid up for several days for repairs.

The storm in he Mediterranean continues, and all liners from Algiers, Oran and Tunis, which are due in Marseilles, are cruising outside the roads, unable to make port.

Germany Also Suffers Severely.

BERLIN, Nov. 26 (AP).—The storm centre which passed last night across Schleswig-Holstein caused great havoc along the coast line and among the East Frisian Islands. Sylt Island suffered especially, whole parts of it being swallowed by the gigantic waves while the inhabitants were forced to flee for safety to its highest points.

Heligoland also was badly hit. The sea wall was partly torn away and sand dunes were levelled by the mountainous seas which rolled ashore. The northwesterly gale pushed the water up the Elbe River, flooding many low-lying streets in Hamburg, while across the river, in the neighborhood of Neuhaus, thousands of acres were submerged. Many sheep perished.

Cuxhaven Roads was full of disabled shipping. One arriving steamer reported sighting five wrecks in the North Sea.

Many points in Central and Western Germany tonight reported much material damage to dwellings, factories and forests, while telegraph lines were down in many parts. Torrential rains accompanied by winds of gale force were felt especially in the Vosges Hills, in consequence of which the rivers were rising with alarming rapidity.

The Moselle Valley Railway suspended operation as the river and its tributaries rose. Many houses near the banks were being evacuated by the inhabitants. All tributaries of the Rhine were raging torrents. Houses along the banks of the Ruhr at Mulheim were hastily evacuated, while the River Saar was carrying much débris from flooded areas. Shipping on the Saar was at a standstill. The Wupper overflowed its banks and flooded riverside towns.

A heavy rain fell all day long in Berlin, while in the Black Forest a snowstorm has been raging for thirty hours.

...An Important Announcement

to the BUILDING INDUSTRIES

New Jersey Terra Cotta Company
Federal Terra Cotta Company
South Amboy Terra Cotta Company have merged into an organization known as

FEDERAL SEABOARD TERRA COTTA CORPORATION

Three factors, important to every architect, builder or purchaser of architectural terra cotta are outstanding in this corporation:

1. Personnel 2. Plant Capacity 3. Financial Strength

The Officers of the Corporation are:

President	Eckardt V. Eskesen
Chairman, Board of Directors	DeForest Grant
1st Vice-President and Gen. Mgr.	Peter C. Olsen
Secretary and Treasurer	Karl Mathiasen
Vice-President	Harry Lee King
Vice-President	William Mathiasen

Personnel

The individuals in the executive positions have been active in the terra cotta industry for many years and have acquired a comprehensive knowledge of this highly specialized business through prolonged experience and proven ability.

Eckardt V. Eskesen was President and General Manager of the New Jersey Terra Cotta Company for many years. DeForest Grant, founder of the Federal Terra Cotta Company has been its President since its formation. Peter C. Olsen was the General Manager of the South Amboy Terra Cotta Company. Karl Mathiasen, Harry Lee King, and William Mathiasen were, for many years, officers of—and major executives in—their respective companies.

Plant Capacity and Equipment

The factories of the new corporation are located in Perth Amboy, Woodbridge and South Amboy, New Jersey. These plants are modern in all respects. Automatic clay mixing machinery, oil burning kilns, carborundum grinding and truing machines—in fact, every device known for efficiency and expedition in production has been installed. The combined capacity is sufficient to handle contracts of any size.

A staff of ceramists of high standing in the profession and a corps of modelers of recognized artistic ability are maintained permanently. These are some of the elements which contribute to a product which is the standard of merit and of superior quality.

Financial Strength

The capital is 29,000 shares of preferred, and 46,000 shares of common stock. With no outstanding indebtedness, the Corporation is in a strong financial position. It commences operation with large cash resources. No outside financing has been required for the capital structure.

The Crowell Publishing Company made this pledge to the reading public and to advertisers—

"To build a strong weekly publication by means of a brilliant editorial program and avoidance of sensational or temporary methods. In short, to put behind Collier's the same sound policy that has been responsible for the success of the other Crowell publications."

This is what happened: In 1925 Collier's circulation was 1,071,995. In 1926 it was 1,215,960. In 1927 it had risen to 1,416,872. Now it is over 1,750,000—with 750,000 on the newsstands.

Collier's circulation is still climbing to new peaks. Steadily. Soundly. Without artifice. A brave, interesting magazine, edited in the spirit of the times—holding its readers, and attracting new ones—holding advertisers, and attracting new ones.

Collier's is the only large weekly magazine to show a substantial gain in advertising lineage this year.

And advertisers who are now participating in the advantages incident to Collier's stability and steady growth are assured of even greater values in the future.

RASKOB DEFEATED SMITH, SAYS CANNON

Governor's Appointment of the Chairman Cost Him Victory at Start, Bishop Asserts.

FOUGHT HIM ON WET ISSUE

Minister Denies Bigotry—He Refers to Protestants' Attitude in Campaign.

"When Governor Smith had John J. Raskob, who had been a Republican, appointed chairman of the National Democratic Committee he drove the nails into his own coffin and clinched them," Bishop James Cannon Jr. of Richmond, Va., a leader of the anti-Smith Democrats in the recent Presidential campaign, declared in an address before the New York Methodist Preachers' Association yesterday morning in the Methodist Book Concern Building, 150 Fifth Avenue. There were about 500 clergymen present. The Rev. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, who made anti-Smith speeches throughout the South and Middle West, on being discovered in the audience was invited to a seat on the platform. Bishop Cannon's address was punctuated repeatedly with applause. "Some Reflections on the Political Campaign Just Past" was the topic.

"I did not fight James J. Cox and I did not fight John W. Davis because they did not fight us," said Bishop Cannon, meaning by "us" the dry forces of the country. He said he fought Governor Smith because of the message Mr. Smith sent to the National Democratic Convention after he had been nominated declaring his intention to amend the prohibition laws.

Bishop Cannon called false an accusation that he had fought Mr. Smith because the latter was a Catholic, and he declared it was Governor Smith and Mr. Raskob themselves who had injected the religious issue.

"I stated from the beginning that there was no question but what if Governor Smith was nominated it would be impossible to keep the religious issue out of the campaign," said Dr. Cannon. "And when Governor Smith and Mr. Raskob took the stump and denounced Protestant ministers as bigots, I could not allow that thing to go on without giving an answer. I have many Roman Catholic friends, and I love the poems of the Roman Catholic Church. I am not a bigot. I don't shut Roman Catholics out of Heaven. I don't agree with them, but I am not a bigot. But Governor Smith turns to me and accuses me of being a bigot. Yet the one he follows, Pope Pius XI, said in a recent encyclical that if you are not in the Roman Catholic Church or if you go out of it you are strangers to the hope of salvation. And yet Mr. Smith and Mr. Raskob turn to me and brand me as an intolerant bigot. In reply I issued a statement which was printed and distributed on 'Is Southern Protestantism More Intolerant Than Romanism?'"

In speaking of the Methodists in the South, Bishop Cannon said he thanked God that "the Baptists, the Presbyterians, the Disciples and many of the Episcopalians" stood with the Methodists in the fight against Smith. "I could count on my fingers the Protestant ministers in Virginia who did not fight Smith," the Bishop stated.

"After the election I issued a statement to the press, but even as fair a paper as THE NEW YORK TIMES did not print it. They wrote me saying they had already published the gist of it."

Bishop Cannon thereupon read his statement to the audience.

"As this wet Tammany leadership has brought upon the Democratic Party the well-deserved and the greatest defeat in American political history, it is in order for Mr. Raskob to resign at once, that the Democratic Party may be reorganized free from the taint and pollution of wet or Tammany control," said the statement.

DESTROYERS FLEE FIRE AT NEW LONDON PIER

Coast Guardsman Is Missing, but 49 Escape When Flames Reach Gasoline.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 26 (AP).—A coast guardsman is thought to have lost his life, two buildings were razed and twenty destroyers were forced to move out into the harbor tonight, when coast guard headquarters at the Tate Pier were swept by fire which caused an estimated damage of over $100,000.

The fire started in the Canteen building shortly before 10 o'clock and within a few minutes had spread to such an extent that every piece of fire apparatus in the city was pressed into service.

Forty-nine of fifty men who were quartered in one of the buildings are known to have escaped. The other is missing and is thought to have perished in the flames. Six patients in the sick bay, which was in the building with the canteen were carried out on stretchers.

Tongues of flame from the burning buildings swept toward the Coast Guard boats, which were tied up to the pier, and orders were quickly issued to take the boats out into the harbor. Some of them pulled away before the lines were cast off, preferring to break the lines rather than remain in the fire zone.

Quantities of oil and ammunition stored in one of buildings added to the hazards and when the flames reache the stores explosion folowed explosion and rivers of burning oil ran down the pier and into the harbor.

The appointment was announced yesterday by Dr. Bernard Revel, president of the faculty.

BATTALION OF SAILORS WILL QUIT NICARAGUA

Wilbur Says No Further Movement Is Planned Until After Moncada's Inauguration.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The battalion of bluejackets consisting of 277 enlisted men and forty-nine officers which was ordered to Nicaragua on July 12 to assist in supervising the presidential election has been withdrawn, and will return to the United States on the transport Vega and Kanawha, the Navy Department announced today. The Vega will proceed to San Diego and the Kanawha to San Pedro.

Secretary Wilbur said further withdrawals of forces will await recommendations from ranking naval and marine officers in Nicaragua, but that it is probable no considerable movement will be made to the United States before the inauguration of General José Maria Moncada as President in January.

RHODES MEN WIN HONORS.

Trust Reports Distinctions Gained by Scholars in Oxford and Outside.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—A list of distinctions won by Rhodes scholars at Oxford and the mention of several former Rhodes scholars who have become prominent in public life are features of the annual report of the Rhodes Trust. This inevitably recalls recent American criticism of the part played by Rhodes scholars in postgraduate life.

Among those who have won distinctions in Oxford are the following Americans: J. F. Fulton, Minnesota '21, a research fellowship in natural science at Magdalen College; N. L. Crone, Iowa '25, senior demyship at Magdalen College, and R. J. Van de Graaff, Alabama '25, Taberdarship at Queens College.

F. M. Morley, Maryland '19, received a post-graduate fellowship of the John Simon Guggenheim foundation for a study of the operation of the League of Nations. J. J. Tigert, Tennessee '04, recently United States Commissioner of Education, has been appointed president of the University of Florida. S. K. Hornbeck, Colorado '04, has been appointed chief of the Division of Far Eastern Affairs in the State Department at Washington.

Ninety-three American Rhodes scholars are in residence this year.

TURKS PLAN BACHELOR TAX.

Angora Reported Concerned Over Big Drop in Population.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 26.—An Angora dispatch reports that Parliament expects to follow Premier Mussolini in taxing bachelors. Since polygamy was abolished bachelors and spinsters have multiplied, partly on account of economic pressure, though formerly failure to get married, even in the poorest Turkish families, was regarded as a disgrace.

Angora is concerned over the situation, for the census taken last November, giving a total of 14,000,000, showed Turkey to be seriously under populated. Owing to past continued warfare within and without the Turkish empire and also as a result of the World War the number of females was shown slightly to exceed the number of males. A measure to tax bachelors is likely to be proposed during the Winter session which has now begun.

A SPECIAL WINTER GRADE OF KOOLMOTOR

The original green gas

SCIENCE has developed a new type of gasolene to meet the trying conditions of cold weather driving.

It is a Special Winter Grade of Koolmotor—the original green gas.

Years of testing, research and experimentation are behind this development, the latest of a long line of discoveries made by scientists who are constantly seeking progressive improvements in the products and services of the Cities Service organization. $1,000,000 a year is expended in this research work.

Before it was offered to the public Koolmotor Winter Gasolene was subjected to the severest tests under all conditions.

It is a special scientific distillation of high test, anti-knock Koolmotor, the green-tinted gasolene that was introduced with great success more than a year ago.

In cold weather your engine is even more likely to become overheated than in warm weather. Koolmotor, as its name suggests, is a gasolene so processed that it helps to keep your engine at the proper temperature in winter as well as in summer. And every motorist knows the trouble and cost that can be caused by overheating of his motor.

It is a winter stimulant to your carburetor. It injects youthful action into the pistons and cylinders. It revivifies the whole engine.

How many times have you wished that your car would perform in cold weather as it does in the milder seasons?

How many times have you wished that someone would invent something to relieve you of the troubles that commence with the first nip of frost and continue to bother you until the first leaves appear on the trees—the hesitant start—the loafing pickup—the labor on the hill?

Your wish has been fulfilled. Petroleum science has responded to your needs by the development of this new Winter gasolene.

There is nothing better you can do for your car—and your own contentment while driving—than to fill your tank with Koolmotor Winter Gasolene at one of the easily-identified green and black pumps. After that you won't be satisfied with anything else—you will understand why many a motorist is willing to drive miles out of his way, if need be, to fill his tank with Koolmotor.

KOOLMOTOR — the original high-test anti-knock green gas—is a pure petroleum product. It is tinted green for your protection. Because the health and vitality of your engine are at stake, beware of imitations.

The reason for the new Chevrolet

A STATEMENT of General Motors' policy
by ALFRED P. SLOAN, JR., President

THERE is an attitude in General Motors which is characterized by the phrase: "Facts and the Open Mind." It accepts nothing as final. It welcomes every new idea, and—by incessant research and test—produces continuous progress.

This attitude extends throughout our organization. In every division there is continuous improvement. And these improvements are not held back from the public. When they are proved they are passed on promptly.

The New Chevrolet is a superb example. During the first nine months of 1928 more than 1,000,000 Chevrolets were sold—a record for all time. Never were models more popular. Never was there a business which could have gone forward more safely without any material change.

Yet we have made a most sweeping change. Having passed the million mark in Chevrolet production, we were able to realize the dream of years: a six-cylinder car, with Fisher Body style, within the price range of the four.

There was no question of waiting for the current models to exhaust their appeal. The improvements were possible. The public had made them possible by the volume of its patronage. The public was entitled to the improvements promptly.

This is the spirit which lies behind the New Chevrolet. It is more than a 6-cylinder car. It is a wholly new creation. It is the triumph of a policy built upon a keen realization that the most valuable asset in business is continuous good-will.

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr.
President.

DEMOCRATS ELECT LEADER IN QUEENS

John Theofel, Deputy County Clerk, Is Selected to Succeed Mason O. Smedley.

HIS TERM EXPIRES JAN. 1

But Probably Will Be Permanent Chairman if He Reconciles Opposing Factions.

John Theofel of Flushing, for years an active member of the Queens County Democratic organization, was chosen yesterday chairman of the executive committee of the Queens County Democratic Committee at a meeting at Democratic headquarters in the Crescent-Plaza Building. The new leader, who succeeds Mason O. Smedley, resigned, will serve until Jan. 1, when a new executive committee meets. It was generally conceded that Mr. Theofel would be its choice as permanent county leader provided he succeeded in reconciling the present conflicting factions.

Facing the task of a general reorganization of the Democratic machine, which has been threatened by the recent election of Alderman George U. Harvey as Borough President, Mr. Theofel announced yesterday that he would call a meeting of the committee shortly after Thanksgiving. At this meeting the Assembly districts will be divided into executive districts, to comply with the new committee rules calling for eight instead of six executive members. The date and places of meetings of the Assembly district groups for the purpose of electing executive members also will be set.

Insurgent Fails to Get a Vote.

Mr. Theofel's competitors for the committee leadership were Register Peter J. McGarry of Long Island City and Albert C. Benninger, leader of the strong insurgent faction in the Ridgewood district. Mr. Theofel won over Register McGarry by a vote of 19 to 13, Mr. Benninger failing to get a single vote. All but four of the executive committee members attended the meeting.

Under the new rules adopted by the committee in October complete reorganization must be effected by Jan. 1, with executive committee members elected by the county committee instead of being appointed by the executive chairman as in the past. The new chairman faces the task of welding together the factions created by the split which followed the sewer scandal exposure and the ensuing primary contests.

A Deputy County Clerk.

Mr. Theofel is 56 years old, married and lives at 60 Farrington Street, Flushing. He was born in Manhattan and educated in its public schools, moving to Flushing in 1903 to enter the hotel business. For the past twelve years he has been the leader of the northern part of the Fourth Assembly District. He was appointed a Deputy County Clerk on Feb. 1, 1918, and was reappointed the following year, when Edward W. Cox succeeded Alexander Dujat as County Clerk. He has continued to hold that office under Mr. Cox without interruption. For the past eleven years Mr. Theofel has served as treasurer of the Democratic county campaign committee.

Although an active party worker under the régime of former Borough President Connolly, Mr. Theofel was not closely associated with him and no objection on that ground was raised against his election yesterday.

BYNG SCARES NIGHT CLUBS.

Six Owners Leave England Following Scotland Yard Drive.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The campaign launched by Viscount Byng of Vimy, new head of Scotland Yard, against night clubs serving liquor after midnight, had two consequences today. Six alien proprietors of night clubs left England hurriedly, partly through the fear that Scotland Yard had driven away their customers and partly through fear of prosecution and ultimate deportation.

More bogus night clubs, operating on a capital of $350 and a cocktail shaker, have been forced to close down.

Former Police Sergeant George Goddard was brought before a magistrate today on a charge of accepting a $300 bribe from the manager of a night club near Piccadilly. Bail was refused and Goddard was remanded for a week in jail pending his trial.

The former sergeant's friends insist he has a "perfect answer" to the charges, but the case is regarded by Lord Byng's associates as a test of the new régime at Scotland Yard.

DUNEDIN, FLA., HAILS BYRD.

Joins New Zealand Town in Good-Will for Expedition.

Special to The New York Times.

DUNEDIN, Fla., Nov. 26.—The rejoicing that greeted Commander Richard E. Byrd and his companions when they reached Dunedin, New Zealand, was echoed here today.

The Chamber of Commerce dispatched a cabl emessage which read: "Commander Richard Byrd, Dunedin, New Zealand:

"Dunedin, Florida, joins Dunedin, New Zealand, in hailing your expedition and extending best wishes for your courageous venture.

"DUNEDIN (FLORIDA) CHAMBER OF COMMERCE."

Port Post Open for Smith.

Should Governor Smith decide to accede to the wishes of some of his friends and accept appointment to the Port of New York Authority after the expiration of his term, Governor-elect Roosevelt can appoint him immediately after he takes office on Jan. 1, as a vacancy now exists. It was erroneously stated in yesterday's TIMES that the term of Herbert K. Twitchell would expire on July 1 next. Mr. Twitchell died on July 11 last, and the vacancy has not been filled.

STORE TO PRESENT HOLIDAY PAGEANT

Santa Claus to Be Welcomed to City Thursday in Macy's Spectacle.

BALLOON RACE IS PLANNED

"Red Star Princess" and Her Court Will Be Featured in Parade on Broadway.

Santa Claus will be welcomed to this city for the holiday season in a parade to be staged by R. H. Macy & Co., Inc., on Thanksgiving Day. Tony Sarg is the designer of the street pageant, which will be the fifth annual Macy's Christmas parade. The line of march will be down Broadway from 110th Street to Thirty-fourth Street, the time being from 1 to 3 P. M.

A feature will be the release into the sky, at the end of the parade, of five gigantic figures. Fantastic and comical, these figures are built around helium-inflated balloons as bodies. They will include a blue elephant, a sixty-foot tiger and a plumed bird, measuring fifty feet from beak to tail. Another will be "an early bird," also of heroic size, which will carry its own worms. A "ghost," twenty-five feet high, will be the fifth.

The figures are expected to rise 2,000 to 3,000 feet and are timed by a slow leak to stay aloft for a week or ten days. By then it is expected that they will have alighted in various parts of the country. Macy's is offering a reward of $100 for the return of each of them.

Also participating in the parade will be five other huge figures, which, however, will be filled only with air and will not be released. One figure required fifty yards of sateen to make his trousers alone. He will act as escort to the "Lady of the Harem," who will ride in an Oriental barouche surrounded by a retinue. The biggest goldfish ever seen will be a thirty-five foot specimen rolling along in the parade.

The figures serve as the prelude to the appearance of the "Red Star Princess" and her twenty maids. She will be followed by Santa Claus, who will ride on a "house top" float, loading his chimney with toys.

Santa Claus at the end of the march will give the signal for the unveiling of Macy's Christmas window spectacle—"The Exploits of Columbus."

Music will be supplied by three bands—the Twenty-second Engineers' and those of the Twenty-third and Seventy-first Regiments. In the event of rain the parade will be called off.

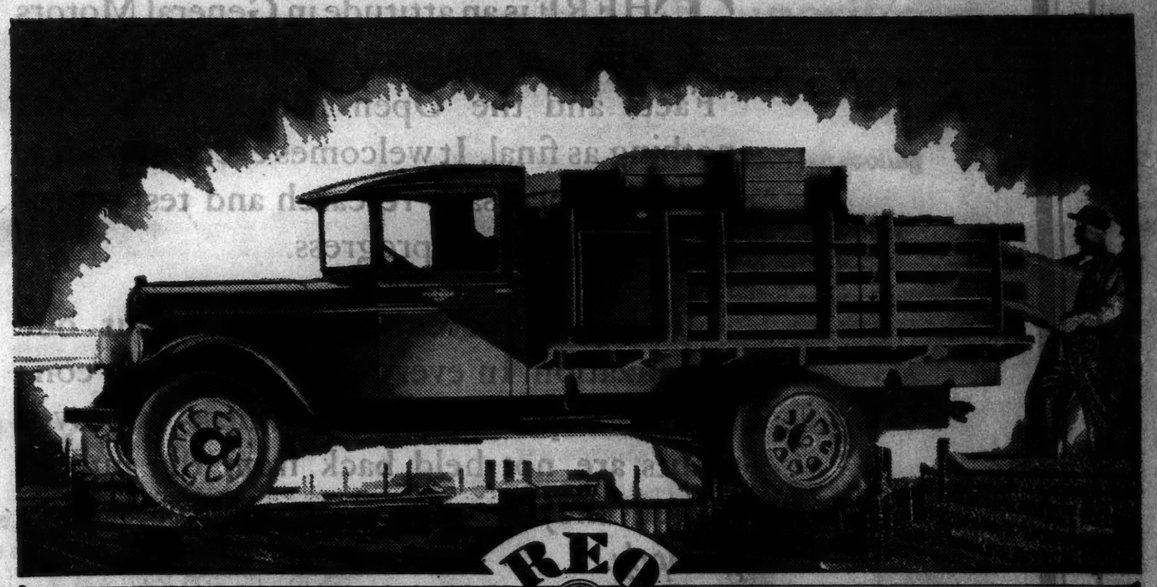
Do This Before You Buy

Check for These Three Points Which Experts Say Govern Hauling and Delivery Costs

1 Ample power for weight—for swift acceleration—ability to meet all traffic needs.

2 Hydraulic 4-wheel internal brakes—for safety to public, driver, owner, merchandise.

3 Low unsprung weight for greater tire mileage, easier riding and protection to load.



Only SPEED WAGONS Offer All Three So Highly Developed

"Three basic things to look for," say Speed Wagon owners. "They govern operating and maintenance costs."

We suggest this: Before you buy trucks, look for these three qualities. Make sure they are present to a generous degree.

Ample Power for Weight. Reo Engineers have done more than provide powerful motors. Dead, useless weight is scientifically eliminated—so pay load can be increased. Weight is matched with horse-power. The result is an utterly new kind of performance.

For swift acceleration in traffic, in hill-climbing and above all in ability to move smoothly away under their loads without wearing strain. Thus Reo Speed Wagons last longer—make fewer visits to the repair shop.

Speed Wagons perform like pleasure cars. So they hold to faster schedules, enlarge delivery or hauling radius and increase business.

Hydraulic Brakes. Keen competition requires fast service with safety. Speed Wagons offer the needed swiftness for service. In addition they offer the full protection of quick-acting 4-Wheel Hydraulic Brakes — for driver, public and merchandise. Light pressure on the brake pedal brings you smoothly to an instant stop.

Easy Riding For Load and Driver. The amount of weight below the springs is called "unsprung" weight. It largely controls riding ease—freedom from road shocks that wear out driver and damage loads.

Speed Wagons are low hung. Springs are long and wide. So drivers find unjolted comfort. Repair bills are reduced. Longer life is assured. Tire mileage increased and damage to merchandise is minimized.

Whatever your problems in delivering and hauling, there is a wheel-base size and tonnage capacity in the Speed Wagon line that will meet 93% of trucking requirements — 13 wheel base sizes and 5 tonnage capacities from ½ to 3 tons. Prices $895.00 to $2150.00.

Accept This Offer. A Speed Wagon delivery and hauling expert will gladly call and discuss your problems. He will show you facts and figures on costs and service.

He will demonstrate how Reo Speed Wagons measure up to the three features that govern operating costs. He will let you put a Speed Wagon to your own tests. Start it! Step on it! Park it! Stop it!

Owners Appreciate Two High Speeds

Owners appreciate driving a Graham-Paige with two high speeds. Fourth, used most of the time, gives a new smoothness and swiftness—third (a quiet, internal gear), provides rapid acceleration in traffic, and up steep hills. The gear shift is standard. You start in second—first, in reserve, is seldom used. A car is at your disposal.

that car of yours needs the unfailing protection of

EVEREADY PRESTONE

(TRADE MARK)
For the Preparation of

The Perfect Anti-Freeze

Does not contain alcohol or glycerine

A new discovery! An enormous success! There's nothing like it for winter safety!

NEVER has there been an anti-freeze that has met with such overwhelming success as Eveready Prestone. Thousands and thousands of motorists everywhere have welcomed this perfect anti-freeze as the first permanently satisfactory answer to the freezing hazards of cold-weather driving. The enormous demand last year made it impossible to supply everyone. This season every motorist can protect his car with the perfect anti-freeze. Do it now! Eveready Prestone lasts indefinitely and your car needs its protection right now as cold weather begins.

Driving without anti-freeze or depending on an anti-freeze that boils off or loses strength while in service, exposes your car to the costly hazard of freeze-up—a ruined radiator, cracked castings, a broken pump. As much damage as though you had driven it into a stone wall! Why take such a chance when one supply of the perfect anti-freeze, Eveready Prestone, will mean safety and peace-of-mind all winter?

A guaranteed and proved product

Eveready Prestone is marketed by the National Carbon Company, Inc., manufacturers of Eveready Flashlights and Eveready Radio Batteries, and is guaranteed by them to meet every specification established by the U. S. Bureau of Standards for "an ideal anti-freeze."

Eveready Prestone has been thoroughly tested under every condition of winter driving by thousands of individual car owners, leading automobile manufacturers, by bus and truck fleet operators, and by operators of dirigibles and commercial airships. They have endorsed it as the one anti-freeze that is completely dependable, safe and harmless.

Eveready Prestone is a pure, undiluted product, not a solution or a mixture. It contains no water, alcohol or glycerine. Although it costs more initially, it is a most economical investment because of its lasting qualities and because one to two gallons, depending upon your radiator capacity, is sufficient to protect your car against a freeze-up for all winter.

Eveready Prestone is added to the water in the radiator in quantities depending on the temperature against which protection is desired. Guard against mechanical leaks and no replacements are necessary. Water lost by evaporation, of course, should be replenished. For complete protection you require less of Eveready Prestone than of any other anti-freeze, and it proves less expensive to use.

Safest for your car

You can use Eveready Prestone without fear of damage to the finish of your car or the metals or other materials in the cooling system. It does not leave deposits or become gummy or cause overheating. It is the perfect anti-freeze!

There is no longer any need to risk a frozen motor and a big repair bill with an unreliable anti-freeze. Make your car safe all winter with one supply of Eveready Prestone.

WIDE TRAFFIC STUDY APPROVED BY CITY

Mayor Gets Authority to Hire Firm of Engineering Experts to Survey Relief Needs.

HE WILL ACT IMMEDIATELY

Wants a Comprehensive Program That Will Embrace Demands Twenty Years Hence.

Mayor Walker is going ahead immediately to retain the professional services of the engineering firm of Day & Zimmerman, who will make a comprehensive survey of the city's needs to relieve traffic congestion and to guard against growing congestion in the future.

The Board of Estimate, in a special executive session held yesterday, following the meeting of the Committee of the Whole, approved the Mayor's suggestions, which were laid before the board a week ago, and authorized him to enter into negotiations with the firm of engineering specialists at once.

"I expect to engage the services of these experts without delay," said the Mayor after the meeting. "We shall place at their disposal a considerable quantity of reliable data that have been gathered bearing upon the problems they will have to study. Some of this has been collated by the work of the Police Department and the Department of Plant and Structures, such as seasonal counts of the number of vehicles using the city bridges and thoroughfares, the proportion of commercial to pleasure vehicles and the points from which they come and to which they are going.

"A large amount of useful material also has been gathered and formulated by some of the civic organizations. All of this informatory matter, it is hoped, will be made available for this firm of engineers, so that they may be saved the time and expense of going over ground that has been already reliably covered. Even with all the aid they may receive from such studies already made, however, it is realized that their task will necessarily be a colossal one, city-wide in its proportions.

"It is my desire that, whatever action we may take in the light of these experts' researches and recommendations, may not only afford appreciable early relief of conditions which we all recognize as increasingly intolerable, but that they may be so far-seeing that their wisdom will be evident even in the light of what this city will have become twenty years hence.

"The Borough Presidents also have pledged their full cooperation to that end. They are sponsoring various proposed improvements, some of which are on the calendar, and it is expected that they will work in coordination with the traffic specialists. In attempting to meet traffic conditions heretofore we have proceeded too much on the piecemeal plan. What we must try to achieve now is a comprehensive survey of the whole complicated situation and a coordinated plan that promises the most effective relief.

"Such a plan may involve limitation of the height of buildings, additional interborough bridges or tunnels, construction of new or enlarged land arteries of traffic, or even rezoning of sections of the city to provide for a vastly enlarged future population."

MICHAEL STRANGE GOT DIVORCE AT KINGSTON

Records Show Use of John Barrymore's Real Name of Blythe Disguised Decree.

Special to The New York Times.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Nov. 26 (AP).—The secrecy which surrounded the divorce which Michael Strange obtained from John Barrymore before his marriage to Dolores Costello was solved today, with the disclosure that the petition was filed and the decree granted in the actor's real name, John Blythe.

Attorneys for the wife quietly filed the papers here in behalf of a client identified only as Mrs. Blanche Blythe of New York. The petition was pushed forward, and on Aug. 18 Supreme Court Justice Russell granted the decree. It became permanent three months later, just six days before Barrymore and Miss Costello were married.

It is not generally known that the actor's real name is Blythe, as is that of his noted sister, Ethel Barrymore. But Barrymore has been the stage name of the family since the days of their father, Maurice Barrymore.

Sealed papers in the divorce action in the records of the county clerk at Kingston, bear the notation: "Blythe vs. Blythe; petition for divorce. Custody of daughter, Diana Joan, granted to mother."

Michael Strange, nee Blanche Oelrichs, was Barrymore's second wife. Reports of an impending divorce arose two years ago.

DAWES AT CHEVROLET SHOW

15,000 View New Six-Cylinder Models at Two Exhibitions.

Among the approximately 15,000 persons estimated to have seen the advance showings of the new Chevrolet six-cylinder models here yesterday was Vice President Charles G. Dawes, who visited the display in the Waldorf-Astoria in the morning.

About 10,000 persons were said to have seen the Waldorf showing and 5,000 the exhibition at the Chevrolet retail salesroom, Broadway at Sixty-second Street. The showings will continue daily from 10:30 A. M. until midnight Thursday.

Orders have been coming in rapidly, not only here and in Detroit, where the only other advance showings are now being held, but throughout the country, according to reports received by R. H. Grant, vice president of the Chevrolet Motor Company in charge of sales.

In New York 1,200 orders for new models had been received up to yesterday evening, Mr. Grant said, while in Detroit 1,500 had been received up to Sunday evening. At the present rate orders are coming in, Mr. Grant said, 250,000 should be on hand by Jan. 1, when retail deliveries are scheduled to begin.

ENGLISH PLAYERS MARRY.

Edna Best and Herbert Marshall of "High Road" Wed in Jersey City.

Edna Best and Herbert Marshall, English players, who have the principal rôles in "The High Road," at the Fulton Theatre, were married yesterday morning in Jersey City. The ceremony was performed by Judge Leo Sullivan in his chambers in the Criminal Court Building, with Mrs. H. Godfrey Turner as maid of honor and Lord Crowley as best man. The witnesses included Fay Compton, the English actress, and Dudley Field Malone. The ceremony was followed by a wedding breakfast at the Embassy Club.

The licenses were obtained in Jersey City last Friday. Miss Best, who has been living at 8 Beekman Place, gave her age as 28, while Mr. Marshall, who lives at the Hotel Algonquin, is 38. Each has been married once before.

Both Miss Best and Mr. Marshall appeared here three seasons ago in "These Charming People." Both are highly popular players in London and have acted many important rôles there.

HELIUM SOURCE FOUND IN TEXAS NATURAL GAS

Extraction Plant Set Up Near Amarillo Will Supply Military Dirigible Needs.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Helium, the rare non-inflammable gas useful in floating dirigibles like the Los Angeles and the two new air leviathans for which the navy has contracted, has been discovered in sufficient quantities in natural gas near Amarillo, Texas, to supply the needs of military dirigibles of the United States for some time to come, the Commerce Department announced today.

A plant for extracting the helium soon will go into operation under a production program looking to conservation.

The production cost of about $2,000 per cubic foot during the World War has now been brought down to a few cents per cubic foot, it was stated, as the result of investigative work of the Bureau of Mines in cooperation with the army, navy, the Linde Air Products Company and other agencies.

LOSS PUT AT MILLIONS IN PHILIPPINE STORM

Twenty-Five Persons Killed—Stimson Says Relief From America May Be Needed.

MANILA, Tuesday, Nov. 27 (AP).—Reports over partly restored communication facilities indicate that the typhoon which struck the central islands of the Philippine archipelago on Saturday was the most severe in the history of the islands. At least twenty-five lives were lost and the property damage amounted to millions of dollars.

The typhoon was widespread, its fury being manifested in the Islands of Luzon, Samar, Romblon, Tablas, Masbate, Mindoro, Cebu and Hanay. The roar of the tempest continued from Thursday until Saturday at many places but it swept to the southward of Manila.

Governor General Henry L. Stimson sent a cablegram to the War Department at Washington last night stating that the storm was equal in force to the recent hurricane in Porto Rico. He said that assistance might be needed from American relief agencies.

The town of Legaspi, in the southern part of Luzon Island, was swept by a small tidal wave, which inundated streets, four feet deep.

The extent of the typhoon damage cannot be estimated as yet, owing to more than 900 telegraph stations being placed out of communication. Many sections have not reported their losses. The chief damage, however, will be to cocoanut and hemp crops.

The United States cruiser Milwaukee, which was sent from Manila to Legaspi to offer assistance, reported early today that her food relief service was not needed at Legaspi and that she was proceeding to other islands to give aid.

The Milwaukee's report was encouraging, as it indicated that the 7,000 persons made homeless in the visinity of Legaspi already were begin[illegible] to rehabilitate themselves.

DR. DARLINGTON HONORED.

Says New Church of the Heavenly Rest Will Be Ready in January.

The new edifice of the Church of the Heavenly Rest and Chapel of the Beloved Disciple, at Fifth Avenue and Ninetieth Street, now under construction, will be ready for services next January, Dr. Henry Darlington, its rector, announced yesterday at a luncheon given in his honor by the Church Club at the Hotel Chatham. Dr. Darlington said that the church, which will have a seating capacity of 1,050, will not be so large that it will be filled only on special occasions.

TWO YOUTHS SEIZED FOR MANY ROBBERIES

Are Believed to Be Members of Gang on East Side—Reveal Narcotics and Weapon Cache.

Two youths, believed by the police to be members of a gang of a dozen that has perpetrated more than a score of robberies on the lower east side during the last six weeks, were arrested last night, and, according to the police, a search of places where they lived revealed weapons and burglar tools, as well as opium, morphine and other narcotics.

The youths described themselves as John Palazzolo, 16 years old, of 246 East Tenth Street and Carmello Spinello, 17 years old, of 1,015 Fortieth Street, Brooklyn. They were found at Thirteenth Street and Avenue A by Detectives Cowley and Ruditsky of the Fifth Street Station. Palazzolo surrendered at once, but Spinello ran three blocks before a threat from Ruditsky that he would use his pistol stopped him.

The pair took the detectives to vacant apartments at 436, 440 and 442 East Thirteenth Street, where under the flooring, the police say, were found two pistols with several rounds of ammunition, cartridges for .38 and .45 calibre pistols, burglar tools, narcotics and some loot from robberies.

They were booked on half a dozen charges and will be arraigned in court today.

Republican majority forces adoption of a resolution instructing Russell E. Watson, attorney for the Legislature, to request the chancellor to remove Vice Chancellor John J. Fallon as the habeas corpus proceedings under which the Mayor is seeking to prevent the trial, and to hear the case himself.

Mr. Watson immediately went to the home of Chancellor Walker and made known his mission. He was instructed to make a formal application in open court at the State House tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock.

The habeas corpus proceedings were to have been resumed before Vice Chancellor Fallon tomorrow morning and Mr. Watson at once began efforts to have a postponement granted. He said he would write and telegraph to the jurist and also try to reach him by telephone and would take the same course to notify Mayor Hague's counsel of his action.

The action of the Legislature is without precedent in New Jersey and was taken over the strenuous opposition of Senator Alexander Simpson of Hudson County, the Democratic leader, who declared that the lawmakers in effect were attacking the integrity of the Court of Chancery. In a lengthy resolution introduced by Senator Thomas A. Mathis of Ocean County, the majority floor leader, after a meeting of the Republican Joint Conference Committee, it was charged that Vice Chancellor Fallon had shown bias in favor of Mayor Hague and that the Legislature deemed it inadvisable and improper that he sit in the case.

Senator Case denounced Garrison's arrest.

"This was an outrageous proceeding and, I venture to say, without parallel in all the history of the State of New Jersey or of any other democratic form of government. Things have come to a pretty pass when a person, because of his political position and affiliations, can through officers of the law protect himself against the law.

"Once the order releasing Mr. Hague on bail had been obtained all efforts at speed ceased and delay has become the policy. It is now apparently the endeavor, by legal technicalities, multiplication of evidence, adjournments and what not, to continue this proceeding beyond the life of the present Legislature. Mayor Hague has announced, according to the public press, 'They will never take me to Trenton'."

The Mathis resolution reads in part:

"Whereas the said Honorable John J. Fallon has indicated favor and bias in favor of the said Frank Hague, and has had earlier connections and political associations with and friendship for the said Frank Hague by reason of which it is inadvisable and improper that he sit in the said cause, and it is deemed to the interests of justice that the Chancellor of the State shall take the said matter from the custody and jurisdiction of the aforesaid Vice Chancellor and shall himself, the Chancellor, hear the same, and

"Whereas it is the obvious purpose of the attorneys of the said Frank Hague to examine into matters not only not pertinent to the aforesaid writ of habeas corpus, but which will be distinctly harmful to the investigation now being conducted by the Legislative Joint Commission, and

"Whereas, this joint session is fearful, having in mind the rulings of the said Vice Chancellor upon the irrelevant evidence heretofore offered and admitted by him that matters such as those aforesaid will likewise be admitted by him and serious harm done to the interests of the people of the State of New Jersey; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved that Russell E. Watson, counselor at law, designated as the attorney for the Legislature in this matter, be instructed to request the Chancellor of the State of New Jersey to make an order removing the said habeas corpus proceedings from the jurisdiction of the said Vice Chancellor Hon. John J. Fallon and himself to hear it forthwith."

Simpson Sees "Cowardly" Attack.

Senator Simpson said he would vote against the resolution, not because he was afraid of Mayor Hague, but because it interpreted it as a cowardly attack on the court of chancery. The vice chancellor, he pointed out, was an appointee of the chancellor and responsible to him for all of his acts. Any reflection on Mr. Fallon's integrity was a reflection on the chancellor who named him, Mr. Simpson insisted. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 57 to 9.

Senate President Stevens called the name of Mr. Hague three times, but the Mayor was not on hand and adjournment was then voted until next Monday afternoon.

Before the joint session was held, the Assembly met and passed the Senate bill giving the Case Commission $50,000 additional funds and designating the commission's counsel, Mr. Watson, as attorney for the Legislature in the prosecution of Mr. Hague.

AIR LINE TO BE EXTENDED.

Universal Corporation Plans to Make Newark Its Eastern Terminal.

Representatives here of the Universal Aviation Corporation of Chicago, which recently merged with Western Air Express and the Fokker interests, announced yesterday that the company planned to extend its passenger service in the Spring to New York City. Louis H. Piper, President of the company, said that the Newark Airport would probably be used as the Eastern terminus of the system.

Plans have already been announced for the extension of the service from Los Angeles to St. Louis, which is connected with Chicago by the Robertson Airlines, a subsidiary of the Universal system.

According to the announcement, an order for five Fokker F-12 planes, the largest yet designed by Anthony H. G. Fokker, has been authorized for the New York service. These planes, it was said, will accommodate thirty passengers.

BRONX DISTRICT GAVE FOSTER A LANDSLIDE

Both Hoover and Smith Were 'Snowed Under' in One Area Official Returns Show.

Both President-elect Hoover and Governor Smith, his Democratic opponent, were "snowed under" by William Z. Foster candidate of the Communist political organization, in one election district in the Bronx, Deputy Chief Clerk George W. Conklin of the Board of Elections revealed yesterday after examination of the election returns in the Bronx. In the 112th election district of the Sixth Assembly District, the vote for President was as follows:

Foster, Workers' Party, 386; Smith, Democrat, 55; Hoover, Republican, 6; Thomas, Socialist, 14; Reynolds, Socialist Labor, 1.

Dunn, Workers' Party, 385; Roosevelt, Democrat, 70; Ottinger, Republican, 14; Waldman, Socialist, 10; Corrigan, Socialist Labor, 2.

This election district was split from the old sixty-fifth election district and takes in two blocks just east of Bronx Park from Mace to Arnow Streets.

The official returns of the vote in Bronx county were made public yesterday by Peter Wynne, clerk of the Bronx office of the Board of Elections. They follow:

Governor—Roosevelt, 210,057; Ottinger, 115,164.

OPENS DRIVE VIADUCT TODAY

Miller to Turn Over Span From 155th to 161st Street to Walker.

Borough President Julius Miller will turn over the Riverside Drive Viaduct, which spans the West 158th Street valley between 155th and 161st Streets, to Mayor Walker, who will accept it on behalf of the city, at exercises at noon today under the auspices of the Washington Heights Chamber of Commerce. The celebration will be attended by delegations from civic and trade organizations.

With the opening of this cut-off today traffic will proceed in a direct line in the future, thus eliminating the so-called "bottle neck" in the old roadway. Two years were required to erect the structure. The approximate cost will be $2,360,000.

MISS VAN DERNOOT WEDS DR. S. ROSEN

MISS MARY DAVIS BRIDE

Daughter of Late Judge Wed to Eugene W. Farrell Jr. in St. John's Church, Orange, N. J.

The marriage of Miss Helen Van Dernoot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Van Dernoot, to Dr. Samuel Rosen, of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Rosen, of Syracuse, N. Y., took place yesterday noon at the home of the bride's parents, 25 East Seventy-second Street. The Rev. Dr. Jonah Wise performed the ceremony. Miss Alice Van Dernoot was maid of honor and Dr. Isidore Friesner was best man.

The ceremony was followed by a small wedding breakfast and reception.

Dr. Rosen and his bride will go South on their wedding trip. They will live at 108 East Ninety-first Street.

Farrell—Davis.

The marriage of Miss Mary Norma Davis, daughter of Mrs. Thomas A. Davis of Orange, N. J., and the late Judge Davis, to Eugene W. Farrell Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Farrell of South Orange, took place yesterday morning in St. John's Church, Orange. The Rev. Paul T. Carew, rector, celebrated the nuptial mass. Other priests in the sanctuary during the mass were Mgr. Thomas McLaughlin, the Revs. Jerome Flannagan, Herman Storck, William B. Masterson, Joseph P. Tuohy, W. F. Grady, Thomas J. Martin, Thomas J. Herron, Thomas Burke and J. Pierre Connor.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, was attended by her sister, Miss Noeline Adele Davis, as maid of honor, and by Mrs. Thomas E. Fitzsimmons of South Orange, another sister, and Mrs. Francis J. Gilbertson, of Maplewood, sister of the bridegroom. Michael Mullen Jr. of Newark was best man, and the ushers were William Howe Davis and Theodore E. Davis, brothers of the bride, Mr. Fitzsimmons and Mr. Gilbertson, Charles Mullin, of Newark, and Thomas F. O'Reilly, of New York.

Smith—Clark.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 26.—Miss Cornelia Andrew Clark, daughter of John Dudley Clark of Hereford Street, was married at noon in Trinity Church here today to Philip Webster Smith of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip L. Smith of Short Hills, N. J. Bishop William Lawrence officiated, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Endicott Peabody, head master of Groton School, and by the Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, rector of Trinity.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Daniel Simonds 2d of Boston, and Miss Mary I. Hammond of Brookline acted as maid of honor. Henry Wales of Philadelphia was best man. The reception took place at the home of the bride's father. After a wedding journey of several months in Europe Mr. Smith and his bride will live in New York City.

The bride made her début in the Winter of 1926 and 1927. She is a member of the Junior League of Boston and the Vincent Club.

The bridegroom was graduated from Harvard in 1925. He is a member of the D. K. E., Hasty Pudding and A. D. clubs, also the Harvard Club of New York.

ROYALTY AT OPERA TONIGHT

"La Traviata" to Be Given for Benefit of Spain's University City.

There will be a gala performance of Verdi's "La Traviata," under the auspices of the King and Queen of Spain, with Lucrezia Bori, Beniamano Gigli and Giuseppe de Luca in the leading rôles, tonight at the Metropolitan, in aid of a fund being raised to found a University City in Madrid.

The widespread interest centred in the performance indicates that it will attract one of the most brilliant audiences of the season at the Metropolitan. Members of the Spanish royal family who arrived here recently will be at the opera as the guests of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, who have taken several parterre boxes. The royal visitors have been visiting Grafton D. Cushing in Boston for several days and will return to New York this afternoon. Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, who had arranged a dinner in their honor, has changed her plans and instead has asked many of her friends to meet them after the performance at her home, 4 East Sixty-ninth Street. Where supper will be served. She heads the committee of patrons and patronesses, of which Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt is honorary chairman.

UNITED HOSPITAL FUND BEGINS ANNUAL APPEAL

Campaign for $1,000,000 for 59 Non-Municipal Institutions to Run Until New Year.

The annual appeal of the United Hospital Fund for $1,000,000 to be distributed among non-municipal hospitals to pay in part the expenses of charity patients was opened last night with a radio address by Henry J. Fisher, President of the fund, from Station WJZ. The fifty-nine member hospitals of the fund were called "the first line of relief and succor in times of public emergency" by Mr. Fisher.

The Wall Street bomb explosion, the Times Square subway wreck and the Vestris disaster were cited by Mr. Fisher as examples of public catastrophes "when the hospitals of the fund are particularly valuable to the community."

"The hospitals which benefit from our fund care for more than a million men, women and children in their wards and out-patient departments each year. Forty-seven per cent. of the service of the hospitals in their wards is given free to the sick poor and 39 per cent. of the clinic service, and this without regard to race, creed or color."

Forty teams, under the leadership of Theodore F. Whitmarsh, chairman of the business trades and professional auxiliaries, yesterday began a canvass of the various trades and professional auxiliaries to help raise the required $1,000,000. This Thanksgiving week is the most intensive of the campaign, which will continue until the new year.

FEDERATION PLEDGES EXCEED $1,000,000

$775,000 Still Needed to Meet the 1928 Expenses of 91 Institutions in Group.

The Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies announced yesterday that the $1,000,000 mark had been passed in its efforts to raise $1,778,000 for the completion of its $5,300,000 program for 1928.

Samuel D. Leidesdorf, associate chairman of the campaign, said that the Federation had $3,522,000 in annual subscriptions at the opening of the campaign. Toward the balance needed, he said, $1,003,000 has been reported and $775,000 still must be raised to meet the needs of the ninety-one constituent institutions for the current year.

The largest contribution announced yesterday was for $7,000 additional from Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hofheimer. Mr. Hofheimer previously had contributed $3,000.

The names of forty-three contributors who had given a previous total of $78,080 for 1928 was made public yesterday. Their names follow with the total amount of their gifts:

'UNCLE ROBERT' TO BE HOST

Will Entertain 2,000 Crippled and Blind Children on Leviathan.

"Uncle Robert," philanthropist, is to be host to more than 2,000 crippled and blind children and their parents at his fourth annual Parents Day Christmas Festival on board the steamship Leviathan next Monday. The party will begin at 10 A. M. and last until 4 P. M.

The children and their parents will be entertained by "Uncle Robert" and his "little pals," who broadcast over the radio, as well as by Captain Harold Cunningham, Steward Billy Lind and other officers of the Leviathan. The crew of the steamship have volunteered their services for the day. The California College Collegians, an orchestra of blind musicians, will play.

All the guests will have a real Christmas dinner. Presents will be passed out by Santa Claus in front of an illuminated forty-foot Christmas tree.

"Uncle Robert" invited President and Mrs. Coolidge to the festival. He received the following letter yesterday from the White House:

Dear Uncle Robert—President and Mrs. Coolidge are glad to have your letter of Nov. 23, telling them of the coming party for the blind and crippled children you are to give on the steamship Leviathan.

Of course it would be a great pleasure to attend and witness the joy of the children. Not being able to do that, however, they must content themselves by sending their greetings and best wishes and the hope every one has a most happy time.

The letter was signed by Edward Clark, secretary to the President.

A Daughter to Mrs. H. A. Palmer.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Palmer of 3,296 Perry Avenue, this city, on Sunday, at the Sherman Square Sanitarium. Mrs. Palmer is the former Miss Mildred F. Trout, a member of THE NEW YORK TIMES staff for seven years prior to her marriage in June, 1927. Mr. Palmer is also a member of THE NEW YORK TIMES staff. The child will be called Emily Jane.

A Son to Mrs. C. Leith Speiden.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. C. Leith Speiden of Scarsdale, N. Y., yesterday at the Nursery and Childs' Hospital. Mrs. Speiden is the former Miss Louise Hyde Valentine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Valentine of Chappaqua, N. Y. The child will be named Clement Leith Speiden Jr.

LADY INVERCLYDE TO WED.

Divorced Last Week—To Marry Next Week James Pearce, Ex-Fiance

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 27 (Tuesday).—Lady Inverclyde, who was divorced by her husband in Edinburgh last Tuesday, will marry next week James Pearce, who is the son of an American woman living in Oxfordshire and was once forbidden by the Chancery Court to hold any communication with his intended bride. Behind the marriage, divorce and intended marriage lies a story of interrupted romance.

Lady Inverclyde, then Miss Olive Sainsbury, daughter of a wealthy English grocer who once served behind the counter in his own shop, met Mr. Pearce when she was only 18. They became engaged, but the Sainsbury family did not approve, so it had her made a ward in Chancery, and the Chancery Court forbade Pearce to communicate with her. He left for the Sudan, and in his absence Miss Sainsbury married Lord Inverclyde, son of a well-known shipping peer. The union lasted only a little more than a year.

A member of Lady Inverclyde's family said last night: "Our objection to Mr. Pearce wasn't on the ground of snobbishness. Mr. Pearce is a man of good social position. His mother is an American living in Oxfordshire."

CHILD PLACING BOARD FETE.

Celebrates Thirtieth Year of Aid to Homeless Children at Luncheon.

The Child Placing Department of the State Charities Aid Association celebrated its thirtieth anniversary with a luncheon at Sherry's yesterday. Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, chairman of the committee, presided.

Homer Folks, secretary of the State Charities Aid Association, described the work of the organization. He said that 4,292 children have been placed in homes and that they had come from sixty of the sixty-two counties in the State.

"The children have all come from the shadowy background of homelessness and need," said Mr. Folks. "They have been placed with carefully chosen foster parents, differing from each other in circumstances, occupation and characteristics, but alike in the important respect of essential character and of hearty welcome to the newcomer.

"What a home and family life have meant to each of these children need not be described. What a child has meant to each of these foster homes is perhaps quite as important. To the foster parents there has been brought something beyond themselves to think about."

Others who appeared on the program were Will Rogers, Ruth Draper, Rube Goldberg, Vachel Lindsay, Beverley Nichols, Blanche Yurka and Percy Crosby.

HENRY FIELD ENGAGED.

Explorer Related to Noted Chicagoan to Wed Miss Betty Sturges.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26 (AP).—The engagement of Henry Field, explorer of the Near East, and Miss Betty Sturges, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hollister Sturges of Chicago, was announced tonight at the Sturges home.

Mr. Field is assistant curator of anthropology of the Field Museum. His mother is Mrs. Algernon Burnaby of Baggrave Hall, Leicester, England, a niece of the first Marshall Field of Chicago. The explorer returned recently from Mesopotamia with important discoveries of early tribal civilization.

Miss Sturges is a member of Chicago's younger set and has studied art in London. Her family came here three years ago from Philadelphia.

Y. W. C. A. DRIVE ENDS WITH $263,600 RAISED

Budget Board Says $1,400 Shortage of Goal Will Be Sought Among Friends.

The $21,054 reported yesterday at the budget campaign luncheon of the Young Women's Christian Association at the Central Branch, 610 Lexington Avenue, brought the total to $263,600, or within $1,400 of the $265,000 goal, so that the drive was closed officially. The remaining funds will be sought among the friends of the association.

Mrs. William Fellowes Morgan, chairman of the special gifts committee, reported a gift of $50,000 from George F. Baker, which did not go toward the drive, but is to be used for endowment. Her committee reported $5,055 for the drive, including an anonymous contribution of $2,500 and a check of $1,000 from Clarence Dillon.

The drive was for additional funds necessary to complete the city budget of the association for 1929. Mrs. Philip Le Boutillier, chairman of the men's team, reported $4,890 for her organization yesterday. Other high-scoring units were the Central Branch team, with $3,677, and the Colored Women's Branch of West 137th Street, with $2,437.

Mrs. Warren A. Ransom, campaign chairman, presided. Others at the speakers' table were Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. Le Boutillier, Mrs. George Pratt, Mrs. Frederick H. Cone, Mrs. William Henry Hayes, president of the association; Mrs. Edward Parry Townsend, treasurer; Mrs. Howard Gillespie Myers and Mrs. William W. Rossiter.

College Title Run Won by Reid of Harvard; Cox Is Third

REID, HARVARD, WINS COLLEGE TITLE RUN

COX IS THIRD, FAR BEHIND

Penn State Star in Lead Most of Way, but Fails to Capture 3d I. C. A. A. A. A. Crown in Row.

HIS TEAM RETAINS HONORS

First for 3d Successive Year With 45 Points—Penn Freshmen Win, Three Tying for Lead.

In as gallant a finish as has been witnessed at an intercollegiate cross-country championship in recent years, Jimmy L. Reid, Harvard captain, won the harriers' title of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America yesterday afternoon at Van Cortlandt Park by unleashing a terrific burst of speed in the last 200 yards to overtake tiring and leg-weary Francis Lindsay of the University of Maine, whom he led to the tape by twelve yards.

Jogging along dejectedly in third place, nearly 150 yards behind Lindsay, came Big Bill Cox of Penn State, who saw his opportunity of becoming the second man in the twenty years of the I. C. A. A. A. A. hill-and-dale runs to win the individual title three years in a row, vanish with the fast-flying feet of the sturdy little Harvard man.

Cox had won in 1926 and 1927, and in his last try over the six-mile course had a chance to equal the record of Cornell's great runner of a decade and a half ago, John Paul Jones, who won three years in succession. After leading for most of the journey, Cox lagged on the second jaunt over the hills.

Cox suffered a spike injury in a scramble for places a quarter of a mile from the starting line. The spike was driven into his leg just below the muscle and this may have had something to do with his defeat.

Penn State Retains Title.

Despite his inability to repeat in the individual test, Cox had some consolation in leading his team to its third successive team triumph. Penn State finished its team among the first fourteen, to win with the remarkably low score of 45 points. Maine lost ground in the team scoring by having its fourth and fifth men finish fortieth and forty-second, but still was able to take second place with 96 points.

Cornell was third with 102, New York University fourth with 119 and Syracuse fifth with 130. Harvard, despite Reid's placing first, had three men worse than fortieth and just eased into sixth position with 167 points.

The freshman race, which was over a three-mile course, was a romp for three youngsters from the University of Pennsylvania. Daniel E. Dean, William J. McKniff and Roland C. Ritchie finished together with their hands clasped to tie for first position. Larry Belanger, winner of many scholastic runs here while he was a Schenectady High School star, was fourth as a representative of Syracuse. Another Penn man, Carl C. Coan, was fifth.

The lead that Penn piled up for the team trophy by placing runners first, second, third and fifth, nearly came to grief when the official check-up put John Kerr, the fifth man, in sixty-ninth position. After the first twenty or so runners had crossed the finish line, the rest of the athletes scampered across the mark in helter-skelter fashion and many names apparently were lost in the shuffle.

Pete Waters, Manhattan coach, volunteered the information that he had seen Kerr, whom he knew when Kerr was an interscholastic mile champion at Newark Prep, finish ahead of the Manhattan second man, Vinnie McArdle, who placed thirty-first. Other witnesses offered the same information and there was a vehement protest from the Penn followers, who had figured out that with Kerr in sixty-ninth position Syracuse had won the team trophy with 70 points to 72 for Penn.

So much confusion had resulted from the freshman check-up that the officials spent an hour and a half untangling the mix-up. With the deliberations completed, the question of Kerr's place arose. Closer scrutiny of the charts revealed that one scorer had Kerr in fifty-second place. So he was moved up to that place and Penn got the freshman team prize after all.

However, the mix-up in the tallying of the yearling race caused Gustavus T. Kirby, chairman of the advisory board of the I. C. A. A. A. A., to announce that the freshman compilation was subject to revision. In the final standing Penn had 61 points, Syracuse 65, Penn State 83, Cornell 91 and N. Y. U. 95.

Little Joe Hagen of Columbia, who had finished behind Nat Lerner and Phil Edwards of N. Y. U. in a metropolitan college cross-country race last week, led all the local runners in the varsity race yesterday. Hagen finished fifth, behind Harry Richardson of Maine, while Lerner was sixth. Edwards, one of the favorites, had a bad day and was twenty-ninth.

First Four Same as in 1927.

The first four across the line yesterday were the first four to finish last year, but the order was different. Last November Cox was first, Richardson second, Reid third and Lindsay fourth. With the exception of Reid, who remained hidden in the pack until the foothills were reached, the leaders yesterday asserted themselves before they had gone a quarter mile. Reid broke into view at the bottom of the hill in the first trip around, and then he, Cox and Lindsay waged a three-cornered duel for the rest of the race.

Going up the hills the second time Lindsay was a yard ahead of Reid and Cox was several yards behind. The long climb halted Cox's close pursuit of the other two. As the figures of the runners were silhouetted against the skyline at the top of the hill, Lindsay and Reid were off by themselves, with Cox more than twenty yards behind. As they reached the bridle path the only change was in the distance between the second and third men. Cox had dropped back fifty yards behind Reid.

Going over the hurdles Lindsay's shoes scraped the top of the barrier, while Reid vaulted cleanly. Cox went over in a hand vault and lost a few yards. Going along the macadamized road in the last mile to the finish line Reid remained a pace behind Lindsay. The Maine boy was running doggedly, with his head swinging a bit and with great effort. In sharp contrast, Reid glided along easily with plenty in reserve. Cox shortened the gap a bit, but the powerful leg action which had brought him victory in all but one of his college races failed him in his time of need. He seemed to realize that he could not overtake the other two and dropped back steadily.

Reid Rides His Time.

Lindsay and Reid pounded down the stretch together, Reid still a pace behind and biding his time. Two hundred yards from the finish the Harvard captain catapaulted past Lindsay and was twenty yards ahead before the Maine youth was aware of it. Lindsay gamely tried to bridge the gap, but tired muscles failed to respond completely. He drew up nearly ten yards in back of Reid, and they flashed across the finish line practically that distance apart.

In the freshman race, Dean, who matriculated at Penn after being a star at Abington High, just outside Philadelphia, could have won had he so chosen. He, McKniff and Ritchie were so far ahead of the field that Dean slowed up for McKniff to catch him. Then they both waited for Ritchie, a former Schenectady star, who had fallen once in the hills and again over one of the hurdles. Nearing the tape they joined hands and went over the line together.

At the first hurdle Everett Gunning of Maine was setting the pace, and then came in order Gordon Borgmann of Rutgers, Kenneth F. Seal of Rutgers, Carl A. Coan of Penn, and Dean. Robert A. Burton of Penn State was leading at the three-quarter mile mark and Gunning at the trestle. McKniff, Ritchie, Burton and Belanger trailed in that order. Going up hill Gunning set the pace, with the three Penn runners, Dean, McKniff and Ritchie, immediately behind him. On the down trip the three Penn youths were ahead, with Belanger behind them. That order endured to the finish.

Ninety Runners in Varsity Race.

Ninety runners from thirteen colleges started in the varsity race and 106 from sixteen in the freshman. Michigan State, the first Western school to enter an I. C. A. A. A. A. run, failed to put in an appearance. Carnegie Tech, City College, Johns Hopkins and Williams also failed to be represented in the varsity race.

Reid's time of 30:11 was just seven seconds slower than Cox's record for the event. However, the course was changed this year and the distance may vary a bit from that in the past. The new course starts and finishes near Broadway and brings the runners around the inner edge of the confines of the field.

BOWLING CHALLENGE MADE.

Promoter Offers to Back Knox and Murgie Against Any Two Men.

Charles Trucks of Philadelphia has offered to back Bill Knox and Jim Murgie, Quaker City bowling stars, against any two men in any one city in the United States, according to The Associated Press yesterday.

Trucks suggests a sixty-game match, thirty in Philadelphia and thirty in the city accepting the challenge, for $500 a side. The only condition is that the pair accepting the challenge must be residents of one city.

Knox and Murgie defeated Barney Spinella and Andy Hiltenbrandt of New York in a two-day, twenty-game inter-city match completed here Sunday night.

Mass. Aggie Harriers Pick White.

Special to The New York Times.

AMHERST, Mass., Nov. 26.—Frank T. White Jr. of Holbrook, a member of the junior class, will captain the Massachusetts Aggie varsity cross-country team next season, it was announced today following a meeting of the lettermen.

TORUP II IS WINNER OF LOCKE YACHT CUP

Great South Bay Racing Trophy to Dunstan's Craft—1929 Dates Set.

The Great South Bay Racing Association set its dates for the 1929 season last night at its annual meeting at the Hotel Vanderbilt. The Locke Cup which annually goes to the outstanding winner of the past season was awarded to Torup II, owned by Tommy Dunstan, a junior sailor of the Cedarhurst Yacht Club.

The officers re-elected were George M. Sheppard, president; A. L. George, vice president in charge of motorboat racing; Edward B. Ketcham, vice president in charge of sailboat racing; W. H. Pickens, secretary, and Harry M. Growtage, chairman of the Regatta Committee. President Shepperd appointed a committee, consisting of Growtage, Pickens, Ketcham and Roy M. Brewster to fix the passage to be sailed next year rather than to leave it to the discretion of the clubs.

A schedule change will bring the annual motorboat race ahead from the morning of the cruise to two days before it as a separate and distinct event.

The schedule:

June 22, Bellport; 29, Sayville.
July 4, Bayshore; 6, Bellport; 13, Babylon; 20, Bayshore; 27, Sayville.
Aug. 3, Fire Island (motor boats); 5 to 10, annual cruise; 17, Sayville; 27, West Hampton; 31, Bellport.
Sept. 5, Babylon; 7, Sayville; 12, Bayport.

Spartan Bowlers Win.

The Jersey City Elks' bowling team was defeated by the Spartans last night at Thum's White Elephant alleys, 2 to 1.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Winning their respective matches by comfortable margins, the Yale Club and the Columbia University Club continued in a tie for the lead in the Metropolitan Class C Squash Tennis League last night. The Elis, playing at home, captured six out of seven matches from the Short Hills Club, and the Columbians showed their appreciation of the hospitality of the Park Avenue Squash Club by defeating its representatives, 5 to 2.

The triple tie for third place among the Princeton, Harvard and Park Avenue clubs was reduced to a dual race between the first two when they won their fourth victories in five starts while Park Avenue was going down. Princeton triumphed at the Shelton Club, 4 to 3, and Harvard won by the same score at the Fraternity Club. Bernhard Knollenberg defeating Martin Sherwin in the No. 1 and deciding match, 15—8, 13—15, 18—13.

In the other three engagements last night the Elizabeth Town and Country Club won from the Apawamis Club, 5 to 1; the City A. C., champion last year, made a clean sweep over the Crescent A. C. on the city courts, and the New York A. C. won at home over the Heights Casino, 4 to 3. The matches between Elizabeth and Apawamis were played on the Columbia and Princeton courts.

Three New York Stars Among the Leading Hockey Scorers

RANGER STARS LEAD IN HOCKEY SCORING

Bill Cook, Frank Boucher in Tie With Hay of Detroit in American Group.

RATE THREE POINTS EACH

Burch of Americans and 4 Others in Deadlock at 5 Markers in International Section.

MONTREAL, Nov. 26 (Canadian Press)—The first official scoring list for the National Hockey League, including games of last night, presents a rather unusual appearance.

In the American group the leadership is in the hands of Bill Cook, brilliant right wing of the world champion New York Rangers, coupled with George Hay, crack left wing of the Detroit Cougars, and Frankie Boucher, also of the Ranger forward line.

A newcomer to the major league appears in the first six in the International group. Shorty Horne, the little Hercules of the Toronto Maple Leafs, a player who had brief major league experience with the Montreal Maroons and then was farmed out to the Canadian Professional League, is tied with Frank Clancy, defense player of the Ottawa Senators, in the international division at four goals and one assist each. Billy Burch of the Americans, Stewart of the Maroons and Finnigan of Ottawa also are tied on points for the leadership with three goals and two assists apiece.

Bill Cook, the Ranger star, has scored three goals, but Hay equals him on points with two goals and an assist. Boucher scored one goal but furnished the assists in two cases.

Lionel Conacher of the Americans is the leader in the penalty departments with eleven minors and one major for a total of twenty-seven minutes. Eddie Shore, the rugged Boston Bruin defence star, has had nineteen minutes in penalties, leading the American section, while Aurel Joliat, Canadiens' left winger, has the same amount.

NEWARK SIX DEFEATED.

Bows to New Haven, 6-2, in Canadian-American League Game.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 26 (AP).—Newark bowed to New Haven, 6 to 2, in a Canadian-American Hockey League game here tonight. Bouchard and Burmeister were the individual stars of the game, Bouchard scoring two of the Eagles' goals and Burmeister doing some clever stopping at the net.

O'Keefe Defeats De Marco.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 26 (AP).—Johnny O'Keefe, Columbus, won a judge's decision over Cuddy de Marco, Pittsburgh, in twelve rounds here tonight. O'Keefe weighed 135 pounds, de Marco 140. In an eight-round preliminary, Kenneth Shuck, Louisville featherweight, defeated Clyde Tremaine, Columbus.

Abad Outpoints Nebo.

Reed Outpoints Goodman.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Nov. 26 (AP).—Jimmy Reed, Erie, Pa., won the decision over Joey Goodman, Norfolk, Va., in a fast ten-round bout here tonight.

Patterden Knocks Out Brown, Keeps English Bantam Title

LONDON, Nov. 26 (AP).—Kid Patterden of Bethnal Green retained his British bantamweight championship and the Lonsdale Belt when he stopped Johnny Brown in the twelfth round at the National Sporting Club tonight. Patterden floored Brown in the twelfth round and the latter's seconds tossed in the towel.

GROGAN IS WINNER OVER BOBBY BURNS

Omaha Lightweight Triumphs Before 3,000 in Fast Bout at Broadway Arena.

LEVINE OUTPOINTS DI VODI

Williamsburg Welterweight Wins After Torrid Fray—Snyder Defeats Passaflume.

Tommy Grogan, Omaha lightweight, won a slashing ten-round victory over Bobby Burns of Brooklyn in the feature bout at the Broadway Arena in Brooklyn last night.

The bout in its early stages resembled a slugging bee as both hammered away at each other and had the crowd of about 3,000 in an uproar. It looked as if the bout would end in the first round, for midway in that session Grogan floored Burns for a count of nine with a hard right to the jaw. Just before the bell, however, Burns staggered Grogan.

Both devoted their attack to the body up through the fifth and the pace slackened a bit through the next two rounds. Grogan assumed a jabbing attack in the eighth round which had Burns's head bobbing backward and then suddenly let loose a hard right which sent Burns to one knee. The boys battled at a fast and furious pace through the ninth and tenth rounds with Grogan easily maintaining his advantage. The weights were Grogan 135¼ pounds, Burns 137½.

Georgie Levine, Williamsburg welterweight, won a slugging ten-round decision over Andy DiVodi of Bay Ridge, in the semi-final.

The final round was a whirlwind affair with both slashing at each other. In the midst of a hot exchange DiVodi slipped to the canvas and evidently wanted to create the impression that he had been hit low, but when he saw that the count was going on, he leaped up and continued to mix it till the bell. Levine weighed 147½ pounds and DiVodi 145.

Jackie Snyder, East New York bantamweight, had to step his fastest to win the decision over Pete Passaflume of Canarsie, in a six-round bout. Most of the exiting moments were crowded into the last round when Snyder scored heavily with snappy jolts to the head.

Freddie Lindstrom of Bay Ridge and Freddie Hearn, Washington Heights, went through six listless rounds, with Lindstrom carrying off the judges' decision. The winner weighed 138½ and Hearn 139.

Fernando Gonzales, 145 pounds, of the west side, outpunched Jimmy Shea, 144, of Ridgewood, winning the decision in the four-round opener.

AMERICANS TO CLASH WITH OTTAWA TONIGHT

Flat Walsh, goalie of the Montreal Maroons, will be tending the Americans' cage again tonight when the New York sextet meets the Ottawa Senators at Madison Square Garden.

Manager Tommy Gorman so announced last night after a day of dickering on borrowing Walsh to take the place of Jakie Forbes, regular Americans' goalie, who still is weak from his recent attack of grip.

There is every promise of a titanic struggle tonight because the Americans and the Senators are the only two teams in the league that have been undefeated so far. Ottawa has won twice and tied three times for a total of seven points. The Americans have won two and tied two for six points.

The probably line-up tonight follows:

American.		Ottawa.
Walsh	Goal	Connell
Conacher	Defense	Boucher
Reise	Defense	Clancy
Burch	Centre	Nighbor
Broadbent	Wing	Finnegan
Connor	Wing	Kilrea
Simpson	Sub	Touhey

Himes	Sub	Elliot
Dye	Sub	Smith

Genaro in Ring Tonight.

Frankie Genaro and his manager, Joe Jacobs, left New York last night for Portland, Me., where Genaro will clash with Artie Giroux of Montreal in a twelve-round bout tonight. Genaro's flyweight title, conferred upon him by the N. B. A., will not be at stake.

Snyder Knocks Out Homer Smith.

Friedman Wins By Knockout.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Nov. 26 (AP).—Al Friedman, Boston heavyweight, knocked out Tony Youkonis of this city in the second round of a ten-round bout here tonight. Youkonis weighed 220 pounds, Friedman 182.

Young Terry Easy Victor.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 26 (AP).—Young Terry, 140, Trenton, won all ten rounds from Jesse Goss, 139, here tonight.

HOFFMAN DEFEATED BY ANDY MITCHELL

Coast Boxer Outpoints Rival in Furious 6-Round Bout at St. Nicholas Arena.

BOXING ABILITY SCORES

Protege of Jack Kearns Weathers Hard Going by Cleverness—L. Mitchell Stops Braddock.

Andy Mitchell of Long Beach, Cal., sponsored by Jack Kearns, made his initial appearance in New York last night when he outpointed George Hoffman of Yorkville in a stirring six-round bout which featured the card at the St. Nicholas Arena.

A crowd of 2,000 witnessed the contest, which, after a slow start, developed into a spirited encounter. Each man fought furiously and at the end both were nearly exhausted. Mitchell scale1 178 pounds and Hoffman 190. The former displayed good boxing ability and several times extricated himself from dangerous situations by his cleverness.

Hoffman stepped in close at the start, and belabored Mitchell steadily with short body punches. Each boxer slipped to the floor during the round, but no clean knockdown occurred.

Forces Mitchell to Retreat.

The Coast boxer fought at long range in the second, but Hoffman plodded forward steadily, and reached Mitchell with several hard lefts. In the third Hoffman had his rival in danger several times, forcing Mitchell to retreat under the force of hard lefts to the head and body.

Mitchell boxed well in the fourth, and managed to slip many of Hoffman's ponderous lefts. The latter was jolted by a right uppercut as the round ended.

The Coast boxer uncovered a fierce attack in the fifth and had Hoffman in desperate straits throughout the round, sending numerous lefts and rights to the latter's jaw. Hoffman was weary long before the round ended, but managed to stay on his feet.

Hoffman fought savagely in the last round but was not sufficiently recovered to cope evenly with his rival, who continued to batter him with long lefts and rights. Hoffman was sent to his knees by a hard right to the jaw, but saved himself from a fall by holding on the ropes.

In the semi-final scheduled for six rounds, Leo Mitchell, brother of Andy, scored a dramatic knockout victory over Al Braddock of New Brunswick in three rounds. The bout was highly entertaining, with the Westerner showing plenty of ability and hitting power.

Braddock held his own with his rival in the first round, but in the second had much difficulty in defending himself from Mitchell's lefts to the body. Braddock was staggered twice in this chapter, but recovered as the round ended.

Braddock Counted Out.

In the third round the Jersey boxer started well and sent his opponent to the canvas for no count with a jolting left to the body. Mitchell arose and carried a vicious attack to Braddock. The latter received several hard lefts on the head and was sent heavily to the canvas by a right to the chin. Braddock was counted out in 2 minutes, 17 seconds. Mitchell weighed 173½, Braddock 169½.

Jack Wilson, west side welterweight, knocked out Lem Salmon of Harlem in the third round of a scheduled six-rounder. Wilson assumed the aggressive from the start and sent his opponent to the floor for a count of eight in the opening session. Salmon was being badly battered when Referee Danny Ridge stopped the bout after the round had gone 2 minutes 11 seconds. Each boxer weighed 150½ pounds.

Andy Satille of Atlantic City made a strong rally in the last session to gain the decision over Joe Gonzales, Mexico City, in a six-round bout. Satille weighed 135½, Gonzales 135.

ROSEN VICTOR IN BOUT AT THE NEW YORK A. C.

Newsboys' Club Entry Outpoints O'Neill in 128-Pound Class at Amateur Show.

The summaries:

PETRONE WILL CLASH WITH NABORS TONIGHT

Featured in Ten-Round Bout at New Lenox S. C.—Griffiths Here Today from West.

Dominick Petrone of Harlem will seek to regain some of his lost prestige tonight when he meets Benny Nabors, featherweight champion of the National Guard, in the main bout of ten rounds at the New Lenox S. C. Petrone defeated Al (Rube) Goldberg last week in his first appearance in the ring since his knockout defeats at the hands of Lou Moscowits and Benny Bass.

Johnny Erickson and Pinkey Silverberg will clash in the semi-final, also listed for ten rounds, while in the first ten-rounder Ludveco Ughetto will tackle Sammy Cherin. Harry Page opposes Eddie Roberts in the six-rounder and Charley Williams boxes Mickey Polo in the four-round opener.

Joey LaGrey, contender for the National Guard welterweight title, will meet Irish Tommy Jordan in the feature bout of ten rounds at the Twenty-second Engineers Armory tonight.

Jerry (Tuffy) Griffiths, Sioux City light-heavyweight, who is scheduled to box James J. Braddock in the main bout of ten rounds at Madison Square Garden Friday night, will arrive in this city today. The Western boxer planned to get here yesterday, but circumstances prevented his doing so.

MAXIE ROSENBLOOM WINS.

New Yorker Outpoints Tiger Thomas in Williamsport Ring.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Nov. 26 (AP).—Maxie Rosenbloom, 170, New York, won from Tiger Thomas, 168, Williamsport middleweight, here tonight. Rosenbloom enjoyed an advantage most of the way.

Bennings Purse Captured by Campanini at Bowie

CAMPANINI IS FIRST IN BENNINGS PURSE

SUN SHADOW TRIUMPHS

Comes From Far in Rear to Win From Essare in Cedar Craft at Bowie Race Track.

By BRYAN FIELD.

Special to The New York Times.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 26.—A local note was struck here this afternoon when Campanini, a 3-year-old son of Campfire, won the Benning Purse for older horses over the mile and a sixteenth course.

Campanini, now owned by H. C. Hatch, was bred in William Woodward's Belair Stud, which is just over the hill from this course, and the score of Campanini was considered a victory for Maryland and for Prince George County.

The winner was the third choice in a field of six and finished in front by a great drive from the stretch turn to the wire, galloping with a six-length advantage over W. E. Caskey Jr.'s William T., which closed gamely after stumbling and losing ground on the far turn.

It was by a scant margin that William T. got the place, for he had to come from far back to overtake Marsh Violet, from the Audley Farm, which had set the pace until passed by Campanini.

Mann Aboard Campanini.

Jockey Mann had the leg up on the Campfire colt and rode a nicely judged race on a cold and wintry afternoon, when it was no cinch to guide a fast traveling horse fanning the wind at thirty-five miles an hour.

He hung in close behind Marsh Violet until ready to go and then swept past with so much power there was nothing more to the race. The winner carried 108 pounds and was clocked in 1:47.

Mann completed a double later when he was home in front with Rhyme and Reason, a mutuel field horse, shutting out Tiffin, the odds-on favorite in the race.

Two colts by Sun Briar triumphed in the course of the afternoon.

The Arden Farm's Sun Shadow captured the Cedar Craft Purse for 2-year-olds. After a long delay in the stall gate, the field of seven was away with Sun Shadow one of the laggards. This 2-year-old, out of Edwina, which is a full brother to Sun Edwin, was an odds-on favorite and gave his backers many tremors before he won by a half length from Essare of the Jacques Stable, with Mud third, four lengths further back.

Sun Shadow ran more than half the course of six furlongs in fourth or fifth position. Going to the stretch turn, Pony McAtee took him so wide that he was beyond the middel of the racing strip, but he needed the space in which to run. And how he did burn up the ground when free!

Past Essare, Mud and Exposay, Sun Shadow went fleeting. Despite the extra ground he covered, Sun Shadow ran the distance in 1:13 3-5.

Sun Kin Home First.

The first son of Sun Briar to win was Sun Kin in the third race, when he defeated a long shot that for a time threatened to make it three in a row for the non-favorites.

By winning, Sun Kin forced Keydet into the second notch, where he paid fat odds to place. Previously Rogue's Gold had won the opener at more than 7 to 1, and Rosinante had taken the second contest at more than 14 to 1.

To beat off Keydet, Sun Kin stood a drive and came under the wire comfortably with a length and a half to spare. Keydet, in turn, had a length on Tillie, which finished courageously to earn the short end of the purse. This race was at a mile and a furlong. The time was 1:56 3-5.

LAURI DIVIDES BLOCKS.

However, Trails St. Jean in Total Points by 254 to 183.

Orfino Lauri divided blocks with Andrew St. Jean yesterday at the Strand Academy in the first two blocks of their 1,500-point pocket billiard match but trails in total points, 254 to 183. Lauri won in the afternoon, 129 to 90, in thirteen innings, but lost, 164 to 54, in twenty-five innings. In the afternoon both players had high runs of 30. St. Jean ran 52 at night and Lauri 13.

CURRENT, E. POOL UP, WINS AT LOUISVILLE

Clark Filly Leads Frances Milward by Five Lengths in the Churchill Downs Feature.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 26 (AP).—R. S. Clark's 2-year-old Current, a daughter of Chatterton—Dark Water and a double stake winner of the year, won the fourth race, which was for 2-year-old fillies and contested over six furlongs at the Churchill Downs track today.

Ridden by Earl Pool, Current took the lead at the break. As she reached the far turn Pool loosed his hold on her and she gradually increased her lead and at the end was five lengths in advance of Frances Milward, with Chatter Black taking the show. The time was 1:14, over a fast track, and the winner paid $2.22 for a $2 ticket straight and $2.30 to place.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 26.—Army began its preparations this afternoon for the final game on its schedule, that with Stanford University, by a brief outdoor practice followed by a football discussion in the gymnasium. Every man was present. The cadets came through the Nebraska game battered and bruised, but there were no serious injuries.

Today the cadets indulged in kicking, passing and handling the ball. The weather was cold and the field frozen har.

Tomorrow Army will start an intensive drive for the contest with Pop Warner's Coast eleven, which will be played at the Yankee Stadium in New York next Saturday afternoon at 1:30.

The Stanford game will take the place this year of the Navy game on the Army's schedule. By the terms of an agreement signed by Army and Stanford, the Army eleven will make the trip to the West Coast next season to meet Stanford in a return game.

The cadets have had to devote so much of their time of late to preparation for other hard games that there has been but little or no attention directed to revising ways and means of stopping Warner's attack, an offensive which Army's scrub eleven recently has been endeavoring to master and which will be put into action for the benefit of the varsity in a hard session scheduled for tomorrow afternoon.

The Army will concentrate this week on building up a defense against the Californians and will have but brief opportunity for polishing its own attack.

2,000 TO ATTEND SMOKER.

West Point Society of New York to Stage Affair Friday.

More than 2,000 are expected to attend the Army football smoker at the Hotel Astor on Friday night. The affair is being sponsored by the West Point Society of New York and besides the graduates of West Point and Stanford many civilian supporters of the Army team are expected to be present.

Boxing bouts and wrestling matches, moving pictures and music by the 100-piece United States Military Academy Band will furnish some of the entertainment.

Secretary of War Davis, General Pershing and Major Gen. W. R. Davis have been invited to attend.

STANFORD HERE TOMORROW

To Stop at Rye, but Supporters Will Continue Here on Special.

The Stanford University football team, which will play the Army at the Yankee Stadium Saturday afternoon, and its supporters will arrive in New York State tomorrow on a special train of twelve coaches over the New York Central. The football squad probably will detrain at Harmon, N. Y., at about 4:30 P. M. and travel in buses from that point to the Westchester Biltmore Country Club aet Rye. The rest of the party will continue to New York City on train due to arrive at the Grand Central Station at 5:25 P. M.

St. John's Prep Team to Play Tennessee Team in Brooklyn

An intersectional football game between St. John's Prep of Brooklyn and Castle Heights Military Academy of Lebanon, Tenn., State prep school champions, will be played at Ebbets Field on Dec. 8, it was announced yesterday by the Rev. Father Savage, athletic director at St. John's. The Southerners will stop off at Washington for a practice session on their way north.

CORNELL ELEVEN HAS INDOOR DRILL

Snow-Covered Field Sends Team Into Baseball Cage, Where Aerial Defense Is Stressed.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 26.—A snow-covered practice field drove the Cornell football squad indoors for the last two drills before the players entrain tomorrow night for Philadelphia, where on Franklin Field Cornell will close its season against Pennsylvania Thursday.

In the baseball cage today, the coaching staff kept at the work of perfecting a defense against the forward pass, one of Cornell's weaknesses throughout the season. The aerial game as an attacking weapon was also stressed.

The squad also went through a long signal drill in which the coaches endeavored to perfect the timing of the running game. Dummy scrimmage concluded the afternoon workout.

Tomorrow the squad will hold a light practice session and the players will leave late tomorrow night, arriving in Philadelphia early Wednesday morning.

There have been no changes in the varsity line-up and the only now in doubt is that of right guard. Paul Hunt, sophomore, who has been ill, may start Thursday. Cobb, who has played in most of the games, was at right guard today.

Two substitutes held down the tackle and end posts on the right side of the line and indications are that they will start. Parker is at tackle in place of Sam Wakeman and Hunter is at end in place of Captain Dudley Schoales.

TILSON TO BE HONORED.

Will Receive 1928 Montclair Yale Club Bowl at Rally.

Representative John Q. Tilson will make the principal address at the annual football rally in Nick Roberts' Old Yale Barn in Montclair, on Dec. 8. Mr. Tilson will receive the 1928 Montclair Yale Club Bowl, which is given each year to a Yale alumnus who has won his "Y" in life. He is to receive the bowl "for distinguished public service since his graduation from Yale in 1891."

LEHIGH ELECTS MILLER.

Veteran Tackle Named Captain of Varsity Eleven for Next Season.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 26.—William (Tubby) Miller, a tackle, today was elected captain of the Lehigh University football team for the 1929 season.

Miller was one of the bulwarks on the Lehigh line. He will complete his third season on the varsity next year.

PENN SQUAD DRILLS FOR CORNELL FRAY

Injury May Keep Murphy, Star Back, Out of Game on Thanksgiving Day.

COLD ADDS ZEST TO WORK

Entire Varsity Team of 36 Will Depart Today for Seaview for Final Practice.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 26.—When Pennsylvania lines up against Cornell here on Thanksgiving Day Paul Murphy, flashy left halfback, may be on the bench. Murphy has been troubled with a wrenched shoulder ever since the Harvard and Columbia games and the coaches were undecided today whether he would be able to start.

Providing Murphy is not in shape either Dick Gentle of Brookline, Mass., or Carroll Rosenbloom of Baltimore will take his place. Gentle started the season as regular fullback and Rosenbloom relieved him in the Chicago game.

While a cold wind swept Franklin Field today, the Red and Blue wound up its home practice for the invasion of Gil Dobie's Ithacans. An occasional flurry of snow put the players on their toes while Johnny Shober called the signals. Walt Opekun was at fullback, with Captain Paul Scull and Gentle halfbacks.

Shortly after noon tomorrow, the entire varsity squad of thirty-six players, coaching staff and managers will leave for the Seaview Golf Club near Absecon to remain until Thursday morning. Light drills will be held tomorrow and Wednesday afternoons near the golf course.

SNOW HINDERS COLGATE.

Players Have Brief Workout for Game With Brown Thursday.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Nov. 26.—Practice for the final game of the season against Brown on Thanksgiving Day was hindered by snow here this afternoon and Coach Abell gave the Colgate squad only a brief work-out.

The squad is to start for Providence tomorrow night. Five seniors who will be playing their final game for Colgate against Brown are Captain Dumont, Ray Vaughn, Mathews, Schroeder and Drews.

W. & J. AND WEST VA. STAGE HARD WORKOUTS

Cold Fails to Hamper Practice of Teams Which Will Clash Thanksgiving Day.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 26.—Every member of the varsity squad at Washington and Jefferson College was in uniform this afternoon as practice was resumed for the concluding contest of the year with West Virginia at Morgantown on Thanksgiving Day.

Head Coach Andy Kerr put the players through a brisk workout on the snow-covered girdiron, the drill consisting almost entirely of signal work. It was not as long as usual, Kerr deciding to augment it with a blackboard session. With the squad in better physical shape than in the past seven weeks, the Presidents hope to make their best showing against the Mountaineers.

West Va. Stages Brisk Drill.

Special to The New York Times.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 26.—West Virginia University's football squad worked out on the frozen turf of Mountaineer Field today and then went back to the old Athletic Field to conclude the session under the glare of floodlights. Many wore gloves and each player donned two or three jerseys over which a heavy hood was drawn.

The wintry blasts did not keep Bartrug and Glenn from giving a fine punting exhibition, but the biting winds did numb the hands of Larue, Ryan and Captain Keefer to such an extent that punt catching was nearly impossible.

DILLON NAMED AT HARVARD.

New Yorker Is Appointed First Assistant Football Manager.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 26.—Clarence Douglas Dillon, 1931, of New York City, has been appointed first assistant manager of the Harvard football team, according to selections announced today subject to the approval of the Harvard committee on the regulation of athletic sports.

In his senior year, Dillon will follow as manager of the varsity team. Stephen Pierce Duggan Jr., 1931, also of New York City, was appointed second assistant manager. Duggan will manage the second football team next year.

HORWEEN'S STATUS STILL IS WITHHELD

Bingham Says Harvard Will Take No Action on Coaching Problem Till January.

RECALLS TALK WITH COACH

But Athletic Director Gives No Hint as to Whether Football Mentor Will Remain.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 26 (AP).—The football coaching situation at Harvard was unsettled today and probably will remain so until January.

William J. Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard, announced that "in all probability it will be January before I have any announcement to make on the coaching subject."

In the meantime, Arnold Horween, present coach of the Crimson, was bound for Chicago to be married and to resume his business activities. Horween announced to members of the Harvard team on Saturday night that he would be married on Thursday to Miss Marion Eisendrath of Chicago.

There was no intimation in Bingham's statement today that Horween would not be coach of the Crimson eleven next year. Before the Yale game there were numerous stories that Horween would be succeeded by Eddie Case, present freshman coach at Harvard.

"I spent a good deal of time talking with Arnold Horween in New York City on Sunday," Bingham said. "No definite conclusion on the coaching situation has yet been reached and probably none will be until Mr. Horween had studied his business affairs at first hand and has returned from his wedding trip."

Horween's Bride an Heiress.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Arnold Horween, Harvard coach, will wed Miss Marion Eisendrath, Chicago heiress, in a Thanksgiving ceremony here, it was learned today on Horween's arrival from New York. His intended bride is the daughter of the late William N. Eisendrath, Chicago leather manufacturer, whose estate at the time of his death a year and a half ago was found to be $2,500,000.

Whether Horween will continue as coach at Harvard, he said today, had not been decided. He intimated that he was awaiting word from Harvard officials which would be forthcoming on his return from his wedding trip, some time in January. He plans to spend six or seven weeks in the South, leaving with his bride immediately after the ceremony on Thursday.

Miss Eisendrath makes her home with her mother and a brother at 4,441 Drexel Boulevard. She has been visiting in the east and returned today with Mrs. Eisendrath and her brother.

Carnegie-Notre Dame Set Date.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 26 (AP).—Notre Dame and Carnegie Tech will meet on the gridiron at Pitt Stadium here Oct. 26 next season, Carnegie athletic officials announced today. The Carnegie-Pitt game, usually played on Oct. 26, was changed to Nov. 16.

Two Touchdowns Scored by Columbia Eleven Against Jayvees in Intensive Drill

COLUMBIA VARSITY GETS 2 TOUCHDOWNS

First Team Scrimmages 45 Minutes Against Jayvees, Preparing for Syracuse.

STANCZYK PLAYS WELL

Tallies on 40-Yard Run, While His Pass to Costigan Results in Other Score.

One of the most intensive scrimmages of the season yesterday practically rounded out Columbia's heavy preparation for its annual game with Syracuse at Baker Field on Thursday. Coach Charley Crowley sent his first eleven against the junior varsity team for forty-five minutes and then had the second and third teams oppose the jayvees.

Joe Stanczyk, sophomore luminary, was the outstanding figure in yesterday's workout. The Hudson Falls boy, who is making a valiant effort to win one of the halfback positions, gave the junior varsity men a busy afternoon. Stancayk continually broke through the opposing team for large gains, and his passing and defensive work were highly effective against the jayvees.

Stanczyk scored one of the two touchdowns made by the first team and he was indirectly responsible for the other. Early in the scrimmage Stanczyk circled his own right end and ran 40 yards through the entire junior varsity secondary defense for a touchdown.

Costigan Scores on Pass.

One minute before the regulars were ordered to the showers Stanczyk threw a pass to Fritz Costigan, sophomore wingman, who carried the ball 15 yards to score the second touchdown.

No scoring was done in the scrimmaging between the second team and the junior varsity, but Crowley was elated over the fine attack put on by his second-string back field. Crowley believes that he will be equipped with more capable reserve strength for the Syracuse game than he has for any previous game this year. The back field that probably will start against the up-Staters will consist of Phil Lifiander, quarterback; Harry Scott and Bob Hamilton, halfbacks, and Bill Buser, fullback. Stanczyk is practically certain to get in the game, and other substitutes are likely to be Earl Carlsten, Jimmy Sheridan and Eddie Anderson.

To Concentrate on Defense.

Crowley may stage a light scrimmage this afternoon, but the probabilities are that he will concentrate on a defensive dummy scrimmage, schooling the varsity in a defense against Syracuse's running and passing attacks. A light workout tomorrow will conclude the Lions' preparation.

The Syracuse squad will arrive in New York tomorrow morning and will work out at Baker Field some time during the day. A cheering section of 2,000 from Syracuse will arrive in this city Thursday morning, as well as the band. Syracuse will establish its headquarters at the Hotel Roosevelt.

SYRACUSE ELEVEN PRACTICES INDOORS

Final Drill Session Held in Gym as Snow Covers Field—Squad Leaves Today.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 26.—The Syracuse University football squad held its final home practice session indoors at the Archbold Gymnasium in preparation for the Thanksgiving Day game with Columbia. Eighteen inches of snow covered the stadium field and Head Coach Lew Andreas was fearful of injuring his men by an outdoor drill because of the treacherous footing.

The first Syracuse squad of twenty-five players, with Coach Andreas and assistants, Manager Richard Lloyd and Trainer Hugo, will entrain from Syracuse on the Empire State Limited late tomorrow afternoon. Headquarters for Syracuse alumni and followers will be at the Roosevelt Hotel. The team, however, will be at the Hotel Gramatan, Bronxville, N. Y.

PITT TO FINISH WORK FOR PENN STATE TODAY

Only Light Signal Rehearsal Is Planned Tomorrow for Thanksgiving Day Game.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 26.—Pittsburgh will hold its last hard practice tomorrow afternoon for its final game of the season Thursday with Penn State in a vigorous workout. Wednesday's drill, the last practice of 1928, will consist of light signal rehearsal.

Both teams are expected to be in excellent condition for the game, the thirty-first meeting of Pitt and Penn State on the gridiron.

Coach Bezdek will rely on John French, a sophomore halfback, and Steven Hamas, fullback, to carry on much of the attack against Pitt.

PENN STATE HOLDS DRILL.

Eleven Practices Defense for the Pittsburgh Game Thursday.

Special to The New York Times.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 26.—Penn State tonight held its next to the last home practice before the Thanksgiving Day football season winds up at Pittsburgh, Coach Hugo Bezdek spending an hour and a half drilling his linemen and backs in the fundamentals of defense play. He stressed in particular the means of overcoming the Pittsburgh mode of attack.

N. Y. U. Fencers to Meet Navy.

The New York University fencing team will meet Navy at Annapolis on Feb. 9 in their annual encounter, according to an announcement made last night by Coach Costello of New York University.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

HARVARD gained ground this season. In the campaign of 1927 the Princeton Tiger had a clear run of victories up to the final game with Yale and lost that stirring battle by a thin red whisker. This year the Tiger clawed the Bulldog rather thoroughly, but other events combined to make the campaign something of a mild disappointment. The tie with Ohio State was quite all right, but the tie with Virginia was a distinct shock, and the final defeat by the Navy was a real knockout blow.

While it is true that the chief aim of a Princeton team these days is to defeat Yale, on a purely football basis it seems that the 1928 Tiger team did not do as well as the 1927 team.

Yale hit the slippery chute and took a long ride down hill. The Yale team of 1927 lost an early season engagement to Georgia, but thereafter defeated Army, Dartmouth, Princeton and Harvard and was given equal rank with any team in the country at the close of the campaign. This year a Yale team that started out with bright prospects wound up with a record that included defeats by Maryland, Army, Princeton and Harvard. In the well-worn words of Mark Antony: "Oh, what a fall was there, my countrymen!"

On the other hand, Harvard lost to Purdue, Dartmouth, Penn and Yale in 1927, and the gloom around Cambridge at the start of this season was thicker than a London fog. The Crimson record for the recent campaign is five victories, two defeats and one tie, which is a decided improvement. It was Harvard that started the flashy Dartmouth team on the downward path and the smashing victory over Yale clinched the point that the Crimson team of 1928 was several statute miles ahead of the team of 1927.

Comparing this season's records with last year's results, it might be said that Princeton slipped a little, Yale tumbled a long way, and Harvard made a tremendous gain. All of which is causing a good deal of jubilation in the vicinity of Cambridge, Mass.

The Prize for Courtesy.

It must be that Georgetown is out to win the gridiron crown for courtesy, and, incidentally, it is a prize worth having if sportsmanship bears more than a minor relation to sport. Claude Grigsby, captain of last year's Georgetown team, used to make a habit of taking time out, not when Georgetown needed it but when a rival team needed it and couldn't get it without taking a penalty with it. That was a fine gesture and was duly appreciated.

In the Fordham-Georgetown game last Saturday the Fordham player who gave the lads from the Potomac the hardest fight was Beloin at guard. Beloin has played a great game for the Maroon all season, and he was going at his usual smashing pace against Georgetown. With the game in the hands of Georgetown, Beloin was finally relieved by a substitute, but before he could trot off the field the opposing Georgetown lineman insisted upon running up and shaking hands with him. Evidently the Hilltoppers think highly of a good player, even when he plays against them.

Now comes Lou Little, Georgetown coach, with the assertion that N. Y. U.'s defeat at the hands of Georgetown should not be allowed to cloud the great record of the Violet team. "We won," says Little, "but N. Y. U. had the stronger team. I think they have the best team in the country." A good many people think the same way, but it was rather nice of the coach of a team that defeated N. Y. U. to come out and put it in the way that Lou Little did.

The Right Spirit.

Recent comment about the open season on coaches whose teams had a bad season brought a note from one of the authorities at the University of Rochester with regard to Chick Davies, the Rochester coach, and the traditional game with Hobart.

Up at Rochester they think that Davies, former star back-field man of the Pitt Panthers, is a good football coach regardless of the fact that Hobart, their traditional rival, defeated Rochester in 1926 and 1927. With a third defeat apparently staring them in a face a week ago, the Rochester authorities announced that Davies had been re-engaged for next year, timing the announcement to prove that the winning or losing of a football game was not the deciding point in hiring or firing a coach at Rochester.

It was rather interesting to note that after the announcement the Rochester players went out and won the game from Hobart in a hard-fought battle.

But regardless of victory or defeat in that particular game, there's no doubt that the men in charge of athletics at Rochester have the right idea on the coaching problem. The "big" college, demanding victory or the summary execution of the coach, can learn something from many of the smaller colleges in this respect.

The All-American Argument.

"Sir—I believe I am correct in saying that practically all colleges observe the three-year rule as to eligibility for football. If this assumption is correct, why place on the All-American team players on teams which do not respect the three-year rule? In doing so it appears to me than an injustice is done to players on teams that observe the rule.

"There have been cases in which men were placed on the All-American team when they had played as many as five or more years of varsity football. Many good friends of athletics feel rather deeply about this situation, and I am certain the matter can be helped by a free and open discussion of the matter. Very truly yours, L. O'S."

This shot, of course, is aimed directly at the Army, but it is doubtful that Army officials are much interested in the matter. Indeed, any one who "feels rather deeply" about a modern All-American team is in a sad way, for the football situation being what it is an All-American team is no longer a dream; it's a nightmare. There is no way of arriving at any sensible basis of comparison in a nation-wide field. The best that any critic can do is to name the best players he may have seen in the course of the season, and even then he may have seen some players far above or far below their usual speed.

As for the Army, the authorities at West Point think that a full participation in sport for all cadets helps to turn out better officers for the regular army, and they are sticking to that program, regardless of any argument about All-American football teams.

N. Y. U. BEGINS DRIVE FOR OREGON STATE

Squad Holds Light Practice at Yankee Stadium for Game Thanksgiving Day.

New York University's football team commenced preparations yesterday afternoon for the game with the Oregon State College eleven from Corvallis set for the Yankee Stadium on Thanksgiving Day afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

The Violet squad held a light practice session yesterday at the stadium. The workout consisted of a light signal drill and a passing and kicking drill and calisthenics. A scrimmage is on the program for this afternoon. Tomorrow the Oregon State players will work out at the stadium.

Ken Strong spent part of the session in a special kicking drill. Meehan kept his star busy yesterday, as he wants him fit for the duel with the Pacific Coast kickers.

Thursday will mark the final appearance of fifteen members of the New York University squad as members of the varsity football team. The N. Y. U. players who are due to graduate this June include Captain Al Lassman, Kenneth Strong, Arthur Roberts, Charles Riordan, Edward Weiner, Miguel Blis, Edward Buckley, Al Higgins, Frank Cestari, Earl Ashton, William Wexler, Robert Barrabee, Howard Pearlman, Ollie Satenstein and Arthur Norton.

Meehan expects to utilize his varsity ball-carrying quartet in the game with the Pacific Coast team. Strong, along with Jinx O'Herin, Ed Hill and Beryl Follet, will start in the line-up.

BUCKNELL BACK INJURED.

Brumbaugh, Quarterback, Sent to Hospital With Torn Muscle.

Special to The New York Times.

LEWISBURG, Pa., Nov. 26.—Bucknell's hopes for a victory over its rival, Tempel, here on Thanksgiving Day received a setback today when Justin Brumbaugh, quarterback and triple threat star, was sent to the University Hospital with a torn muscle. The injury is considered quite serious and Brumbaugh is not expected to be able to face the Owls.

Coach Snavely sent the Bisons through a brisk dummy scrimmage today and had Charley Jones calling signals for team A.

Lou Jones, a guard on the eleven will be opposing Hansen, Temple star halfback, for the second time this year. The last meeting between the two was at the Intercollegiate boxing championships, in which Jones knocked out Hansen in one round.

CARNEY RUTGERS LEADER.

Mount Vernon Athlete to Head Varsity Track Team.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 26.—John M. Carney of Mount Vernon, N. Y., was today elected captain of the Rutgers varsity track team. Carney is a senior and has been a varsity track and football star on Rutgers teams since his entrance here three years ago. He is a quarter and half-miler and has been a consistent winner in both events for the past two years.

In addition, Carney is one of the leaders on the Rutgers campus, being chairman of the Student Council and a member of Cap and Skull, the senior honorary society. He is also manager and soloist of the Musical Club.

WILCE TO CONFER HERE NEXT MONTH ON OFFER

Retiring Ohio State Football Coach Declines to Discuss the Rumored Propositions.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 26 (AP).—Dr. John W. Wilce is giving "full consideration" to several coaching offers and his future plans "will be shaped by conferences in Chicago and New York during the next three weeks," he said today as he prepared to relinquish his position as head football coach at Ohio State University after sixteen years of service.

Dr. Wilce has not decided whether to continue coaching or to practice medicine, he said. He refused to comment on a report that Harvard was offering him Arnold Horween's position, that Dartmouth and Nebraska had made advances or that he would reconsider his resignation if he were asked to do so.

"My future will be shaped by events of the next three weeks," he said. "Until after the Western Conference meeting at Chicago and the Intercollegiate Association meeting in New York I am not at liberty to say what I plan doing. Conferences which I am to have at those meetings, particularly the one in New York, will determine my future course."

BIG TEN TO MEET DEC. 7-8.

Few Changes in Rules Are Likely to Be Suggested.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26 (AP).—Big Ten coaches, directors of athletics and faculty representatives are expected to make few suggestions for changes in athletic rules when they convene for their annual business meeting here Dec. 7 and 8, Major John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics, said reports from every camp in the conference indicated satisfaction. All games, he said, were refereed well and the football season especially was highly successful from every standpoint.

Present plans call for a meeting of the basketball officials on the first day for a general discussion of rules and agreement upon uniform interpretations. Football, baseball and track officials will meet on Dec. 8. Next year's schedules have been completed and agreed upon, but the football coaches are expected to make recommendations to the rules committee on certain formations. The faculty committee will meet on both days.

CRANE CHOSEN BY ILLINOIS.

Guard on Eleven Elected as Captain of 1929 Team.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 26 (AP).—Russell J. Crane of Chicago, guard, tonight was elected captain of the Illinois football team, champion of the Big Ten.

Crane is a junior and holder of the heavyweight boxing championship of the university.

FLORIDA DECLINES GAME.

Rule Forbids Meeting With Villanova in Post-Season Contest.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov 26 (AP).—The University of Florida cannot consider a post-season football game with Villanova College, Captain E. M. Yon, athletic director, said tonight when told of an invitation issued by the Eastern school.

Southern conference rules forbid post-season games, Captain Yon declared, except in isolated cases.

DINNER IS HELD FOR YALE ELEVEN

More Than 115 Players, Coaches and Trainers Attend Annual Fete in New Haven.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 26.—Yale failed to elect a football captain at the annual dinner of the gridiron squad tonight, although it was announced officially earlier in the day that the function would take place during the festivities at the Hotel Taft. More than 115 players, including the regulars and scrubs along with coaches and trainers were at the dinner.

The election will be held after the executive committee reviews the eligible list of players entitled to vote.

Richard Wayne Goss, manager of the football team, presided. Speeches were made by Head Coach Mal Stevens; Captain Max Eddy; Coach Cleon Osborn of the freshman. Coaches Bill Webster, Charley Comerford and Ray Pond; Jack Cates, director of athletics, and Harold Woodcock, manager of athletics at Yale. Tad Jones, head of the football committee, was away because of business engagements.

All spoke briefly and no announcement of plans for next season was made.

HARD FOOTBALL GAMES FOR LEADERS IN SOUTH

Five Teams Unbeaten and Untied in Conference Face Football Battles on Thanksgiving.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 26 (AP).—Five teams unbeaten and untied in the Southern Conference will play on Thanksgiving Day, and the games in which they appear may furnish some upsets.

The undefeated Georgia Tech machine will face Alabama Poly. The history of this classic dates from 1892, with Alabama Poly having won thirteen and Georgia Tech nine games.

Kentucky can afford to take chances against the unbeaten Tennessee team at Knoxville, while Washington and Lee, conquered by many, can go into the game at Jacksonville against Florida with the same spirit.

Virgina Military Institute will be the final obstacle in the path to State supremacy for Virginia Polytechnic Institute and will attempt to crush V. P. I.'s hopes of finishing with a perfect conference record. This game amounts to the "service game" of the South. Two of the oldest military colleges in the nation, the Cadets of Lexington and the Gobblers of Blacksburg, will provide all the glamour of an ancient rivalry at Roanoke.

North Carolina and Virginia, who play at Charlottesville, have met since 1892. Sewanee, rival of Vanderbilt since 1891, is out to prevent an expected Vanderbilt victory at Nashville.

Louisiana State, with visions of a perfect conference record, also has a traditional opponent to overcome. Tulane, battered but powerful, will be in Louisiana's path at New Orleans. Georgia and Alabama, both out of the title running, will draw Birmingham's thousands. The day's attractions, all conference games considered, should find some quarter of a million fans in attendance.

LASSMAN IMPROVES; HARPSTER A VISITOR

Injured N. Y. U. Captain Receives the Congratulations of Carnegie Tech Leader.

MAY QUIT HOSPITAL SOON

But Violet Star Definitely Will Be Out of Game When Mates Face Oregon State.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 26.—The condition of Al Lassman, captain of the New York University football team, was reported as considerably improved at the Mercy Hospital here today, where he is resting as a result of head injuries received in the game Saturday between his team and Carnegie Tech. The Violet leader remained completely conscious.

Lassman was able to carry on a conversation, and spoke for more than twenty minutes this afternoon with Captain Harpster of the Carnegie eleven. The rival captains shook hands and spoke at length about the game in which the New York player was hurt.

A huge floral contribution, with violets as the predominating color and with a rag doll in the centre costumed as a football player, was sent to the New York University player's bedside by the Carnegie squad.

For the second time in two days Lassman spoke to his mother in Cambridge, Mass., by telephone, assuring her that he was out of any danger.

It was announced at the hospital that Lassman's condition was so good that he might be released within two days. At any rate, it was further declared, there is not much chance of the N. Y. U. captain being kept here more than two weeks. He, of course, will be unable to play on Thursday against Oregon State.

BLAKESLEY BEST HITTER.

New Haven Outfielder Gained Eastern League Batting Honors.

Jim Blakesley, New Haven outfielder, captured the batting honors in the Eastern League for the 1928 season, according to the official averages just released. Blakesley took part in 152 games, in which he amassed a percentage of 382. He also showed the way in base hits, collecting 217, led in total bases on hits with 350, and secured the most two-base blows, registering 50.

John Rower gained the home-run honors, hitting for the circuit on twenty-seven occasions.

New Haven, which won the pennant, captured both the team batting and fielding honors, the former with a mark of .290 and the latter with a .971 percentage.

New Haven also had the leading first baseman, second baseman and catcher, according to the fielding records. Elmer Bowman made only seven errors all season at the initial sack, for an average of .995. Scheer led the second basemen, while Kermit Smith was the best catcher in the field. Eugene Sheridan of Pittsfield showed the way to third basemen, while A. J. Maderas, who played for Albany and Pittsfield, led the shortstops. Albert, with only four errors, gained the honors in the outfield.

JACOBS BEATS SCHULTHEIS.

Gains Semi-Final in Met. Y. M. C. A. Handball Title Play.

Irving Jacobs defeated Fred Schultheis, 21—4, 21—7, and gained the semi-final round of the Metropolitan Y. M. C. A. one-wall singles handball championship at the Twenty-third Street Branch, their home court, last night.

G. G. Alger, Passaic Branch, defeated W. Bondini, Brooklyn Central Branch, 21—14, 21—10, and F. Schmidt, West Side Branch, defeated A. Brodocimi, Twenty-third Street Branch, 21—15, 18—21, 21—18, while J. Wildman, Newark Branch, eliminated A. Cahn, Twenty-third Street Branch, 21—13, 17—21, 21—7, in the other match.

CREEDEN BACK IN PLAY.

Boston College Star Resumes Place After Six Days' Absence.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWTON, Mass., Nov. 26.—Paddy Creeden, star Boston College halfback, returned to practice today after an absence of six days. Creeden worked with the varsity in the long signal drill that comprised the practice.

McKenny plans intensive work for the next two days before the squad departs Wednesday for the Sandy Burr Country Club in Wayland, where the players will remain until Saturday, when they meet Holy Cross.

HOLY CROSS STARTS DRIVE.

Prepares for Boston College, Its Big Game of the Season.

Special to The New York Times.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 26.—Holy Cross started its final drive to meet its big test of the season on Saturday, Boston College. The squad came out of the Providence game in good condition and expects to show its full strength against the Maroon.

Much time is to be given to the offense in the next few days and a shift in the back field is anticipated. The freshmen have been working on Boston's plays and will show them to the varsity tomorrow.

EACH DARTMOUTH MAN NAMES BEST OPPONENT

Football Regulars Select 4 Northwestern and 3 Harvard Players for Team.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 26 (AP).—The Dartmouth College Daily today announced an all-opponent team in which each regular member of the Green's varsity football team selected the strongest man who faced him on the gridiron during the season. Of the eleven men selected, Northwestern, which defeated Dartmouth in an intersectional game at Evanston last Saturday, placed four and Harvard, which also defeated the Green, three. Cornell and Yale each placed one man on the team.

Al Marsters, the Green's backfield ace, said that Dave Guarnaccia, who scored two touchdowns for Harvard in the Yale game, was the best halfback to play against him during the season.

SAYS HAWLEY WILL RETURN.

Hensage States Dartmouth Mentor Will Coach Team Next Year.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 26 (AP).—On his return here from the Northwestern game today, Harry Hensage, director of Dartmouth athletics, said that he expected Jess Hawley would return next Fall to coach the Dartmouth varsity football team.

"Jess Hawley will return to coach Dartmouth next year, as far as I know," Hensage informed a delegation of undergraduates.

Hawley, who has been in charge of Dartmouth's football activities for the past six years, has never been under contract. It was understood here that Hawley's duties as general manager of a Chicago radio concern would force him to retire from the coaching game.

AN EXCHANGE OF COURTESIES.

A stranger hitherto to Latin America, Mr. HOOVER, in his first landing yesterday upon Central American soil, must have been impressed with the high-flown courtesy of his hosts. This is something more than official. The governments that invited him will attend in due form to every ceremonial, but behind all that will lie an exquisiteness of manner to which it is not easy for North Americans to give expression, but which delights them all the more when they see it displayed so naturally and engagingly by their South American neighbors. In the presence of a highly cultivated and hospitable South American, a cold citizen of the North feels himself horribly deficient in certain social graces.

Mr. HOOVER will doubtless do all in his power to give courtesy for courtesy. His visit itself is, under the circumstances, as fine an attention as he could pay to his Latin-American friends. Yet he will be, in a way, compelled to put a strain upon their native cordiality. For that would prompt them to urge him to a long and leisurely stay. Everything which they have they would instantly place "à su disposicion" and wonder why he must hurry away. But their courtesy itself will lead them to perceive that their guest cannot linger as he would, being limited for time if he is to make the entire round of their countries, so that they will be sure to speed him on his way with every token of appreciation and gratitude for the favor which he has done them.

THE GREAT PROTECTION CHORUS

Those who hoped that Mr. FORDNEY and Mr. MCCUMBER had removed most of the woes caused by the Underwood tariff are now in a way to be convinced that the masterpiece of 1922 was sadly defective. It must have been a kind of free-trade measure, for the country is now "flooded" with products of the pauper labor of Europe and Asia. "Everybody" is now attacking the tariff. The farmers or some of the farmers or most of the farmers are crying for steeper rates on agricultural products. It has not been observed that any of them pine for higher prices on the manufactured products they have to buy. The New England manufacturers want the duties jacked up on a goodly number of articles.

Their Pennsylvania brethren report with horror the actual entrance of imports into the very capital of protection. The cement manufacturers in the seaboard States are being squeezed by foreign cement. As the grand protection feast draws nearer, the applicants for seats will grow more numerous and hopeful. Through a special agency, the American Wage Earners' Protective Conference, the American Federation of Labor is seeking to make its powerful influence a unit for tariff legislation in the interest of its members. All these revivals of fury against importation are gratifying to the veteran protectionist. Why are not NELSON DINGLEY Jr. and ROSWELL D. HORR alive to see reanimated the spirit of a better day?

Those "twin evils, polygamy and slavery," have disappeared even from the Republican platform, we believe. Prohibition has triumphed. Importation seems to be looming promisingly as the chief curse of the United States. These preliminary demonstrations of the schedule-raisers have an edifying moral significance. They show the noble altruism of the American people. If the farmer has to pay more for what he buys, he is supposed to get his compensation in the higher prices of what he sells. If the protected workman pays more for his food, he is compensated by high wages and, according to the theory, steadier employment. The unprotected pay a double fine, but we don't hear them making any murmur.

Political parties used to promise to bring down the cost of living. In this happier age they are expected to push it up. Pessimists may look forward to possible bitterness among the dividers of the spoils at the called session of Congress. Optimists will put their confidence in the delicate art of log-rolling. Even if that session has to deal with both farm relief and tariff revision, Mr. HOOVER can await the issue philosophically. Birds of ill omen may chatter about Mr. TAFT'S special tariff session of 1909; but the good will be sure that the cantankerousness of so many Congressmen of that unenlightened period can have no parallel in this sweeter age.

AFTER "JIM CROW" AGAIN.

One of the arguments advanced by the Southern Democratic leaders in the last campaign against the efforts of the "Hoovercrats" was that, if the Solid South broke, its negro population would immediately agitate for full civil rights. According to our Watch-Tower correspondent at St. Louis, Mr. LACOSS, the movement already has begun, and the press of Tennessee and Arkansas is full of it. A tentative plan is to start the fight against "Jim Crow" cars in Virginia because that State gave its electoral vote to Mr. HOOVER and is close enough to Washington to be affected by Congressional opinion—the latter idea, incidentally, being quite fallacious. The negro leaders want Congress to cut into the separate-compartment system in the South, an effort which has failed heretofore, because enough Northern and Eastern Democrats have stood with Southerners to prevent serious consideration. The temporary alliance of anti-Smith Democrats and Republicans who carried five Southern States for Mr. HOOVER will be asked to reward the negro voting bloc, without which they would not have won.

It would not seem likely that the Federal legislative power could be invoked against "Jim Crow" cars and the like. A line of court decisions stands in the way, the major judicial requirement having been that facilities of equal comfort must be provided negroes for intra-state journeys. The colored auxiliaries of the "Hoovercrats" will find that their white allies used them for temporary purposes and have no idea of upsetting the civil-social arrangements to the extent desired. The Southern negro leaders will call this inconsistent and ungrateful, but there are many problems to be solved and years of progress to be made before changes can come in some of these matters.

Negroes have been used as political pawns in the South for so many years by the Republican party, and their delegate votes employed so steadily to nominate Presidents with whom they later had no influence, that they can hardly be surprised if their temporary Democratic allies decline to pay their political debts. The "Jim Crow" laws are both humiliating and unfair to the decent and intelligent members of the negro race, but there are worse things that might result from trying to change ingrained custom by unpopular law. Facts rather than principles will continue to govern the handling of the negro problem in the South, where it really is a problem. The wiser negro leaders—such men as BOOKER T. WASHINGTON and Major ROBERT MOTON—have always recognized this truth and preferred to await the slow remedy of time.

OUTDOOR MUSEUMS.

The National Park Service is to be congratulated on the success of its work in establishing natural history museums and nature trails in the national parks. A recent report indicates that in addition to the museum already in operation in the Yosemite, a sum of $118,000 has been provided for the construction of a museum in the Yellowstone, and for a trailside museum and observation station at Yavapai Point, in the Grand Canyon National Park. The purpose is to enable visitors who are interested in natural history to study on the spot the flora, fauna and geology of the parks.

These advantages are well illustrated in the Yosemite park museum. Not only does it contain models to show the action of glaciation and the probable development of the gorges and half-domes of the Yosemite, but it has a collection of the birds to be seen in the park, and of the animals at various altitudes, as well as specimens of the commoner flowers and leaves and bark of the principal trees and shrubs to be found in different sections of the park. Any one wishing to know the natural life of the region may study it there. The curator of the museum or one of his assistants is always ready to give special information and to answer questions. The result is that the museum is constantly full of visitors and the time of the curator and his assistants is always occupied.

With wise foresight a number of so-called nature trails are being developed in the Yosemite. One has as its object to explain geological factors. The others are devoted to trees, shrubs and flowers. The principal plants and trees are labeled, and their history in brief is given. Parties are taken over these trails by naturalists. The few who enjoy discovery may follow them and derive pleasure from identifying the trees and flowers by searching for them unaided.

Such museums and nature trails are a logical development in making the parks as useful as possible. In their dual rôle as recreation grounds and sanctuaries of conservation they can be made to serve admirably in nature education. This truth has been recognized by educational and other organizations which, like the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial and the American Association of Museums, have taken an active part in encouraging the work referred to. Fortunately, the National Park Service has the advice of competent landscape architects and naturalists, with the result that special pains are taken in no way to mar the natural features.

SCHEER OF JUTLAND.

Admiral REINHARD SCHEER, who died in Germany yesterday, will always be acclaimed by his countrymen as commander of the High Seas Fleet who, by skillful manoeuvring, saved it from destruction at Skagerrack (Jutland) and inflicted heavy losses on the British Grand Fleet. Admiral SCHEER withdrew in the night to the German base without incurring a second action that could have resulted only in the overwhelming defeat of his fleet. The peculiarity of Jutland was that victory rested with neither side. The Germans did, indeed, claim the victory on the strength of having tactically prevented the closing in of a more powerful British fleet and of sending fourteen enemy ships to the bottom with a loss of 6,274 officers and men, as compared with eleven German ships sunk and 2,545 officers and men lost. That Admiral SCHEER'S fleet fought a better action with an inferior force can hardly be disputed, but victory the Germans could not call an issue which left the Grand Fleet in control of the waters from which its enemy had fled.

Indecisive as Jutland proved to be, inglorious as it was for the British Navy, the Germans learned that they could not hope to destroy British sea power with a fleet weaker in the battle line by many units. Admiral SCHEER left the Heligoland Bight but once after Jutland, on Aug. 19, 1916, when, warned by airship reconnoissance that the Grand Fleet was coming out in force to meet him, he returned to his base. In November, 1918, he ordered the High Seas Fleet to sea "to break the blockade," but the mutinous outbreak at Wilhelmshaven made the order appear only a gesture.

British pride was cut to the quick by loss of the opportunity to make an end of the German fleet at Jutland. It was lost, first by failure to effect a concentration of units in the indicated battle area, and secondly by Admiral JELLICOE'S unwillingness to disregard his orders for the security of his fleet. Strict constructionists will always uphold him. He was not to risk a night action. Commander VAN HISE in "Kiel and Jutland" declares that JELLICOE was right in not seeking a renewal of the battle after dark on May 31. He says: "The English "fleet, by remaining a 'fleet in "being,' by its mere continued exis-"tence, has so far fully fulfilled its "allotted task." But there were critics, like Lord SYDENHAM, who were inconsolable. He says:

A shattering victory off Jutland would have altered the whole course of the war, enabling us to seal the exits of the U-boats and to enter the Baltic, while creating profound discouragement in place of exaltation in Germany. Such a victory might have been won, but the new naval psychology made it impossible.

The controversy will be interminable. There will never be agreement about what actually occurred in the confusion and excitement of battle. But the fame of Admiral SCHEER is secure. In the hands of a man less brave, alert, resourceful and resolute the High Seas Fleet would have been surrounded and sunk.

A CONQUEST IN PERU.

In the war on disease in the tropics, the enemy has been driven out of one entrenchment which it has held for centuries. So long ago as the days of the Incas, it is inferred from the illness that befell PIZARRO'S soldiers, this enemy held certain passes against the newcomers as it had before that against the natives. It was perhaps this disease, among others, to which reference is made in the "New Laws for the Indies" for Mexico and Peru, forbidding "the employment of Indians in unhealthful localities." Except for the studies and discoveries made by men of science, the blood-sucking gnats, the unsuspected carriers of the germs of the disease, would have continued to hold certain areas against all comers. PIZARRO'S men ignorantly attributed their sufferings to fish or to the poisoning of the water. In attempts at peaceful conquest by the construction of the railroad over the Andes in a later century the enemy was found to be still there. Thousands of laborers were killed by the malady. They were literally "bled white," so great was the anemia.

Then the scientists came in. They found that the pestilence walked only in darkness. They suspected certain insects as carriers of the disease-giving germs. One young medical student inoculated himself to assist in locating the enemy. Forty years later (1925) a Peruvian Fellow of the Rockefeller Foundation brought to Dr. NOGUCHI of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research specimens of blood containing micro-organisms, which were isolated and found to be the "bacterial incitant" of the disease. This was Dr. NOGUCHI'S last contribution before he went off to another sector of the front, in Africa, there to engage himself in combat with another of man's inveterate enemies, the yellow fever germ, whose carrier has long been known but which had itself not been isolated.

Meanwhile, investigations into the mode of infection by the Peruvian insect, begun in 1913 by the American entomologist, CHARLES H. T. TOWNSEND, were proceeding, and at last certain gnats were found to be the transportation division of this invisible army, and Amazonians at that, blood-sucking female gnats—the females of the Phlebotomi noguchii. "The chain of evidence uniting Phlebotomus with Oroya fever "and verruga peruana may be said "to have been completed by these "tests." To this statement those who participated in the final capture of the enemy have set their names—HIDEYO NOGUCHI, RAYMOND C. SHANNON, EVELYN B. TILDEN, JOSEPH R. TYLER. So ends another romantic story of a modern conquest in Peru.

ENGLISH UNEMPLOYMENT.

The unemployed in Great Britain continue to trouble the dreams of statesmen and party leaders. The latest figures show an increase in the numbers out of work, though this is called "seasonal." That must be cold comfort for men and women without jobs. The whole subject was earnestly debated at the reopening of Parliament. Mr. CHURCHILL, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, made a long speech which was partly political, partly economic and industrial. When called upon by one of the Labor members, Mr. CLYNES, to do a great amount of Government spending, as the wise choice between paying for idleness and paying for work, Mr. CHURCHILL neatly quoted the words of Mr. RAMSAY MACDONALD, leader of the Labor Party, when he was Prime Minister. Mr. MACDONALD then said: "I wish to make "it perfectly clear that the Govern-"ment have no intention of drawing "off from normal channels of trade "large sums for extemporized meas-"ures which can only be palliative."

Yet the present Government is not sitting down before extensive unemployment with folded hands. Mr. CHURCHILL told the House of Commons of several different expedients which were being tried or would be tried. Among them were plans to facilitate foreign trade by extending the Export Credits scheme of 1920. There was also a method of helping general industry through improving and extending the supply of electricity. Projects are already in a forward condition to cover an area of 30,000 square miles and to serve a population of 27,000,000. The Government has also set on foot large plans for drainage of swamp lands and for checking erosion on the coasts which are expected to furnish work for a large number of the unemployed. Even more stress is laid upon training unemployed miners and others to become artisans. Through this recourse work has latterly been found for six or seven hundred men a week. If that rate can be kept up it will in time mean a substantial gain both for the workers themselves and for British industry.

Mr. CHURCHILL refused to end his speech on a note of pessimism. He admitted the extent of the evil which they were seeking to remedy, but insisted that more people were actually employed in England today than ever before. Savings have steadily increased, even in the hard years, and the investing power of the nation is still very great and is becoming larger. Many British factories are putting themselves in a position better to meet the stress of modern competition. All told, it is no time for "this small, overcrowded, over-"burdened but still unconquered "island" to despair of its future.

CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL NEEDS.

Since the removal of the Vanderbilt Clinic and the Sloane Hospital for Women from the neighborhood, the strain of additional service has been put on the New York Nursery and Child's Hospital at Sixty-first Street and Amsterdam Avenue. For 105 years it has been admitting prospective mothers, sick children and women requiring medical or surgical attention. It was one of the first hospitals to establish a dispensary for children, and it is now recognized as a leader in research and in the scientific treatment of children's diseases. The directors take pride in the fact that it has never turned a mother away because she was not able to pay for service. Nor has it ever refused admission to children suffering from diseases which can be cured in its wards.

Because of the extra tax upon its facilities during the past year, there is now a deficit which public-spirited citizens should meet. All members of the United Hospital Fund are making an appeal during Thanksgiving week for money to enlarge their work and increase its efficiency. The Nursery and Child's Hospital says in its annual report, just published: "The only condition "which it can set for admission is "sickness and need of treatment. "The ability to pay has never and "must never be considered in the "operation of this hospital."

One department of great value to the community as a whole is devoted to the care and disposition of waifs and foundlings turned over to the hospital by the city. In line with the best modern thought on the subject, the directors believe that no institutional care can take the place of home surroundings. Children brought to the hospital are given the best physical treatment that modern science can offer. They are kept clean and well fed, and exercise and play have a place in the lives of those old enough to require more than a crib. Children in good health are placed at once in one of the many homes eager to adopt a boy or girl. Sick infants are kept until they are well, and then find foster-parents. The hospital keeps in close touch with the parents who take children. Home service is supplied as freely to foster-mothers as to those who have come to the hospital for the birth of their babies.

This country as a whole does not stand as high in safety for infants and mothers as it should. The New York Nursery and Child's Hospital helps our average. A study of its records shows that infant mortality has decreased one-third and that the mortality of mothers is only one-tenth of what it was a hundred years ago. Last year only five mothers of the 2,425 maternity cases in the hospital were lost.

To carry on the free service in homes and in the wards and to coordinate all departments for the most effective and economical results the hospital needs funds. The general public profits by its work in raising standards as well as in the improvement of health, and it now has the opportunity to show its appreciation.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Political Habit.

Although Mr. HOOVER has definitely stated that he will consider no Cabinet appointments until he returns next January, the work of making a Cabinet for him goes on merrily. The ordinary thing is to assume that any prominent man who visits a President-elect is a candidate for one or another Secretaryship. Consequently, as no one of that kind is with Mr. HOOVER on the Maryland except Ambassador FLETCHER, he promptly gets the nomination as forthcoming Secretary of State.

This seems a little like taking unfair advantage of Mr. FLETCHER. He can neither deny nor affirm. His mission with Mr. HOOVER is of a special kind, and until it is terminated he doubtless is not thinking of any other public work.

If the rumor is hard on him, it is still harder on others. Think of the number of Republicans who consider themselves particularly fitted to adorn the State Department, and whose friends have "mentioned" them for that office. They have nothing to show in the way of an invitation from the President-elect. Probably no Cabinet member will be appointed by wireless. Hence there will be a great deal of melancholy brooding over uncertainties until the time when Mr. HOOVER returns to the United States. Then he will be in the usual happy position of an incoming President—that is, making an appointment which will mean one ingrate and ten enemies.

The Unshrinking Violets.

This city, which troops in thousands to Princeton, Cambridge and New Haven to see the football games which tradition has established as the greatest, awakened to find that within its own confines it had been entertaining unawares a team greater than any of the Big Three, and one of the greatest in the country. New York University, a name not especially celebrated in American athletic annals, by overthrowing the undefeated Carnegie Tech team, which conquered Notre Dame, takes its place high in the late Autumn sun, and the names of LASSMAN, STRONG and BARABAS flash as brightly as if they were incandescent in the night-signs of Broadway.

Presumably a large part of the Violet football squad is native to the city and its environs. Thus the city has a champion football team which is much more the product of New York than any professional baseball team recruited from all parts of the country. Broadway and University Heights and Brooklyn may well be proud, for the city boys have shown that they know how to play the game.

As usual, the national football championship cannot be awarded. The unbeaten teams have no way to meet, and if they did—so full of surprises is football—the spectators might see upsets not calculable in the "dope." But that New York University has one of the two or three great teams in the country is undisputed, even by the confused experts, whose sleep these nights is disturbed whilst they mumble: "Army beat Yale, Notre Dame beat Army, Carnegie beat Notre Dame, N. Y. U. beat Carnegie, Georgetown beat N. Y. U., Carnegie beat Georgetown; please, boss, don't make me pick an All-American."

An Apostle of the Southwest.

Mr. CHARLES F. LUMMIS, who died on Sunday in Los Angeles, was one of the first "discoverers" of the Southwest. Many a person had traveled through Arizona and New Mexico before he did. A few had written of it glowingly. But Mr LUMMIS combined the skill and instinct of a journalist with a deep love of the country. In the virgin field that he chose he became a scholar of distinction.

Although without the archaeological background of the late ADOLF BANDELIER, Mr. LUMMIS devoted so much time to studying the ways and the folklore of the Pueblos and other Indians in the Southwest that he was able to do much to make their culture better known. His first book of Pueblo folk stories, "The Man Who Married the Moon," was published in 1894. In the previous year he had given the public a picture of the Southwest in "The Land of Poco Tiempo." His many stories and books have done much to make known to the rest of the country the special lure of the deserts and mesas of Arizona and New Mexico.

In 1907 Mr. LUMMIS founded the Southwest Museum in Los Angeles, which is now one of the leading centres of Indian archaeological studies. He did all in his power to awaken the people of Arizona, New Mexico and Southern California to the glories of their past and of their countryside. He died in the knowledge that he had succeeded in his life work, and that the Southwest is becoming a great centre of interest for artists, writers, historians and students of all sorts.

What to Give a Housemaid.

To solve the servant problem no end of enticing schemes have been planned. But still cooks and maids come and go. But something effective has at last been done. An official of the Friends of the Poor of London reports a gratifying increase in the number of girls seeking employment in domestic service. The cause, so he says, is the fact that gold watches have been substituted for Bibles as prizes for steady service.

Several years ago the plan was to give a Bible to each girl who had worked a certain period of time. The society found that it had more Bibles than it knew what to do with. Then came the change. Now when a girl takes a position as houseworker she gets a Bible straight off. At the end of a year she receives a gold watch. After three years the prize is an attaché case. For seven years' service the reward is a suitcase.

The success of the change seems to indicate that the new prizes are just what the girls want. Unfortunately, they are all strangely suggestive of "giving notice" and packing up. At this rate, the prize for ten years' service should be a full-size trunk. If the maids had shown an interest in rewards less portable—four-poster beds and wardrobes—employers might feel that there was greater cause for rejoicing.

Simplifying Naval Accord.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read THE TIMES editorial "Between Friends." Before the two representatives, the one for Great Britain and the other for the United States, are appointed, I should like to make a few suggestions.

Let Great Britain, in terms of battleships, cruisers and guns, state frankly what are her present needs. Let the United States do the same. Each nation having thus disclosed its hand, then let the two representatives meet with a view to a compromise. If no compromise is possible, then let the representatives agree to abide by the present needs of both nations as frankly set forth before the representatives met.

This course would have several salutary effects. First, it would allow each nation to have such battleships, cruisers and guns as it deems necessary to its present defense. Second, it would put a halt to all further competition between the two nations relative to their navies. Third, it ought to immediately put a stop to that irritating friction between two nations that should be on the friendliest terms. Fourth, it would dispel the silly talk that there is an ever-widening breach between the two nations that ultimately will disturb the peace of the world and lead to a casus belli. Though they may have disputes, fighting is unthinkable as between friends.

Trade With Latin America.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The article by Drew Pearson in THE TIMES of Nov. 18 is a fine one, intended to foster close relations, which is the end for which we Chileans are striving.

Mr. Pearson says: "Our sales to the whole of Latin America are not yet as great as our sales to Canada alone nor to the United Kingdom alone. * * *"

According to the United States of American Department of Commerce Yearbook of 1928 exports to Canada were $836,900,000, to United Kingdom $840,100,000, to Latin America $845,700,000.

While imports from Canada were $475,100,000, imports from South America amounted to the tremendous figure of $1,018,900,000.

It appears from these figures that commerce relations with Latin America are even greater than what Mr. Pearson states in his friendly article, and this is something that, in my opinion, should be made clear to United States business men.

LOVE SONG.

I speak against you all day long;
To those who are indifferent
I make your failings evident.
Of hatred I have made a song
To sing to every instrument.

Now even you can see how wrong
You were to think I ever went,
Absorbed in you, and well content
I speak against you all day long;
To those who are indifferent
I make your failings evident.

BUYING ITALIAN ART.

Recent Controversy Evokes Discussion of Methods and Ethics.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Welcome be the recent reopening of hostilities between American art collectors and Italian antiquarians apropos of the fake sarcophagus by Donatello, if it succeeds in focusing the attention of the honest public in both countries upon the circumstances surrounding the acquisition of so many Italian works of art by foreign collectors.

Every art lover knows that Italian art shipments are subject to the provisions of the Rosadi law, now almost a generation old, which prohibits the exportation of Italian masterpieces of outstanding importance. Surely, a sarcophagus by Donatello could not have passed spiritually and physically unnoticed through the double barrier of Italian art criticism and Italian customs. The very bulk and weight of this particular work of art would have made it impossible to smuggle it out of the country by the usual method—concealment in a large automobile crossing the boundary at night and occupied by important-looking people who overawe the customs guards. How did it go through?

I am not accusing the buyers, even by indirection. I know that American amateurs are usually law-abiding. The fact is that they seldom smuggle; they prefer to patronize foreign "art bootleggers," and pay a little more. An American museum will usually buy its Italian masterpiece when it has reached Paris or London and become the possession of some non-Italian dealer. But how did this non-Italian dealer obtain it? Either by smuggling or as a fake. In either case we can see the ugly aspect of the situation, which confirms that humanity applies to art objects different criterions of honesty from those prevailing in ordinary human intercourse—witness the almost two thousand Italian items in the Louvre which originated from Napoleon's plunder and were never returned after Waterloo.

If the object is smuggled, a fake pedigree is often created for it, primarily for American consumption. At any rate, few difficulties are contemplated. Who has any interest in stirring up trouble? Surely not the Italian officials who were derelict in their duty. But it is in the other case, when the object leaves Italy with Italy's own blessing, that the dealer's cunning and "catch-as-catch-can" game have a chance to show themselves. Here is what happens:

The antiquarian starts a whispering campaign to the effect that some excavations, hitherto unknown to the government, have brought to light some great masterpiece which has to be sold abroad before the State can grab it. The object is then sold, from photographs, to some foreign collector, the money to be paid when delivery is made somewhere outside of Italy. The antiquarian then (we are discussing, remember, works of sculpture, and of considerable size, as I suppose this Donatello sarcophagus to be) applies regularly to the Italian Bureau of Art Exports, either asking for a permit to send abroad a work of secondary importance—which can be exported upon previous payment of a high percentage to the government—bought by some incredibly generous American, or else simply announcing that a "pseudo-masterpiece," a contemporary antique, is about to leave the country, and having a hearty laugh on the simple-mindedness of the foreign collector. One thing is sure, and that is the absolute lack of monetary gain of the intermediary, the Italian Bureau of Art Export, although the antiquarian may later tell a big story of how he bribed this or that official in order to export the object.

But even if the foreign collector finds out that the method of passing the object through the customs was not much better than that used by the ancient Venetians when they brought the body of their glorious St. Mark from Alexandria labeled as "pork," what of it? The antiquarian can always retort that the joke was on the Bureau of Export instead; that he had to dupe the bureau in order to obtain its permit. The contemptuous treatment of its official critic becomes a proud halo.

Under such conditions, not yet internationally outlawed but in my estimation hardly honorable all around, I do not see how one can avoid saying "Caveat emptor!" THE TIMES dispatch speaks of possible refunds, of redress because the Donatello was not real. I know nothing of the terms of the original contract, but my sense of humor is tickled at the idea of the Italian Government being expected ultimately to penalize one of its citizens for not exporting a real Donatello, while knowing all the time that it would never for a moment countenance such exportation.

Perhaps Americans think that too few Italian works of art are allowed lawfully to enter America. They may be right, just as Italians may be right when they think too few Italian citizens are allowed lawfully to enter America. Such opinions do not change the facts in the case. Let the American collector show the same respect for Italian laws concerning art migration as the Italian Government is showing for American laws concerning human migration—thus saving an already over-irritated and ultra-nationalistic world the unpleasant experience of taking sides by one's flag in this most unworthy of international contentions.

Width of Cathedral Naves.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In THE TIMES this morning appeared a statement that the nave of the new chapel at the University of Chicago, "with its 47-foot breadth, is wider than that of any other known Gothic church."

It might be well to note the approximate width of the naves of four tolerably well-known Gothic cathedrals chosen at random in France and Spain: Seville, 86 feet; Amiens, 50 feet; Toledo, 46 feet, and Barcelona, 42 feet. COURTENEY BRUERTON.

EYE STRAIN LAID TO SHOP LIGHTING

Illumination Problem Not Solved in Modern Buildings, Asserts Dr. C. M. Price.

URGES STATE INSPECTION

Convention on Prevention of Blindness Hears Accidents to Sight Are Decreasing.

Inadequate illumination as a result of modern building construction was held to account for defective vision and eyestrain among industrial workers by Dr. George M. Price, director of the Joint Board of Sanitary Control in the Women's Garment Trades and director of the Union Health Centre, at the annual conference of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness yesterday. The general topic of the conference was conservation of vision in industry.

Leaders in eye-sight conservation were present to discuss conditions in shops and factories where industrial eye hazards exist and to report on the developments in illumination and the lighting problems of specific industries. The conference is being held in cooperation with the American Association of Industrial Physicians, the American Association of School Physicians, the National Organization for Public Health Nursing and sight-saving class supervisors and teachers. The sessions will continue today and tomorrow at the Russell Sage Foundation Building, 130 East Twenty-second Street.

Finds Little Improvement.

Speaking particularly of lighting conditions in the garment workshops in the midtown loft buildings, Dr. Price declared that the situation had not improved greatly since 1913, when, he said, the United State Public Health Service found in an examination of 2,096 garment workers that 75 per cent. were suffering from defective vision. Since then the examination of about 10,000 garment workers, he said, has shown the same prevalence of defective vision and the present conditions, while improved, "are not so far from the 1913 stage."

"It is a serious indictment of modern factory production," he continued, "when one is obliged, as I am, to assert that of the 5,000 garment workshops in this city there are not more than 10 per cent. that may rightfully claim to have adequate daylight in their working quarters."

Dr. Price said he did not wish to give the impression that conditions in the needle trades shops are worse than in the rest of the city's factories and workshops, declaring that conditions of lighting were equally deficient in other places. Through an educational campaign, he said, much has been done for the improvement of the conditions.

Dr. Price thought that illumination was an engineering problem and that it should not be left to the ordinary electrician. He said that manufacturers too often take the front areas of buildings where there is light for showrooms and leave only the dark interiors for workshops. He urged that scientific lighting codes be enacted by the State and that illumination plans be submitted to the Labor Department under a licensing law, along with general building plans, to insure efficient lighting.

The most severe types of eye accidents in the steel industries do not occur where the most obvious hazards exist, but in the outlying departments, according to Dr. F. E. Shaffer, surgeon in charge of the Bethlehem Steel Company, Sparrows Point, Md., who spoke on the conservation of vision in steel mills. Although the safety department's activities have contributed greatly to accident prevention, Dr. Shaffer said, accidents still occur, but few come from shops where hot metal is handled. The largest percentage of eye accidents in steel mills, he said, are due to thoughtlessness or carelessness in occupations almost unrelated to hot metal.

Steel Mill Accidents Decrease.

Dr. Thomas Darlington, assistant to the president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, quoted from records of the United States Steel Corporation that during the last fifteen years 90 per cent. of eye accidents had been done away with, and said he thought this was generally true in all steel industries. He attributed the reduction to the use of goggles, machine guards and habits of carefulness taught by foremen.

Captain E. A. Baker, director of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, said that conservation of vision should not devolve solely upon any individual or group. It is a work, he said, in which the State should assist. The illumination of buildings, he thought, should be inspected, as well as other facilities.

Other speakers at the morning and afternoon sessions and a luncheon conference at the Gramercy Park Hotel included Dr. Cassius H. Watson, medical director of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company; Dr. Yoon M. Campbell of the Detroit College of Medicine and Surgery; Dr. William A. Sawyer, medical director of the Eastman Kodak Company; Dr. Paul D. Mossman of the United States Public Health Service; Dr. Sidney J. Repplier, medical director of the Curtis Publishing Company; Dr. George S. Crampton of the University of Pennsylvania, and other ophthalmologists.

PERMIT 'VAGABOND' STUDIES

Middlebury Faculty Widens Lecture Privileges Among Students.

MIDDLEBURY, Vt., Nov. 26.—Middlebury College students will be allowed to "vagabond," according to a faculty ruling just passed which allows students to "audit" courses and benefit by lectures given in classes in which they are not officially listed. No credit will be given for such courses and in order to "vagabond" it is only necessary to obtain permission from the instructor.

One of the objects of this faculty ruling is to permit students to obtain interesting and enlightening material from courses which they may not be able to take otherwise. It also affords students the chance to know any members of the faculty they might not otherwise have an opportunity of knowing.

The new privileges are extended to members of the faculty, their wives, and persons regularly employed in the administrative offices of the college.

ADMIRAL SCHEER, JUTLAND HERO, DIES

Commander of Kaiser's Fleet in Disputed Battle Succumbs Suddenly in Germany.

BEATTY LAUDS FORMER FOE

His Wife, Daughter and Maid Were Shot After War by Man Who Committed Suicide.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—Admiral Reinhard Scheer, who commanded the German fleet in the Battle of Jutland, died of heart disease at 5:30 o'clock this morning at Marktredwitz, Franconia, Southern Germany.

Admiral Scheer celebrated his sixty-fifth birthday on Sept. 30. Born at Hanau, the son of a Protestant parson and teacher, he entered the navy when only 16 and was able to win a high decoration five years later during fighting against the natives of Cameroon. In 1909 he was promoted to Rear Admiral and appointed chief of staff of the Atlantic Fleet. Two years later he was called into the Navy Department.

In 1913 he took command of the second squadron and as its leader he entered the World War.

Succeeded Folk as Head of Fleet.

A few days before the Battle of Jutland Admiral Scheer was appointed temporarily to the command of the fleet, Admiral von Folk having been compelled by ill health to relinquish that post.

Admiral Scheer always contended that had the German Admiralty been more energetic and the fleet been sent against England during the first phases of the war before England became too strong the outcome of the war probably would have been different. After Jutland, Admiral Scheer favored unrestricted submarine warfare, but when finally he was appointed Chief of the Admiralty Staff in August, 1918, it was too late to carry his submarine building program through. It was Admiral Scheer who at the beginning of October tried to send the entire German fleet into the Channel for a last fight to relieve the Western front, an attempt which led to the mutiny at Wilhelmshaven.

On Jan. 19, 1919, he resigned and engaged in writing books and in newspaper work.

British Admiralty Sends Regrets.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The British Admiralty sent a message of condolence today to the German Admiralty on the death of Admiral Scheer.

Earl Beatty, who was in command of the British battle cruiser squadron which first came in contact with Admiral Scheer's forces in the Battle of Jutland, pays the following tribute in a letter to the Daily Express:

"I greatly regret to hear of the death of Admiral Scheer. He was a great sailor and a bold and skillful tactician."

Several London papers pay tribute to the dead Admiral for his undoubted bravery.

They are, however, not inclined to concur with German opinion that he was the only "hero" of Jutland. Nevertheless, their polish eulogies of the former foe which give evidence that the wartime hatred has vanished and that this country is actuated by a spirit of peace toward Germany.

Laud His Bravery and Skill.

The London Times says that after the war Admiral Scheer in his books and lectures slurred over or distorted the darker side of the German naval record—the cruelty of the U-boat warfare—but, says the paper, "he had a right to claim that in spite of the final disaster the German fleet had deserved well of the republic and it is to his credit that he never invited to himself any echo of the applause to which he was entitled."

The Daily News says:

"He was a brave and enterprising sailor and he extricated his forces in the Jutland battle with cool skill from the threat of destruction. It is also true to say that the battle taught British admirals some much-needed lessons. But to claim victory upon the basis of almost miraculous escape will not convince historians. At the end of the war, when all was lost, Scheer would have come out to face the enemy and go down fighting if the fleet had not mutinied."

The Daily Telegraph says:

"We who have the best reason to appreciate his skill and fighting spirit may salute his passing. We shall not deny that in Admiral Scheer the German Navy had in its day of trial a great fighting commander."

The Morning Post observes that although Admiral Scheer became a whole-hearted advocate of the ruthless use of the submarine, he was a brave and patriotic sailor.

Did Well at Jutland, Says Benson.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—News of the death in Germany today of Admiral Reinhard Scheer, who commanded the German fleet at the Battle of Jutland, was received with deep interest by American naval officers but found them unwilling to comment because the battle occurred before the United States entered the war and they had had no personal contacts with him.

Rear Admiral W. S. Benson, retired, chief of naval operations during the war, said that while he had never met Admiral Scheer, he "always felt that the German naval officer had conducted himself and his forces wonderfully well" in the Battle of Jutland.

Played Big Role in War.

With the death of Admiral von Scheer Germany loses the man who, in the opinion of many, played a more important rôle than any other individual in the maritime warfare whereby the Central Powers had hoped to vanquish the Allies. His great chance came at the Battle of Jutland, which the Germans still claim as a victory.

The British entered the famous engagement with superiority in numbers, but are reputed to have lost much more heavily than the Germans. Admiral von Scheer so manoeuvred his forces that he was able to slip away under cover of darkness. Since the war he had asserted that, had not the British commander been impressed by his "bluff" in moving forward a squadron of torpedo boats, the British fleet could have closed in and annihilated the Germans.

Soon after the battle his appointment as Commander of the Battle Fleet was made permanent. He held the post until August, 1918, when he succeeded Admiral von Holtzendorff as Chief of the German Admiralty Staff. Von Holtzendorff had expressed an opinion that the U-boats were not effective weapons against the United States Army transports. This expression had been frowned upon, and von Scheer, always an ardent advocate of the submarine, was his natural successor.

Even as late as September, 1918, Admiral von Scheer asserted that, soon or late, the Allies must succumb as a result of submarine warfare. After the war he continued to point to the submarine as the cardinal naval weapon. He criticised Admiral von Tirpitz for not conducting a more energetic and daring attack with them at the beginning of the war. He declared that the United States could protect itself against all comers with an adequate fleet of long-range submarines. He asserted at one time that the submarine was so deadly a weapon that no nation would dare engage in a war with an enemy adequately supplied with submarines.

DANIEL V. ARGUIMBAU.

Head of Custom House Brokerage Firm Dies of Pneumonia.

Daniel Vincent Arguimbau, head of the Custom House brokerage firm of D. V. Arguimbau & Co., at 15 Whitehall Street, died yesterday of pneumonia at the Kew Gardens Hotel. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jane Pitou Arguimbau, and by his brother, Frank M. Arguimbau, president of the American Sumatra Tobacco Corporation. A requiem mass will be sung at St. Patrick's Cathedral tomorrow at 10 A. M.

Mr. and Mrs. Arguimbau had recently returned from Paris, where they had spent much of the last five years. Mr. Arguimbau was one of the best-known custom house brokers in New York. He was born sixty years ago in New York and was a graduate of Fordham University.

COUPLE WED 56 YEARS DIE.

Mrs. Archibald Mathews Survives Husband Less Than a Day.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Nov. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Mathews, well known residents of this city who were married 56 years ago, died within twenty-four hours of one another. Mr. Mathews's death occurred yesterday after a few hours' illness, and Mrs. Mathews died this afternoon

Mr. Mathews had been a resident of Saratoga Springs since 1882. He was born on Oct. 30, 1844, in London, England.

MICHAEL STARTS SAVING.

Rumania's Boy King Opens Bank Account With $1,200 Gift.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 26 (AP).—King Michael, who reached the age of 7 a month ago, opened his first bank account today. He deposited a check for 200,000 lei, which members of the retiring Bratianu Cabinet presented to him as a personal gift on his name day. This would amount to approximately $1,200 if converted into American money.

Michael is able to read and write and sign his own name. The law, however, does not allow him, as a minor, to draw checks. Therefore, the present fund, and any deposits which he may add to it, must remain intact until he reaches his majority on Oct. 25, 1939.

Although he may not spend his own money, there is no such restriction on his official funds. So today 500,000 lei were taken out of his civil list to purchase shoes, clothing, food, books and toys for tiny destitute boys and girls of the kingdom. The King was instructed that this action should remind him never to forget the misery and sorrow of the poor.

MRS. T. HITCHCOCK HURT.

Breaks Ankle and Will Be Unable to Lead Aiken's First Hunt.

Special to The New York Times.

AIKEN, S. C., Nov. 26.—While walking in the garden of Mon Repos, her Winter home here, Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock stepped on a stone which turned, causing her to fall and break an ankle bone. It was at first thought that the injury was no more than a severe wrench. Mrs. Hitchcock is the master of the Aiken hounds and on account of her injury will not be able to lead the first drag hunt of the season, to be held Thanksgiving morning in the Hitchcock woods.

HERBERT CROLY VERY ILL.

Editor-in-Chief of The New Republic Suffers Paralytic Stroke.

Herbert Croly, editor-in-chief of The New Republic, is seriously ill at his home, 255 East Seventy-first Street, having suffered a paralytic stroke several weeks ago, it was learned yesterday.

Inquiries at the home brought the information that he was improved yesterday. During his illness his position has been filled by Bruce Bliven, the managing editor.

TWO SCREEN STARS ILL.

Mary Philbin and Clara Bow Are Victims of Influenza.

Special to The New York Times.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 26.—Mary Philbin and Clara Bow, screen stars, are victims in the current influenza epidemic. Miss Philbin is in bed at her father's home. Miss Bow was brought back from San Francisco today on a stretcher. Neither actress's condition is reported by physicians as dangerous.

James T. Powers Recovering.

James T. Powers, the comedian, is at present recovering from an attack of pneumonia at his apartment in the Hotel Ansonia. Mr. Powers was to have appeared in the revival of "The Beaux' Stratagem," which opened on tour last week, but was taken ill about four weeks ago. He will join the company as soon as possible.

Booth Passes a Good Day.

LONDON, Nov. 26 (AP).—General William Bramwell Booth, the aged chief of the Salvation Army, passed a good day today.

Mrs. Walter Damrosch Hostess.

Mrs. Walter Damrosch gave a luncheon yesterday at her home, 146 East Sixty-first Street, for Mrs. Elliott Schenck. Among the other guests were Mrs. Douglas Robinson, Mrs. Blaine Beale, Mrs. N. Thayer Robb and Mrs. James R. Parsons.

An Acknowledgment.

THE NEW YORK TIMES acknowledges receipt of a contribution of $10 from Albert E. Zippmann for the Hundred Neediest Cases Fund. This money will be included in the 1928 fund.

BRADFORD MERRILL, JOURNALIST, DIES

Was General Manager of the Hearst Newspapers for Last Eleven Years.

NOTABLE FIGURE SINCE 1891

Had Served as Managing Editor of The Press, The World and The American.

William Bradford Merrill, since 1917 general manager of the Hearst newspapers and since 1891 a vigorous figure in metropolitan journalism, died at the Harbour Sanitarium, 667 Madison Avenue, yesterday afternoon. He was 67 years old.

Death was caused by pneumonia and a complication of illnesses due to hardening of the arteries, from which Mr. Merrill had suffered since 1922. At his bedside when he died were his wife, his daughter, Mrs. Aaron Davis, and a niece, Mrs. Brice Frey.

Funeral services will be held at Merrivale, the Merrill home at Manhasset, L. I., tomorrow at 3 P. M. Burial will be in the churchyard of All Saints' Church, Great Neck, L. I.

Yankee-born, Mr. Merrill devoted himself from youth to his chosen career of journalism and took pride in accomplishments which included not only gathering a staff of brilliant reporters, among them Richard Harding Davis, but also in helping to guide the destinies of such eminent political leaders as Theodore Roosevelt and Charles E. Hughes.

A Managing Editor at 30.

When William Bradford Merrill came to New York from Philadelphia in 1891 to become managing editor of The New York Press, he was hailed as the youngest managing editor in the city. He was then 30 years old.

From The Press he moved to The New York World, thence to The New York American, and in September, 1917, became general manager for the Hearst newspaper enterprises and a member of the Hearst "cabinet," as his chief called his intimate board of advisers.

Mr. Merrill was born in Salisbury, N. H., on Feb. 27, 1861, a son of the Rev. Horatio Merrill and Sarah B. Whitman Merrill. He prepared for Harvard University at the Boston Latin School in 1874-6, but he never went to Harvard, preferring to study art in Paris.

It was there that he became engrossed in newspaper work, writing a series of news letters for Philadelphia papers. On his return to America, thinking Philadelphia "the greatest city in the world," as one of his youthful contemporaries records, he began his journalistic career on The Philadelphia North American.

He was on that paper only a year. He moved to The Philadelphia Press and in the course of eleven years, by a series of brilliant advances, became managing editor and got his call to come to New York. At that time, as the Press's Sunday editor, he had advanced its Sunday circulation from 6,000 to 104,000.

He was managing editor of The New York Press from 1891 to 1895, when he accepted the same post from The New York World. That newspaper made him financial manager in 1901, in which position he remained until 1908, when he took over the managing editorship of The American. Nine years later he became manager of all the Hearst newspapers.

In 1882 Mr. Merrill married Sarah Louise Taylor of Georgetown, D. C., who died in 1913. They had three children, two of whom, Bradford and Elizabeth, died. The third is the present Mrs. Aaron Davis. In 1923 Mr. Merrill married Mrs. Josephine H. Bissell at Great Neck, L. I.

When Crane and Roosevelt Met.

During his early days in New York journalism, Mr. Merrill had occasion to give a luncheon for Mayor Strong. W. Murray Crane, who afterward became Republican leader of Massachusetts, United States Senator and a power in national politics, was present, and so was Theodore Roosevelt, then a young lawyer. Mr. Crane asked to meet Roosevelt, saying, "I'd like to meet that young man. I've heard him make three good speeches."

Shortly afterward Mayor Strong appointed Roosevelt Commissioner of Police, whence he rose to be Governor, Vice President and President.

DR. WILLIAM S. SUTTON.

Former Acting President of Texas University Dies Suddenly.

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 26 (AP).—Dr. William S. Sutton, former acting president of Texas University and the founder of the institution's education department, died here today. The aged educator was talking with relatives when he was stricken.

Dr. Sutton was graduated from the University of Arkansas in 1878. He became a member of the faculty at the University of Texas in 1897. In 1909 he became dean of the Department of Education, and in 1923 he was made acting president. He was the author of several books on teaching.

Prince Archil Andronikoff.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 26 (AP).—Prince Archil Andronikoff, 40, a member of the Georgian nobility, died here today. The Prince, who was wounded six times in the World War when he was an officer in the Russian Army, had recently been working in pictures, where his knowledge of Russian military customs and horsemanship aided him.

Princess Andronikoff is in Italy.

Mrs. Ellen L. Borden.

Mrs. Ellen L. Borden, widow of John Gail Borden, died last Saturday at her home in Wallkill, Ulster County, N. Y., at the age of 83. She was a member of the Society of Mayflower Descendants. Surviving her are two sons, Gail and Lewis M. Borden, and a daughter, Marion. Funeral services will be held at the Wallkill Reformed Church at 2 P. M. today.

Miss Elizabeth Walker.

Miss Elizabeth Walker, principal of Junior High School 12, at Madison and Jackson Streets, died suddenly yesterday at her home, 35 West Eighty-second Street. She is survived by a sister, Miss Evelyn Walker, a teacher at Hunter College.

HENRY S. MOTT, 76, BANKER, IS DEAD

President of Northport (L. I.) Trust Co., of Which He Was the Founder.

Special to The New York Times.

NORTHPORT, L. I., Nov. 26.—Henry S. Mott, 76 years old, one of Northport's most prominent citizens and a leading banker on Long Island, died here last night at his home after five days' illness of heart disease. He is survived by his widow, four sons, Charles S., Harry T., Kenneth and James; and a daughter, Mrs. John Diefenbach of Brooklyn.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 P. M. at St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church, Northport.

Mr. Mott was president of the Northport Trust Company and of the Citizens National Bank of East Northport. He was the founder in 1891 of the trust company, which was Northport's first bank.

GEN. DESTICKER DIES; FOCH'S CHIEF OF STAFF

One of France's Most Brilliant Soldiers in the World War—Visited This Country.

PARIS, Nov. 26 (AP).—General Henri Desticker, former Chief of Staff of Marshal Foch and one of the most brilliant of French soldiers during the World War, died today at the age of 63. He also was former Chief of Staff of the Allied Military Committee.

He accompanied Marshal Foch on the Marshal's visit to the United States in 1921, and was named by the League of Nations to preside over the committee which investigated Germany's armament in 1925.

General Desticker, who was appointed President of the Control Commission of the League of Nations, investigated the status of Germany's armament until December, 1926, when General Baratir replaced him. It was said that General Desticker was objectionable to the Germans because of his close relations with Marshal Foch during the World War.

JOHN WILSON RITCHIE.

Owner of Seven Clothing Stores Dies on Way to His Office in Auto.

John Wilson Ritchie, who operated seven clothing stores in Manhattan under the name of John Wilson, dropped dead yesterday morning, probably of heart disease. He left his home at 440 Riverside Drive apparently in good health, and started to drive to his office. At Sixty-sixth Street and West End Avenue he stopped at a gas-filling station, stepped out of the car to adjust the radiator cap and complained to an attendant that he was feeling faint. The attendant seized Mr. Ritchie as he was about to collapse, and a Knickerbocker Hospital ambulance was called. Dr. Murphy, who responded, found Mr. Ritchie dead. He was in his sixty-fifth year.

Mr. Ritchie was born and educated in this city and had been in the clothing business for more than twenty years.

FROM THE FOUNDER'S WRITINGS

The Wanamaker Store Is Closed Thanksgiving Day

That Is the Day Whose Hours We Are to Turn Into the Music of Thanksgiving

Music is more than a noise. Music is sometimes the sweetest silence. There is something within the temple of the human heart—a little candle—that the Autumn wind cannot blow out. It lights the way over trails, disappointments and difficulties to the altar our mothers lived near and loved.

There, in a quiet hour today, we may keep Thanksgiving and reach a new standpoint and bring away a song of cheer and hope.

4 ACRES OF LUMBER BURN IN BROOKLYN

$500,000 Blaze Sweeps Two Plants in Greenpoint—Much Coal Destroyed.

MANHATTAN SENDS AID

Thousands Watch Water and Land Forces Fight Flames in 100-Foot Elevator.

SEVERAL OTHER BLAZES

Auto Body Factory in Bergen Street Is Burned Out—The Borough's Apparatus Is Kept Busy.

Two serious fires, fanned by strong northwest winds, taxed Brooklyn's fire fighting resources yesterday afternoon and last night. Several minor fires at the same time kept the borough's full apparatus busy in the heaviest afternoon's work the department has known this year, and help had to be summoned from Manhattan and Queens.

The worst fire destroyed much of the Forest Box and Lumber Company's plant at Oakland and Ash Streets, spread to the A. J. & J. J. McCullom, Inc.'s coal pockets, and brought out fifty pieces of fire apparatus on five alarms. The fire burned up several acres of piled lumber and a large quantity of coal. The coal, the police said, would smolder for a week. The total loss was put at close to $500,000.

Flames which burst out in the tank shop on the third floor of the three-story brick factory of the Stoddard Commercial Body Company, makers of automobile bodies, at the northwest corner of Bergen Street and Franklin Avenue caused the other big blaze of the day. Ten engine companies and four truck companies responded.

Manhattan Sends Aid.

In the three districts, Greenpoint, the scene of the coal pocket fire; Williamsburg, close by, and Bedford, virtually every piece of fire apparatus was called out. Six engine companies from Manhattan crossed the Williamsburg and Queensboro Bridges to go to the first fire. Others arrived from Long Island City. In each case an equal number of engine and hook and ladder companies moved up from outlying districts to take the place of the working companies. And these in turn had their hands full with a succession of at least three one-alarm fires which occurred about the same time.

Dwellers in the Greenpoint section were treated to a spectacle of serial fireworks a few moments after 4 in the afternoon, when the Forest plant fire got under way. The smoke and flame could be seen from Manhattan, the Bronx and other parts of Brooklyn. From the Vernon avenue bridge across Newtown Creek thousands watched the fire. Other thousands gathered on the northern shore of the creek. The 100-foot-high elevator of the wooden coal pocket stood like a flaming steeple, under which the fireboats New Yorker and Abram S. Hewitt pushed their noses and directed their streams of water.

A four-masted lumber schooner, the Charles N. Struven of Baltimore, just in Sunday with a load of lumber, was at the Forest dock. The schooner caught fire. On board were her skipper, Captain Spurgeon S. Tyler; his wife, May, and their eighteen-months-old son, Spurgeon Jr. The fireboat Hewitt towed the blazing schooner up the creek, her rigging and sails aflame. The fire on the schooner was thought to be out at 5 o'clock, but it revived again, and at 10 o'clock a fireboat was called and again subdued the flames.

Family Are Rescued.

The crew of the Hewitt got the captain and his family safe aboard, dried them in the engine room and sent them to a Brooklyn hospital.

Immediately afterward the fire burst forth in what was virtually an explosion, presumably in the molding room; it leaped across a narrow alley to the coal pocket. Here the firm had only last Saturday stored its Winter supply of coal. The wooden frame of the structure burst into almost immediate blaze, and the lumber yard next door was set off by falling brands. Firemen wet down buildings and lumber yards on the opposite shore as a precaution.

The Fifty-second Battalion, consisting of five companies from Greenpoint, responding to the first alarm under Deputy Chief Davin turned in a second and third at once. Meanwhile, all the fire fighting paraphernalia at the city's disposal converged on the scene.

Included were hospital and Welfare Department ambulances, the fire and police rescue squads, the Edison Emergency wagon, and Dr. Harry Archer's special Fire Department ambulance. Reserves from the Greenpoint police station under Captain Joseph Betz, and other reserves from near-by stations, numbering in all 100 men, arrived. Chief Inspector William Lahey, Deputy Chief Inspector Valentine and Deputy Chief Inspector Michael A. Lyons came with Fire Commissioner John J. Dorman.

At 6 o'clock police chiefs assigned Sergeant Theodore Rafael of the Greenpoint station to organize a squad of twenty men to stand guard over the coal pockets for at least a week. At 9 o'clock last night, the full crew which had been fighting the fire in nipping cold weather, were taken off duty. The apparatus was left running at full blast with new men to take over.

Chief Fire Marshal Thomas Brophy after investigating reported that the fire evidently had started in the molding room and trim mill, the mill being a one-story frame building.

The fire in the automobile body factory on Bergen Street was discovered about 4 o'clock, and Esther Raskin, bookkeeper and daughter of the proprietor turned in the alarm. The seventy-five employes drove or pushed out all but seventeen of the sixty-seven chassis of automobiles in the factory. Deputy Fire Chief John Davin turned in the second alarm. The fire was controlled after the interior of the factory was destroyed.

In the course of the fire Captain Thomas Gallagher of Engine Company 280 was overcome by smoke. Dr. Katz of the Jewish Hospital treated him. A packing house of the Heinz Company, next door, employs 150 girls. Windows were closed and precautions taken to evacuate the building if necessary.

Police Chief Seizes Liquor In Car Parked at His Door

TYNGSBORO, Mass., Nov. 26 (AP).—Curiosity led Gerald E. Lorman, Chief of Police, to investigate when an automobile was parked in front of his home last night.

The chief found thirty-three gallons of alcohol in the rumble seat of the car and proceeded to arrest Augustine Leone of Wakefield and John Vaghica of Boston, who had picked this place to step.

The two men were arraigned in the district court at Lowell today. Their case was continued.

JURY IS LOCKED UP IN HOFFMAN CASE

Fails to Reach a Verdict on Bauer Murder in Seven Hours' Deliberation.

TRIAL ON FOR THREE WEEKS

Was Third, First Ending in Second Degree Verdict; Second, Last Spring, in Mistrial.

The jury in the trial of Harry L. Hoffman, Staten Island moving picture operator, charged with the murder of Mrs. Maude A. Bauer on March 25, 1924, was locked up at 2:15 this morning when it was unable to arrive at a verdict eight hours after the case had been placed in its hands.

Justice Callaghan, who presided over the trial in the Brooklyn Supreme Court, retired to his home, but left word that if a verdict was reached before 9 o'clock this morning he was to be called immediately.

Justice Callaghan completed his charge at 8:15 and immediately afterward the jurors were taken to the Elks Club for dinner, commencing their deliberations an hour later.

At 11:45 P. M., the jury returned to the court room to have read over to it the testimony of Barbara Fahs, the State's star witness, who although not actually an eyewitness of the crime, placed Hoffman at the scene of the crime at about the time it happened.

Hoffman, who was held in the detention room underneath the court room, said he felt confident of acquittal.

"I don't see how any twelve men could convict me on the evidence presented in this case," he said.

The trial has been in progress for nearly three weeks. Hoffman has been twice tried before for the murder. The first one resulted in a verdict of second degree murder and after he spent many months in Sing Sing he was granted a new trial by the Appellate Division.

His second trial last Spring resulted in a mistrial when his attorney was stricken ill in the court room.

In his charge, which consumed a little more than an hour, Justice Callaghan instructed the jury that it might find the defendant guilty of murder in the first or second degree, of manslaughter in the first degree. He defined the law regarding each of those crimes.

"And let me express the hope," he said, "that there will be no more trials in this case. We have had enough. Let us end it now, and above all let us end it right."

The court warned the jury that in forging a chain of circumstantial evidence it is incumbent upon the prosecution to make each link in that chain consistent with the State's theory of guilt and equally inconsistent with the case presented by the defense.

Leonard A. Snitkin, counsel for Hoffman, addressed the jury for an hour and a half. He reviewed the entire case and especially the testimony given by the State's witnesses who placed Hoffman either at the scene of the crime or on Staten Island at the time of the murder. Mr. Snitkin said that Hoffman was the victim of a "police frame-up" and he charged that the State suppressed important evidence, particularly that of the two purses and strands of hair which figured in the present trial but not previously.

Mr. Snitkin contended that Barbara Fahs, the schoolgirl witness who was the only one to swear that Hoffman was the man who drove the car in which Mrs. Bauer was killed, was not near the automobile when Mrs. Bauer entered it, as the girl testified. He submitted figures derived from the testimony of other State witnesses to support his contention that the girl had already passed the spot and was many hundreds of feet beyond at that time.

Mr. Snitkin also reviewed the testimony given by pistol experts and pointed out that he had submitted the test shells fired from Hoffman's pistol, whereas the State had withheld their test shells and had submitted photographs instead.

District Attorney Albert Fach of Richmond County, who has conducted the State's case against Hoffman from the day he was first questioned four and one-half years ago, told the jury that Hoffman "has shown himself to be an unmitigated liar," and that the whole case offered by the defense "is saturated with perjury." He denied that the police had "framed" Hoffman.

BRITISH WAR VETERAN DIES IN FIRE IN ROOM

Other Tenants in Sixth Avenue House Unable to Rescue Him From Top Floor.

Jeremiah Daly, 50 years old, a British war veteran, was burned to death yesterday morning in a fire that swept the top floor of a five-story rooming house at 381 Sixth Avenue and drove fifteen tenants to the street.

Charles Thompson, third floor tenant, smelled smoke when he arose shortly after 6 o'clock to dress for work. He roused his wife and then set out to trace the smoke. He found the hallway filling with smoke and saw flames on the top floor. He roused the other tenants, who rushed to the street.

With another man, Thompson went to the top floor and tried to get into Daly's room. Blinded by smoke, they were forced to leave the building. Meanwhile Patrolman Kenney had turned in an alarm. Firemen had the fire under control in half an hour. Defective insulation is believed to have caused the blaze.

Daly, badly burned, was found dead in his room. British Army papers found in the room showed he enlisted Oct. 19, 1901, served seven years with the Ninth King's Royal Rifles and was discharged from the Cape Town Highlanders on Aug. 7, 1916. He was entitled to wear the South African medal.

DEMOCRATS LIST FUNDS AT ALBANY

National Committee Received $5,028,706, Including $1,500,000 in Loans Still Unpaid.

BALANCE NOW IS $182,931

Republican State Committee Expended $832,225—Roosevelt-Lehman Outlay Reached $303,823.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Nov. 26.—The Democratic National Committee's campaign expense statement filed today by James W. Gerard, treasurer, showed receipts of $5,028,706.02 and expenditures of $4,845,774.78. Listed among the receipts are three loans of $500,000 each from the County Trust Company of New York, which are unpaid. The treasurer's balance was $182,931.84.

John J. Raskob, chairman of the National Committee, was the largest single contributor, giving $110,000, while William F. Kenny, personal friend of Governor Smith, and Colonel Herbert H. Lehman, Lieutenant-Governor-elect, contributed $100,000 each.

Republican State Committee Flies.

Receipts of $887,874.25 and expenditures of $832,225.63 were reported by the Republican State Committee. The committee still has liabilities of $14,672, Herbert N. Straus, the treasurer, stated.

The Republican National Committee gave the State committee $539,000. Other contributions included: $25,000 each from Herbert N. Straus and the Houghton Campaign Committee; $20,000 from the Ottinger Campaign Committee; $12,500 from Ogden Mills and Ogden L. Mills; $10,000 from Mrs. Ruth Pratt, Albert Ottinger and Myron C. Taylor, and $9,750 from Thomas W. Lamont. The Women's National Republican Club gave $7,000, and the Women's Division of the National Republican Club Campaign Committee, $2,500.

Receipts of the New York County Republican Committee included $100,000 from the Republican State Committee in its total of $123,227, the expenditures were $112,434, leaving a balance of $10,972. Mrs. Helen James and Oliver B. James gave $3,000 each to the County Committee and Herbert N. Straus, $5,000.

The State Hoover-Ottinger Business Men's League received $5,327 and spent $3,706.

The Lockwood for Lieutenant Governor Committee received $27,979 and spent it all. The principal contributors were Frederick Brown, who gave $7,500, and Charles A. Levine, $5,000. Mr. Lockwood certified that he had made a campaign contribution of $1,000 and had no receipts.

The State Citizens-Committee-for-Conway received $27,735, all of which was spent, according to the report of F. J. Murphy, treasurer.

The Kings County Democratic Committee received $116,527 and spent $107,604. The principal contributors were Irving G. Straus, $1,500, and $1,000 each from John H. McCooey, Nathan S. Jonas, Nathan L. Goldstein, William J. McNulty and Irving Lundy.

The State Socialist Committee received $5,598. Its expenditures totaled $6,077.17.

Engineers' Fund for Hoover.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 26 (AP).—The Bronx County Republican Committee received $53,385 in campaign contributions, of which $30,000 came from the Republican State organization. Expenditures totaled $53,368.

The Hoover-for-President Engineers' National Committee reported it received $61,727 and spent $53,258. Contributors included Lamont, Dupont, $5,000; Daniel Guggenheim, $5,000; Thomas A. Edison, $325.

The Houghton campaign committee reported it received and spent $45,260, of which $20,000 went to the Republican State Committee and $5,163 to the Steuben County Committee. Contributors included: A. W. Wiggan, J. N. Willis, Charles H. Sherrill, Hoffman Nickerson, $5,000 each; Thomas H. Lamont, Myron C. Taylor, Fred H. Ecker, $2,500 each; Cornelius N. Bliss, William J. Tully, Clara H. Total Lunar Eclipse Is Seen Clearly Here; Moon in Full Shadow From 3:33 to 4:29 A.M.

In a sky, cloudy at times, when the sight was obscured, a total eclipse of the moon took place early this morning, the first eclipse to be seen this year from the eastern part of the country.

At 2.24 A. M., a slight black band of shadow, as the earth began to come between the moon and the sun, appeared on the upper left rim of the moon, creeping slowly across the face until at 3.33 o'clock the lunar disk was entirely in shadow. The total phase lasted until 4:29 A. M. From then on the bright surface gradually reappeared until just about dawn, at 5.39 o'clock the eclipse ended.

Astronomers forecast perfectly the time that the eclipse would commence.

The moon was in the west when the eclipse commenced and at that time the heavens were clear except for one or two fluffy clouds that passed across the face of the moon. These were so light, in fact, that they did not interfere with the view of the spectacle. During the progress of the eclipse, however, from time to time, heavy black clouds scudded across the face of the moon.

The last total eclipse visible here was that of the sun on the morning of Jan. 24, 1925. That phenomenon was viewed by millions of persons, and scientists from all parts of the world made observations. In contrast to popular excitement on that occasion, this morning's eclipse was seen by a comparatively few persons. Only astronomers and those interested in the heavenly bodies and the few whose business or pleasure kept them up early in the morning saw the spectacle.

BOASTFUL ROBBER HELD ON BRIDE'S 'TIP'

Shot in Chase as He Is About to Quit City, Leaving Defiant Note to Police.

PREYED ON TAXI DRIVERS

'Landed Here Broke, Going Back With Plenty of Dough,' Wrote San Francisco Man.

Accused of holding up ten taxicab drivers during a brief visit to New York on which he acquired a wife as well as a police record, Robert Preston, 30 years old, of San Francisco, found himself yesterday stretched out on a cot in the prison ward at Bellevue Hospital instead of resting comfortably, as he had planned, on a "plush seat" of a cross-country express train "with plenty of dough."

Preston was arrested on charges of assault and robbery early yesterday morning at 100th Street and Broadway after his bride of one week had "tipped off" the police. During a brief chase, in which the pursuing detectives and a patrolman fired twenty shots at him, the prisoner received a bullet wound in the left leg above the ankle.

Note Boasted of Hold-ups.

Taken to the 100th Street station, Preston said he had come here "broke" a month ago and that he had been living at the Hotel Hermitage, Seventh Avenue and Forty-second Street. In his pockets the police said they found a note, evidently destined to be mailed to the New York Police Headquarters, which was written in the best movie-thriller manner. The note was as follows:

To take effect 11:20.

I landed in New York four weeks and two days ago broke, but thanks to the cab drivers in New York, I am going back home on a plush seat with plenty of dough. Before dawn, I'll be far away thanks to the cab drivers and the New York cops.

A GRATEFUL GUEST OF THE METROPOLIS.

Preston's wife, May, told the police on Sunday night that her husband was carrying a revolver and she "did not like the looks of it."

Detectives Rice, Curry and Walsh of the West 100th Street station hurried to 106th Street and Broadway, where they closed in on their quarry. Preston wormed free of their grasp and, dropping an imitation revolver, darted into the middle of Broadway, where he hopped on the running board of a southbound automobile. The detectives pursued. Preston kept ahead of them for three blocks by jumping on the running boards of one automobile after another, but at the corner of Broadway and 100th Street, a shot by Detective Rice felled him.

Ambulance in Crash.

An ambulance was summoned from Knickerbocker Hospital but en route it collided with a taxicab and another ambulance had to be summoned, this time from Harlem Hospital. In the Knickerbocker Hospital ambulance were Dr. Wilifred McGuire and James Flaherty, the driver. In the taxi with which it collided were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stern of 2,165 Marion Road, the Bronx, as well as Charles Bernley of 130 West 166th Street, the driver. The ambulance and taxicab passengers and drivers received lacerations and bruises.

Meantime, at the West 100th Street station, the police were hearing Preston's story. The police had previously been informed about a bandit preying on taxicab drivers in the lonely uptown neighborhoods. They said Preston told the mhe had held up ten drivers, but the amount of money he is alleged to have taken was not revealed. The prisoner said he did not obtain more than $15 in any of the hold-ups, ccording to the police.

Two weeks ago, the prisoner related, he attempted to hold up a taxicab driver on the upper west side, just off Broadway. The victim shouted for help, a crowd gathered and Preston fled, zig-zagging through the west side until he came to a dance hall, where he bought a ticket and entered. Preston said he danced with May Mordesscoka of 102d Street near Broadway, proposed marriage before the evening was over and was accepted.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 26 (AP).—Robert Preston, alleged taxicab bandit, wounded by detectives in New York today, is the adopted son of Joseph Warren Preston, San Francisco business man. Preston figured in police records in Chicago last January when he was arrested for impersonating the son of an English Lord. The case was dropped.

Fire Chief Ross Hurt in Collision.

Deputy Fire Chief George L. Ross was injured early yesterday morning when the automobile in which he was returning from a fire was in collision with a car driven by Max Brand of 15 Bloomfield Avenue, Bloomfield, N. J., at Sixth Avenue and Forty-third Street. Ross received lacerations of the face and was treated at his headquarters by Dr. Harry M. Archer, honorary fire department surgeon. Brand was held in $2,000 bail for a hearing Dec. 7 on a charge of felonious assault and received a summons to appear in traffic court this morning on a charge of reckless driving.

CITY WILL EXTEND BUS TIME LIMIT

ACTION IS SET FOR TODAY

Coach Company Officials and B. M. T. Are Silent on Rumors of a Consolidation Deal.

The Board of Estimate will hold a special meeting this afternoon to extend for 120 days the time limit within which the Equitable Coach Company must begin operation of its bus lines in Manhattan, Queens and the Bronx to prevent a lapse of its franchise on Dec. 2.

The extension, the second granted since the company received its franchise award on July 23, 1927, is made necessary because the Transit Commission has suspended until Dec. 15 its decision on the coach company's application for certificates of necessity and convenience. The commission's decision, based upon months of hearings, has been ready for two weeks but was deferred when counsel for the Equitable and the B. M. T. asked for delay to permit them to confer over routes. Negotiations are now in progress which are expected to result in the prevention of litigation based on the claim that B. M. T. lines will be subjected to illegal competition.

Mayor Walker said yesterday, when told of rumors that representatives of the B. M. T. and the Equitable were to confer this week with the Board of Estimate over routes, that he knew of no such plan.

Officials of the B. M. T. and the Equitable were silent yesterday on persistent reports that steps were being taken to consolidate the traction and bus interests. Although the Equitable franchise is by its terms non-assignable, there is nothing to prevent its control by the B. M. T. by gaining control of the Equitable organization, either by supplying capital funds or acquiring such securities as it may issue after the Transit Commission has issued the necessary certificates authorizing operation of approved routes. City officials, however, are confident that no such move will be consummated unless and until they are consulted by the two companies.

The Equitable franchise covers fifty-six routes, eight in Manhattan, twenty-three in Brooklyn and twenty-four in Queens.

TWO NATIONS LINKED ON SERVANT PROBLEM

Question Discussed at Luncheon Given Here for Member of London Institute.

Now that President-elect Hoover is on his good-will tour of South America, international cooperation is the order of the day for solving all kinds of problems. It was even applied to the "servant problem" yesterday at a luncheon given by the directors of Scientific Housekeeping, Inc., in their headquarters, 138 East Forty-seventh Street, to Miss Winifred Spielman, of the National Institute of Industrial Psychology, London.

Miss Spielman is in the United States under a Laura Spellman Rockefeller Foundation scholarship to study American methods for meeting "the problem of employer-employe relationships in the private home."

A statement by Scientific Housekeeping explained that the luncheon was the first step in a movement of "the housewives of the United States and England to get together in an international effort to solve the critical servant problem." Mrs. Richard Boardman, president of the American organization, and Miss Spielman made speeches attributing the problem to the World War, which opened new economic fields to working women.

Mrs. Boardman said that the solution demanded that domestic service be lifted out of the menial into the professional class. This means, she went on, the six-day week, the eight-hour day, regular meal hours, fixed pay for overtime, proper tools, &c. She also described the school conducted by her organization to train skilled domestic workers.

The luncheon was served by a staff of young women who are being trained in this school for domestic work in the homes of prominent New York hostesses.

Other speakers were Mrs. Morrill Goddard, Mrs. Francis Carter Wood, Mrs. Henry Bartol and Mrs. C. A. Richards. The guests included Mrs. Henry Patterson, Mrs. Seth Milliken, Mrs. William Hoster, Mrs. Webb Hilbert, Mrs. Roberts Walker, Mrs. Charles Arthur Richards, Mrs. Keyes Winter, Mrs. Lewis Herzog, Mrs. Norman Dike, Miss Caroline Shippen, Mrs. Arthur Swann and Miss Lucy Garner.

WALL ST. LEADERS ATTEND RYAN RITES

Catholic Church Dignitaries Also at Simple Services at St. Jean Baptiste.

NO EULOGY OR FLOWERS

Widow Too Ill to Leave Home in Virginia—Body Placed in Temporary Calvary Vault.

Leaders of the financial world bowed their heads in the Church of St. Jean Baptiste, Lexington Avenue and Seventy-sixth Street, yesterday morning as, with simple prayer and chant, the funeral services were held for Thomas Fortune Ryan, who left a great fortune—estimated by some at as high as $300,000,000—when he died last Friday.

It was the simplest service that the church could perform, a low requiem mass. A single priest officiated. There was no eulogy, no honorary pallbearers, no flowers, except for a handful of red roses on the candle-lit altar.

Financiers and statesmen knelt among the poor of the parish, some of them with their children, for whom Mr. Ryan had spent nearly $1,000,000 to build the church, beneath the lofty vaulted marble of which his own body was lying. Those who possess names with which Wall Street conjures came and went as inconspicuously as their fellow mourners with lesser titles.

Church Dignitaries Attend.

Dignitaries of the Catholic Church were also in attendance. The Right Rev. Andrew Brennan of Richmond, Va., where Mr. Ryan frequently worshiped, was in the sanctuary in his red robes. Opposite him was Mgr. Michael J. Lavelle, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral and representative of Cardinal Hayes, and there were the eleven fathers of the Blessed Sacrament, who conduct the church, along with Father J. A. Pause, who was officiating. The Rev. John J. Wynne, editor of the Catholic Encyclopedia, was likewise in the group.

But the churchmen, like the other mourners, only knelt and prayed. The ceremonies were performed by Father Pauze alone, the priest who came to know Mr. Ryan twenty-seven years ago when he used to say mass at the financier's private chapel at Suffern, N. Y., and who had been his friend ever since.

The prevailing simplicity was in accord with Mr. Ryan's own wish. His friends said that it struck the same note that characterized his life. He was known to have always shunned special attention.

By 9 o'clock in the morning, an hour before the service was to begin, the first of those who came to attend it were arriving. They were apparently from all walks of life. They came on foot and in limousines. Thomas W. Lamont stepped from his car as a woman of the parish walked to the church entrance with a child in arms. Negro servants from the Ryan household also appeared.

J. P. Morgan, in morning suit and black derby, was led to a front pew by Charles H. Sabin, Chairman of the Board of the Guaranty Trust Company, who was acting as an usher. William C. Potter, President of the Guaranty Trust Company, was another usher.

Otto H. Kahn and Charles M. Schwab occupied pews across the way from Mr. Morgan. Scattered about the church were Elihu Root, former Secretary of State; Bernard Baruch, Frank L. Polk, former acting Secretary of State; Clarence H. Mackay, Frank Hedley, president of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company; Arthur Brisbane, Mrs. George Harvey, widow of the former Ambassador to Great Britain; Paul D. Cravath, lawyer, and Herbert H. Vreeland, old associate of Mr. Ryan and a director in many corporations.

Representatives of the Democratic party, with which Mr. Ryan was long associated, were present. There were Senator Royal S. Copeland and James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany, who, as treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, received $60,000 from Mr. Ryan to advance Governor Smith's campaign for the presidency. There were also William Donahue, treasurer of Tammany Hall and R. A. C. Smith, former dock commissioner.

Widow Too Ill to Attend.

Shortly before the service the members of the family arrived in four cars from Mr. Ryan's late home at 858 Fifth Avenue. The widow was not among them. She was too ill to leave her home in Oak Ridge, Va. where Mr. Ryan had maintained an estate near where he spent his boyhood. The rest of the immediate family was present except Allan A. Ryan, a son, who was reported to have been estranged but is now returning from Europe because of the news of his father's death.

Mrs. Allan A. Ryan and their children came to the service and Mr. Ryan's other two sons, John Barry Ryan and Clendennin J. Ryan, who were accompanied by their wives and children. There were twenty-five in the family group.

A wrought bronze casket with the body was carried up the centre aisle by professional pallbearers and placed on a catafalque. The 1,500 persons crowding the church knelt or bowed as Father Pauze, in front of the lofty altar, enthroning the sacrament temporarily veiled in white, intoned the prayers. In a gallery a boy choir of forty and a man choir of nine chanted Ignatius Muller's "Ave Maria," Palestrina's "Pie Jesu" and "Ave Maria Virgo Pia" and Monk's "Abide With Me." The entire service occupied only twenty-five minutes.

NO RYAN RESIDENCE CLAIM.

Executors Have Not Contended He Lived in Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—If executors of the estate of Thomas Fortune Ryan intend to claim he had legal residence in the District of Columbia, no formal word to that effect has been received by W. W. Bride, Corporation Counsel of the District. Mr. Bride said today the only intimation he had received that such a claim might be made was contained in a newspaper article.

The last tax Mr. Ryan paid in Washington was in 1922. At that time, Mr. Bride said informally, Mr. Ryan's residence was given as New York City, and the tax was only a small personal tax on furniture in an apartment here.

Will Rogers Says Victims Of His Jokes Don't Seem Hurt

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An old friend of mine, Mr. Paul Block, hopped on me for joking prominent men. Well, they all come back in the dressing room afterward and don't seem much hurt. Among the insulted last week was General Pershing, Barney Baruch, Herbert Swope and Charley Schwab.

He says I kidded Yale's football team. I did that up in New Haven with our show and the boys all took it good-naturedly. He says I owe Hearst five grand. That I admit. I have been waiting, hoping that Coolidge would veto the election and save me the five.

Now, Paul, don't take these big men so seriously. When you meet 'em and know 'em they are as human as anybody. So the next time you come I will introduce you and you will come back and we will finally decide that most people need kiddings. Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

STOCKS LEAP AHEAD IN 'WIDEST' TRADING

Sharp Gains Recorded by Many of the 821 Issues Dealt in on 5,326,750-Share Day.

SEAT IS SOLD FOR $575,000

Still Higher Price Said to Await the Next Transfer—Call Money Up —Ticker Close to Sales.

Resuming their advance after the breathing spell provided by Saturday's and Sunday's holidays, stocks continued to forge ahead yesterday in the same buoyant fashion which has characterized the market since the election. Some of the boisterousness of trading, however, appeared to have been lost over the week-end, and, while 5,326,750 shares were dealt in, the market was orderly, despite the tremendous strides of a few of the leaders, whose gains ranged upward to 19 points.

In one direction, at least, the market broke a record. This was in the number of issues traded in, their total being 821—the greatest in the history of the Exchange. At the close it was found that the average of 25 representative railroad shares had gained 1.39, to a new high record for the year at 131.56; that the industrials had gained 1.62, and that the entire market had gone forward 1.50.

Although the flare-up in such issues as International Nickel, Allied Chemical and Dye and a few others gave Wall Street its usual display of market pyrotechnics, nevertheless the greatest interest was in the move which developed in the railroad shares and which brought them forward, in group formation, to higher ground, led by Chesapeake & Ohio, New York Central, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Missouri, Kansas & Texas and Kansas City Southern. This group moved briskly toward higher prices. Improved railroad earnings for October, now being currently published, were factors in this steady advance in the railroad shares.

The advance of call money to 7½ per cent from its opening and low point of 6½ per cent attracted little attention in the market, despite the fact that it was the highest call money rate since Nov. 2. It is understood that some $50,000,000 will be required from the banks in cash for Thanksgiving holiday purposes, and the institutions were engaged yesterday in strengthening their positions to meet this expected demand. A little profit-taking developed when the rate went up, but almost all of this lost ground was later recovered.

The ticker did a good job of recording the market yesterday, and the elimination of sales volume figures from the tape has met with general commendation in the financial district because it enables traders to keep almost abreast of the market.

The price of seats on the New York Stock Exchange advanced $25,000 more yesterday. Announcement was made that a transaction had been arranged at $575,000, which compares with the previous high record of $550,000, established on Friday. The 1,100 seats on the Exchange have an aggregate market value of $632,500,000 on the basis of the new price of $575,000.

Negotiations for the purchase of other seats at higher prices were reported under way yesterday.

The $575,000 price which was fixed in yesterday's transaction represents an increase of $25,000 in value since Nov. 10, on which date a deal was arranged at $550,000. The price jumped to $580,000 last Thursday. On Friday the price went to $550,000. The names of the buyers and sellers in yesterday's $575,000 transaction were not announced.

COURT FREES COLEMAN.

State's Only Witness of Stabbing Was Drunk, He Testifies.

Thomas J. Coleman, 38 years old, was acquitted of a charge of murder yesterday by a directed verdict in the Hudson County Court of Over and Terminer, Jersey City, after the State's star witness, Stephen Mulcahey, 28, of 200 Twelfth Street, Jersey City, testified that he "was too drunk to know what happened" in a room at 93 Harrison Street, Hoboken, where Coleman, it was charged by the State, fatally stabbed Frank Miller. Eugene T. Shawkey, assistant prosecutor, told the court the State had no other eye-witness. Judge Charles M. Egan then ordered the jury to acquit Coleman.

$1,000,000 CHARITY ENDS 20-YEAR WAIT

Braker Home for the Aged Built After Long Fight Against Legal Barriers.

NO TASKS FOR INMATES

Institution, a Memorial to Importer's Parents, Will Open on Jan. 1.

ALL CREEDS ARE ELIGIBLE

Board of Managers Says Policy Will Be to Have Guests Live as in Their Own Homes.

Twenty years ago Henry J. Braker, importer and dealer in real estate, died leaving a trust fund of $1,000,000 to found the Braker Memorial Home which, according to the will, was to be "open at all times to needy men and women over 60 years of age without regard to condition or religious belief."

Long drawn out litigation over the will delayed the carrying out of his wish. E. Clifford Potter, John Anderson and the late Austin B. Fletcher, the trustees of the fund, labored for years against entanglements that barred their progress.

It was not until yesterday that the fulfillment of Mr. Braker's dream of a real home for aged and needy persons, as a memorial to his father and mother, was announced. The announcement came from the Board of Managers of the Braker Memorial Home, through its treasurer, Grenville T. Emmett, an attorney at 76 William Street.

Incorporated Quietly in 1924.

The home, on Third Avenue, from 181st to 184th Street, will open on Jan. 1. It was incorporated quietly in 1924 and has been erected almost unnoticed. It is a five-story, fireproof structure with accommodations for 100 persons, having separate quarters for men and women and double rooms for married couples, gathering rooms and spacious hallways.

The home has been erected upon the property of the Home for Incurables under a cooperative agreement. It will be operated as a separate entity, however, although its managing boards interlock. The Board of Managers of the Braker Memorial Home is composed of E. Clifford Potter, president; John Anderson, vice president; Rogers H. Bacon, secretary; Grenville T. Emmett, treasurer; Ogden Mills, T. Morse Smith and James J. Franc. Mr. Mills also is president of the Home for Incurables.

The Braker Memorial Home cost $560,000, including its furnishings, but during the years that have passed since Mr. Braker died the trust fund has grown from $1,000,000 to more than $1,500,000, thus leaving, according to Mr. Emmet, "at least $1,000,000 to be used as an endowment fund."

Although the will of Mr. Braker set forth that the home was to be for persons over 50 years of age, the board of managers, in its announcement, said the home was to be for "needy men and women of advanced age without regard to creed."

"My desire is," read the will of Mr. Braker, "that this institution be non-sectarian in character and that it be managed by a board of directors of the Protestant faith, but there shall be at no time a majority on the board of any one denomination of this faith."

The board of managers announced that it aimed to "provide a home that is a home in every sense of the word." To that end, rules and regulations would be simplified, the board said, to remove as much of the institutional atmosphere as possible, and to permit inmates to have all the liberties they would have in their own homes.

Inmates Will Not Have to Work.

"Those admitted," continued the announcement, "will not be required to perform any labor or duties, transfer or assign any property, either real or personal, unless they do so of their own accord. They are, however, requested to cooperate in every way to render the surroundings cheerful and comfortable."

The rules provide that admissions shall be in the discretion of the committee on admissions. The charge for "board and maintenance of each guest shall not be less than $1 per day." Each inmate must sign an agreement to pay the charge and some "additional surety satisfactory to the home" also will have to be signed.

Although the will said that persons shall be admitted without regard to condition, the rules call for a medical examination and bar applicants who would require nursing.

Accommodations include room, board, laundry service and medical and nursing care during acute illness. The rules state that "guests must provide themselves with suitable and adequate wearing apparel to make themselves presentable." Rule 8 sets forth that at the time of admission "suitable arrangements should be made for funeral expenses" either by a deposit or having some relative or friend assume that responsibility.

Mr. Braker was the senior member of H. J. Braker & Brother, importers, at 100 William Street. He lived for a time at 1,006 Fifth Avenue. He attracted a deal of attention at one time by his offer of $2,000,000 cash to the city for the franchises of the Sixth and Eighth Avenue car lines. He died at Plymouth, England, on Aug. 31, 1909.

THE SCREEN

By MORDAUNT HALL.

Where Poppies Grow.

THE SOMME, a British World War picture, directed by M. A. Wetherall, while Boyd Cable acted as literary adviser; a film comedy with Charley Chase; overture, "Echoes of the Ozark." At the Cameo theatre.

Grim realism sticks out in "The Somme," a British World War production now at the Cameo Theatre. No senseless romance mars this effort, in fact nary a woman crosses the screen. Its story deals with the bloody push on the Somme in 1916. It was directed by M. A. Wetherell, and Boyd Cable, the author, acted as literary adviser. It is actually a subject where it would be well nigh possible to exaggerate, but even so, the producers have adroitly steered clear of giving too much of one thing and there is no attempt to overdo the blood and bandages. Some of the scenes are actual pictures of the fighting.

It gives a fine conception of the zero hour, with the officers looking at their wrist watches, all waiting for the second before anybody leaps over the top. It is not bitter in its narrative, but a few pages of history. It gives one the true impression of the frightfulness of war with only a few touches of comedy. There is the courage on both sides and while the Tommies are victors, there is no gloating. There is a wood, mowed by fire until the trees look like splintered telegraph poles. The handful of Britishers left in that stark spot were finally saved by welcome re-enforcements.

Corporal T. W. H. Veale, who won the Victoria Cross in the Somme fighting, in this film shows what he did to win that award. He happens to see an arm lifted in No Man's Land. He leaps over the parapet and squirms and crawls to the rescue. He discovers that the wounded man is an officer, and with bullets whizzing past him, he succeeds in pulling the officer to a shell hole. He returns then and two other soldiers volunteer to help him bring in the wounded officer. Veale takes a Lewis gun with him and covers his mates while they are trying to lug the wounded man to the British line.

There also are flashes purporting to show Piper James Richardson of the Canadian Scottish, who fused his comrades with further zeal by marching back and forth on the parapet playing his bagpipes.

"Teh Somme" gives one the impression of having been pictured during the battles. There is a suggestion of Bairnsfather's famous "Better 'Ole" when two Tommies are in one of those shell holes. They are there waiting for a chance to join their pals. One of them pops up his head and then wants to know what ails him. His comrade laughs at him. They both look up, and in the distance they see something that through the mist looks like a prehistoric monster. Then, to their dismay, the thing becomes more distinct. It is their first sight of a tank! After that the crawling fortress pushes its way along, crushing dugouts, parapets and anything in its path.

No picture of this 1916 series of battles would be complete without a good look at the mud. There are men in the trenches knee deep in water and mud. And scenes are shown of the Germans, alluded to by the Tommy as Jerry, with saturated coats and boots and trousers covered with the slime.

Thiepval, Bapaume, Contalmaison, Combles and other spots all come in for a few scenes in this Big Show of '16, which is like leaning back and visualizing the fighting in those dark days.

Certain of the sequences are actual war scenes exhibited with permission of the trustees of the Imperial War Museum.

A German Comedy.

SMALL TOWN SINNERS, with Asta Nielsen, Hermann Picha, Hans Adalbert Schlettow, Ferdinand von Alten and others, directed by Bruno Rahn; "The Vision," a short solor subject. At the Playhouse.

For half its length, in spite of its poor photography and amateurish direction, "Small Town Sinners," a German picture based on a play called "Meiserkin," is mildly amusing. There are moments that are not exactly in good taste, which can be set down to Continental ideas, but the characters are infinitely more human than many a production made recently. Another point in favor of this old film is that the story is more original than the average pictorial romance.

Fortunately yesterday was a cold day, otherwise the sight of a glass of Pilsener beer running over might create a thirst that would cause a stampede from the theatre. This is the first scene and one's eyes are immediately opened wide, becoming more and more fixed as the full bar is shown. Then Selma, the publican's wife, is introduced, impersonated by Asta Nielsen, who gives a clever performance. She has a weakness for a little too much mouse-color stuff on her eyelids, but this can be pardoned, as she has to drink beer and dry her mouth, which means that for the nonce she is not able to use any lip rouge.

The yarn opens up with the disclosure that Selma, who married her husband "more for his beer than his money," and her spouse learn that the old age pension for Selma's grandfather is now to be paid in person. This grandfather has been dead for several years and neither Selma nor her husband thought it necessary to say anything about the gentleman's demise, and so they accepted the money, which came so easily. The idea of a man going to pay the money in person to the grandfather puts a new complexion on matters. Selma and August, the husband, therefore arrange with a neighbor to lend his granduncle, who is not quite sure whether he is 99 or 97. He is senile, loves dolls, climbs on the piano and does a lot of things for which as a child he would have been spanked.

The terms for borrowing the old man are a goose for the first hour. The second hour's compensation is not mentioned, but as the pension-payer decides to stay for a couple of weeks at the inn Selma and August are forced to board the old man, his grandnephew and grandniece and still live in fear of disclosures or a little common-sense suddenly coming to the old man's noodle.

August is the real sufferer in this tale, for Selma falls in love with Bostelman, the pension-payer. Selma, drinking beer as she does, is not what one would term svelt, but she has a certain charm. And as in "The Masks of the Devil" there is the familiar sight of white flowers, green grass, leafy trees and then Selma and her new admirer walking as if on clouds.

"The Vision," a prize color picture, and a few flashes from some old films are on the surrounding program.

"POWER" IS QUITE AMUSING.

Story of Two Swains Told With Slapstick and Whimsy.

POWER, with William Boyd, Jacqueline Logan, Alan Hale, Jerry Drew, Joan Bennett, Carol Lombard, Pauline Curley; directed by Howard Higgins; Aesop's fable, news reel, vaudeville. At the Hippodrome.

This picture is dedicated to the subversive belief that all beautiful young ladies desire is a large bankroll. As an exploitation of the above theory, "Power" manages through most of its length to be quite amusing, if not particularly instructive. It is light and doesn't try to solve any world problems; no mere need be said.

The theme concerns two amiable young men who spend their days as laborers in the construction of a dam; their evenings in rivalry for the affections of the members of the fairer sex. After sundry mishaps they decide to divide the town, each assuming (for the purpose of conquest) that the young ladies in each half like no one but the young man whose division it is. But the plan does not work.

Then there suddenly enters a lady who appears a little more versed in the ways of the world than the rest of the youth and beauty of the town; both young men forget their earlier announcements of friendship for each other and concentrate on the girl. From one she accepts $2,000, from the other $2,500, then runs off with a third person who has been forming only a background.

It isn't much of a story, but is told with sufficient combination of slapstick and whimsy as to be very pleasant. Occasionally the directorial touch of Mr. Higgins appears in the suggestion of a situation rather than the bald statement of it.

Mr. Boyd and Mr. Hale are an amusing pair of young men about town, and Miss Logan reads into her part a sufficient bit of Helen of Troy to make it quite effective.

IN JOHN DREW'S MEMORY.

Window in "Little Church" to Be Unveiled on Sunday, Dec. 9.

A stained-glass window in memory of John Drew, who died in San Francisco a year ago last July, will be unveiled in the Church of the Transfiguration (The Little Church Around the Corner), 1 East Twenty-ninth Street, at 2 P. M. on Sunday, Dec. 9. The Rev. Randolph Ray, rector of the church, who will be one of the speakers, said last night the program was still incomplete.

The window, which is the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Devereaux, son-in-law and daughter of the famous actor, was designed in London by J. H. Hogan and manufactured there by James Powell & Sons. It measures about two feet by eight.

The window is Gothic in design and its chief figure is St. John the Evangelist. Other figures represent Love, Faith and Hope. Mr. Drew's nationality is depicted by an eagle, also the symbol of St. John, appearing at the left of the disciple. The inscription at the bottom is as follows:

"In Memory of John Drew. Born 13th November, 1853, Died 9th July, 1927."

MUSIC

By OLIN DOWNES.

Lucie Caffaret's Recital.

A pianist of extraordinary strength, speed and abounding virtuoso temperament, Miss Lucie Caffaret gave a recital last night in Town Hall. Miss Caffaret gave notice of certain exceptional qualities when she visited America last season. She was soloist a few days ago with the Philadelphia Orchestra in Philadelphia. Her performance last night indicated that in music of the larger forms and particularly music which would enlist all of her technical and temperamental qualities she would be especially successful.

Last night her performances alternated between some playing that was admirably clear and crystalline or large and dramatic in effect, and other playing that was exaggerated, ill-proportioned and lacking in poise and nuance. Thus she played the Bach "Capriccio on the departure of a beloved brother" with clarity and sentiment—not, necessarily, with all the poetry and romanticism which creep into this charming old piece of program music, but with prevailing excellence of taste and style. If her virtuosity and her impatience to be at music that would satisfy her electrical temperament caused her to dispense with some of the eighteenth century "politesse" of Rameau and Couperin, she nevertheless treated their pieces with esprit and with sympathetic response to their wit and aristocratic manner. But the playing of the Mozart A major sonata, which followed, was not so edifying. It lacked a true lyricism and the classic symmetry, the effortless beauty of that great master. And the march "alla Turka" was in Ercles's vein.

Again in the performance of the Liszt Sonata Miss Caffaret showed her impetuosity and her capacity for emotional accent. She apparently welcomes music of such grandiose material and design for its emotional elbow-room. There were dazzling displays of virtuosity, and some exciting climaxes. These climaxes, however, came too often, and the exhuberance of élan of the performance should have been tempered with finer and less obvious qualities to make the sonata fascinating throughout its great length.

The D flat major nocturne of Chopin had measures of a beautiful and poetic character, then suddenly lapsed into disproportionate measures taken, apparently, for the sake of contrast and effect. But the essence of Chopin is not so accessible as that. Two of the waltzes, including the biggest and most popular one in E flat, the two G flat studies, the Saint-Saens-Lisst "Dance Macrabre" completed the program, which the pianist extended in response to the applause of a good-sized and enthusiastic audience.

Miss Caffaret appeared last night a pianist of curiously uneven characteristics. In general it seems that she should beware of a hard tone, and a dry and nervous staccato, and cultivate legato playing, repose, and the effect of under—instead of over—statement. She is intrinsically an artist of unusual gifts and individuality.

BOLD MUST PAY $1,000.

Carroll Upheld in Charges of Laxness Against "Vanities" Actor.

Richard Bold, the "Vanities" actor who was accused of professional laxness by Earl Carroll, was ordered to pay the producer $1,000 in damages yesterday by the American Arbitration Association. Mr. Carroll, after Mr. Bold had missed three entrance cues during performances, dismissed the actor and asked to be upheld in his action by the Actors' Equity Association. The arbiters on the case were John Coute, David Belasi and W. Herbert Adams. The decision permits the actor to continue in his rôle.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Three more plays will open tonight. "The Age of Innocence," with Katharine Cornell as its star, at the Empire; "Conga!" at the Sam H. Harris and "The Perfect Alibi" at the Charles Hopkins. An 8:20 curtain is announced for "The Age of Innocence."

The premiere of "Tomorrow," scheduled for tomorrow night at the Lyceum, has been postponed to next Monday night.

"Mr. Moneypenny" was moved from the Liberty Theatre to the Cosmopolitan last night.

"Mima" is expected to open at the Belasco Theatre during next week.

"Crashing Thru" will close at the Republic Theatre this week and "Tin Pan Alley" will be transferred to that house next Monday.

The Theatre Guild's production of "Wings Over Europe" is scheduled to open at the Martin Beck Theatre on Monday, Dec. 10.

The Lew Fields show, "Hello, Daddy!" will open at Mr. Fields's Mansfield Theatre on Christmas night. Theresa Maxwell-Conover is succeeding Josephine Drake in the cast.

"New Americans" will open at the Liberty Theatre Thursday night, instead of tomorrow.

There will be a midnight performance of "This Year of Grace" at the Selwyn Theatre tonight. The audience will be largely professional.

With the withdrawal of "Caponsacchi" this week Mr. Hampden will keep his theatre idle for three weeks. There will be a new production, the nature of which is unannounced, during Christmas week.

Announcement is made by the Actors' Theatre that their next Ibsen play, opening in January, will be "The Lady from the Sea." Blanche Yurka will head the cast.

There will be an Actors' Fund matinee of "Sun-Up" at the Lucille La Verne Theatre on Dec. 6.

Evelyn Bennett, who has been out of the cast of "Good Boy" for two weeks because of illness, will sail tomorrow for Bermuda. In the interim Margie Findlay is playing her role.

"The Right Angle," a play by Len D. Hollister and Lester Lonergan, most recently called "The House Unguarded," will have its first performance in New Rochelle on Dec. 15. The locale of the play is an army post in the Panama Canal Zone.

"Ned Wayburn's Gambols" opened in Springfield last night.

THE PLAY

The Age of Experience.

HOLIDAY, a comedy in three acts, by Philip Barry. Staged by Arthur Hopkins; settings by Robert Edmond Jones; produced by Mr. Hopkins. At the Plymouth Theatre.

With his marvelous gift for spinning, spiraling humors, Philip Barry keeps life gay through most of his new spindrift comedy, "Holiday," put on at the Plymouth last evening. For one act, in fact, he gives full rein to his scattered, mocking, fluffy fooling and to his characters who will not let the fun go out of their lives. Nothing could be grander amusement than that opening act. For no logical reason Mr. Barry also has a thesis on his hands—one so much of the Edith Wharton manner that it tags far behind his mischievous fun. Only the buoyancy of his point of view, the spurts of rippling dialogue and the shining verve of the acting bring "Holiday" safely through the solemnity of that fable.

What he is arguing is the emptiness of the rich, the solidly affluent life. All that stands between Johnny Case and the wealthy Julia Seton is his determination to keep free from the entangling alliances of social position. Having made his one killing in the stock market, he now insists upon retiring early in life when he can enjoy it, rather than late, when the spirit has run out. But to her strait-laced breeding, such a vagary damns him as an idler. There shall be no pariahs in her domestic life. And that, if you are interested, is the reason they breed the engagement, and the reason her rebellious, smitten sister, now released from decent loyalty to a member of her own family, pulls on her cap and runs cheerfully after him.

Since, according to a crusted tradition, a playwright must have a story, let this one pass for what it is worth. For Mr. Barry it is hardly more than an excuse to push his favorite characters onto the stage and to uncork his matchless effervescence. What dialogue! It springs directly from the usual sources of polite banter; it does not eschew the lowly pun. Only a little rougher and disorderly, and it might be the Marx boys up to their old tricks. But Mr. Barry turns it neatly, flips it daintily into the pattern of his story, and for long periods lets it bounce back and forth between two characters like a tennis volley. Occasionally it seems a trifle self-conscious, as when the kin-spirits in worldly irreverence, led by Donald Ogden Stewart in person, sit down gravely while he discloses the secret of his fantastic success. Unusually it dances gayly without rhyme or reason and leaves only the impression of lightness when it has stopped. For if Mr. Barry does not scrupulously keep it in character, at least he keeps character in it.

For his chief character, the rebellious Linda Seton, such dialogue is a defense against the melancholy of her thoughts. It is no secret that Mr. Barry has drawn the part to suit Hope Williams, the ironically merry friend of the family in "Paris Bound" last year; and it will soon be no secret that Miss Williams is one of the most clear-headed comediennes we have. When Linda Seton finds the irresponsible Johnny one of kin in temperament and sits down to match non-sense with him, Miss Williams plays quietly with a sort of comic incandescence that is one of the superlative delights of this season. Through all the turns of the play she remains very much herself—boyishly awkward, but quick and sparkling. Whatever she may do with other characters, the style of the Linda Seton is definitely hers.

Having Arthur Hopkins as a producer for this play as well as "In a Garden" and "Paris Bound," Mr. Barry is in good hands. Casting and direction, as well as Robert Edmond Jones's settings, make the most of his comedy. All the acting gleams with light. Dorothy Tree as the reluctant Julia Seton lets the hardness of character break through the charm with great skill. Ben Smith as the blundering Johnny puts ruggedness as well as freshness into his part. In the minor part of despairing brother Monroe Owsley gives a splendid, true performance. Reclaimed from letters and shoved unceremoniously behind the footlights, Donald Ogden Stewart picks up the mood expertly. As the humorless father, Walter Walker, manages to keep a stock part humanly believable.

Mr. Barry is effortless with dialogue and characters. But pressing a story around them still keeps him uneasy. "Holiday" does not flow as graciously as "Paris Bound" and does not curl around ideas so amiably. But it has savor, fresh color and sunny merriment. Even when it is unhappily dramatic it is still a holiday in playmaking.

'ALICE BRADY SUPERB IN A NEW COMEDY

Reappears in 'A Most Immoral Lady,' by Townsend Martin, Dealing With the Badger Game.

A MOST MORAL LADY, a comedy in three acts, by Townsend Martin. Staged by Dwight Deere Wiman and Mr. Martin; settings by Jo Mielziner; produced by William A. Brady Jr. and Mr. Wiman. At the Cort Theatre.

Alice Brady, who has had a particularly hard time trying to find plays to fit her talents, reappeared last night at the Cort Theatre in a comedy entitled "A Most Immoral Lady." It has moments that place it a cut or two above the run of plays in which she has been appearing, but it will not bear too close examination. Miss Brady, however, raises some of it on high and for that alone the play at the Cort should be worth seeing.

To this is to be added the fact that the play tells rather an interesting tale—at least for the first two acts. It is the first play—the first to be professionally produced, at all events—of Townsend Martin, whose name is better known on Park Avenue than it is on Broadway. You might assume from the very elaborateness of the title that Mr. Martin was here submitting a puritanical young woman, who perhaps pretended to the semblance of sin. But the contrary is true; Mr. Martin's tale is concerned with a matron who practices what is known in police circles as the badger game, but which may be more prettily titled in the world that Mr. Martin's play is set in. For there is enough talk of Paris divorces, of yachts and Vancouver to indicate that it is some of the best people who are being victimized.

Mr. Martin has told, with no little ingenuity, how the game that she is playing recoils in time upon his heroine and all but smashes her life. Indeed, for all honest purposes it smashed it, but in a rather awkward last act he contrives to suggest that perhaps all will come well again. It might have been a stronger and a braver play if Mr. Martin had permitted the lady to slip on down the hill. And, what is more to the point, it might have furnished Miss Brady with one more good scene, instead of the small stuff that she can toss so easily over her shoulder.

One can no longer pretend to be surprised at the discovery that Miss Brady is a good actress, but for a few moments last night, near the end of the second act, she seemed just a bit better than she had ever been before. Here, with the consequences of her sins heavily upon her, she was downright superb. Austin Fairman, as the husband who lends himself to the shady doings, turns in the best performance that he ever has given in these parts, and the remainder are fair-to-middling. Blyth Daly, back to Broadway after a London interval, during which she has become vastly better looking, plays a strident young woman who is called upon to do some pretty unbelievable things. Particularly in that last act.

'THE LADY LIES' POSES A DOMESTIC PROBLEM

THE LADY LIES, a play in three acts, by John Meehan. Staged by David Burton; settings by Jo Mielziner; produced by Joseph Santley, Theodore Hatter and John McGowan. At the Little Theatre.

Bob Rossiter.....Charles Cromer
Josephine Rossiter.....Anna Thomas
Tyler.....Robert Barratt
Robert Rossiter.....William Boyd
Henry Tuttle.....James Seeley
Amelia Tuttle.....Cordelia McDonald
Beatrice Tuttle.....Clara Gould
Ann Gardner.....Anita Damroach
Florence Rossiter.....Betty Lawford
Alex Huntington.....Henry Wadsworth
Joyce Roamer.....Shirley Warde
Hilda Pearson.....Nan Sunderland
Thomas.....Harry Lillford
Maid.....Olive Burgoyne

A serious domestic problem was posed at the Little Theatre last evening; and solved after a fashion. The occasion was the play "The Lady Lies," written by John Meehan. The adult principals in the cast were William Boyd and Miss Shirley Warde; but these capable two would hardly have got far but for the youthful assistance of Miss Anna Thomas and Charles Cromer. Most of which requires explanation.

The problem is something like this: Postulate, a widower with three children, 18 years of age, 17 and 15. Then drop the eldest as not of account in the picture. Accredit to the father unbounded love for his children; and to the children for their father, ditto. Bring into the equation as a disturbing factor the young woman whose companionate relation to the father has lasted some seven years; and as complicating factors, a brother-in-law, Puritanissimo, from Salem, and the fiancée the father has culled from the social register. And then set the class in algebra to find the result. Young Cromer, as Bob Rossiter (the father being Robert Rossiter), feels qualified to pass the examination, since he is a freshman at Dartmouth, and Sister Josephine (Anna Thomas, of course), who is home from boarding school, essays to help him. For nigh three acts the answer eludes the aspiring pupils, when Shirley Warde, as the companionate lady, Joyce Roamer, whispers the answer.

And what is the answer? Obviously, thirty playwrights could start with the same general proposition and arrive at thirty separate conclusions. The determining forces would be the degree of love the father holds for his mistress in ratio to the degree of love he has for his children; and, again a ditto, for the woman he is engaged to marry. The sole issue raised in the theatre will be how convincing to the audience appears the conclusions of the particular playwright. Mr. Meehan's solution, although it left corollary, but lesser, problems, unsolved, and adumbrated fresh ones, clearly carries conviction. This is to say that the drama, from the dramatist's standpoint, accomplishes all that can be asked of it.

As the sorely beset gentleman in the case, William Boyd does a fine piece of work. He is a natural father, and a not unnatural lover. When brother-in-law from Salem spills the Boston-baked beans, and young Bob and sister Jo try to pick them up and spread them still more extensively over the Persian rug—not only those in Dad's house but the rugs in the lady's apartment, likewise—Mr. Boyd's nice balance of amusement, irritation, alarm and understanding blend to make an effective and ingratiating performance.

Miss Warde, with the rôle of a second Mrs. Tanqueray living in the year 1928 resting on her shoulders, gave an interpretation not only consonant with the intention of Mr. Meehan's lines, but one changed with the spirit of the elapsed years. True, it is a friend, played with conventional hard-boiledness by Miss Nan Sunderland, who makes her suicide impossible by sequestering the poisoned pellets; but the lady herself makes clear that, after all, she would not have betaken herself off by the suicide route. The sacrifice the author calls for, Miss Warde puts across, without too many tears and in a manner that wins from the audience the sympathy desired.

The question of juvenile acting is a double one. Granting that capable youngsters are to be found, there still remains the even more vexing question of the ability of the playwright to provide them with lines that will render their impersonations acceptable. In view of the many unconvincing parts written for children, it would seem that for a dramatist to build a youthful character part is more difficult than to build an adult part. Mr. Meehan's success with his juvenile rôles is something many will envy. And it may be added—indeed, it must be added—that Miss Thomas and Charles Cromer did their work in a manner pleasant to behold.

And having written so well for his youthful personages, why did Mr. Meehan do so badly for the Salem Puritans? Surely there are some things an audience may be relied on to perceive without having them spelled out in capital letters and shoveled from a barrel. It was clear that brother-in-law Tuttle (James Seeley couldn't be blamed from overplaying him) was sanctimonious to the nth degree, so why repeat it in some fifteen different ways?

"The Lady Lies" has much more humor than one might gather from a synopsis of the play. As comedy in the drawing room and out of it the play should meet with favor.

Peter Pan came back last night twenty-three years and a few weeks after his first venture out of Kensington Gardens into New York. With Peter came the whole Darling family, Nana, the dog-nurse, his gang of lost boys, his Red Skins, led by Tiger Lily, and his Pirate crew commanded by the redoubtable Captain Hook. Likewise, the wolves were there—the wolves that were frightened away by looking through your legs at them—and a most special and admirable Crocodile with the clock ticking inside him. Something was lacking that was Maude Adams, something elfin and piercing-sweet, expressed in double violin notes, something was lacking that was Ernest Lawford's lisp that so utterly disarmed the ferocious pirate captain with his steel claw of a hand.

But Barrie's lovely, wistful, playful old piece about the children who flew out of the nursery window to the delights that children day-dream about had lost nothing essential of its magic because of the lapse of years and or because the Civic Repertory company were playing it instead of the company of Charles Frohman. Nothing was left undone and everything was well done, from the stage settings to the wag of Nana's tail. If Eva Le Gallienne lacked something of the sweet, keen wistfulness which Maude Adams gave the part of the boy who would not grow up, she was a gallant, buoyant, clean-cut figure, and gave Peter plenty of élan and boyish grace. She even expressed something of the aloofness of Peter—the boy who would not be mothered to the ruin of his boyhood—which was not within the compass of Miss Adams herself.

Maude Adams wore russety tights, cross-gartered. Miss Le Gallienne wears the limit of bare legs. This difference is only the difference in the costume conventional of the two periods. And it is the only serious difference between the dressing of the old Peter Pan and the new, though (of course) neither Pirates nor Redskins are copies of the Empire issue, and Miss Le Gallienne's production generally is her own, with many variations in detail from the New York original. Nothing could be better (for what it is) than the behavior of the lost boys underground, when they are all in bed and Wendy is telling them Mrs. Darling's story. The Pirates are all that the heart of a boy—or a pacifical grown-up with lurking memories of lust for loot and slaughter—could desire.

Egon Brecher as Hook is a most egregious villain in red, even if he does not lisp or give such unction to the perfidious trap with "rich damp cake" that was to have got the children into his power. Noodly says "Some-e-o-e" as it used to be said in the old days. But Smee is there and busy on the deck of the pirate ship—operating a sewing machine. John Eldredge plays the part, not without proper feeling. If one misses the splash as the pirates go overboard, that perhaps is clinging overmuch to a happy memory. And the surpassing excellence of the crocodile may be counted as making up in part—for the omission. Josephine Hutchinson's Wendy is a very serious Wendy—which is what Wendy must be above all things, and J. Edward Bromberg presents Nana with the right touch of comic caninity.

Last night the piece ran a bit too long. And it seemed that some of the dancing by the Red Skins might be omitted without notable loss and other business spared which the text and the context did not compel. The flying trick, by the way, was well managed and Miss Eva Le Gallienne's own dances in the character of the lightsome Peter were airily and expertly executed.

A FAITH-HEALING PLAY.

Olga Printzlau, who has achieved some fame at Hollywood as a writer of film scenarios, had another try at the legitimate drama last night with the presentation of an after-the-war play called "Back Here."

Her first stage play, "Window Panes," produced at the Mansfield Theatre last season did not linger long on Broadway, closing after thirty-two performances. Her second piece is curiously like the first in theme, although it has a different setting, being concerned with the healing of infirmities through faith. This time it is a hospital for disabled war veterans that is the faith healer's clinic. One of the men, Peter Linden, is a Pollyanna in olive drab, spreading a little cheer in the lives of war-wrecks. Terry O'Brien, a hard-boiled top sergeant, thoroughly disillusioned about life and love, challenges Peter. He asks Peter, apparently a cripple for life, why he does not prove his faith by walking. Needless to say, this proof is given before the final curtain.

Several tangled lives and loves are straightened out during the course of the evening, which could scarcely be described as entertainment. The cast does very well with what has been given to it. The performance of Melvyn Douglas, who acted the sergeant with ease and naturalness, was assuredly the best. George Meeker had the difficult rôle of the spreader of faith and did his utmost to make it convincing. Outstanding among the feminine players were Jeanne Greene, Jean Dixon, and Kitty Kelly, the last as a good-natured dance-hall girl.

"NORMA" REPEATED.

Rosa Ponselle Again Sings Title Role in a Splendid Performance.

The Metropolitan Opera House repeated last night its production of Bellini's "Norma," which must rank as one of the finest of the achievements of recent seasons. The cast, as at the first performance of the season, included in principal parts Rosa Ponselle, Norma; Giacomo Lauri-Volpi, Pollione; Ezio Pinza, Oroveso; Marion Telva, Adalgisa; Minnie Egener, Clotilde, and Giordano Paltrinieri, Flavio. Mr. Serafin conducted.

The performance moved with its now accustomed smoothness and dramatic effect. Miss Ponselle in excellent voice, gave the music its appropriate style and glorified measures which in the hands of other singers are meaningless. To do less would have been to repeat a common injustice to Bellini. From scene to scene and act to act the singer built up her part and made beautiful song the vehicle of emotional expression.

Messrs. Lauri-Volpi and Pinza bore the burden of the men's parts very successfully indeed, the tenor being long and loudly applauded. Miss Telva showed that her Adalgisa is constantly growing in authority. The conducting of Serafin again gave the performance its final distinction.

Dempsey Takes Talking Film Test.

Special to The New York Times.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 26.—Jack Dempsey has been taking tests for talking movies at the Fox Studio here. He is expected to sign for a sound picture if the tests impress film studio executives.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 26.—The disturbance that was central south of Nova Scotia Sunday night has moved northeastward with increasing intensity, being central tonight north of Newfoundland. The disturbance northwest of Hudson Bay is moving slowly southeastward, and pressure is relatively low and falling from Manitoba southward and southeastward over the Plains States and the Rocky Mountain region.

Still another disturbance is approaching the Southern Alaska coast. The area of high pressure from the northwest has moved southeastward with diminishing strength, being central over Alabama. The Alaskan area of high pressure is spreading eastward and southeastward over British northwest territory.

Generally fair weather will prevail Tuesday, except for snow flurries in portions of the North Atlantic States, but the eastward advance of the disturbance that is now developing over Eastern Colorado and the Central Plains States will be attended by much cloudiness and there will be rain as far east as the Appalachian region by Wednesday night and in the Atlantic States by Thursday. The temperature will rise gradually in most sections east of the Mississippi River during the next two days.

RADIO CORPORATION LOSES IN HIGH COURT

LAKE CARGO CASE ADVANCED

Richberg to File O'Fallon Rail Brief —New York Harbor Crash Ruled Out as Navigation Issue.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP).—The Radio Corporation of America failed today in its effort to have the United States Supreme Court review an injunction issued by the Federal District Court for Delaware restraining it from enforcing a license agreement with manufacturers of radio receiving sets using its circuit patent requiring them to purchase from the corporation all tubes in their sets.

The corporation had contended that it had fully established by litigation its right to patents covering circuits used by competitors, and was therefore in a position to drive them out of business but had consented to permit their competition in the manufacture of receiving sets provided they used tubes made by the corporation.

The De Forest Radio Company, through its receiver, and other manufacturers of tubes competing with those manufactured by the Radio Corporation asserted that the patent of Dr. Lee De Forest covering the tubes expired in February, 1925, leaving every one free to engage in the manufacture of the tubes, and that the Radio Corporation contract agreement with the manufacturers of radio receiving sets gave the corporation a monopoly, depriving them of their only market for their tubes, their only product, and if enforced would drive them out of business. The lower Federal courts sustained their contention that the Radio Corporation license contract violated the Clayton act and constituted unfair competition.

Admits Richberg in Rail Case.

The Supreme Court consented to permit Donald R. Richberg to file a brief as friend of the court in the St. Louis and O'Fallon railroad case, involving an attack on the Interstate Commerce Commission's method of valuing railroads.

Richberg represents the national conference on the valuation of American railroads.

The collision in New York Harbor in December, 1925, between the Central Railroad of New Jersey's ferry boat Cranford and the steamship Cumberland of the Eastern Steamship Company will not be reviewed by the Supreme Court, which today refused to pass on rules of navigation involving which vessel had the right of way.

Former Publisher Again Loses.

Thomas D. Taylor, formerly publisher of The Philadelphia Evening Telegraph, again failed to obtain a review of a decision of the lower Federal courts canceling a contract he had with the Burke Printing Company, publishers of The Hartford (Conn.) Times, for obtaining advertisements. The contract was set aside on grounds of misrepresentation.

The lake cargo cases, involving the right of the Interstate Commerce Commission to order Southern railroads to cancel tariffs making reductions of rates on coal from Southern mines to lake ports, were today advanced by the Supreme Court for hearing on Feb. 18.

Packers' Case Set for March 11.

Responding to the demand of the government that final action be hastened in the case under which the packers were to confine their business exclusively to meat packing, the court today advanced the case for hearing on March 11.

DAMAGE ASKED IN TUBE SUIT.

DeForest Counsel Says Decision Will Increase Competition.

Samuel Darby Jr. of the law firm of Darby & Darby in New York, De Forest representatives, in commenting on the case of De Forest and others versus the Radio Corporation of America, decided in the United States Supreme Court yesterday, said:

"The Supreme Court has declined to review the case of De Forest and others brought against the Radio Corporation of America for violation of Section 3 of the Clayton Anti-Trust act, where the District Court of Delaware and the Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit held that the R. C. A. had violated the Clayton act by Clause 9 of their license agreements entered into with twenty-five set manufacturers.

"The independent tube manufacturers who were damaged by the operation of Clause 9 of these agreements are now in a position to demand a sum equal to the amount of their damages, which sum will be trebled under the provision of the Clayton act. The suit was filed a year ago this month, but was stayed pending the appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court. Now the injunction will issue restraining the R. C. A. from enforcing Clause 9 of their agreement.

"The import of the decision is that the R. C. A. cannot legally monopolize the manufacture and sale of audion tubes by contract with the set manufacturers who are their licensees, thereby absorbing the market for tubes.

"From a practical viewpoint, this will assure a varied supply of tubes to the users of radio sets where the tubes will be on a purely competitive basis as to efficiency and price."

GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF MOVIES ARGUED

Brookhart and Hudson Defend Their Proposed Bills Before Meeting in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP).—Federal regulation of the production of motion pictures as opposed to depending on the discretion of exhibitors was the subject of a debate at the initial session here tonight of the Federal Motion Picture Council.

Senator Brookhart of Iowa and Representative Hudson of Michigan, each author of bills which would provide for the supervision of moving picture production by the Federal Government, explained their proposed legislation.

Representative Hudson asserted that his bill went farther than that of the Senator by providing for the creation of a Federal motion picture commission to take over supervision.

In explaining the feasibility of his bill, Senator Brookhart said:

"The need for a real arbitration board is a crying one. We have had enough of a Will Hays court, which is controlled by only one side of the question. I am convinced that the public is aroused to the need for such legislation, and I am sure of its passage very soon."

The Rev. William Murdock MacLeod of Pinehurst, N. C., denied that exhibitors were hampered by the block booking system, now practiced by producers, in showing the type of pictures they desired.

"Are you in favor of Congressman Hudson's bill?" asked Canon William Sheafe Chase of New York, chairman of the meeting. "Because in this new open forum we don't want any argument against it," he added.

"I am not against the bill if it can be shown that it is the satisfactory method of keeping motion pictures decent and of value in the educational field," answered the Rev. Mr. MacLeod. "But I believe that the individuals of each community should be responsible for the type of pictures shown, and could be aroused to a point where they will boycott the undesirable films."

PREMIERE ON RADIO FOR NEW SYMPHONY

First Presentation of Its Kind to Be Given Under Damrosch's Leadership.

Walter Damrosch will lead the National Orchestra in the first radio world première of a symphonic work in the inaugural broadcast of his evening series over WJZ on Saturday night, beginning at 8 o'clock according to his representative. The new work is by Robert Braine, young American composer, and is entitled "S O S".

The new orchestra of sixty musicians recruited by the National Broadcasting Company includes thirty-three former members of the New York Symphony Orchestra. Ten members of the organization were first instrument players with the New York Symphony Orchestra, the announcement said.

The programs will be non-commercial.

"I hope this will be only the beginning of world première performances for radio audiences," said Dr. Damrosch in commenting on the new number. "There is no reason why audiences of the air should not pass upon new musical works as intelligently and effectively as concert audiences. They are accustomed to express their reactions to what they hear over the microphone frankly and impartially, without waiting to find out first what the critics think. Their reaction to new symphonic works should make extremely interesting reading matter.

Mr. Braine was said to have received inspiration for the work from having been in a radio studio on Dec. 8, 1927, when S O S calls were being received from a Greek ship in distress off the Georgia coast.

The radio series will be given for ten consecutive Saturday nights over WJZ.

NEW BRITISH RADIO STUDIO

English Company Plans $2,000,000 Structure With 9 Broadcast Units.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—A superstudio three stories high which, with its gallery, will accommodate an audience of 1,000 as well as a large orchestra, will be the new London headquarters of the British Broadcasting Company. The building, which will cost $2,000,000, will be finished in 1931 and will have nine studios, one of which will be used for radio picture transmission. The studios will be insulated against external noise by a complete outer layer of offices.

RADIO PEACE MOVE IN BROOKLYN FAILS

E. H. Palmer, Arbitrator, Says Conference Brought No Agreement on Time Sharing.

HE NOTIFIES COMMISSION

Thinks It Will Have to Step in to Straighten Tangle, but Is Asked to Continue Mediation.

A conference lasting several hours yesterday afternoon between Eric H. Palmer, Brooklyn radio arbitrator, and representatives of WLTH, WBBC, WSGH and WCGU failed to bring about another armistice on the 214-meter Brooklyn wave, so that until the Radio Commission takes a hand chaos is expected to reign supreme, according to a report last night from the mediator. A luncheon at the Biltmore was held with a hope that an agreement could be reached.

Mr. Palmer said he had finally felt obliged to telephone the Federal Radio Commission in Washington, whose reply, he said, was to the effect that the police powers of the commission would be exercised if no agreement could be reached.

Mr. Palmer disclosed a communication received later from the Radio Commission, which said, in part:

"We are depending upon your good offices. If it will support your hands in bringing the recalcitrants to terms, commission will modify each station license to one day each in rotation, pending mutually satisfactory agreement as to other time division. That is, first station broadcasts Monday, second station Tuesday and so on until all four reach mutual agreement for some other time division. Please advise if such one-day license modification is recommended by you to force agreement. Explain to stations also that simultaneous operation destroys usefulness of channel to public and will bring withdrawal of channel and assignment to other applicant willing to utilize channel properly in public service. Hope you will summon early conference of station representatives."

Upon showing this communication to the representatives, Mr. Palmer said Samuel Rappaport of WCGU and Irwin Wolfe of WSGH had declared they would not oppose the plan suggested. S. J. Gellard for WLTH and Peter J. Testan of WBBC, Mr. Palmer said, had declared such a ruling would be ruinous to their interests. The mediator declared he had then asked the representatives to agree on a schedule for two days while he conferred with Judge Grover M. Moscowitz, who was asked to represent WCGU and WSGH, but all efforts to settle broadcasting hours were fruitless. Old schedules would not be recognized by WCGU and WSGH and new ones by WLTH and WBBC.

Mr. Palmer said that while the meeting was in session the Brooklyn Civic Council radio committee had met and appointed a committee of three to attempt to bolster up Brooklyn broadcasting. The committee consists of Halsey Hammond, Hugo Seesselberg and James G. Graham. Mr. Palmer said the council held that Borough President Byrne cannot appoint a "radio czar."

TEN STATIONS FACE 60-DAY SUSPENSION

Five in New York and One in New Jersey Among Those Off Wave Lengths.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Captain Guy Hill, engineer in charge of broadcasting, has recommended to the Radio Commission that the licenses of one New Jersey and five New York broadcasting stations be suspended for sixty days for operating considerably more than 500 cycles off their assigned wave lengths.

The New York stations include WBBC, the Bronx; WEVD, Woodhaven; WOKO, Mount Beacon; WHAZ, Troy, and WCLB, Long Beach. The New Jersey Station is WNJ, Newark. Four other stations whose suspension was recommended were WARD, Detroit; WKAR, East Lansing, Mich.; KWKH, Shreveport, La., and WDSU, New Orleans, La.

Captain Hill informed the commission that the stations had been from 2,000 to 73,000 cycles off their waves.

"In order to put an immediate stop to such destruction of the programs of stations which are faithfully adhering to their frequency," he added, "I recommend that in each case where stations have been measured and found to be deviating from their assigned frequency by more than one kilocycle, which is twice the allowable deviation, that the licenses of such stations be immediately suspended by the commission, this suspension to be for a period of sixty days.

"I also recommend that stations which deviate from their frequency by more than one-half kilocycle, but not exceeding one kilocycle, should be notified that they must make adjustments to their apparatus immediately to operate within the limits set by the commission or the commission will be forced to suspend their licenses."

Commissioner O. H. Caldwell will speak before the Economic Club at the Hotel Astor in New York City tomorrow night on "Radio, Its Development and Application." David Sarnoff, vice president of the Radio Corporation of America, also will speak.

Mr. Caldwell was informed today that the Brooklyn stations will confer in an effort to iron out their time situation. If the stations operate simultaneously, he explained, it will mean the withdrawal of the channel and "the assignment to other applicants willing to utilize the channel properly in the public service."

Edelhertz Did Not Attack WNYC.

In the account of the hearing before the Federal Radio Commission dealing with stations WNYC and WMCA printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES Nov. 17, it was incorrectly stated that Bernard Edelhertz, publisher of The American Hebrew, had attacked the New York City municipal station as a useless burden on the taxpayers. Mr. Edelherts did not say anything to reflect on either the quality of the programs or the transmission of this station, but confined his testimony to a statement praising certain features broadcast over WMCA.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Active and Buoyant as Trading Is Resumed After Two-Day Holiday.

The habit of extravagant advances in stocks was not lost by the brief holiday. Trading was hardly so wild and excited as on many previous market days, but, nevertheless, a total of 5,826,760 shares was rolled up and gains of from 1 to 19 points were established in leading issues all along the line. In one direction, at least, the day's market established a new record, that was in point of breadth. A total of 821 separate issues was dealt in. Possibly the fact that the tickers were able to give a good account of themselves and at times during the day kept fully abreast of the market had something to do with the orderly appearance of trading.

In such markets as have been the whole series since election, the day-to-day story of the advance in this or that department is almost an identical one. As has been the case on most days, there was little news to bolster stocks. Evidently, however, they did not need any aid, and the manner in which the advances were reeled off in many of the leading issues gave the impression that prospective buyers were "reaching for stocks," without much regard to actual conditions in other sections of the market. One of the satisfactory developments in yesterday's trading was the unusual strength in railroad shares. The average for twenty-five representative railroad issues, in fact, touched a new high point for the year at 131.56, and such issues as New York Central, Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Kansas City Southern and Chesapeake & Ohio pushed forward in vigorous fashion. This was likely in response to the good earnings statements now being made by the roads generally for the month of October. The lively business transacted on the railroads of the country during that month is now commencing to get into their books in black and white, and some of the gains established, especially when they are compared with the same month in 1927, are surprisingly good. It has been one of Wall Street's favorite contentions, during the entire Autumn, that the market could be brought back to a healthy condition if it could go through a period of convalescence after its high fever, by paying attention to the railroad shares while the inflated industrials were having a rest. This may not be the program at all, but, nevertheless, yesterday's advance in the transportation group attracted more attention than have the market fluctuations of these shares in any day since the election.

The market did not pay a great deal of attention to the advance in the call money rate from 6½ to 7½ per cent, because of the fact that such a stiffening of the rate was to be anticipated in view of the approaching Thanksgiving holiday and the demand for cash incident to that celebration. It was estimated yesterday that no less than $50,000,000 will be withdrawn from the banks in the metropolitan district prior to Thursday's Thanksgiving holiday. Nevertheless, the rate was the highest since Nov. 2.

Curiously enough most of the other markets were strong yesterday. Cotton, for instance, touched 21 cents for spots, the highest price since late July and there was corresponding strength in other agricultural commodities. It is commencing to dawn on the cotton trade gradually that the outturn of the crop this year is not going to measure up to its advance notices and that, while no acute shortage is to be anticipated, spinners who have not already anticipated their requirements are not likely to fill them much cheaper. The exchanges, too, were firmer yesterday and sterling is gradually working away from the point at which gold shipments to this country are profitable.

SEARS-ROEBUCK RECORD.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Sales of Sears, Roebuck & Co., breaking all previous records by many millions, will be from $340,000,000 to $350,000,000 for 1928, according to present indications. Sales for 1927 were $292,227,000.

A leading executive of the organization today authorized an estimate of $340,000,000, which in itself is an advance of $10,000,000 over the last previous estimate of the annual total.

Profits probably have not increased as rapidly as sales, because of expense of opening more than 100 new stores during the Summer months. Net income is expected to show a gain over last year, although not as large an advance as the volume would otherwise indicate.

Independent Oil and Gas Rights.

With an offer of the Independent Oil and Gas Company to stockholders of additional shares of stock at $30 a share, Field, Glore & Co. and Kelley, Converse & Co. are notifying holders of the company's twelve-year 6 per cent convertible debentures, due on March 15, 1939, and of stock purchase warrants issued under indenture dated Jan. 15, 1926, of their right to subscribe to three and two-thirds shares of new stock for every ten shares of stock held on Nov. 20. The rights will expire on Dec. 21.

United Gas Company Sells Stock.

G. E. Barrett & Co., Inc., head a banking group which has purchased 200,000 no par common shares of the United Gas Company in connection with proposed developments in territories served by operating companies of United Gas, which include the Houston Gulf Gas Company, the Dixie Gas and Utilities Company, the Dixie Gulf Gas Company and the South Texas Gas Company. The issue of this 200,000 shares of stock involves no company financing.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Speculative enthusiasm was less rampant on the Stock Exchange yesterday after the two-day suspension of trading. The more cautious position which many interests seemed to have taken in the market was ascribed to the firming up in money rates. Nowhere in Wall Street was there any admission of a change in sentiment, but the stock market community seemed to be feeling its way more carefully. The result was an irregular market, but with several trading favorites bounding forward spiritedly, while other issues moved downward. The general list was reactionary just before the close, and many of the earlier gains were greatly reduced or erased. The active issues which held good-sized gains at the close included International Nickel, New Haven, Consolidated Gas, American International, Hershey Chocolate, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, Allied Chemical, General American Tank Car, Goodyear Tire, Yellow Truck B, National Biscuit and United States Realty Improvement. The issues on the downside which attracted attention included Montgomery Ward, General Motors, Union Carbide, National Bellas Hess and North American.

A New Market "System."

A large operator was quoted yesterday in Wall Street as saying he had discovered a new way to "beat the market." While admitting that he was not altogether serious, he said he had found that when a great majority of the market letter writers took a certain position it always paid to play the other way, or at least to hedge. He was always wary, he said, when there was too high a degree of uniformity in the views set forth in the market circulars. He is making a collection of the ideas of the letter-writers with the view to charting their "hits" and "misses" over a given period.

Foreshadowing Easier Money.

The fact that the banking group which offered the $55,000,000 City of New York 4½ per cent corporate stock and serial bonds on a 4.15 to 4.20 per cent basis has disposed of 75 per cent of the issue in less than a week indicates a belief on the part of the institutional and other buyers of these securities that easier conditions in the money market lie ahead. Banking opinion at this time is practically unanimous that the next government issue will carry a 4 per cent coupon. The fact that Fall commercial requirements have been satisfied without running up the money rate would seem in itself to presage easier money conditions.

Selling on Balance.

Some of the close students of the market were particularly convinced by its action yesterday that its underpinning is entirely sound and that it is able to weather almost any sort of a reaction without a great deal of difficulty. Selling in the market yesterday, mainly for profit-taking purposes, was on a tremendous scale, but it was quite noticeable that the moment the pressure of liquidation was lifted stocks were disposed to snap back to their previous levels. At least three of the large wire houses were sellers on balance yesterday, they reported. Nevertheless some of the very stocks which were sold the heaviest made good net gains on the day. The interesting theory was advanced by one market observer that stocks which were bought by the public from the professionals a month or so ago are now being sold back by the public to the professionals. If this is true, the market situation would appear to have just reversed itself.

Good Ticker Performance.

There is general satisfaction in Wall Street at the manner in which the new system of reporting stock quotations on the Exchange ticker, without sales, is working out. Something has been lost, of course, in the elimination of the volume of sales, but it has been overbalanced by the satisfaction of being able accurately to gauge the market at any time of the day. The rapid manner in which the tickers can catch the market when a pause in the trading develops was demonstrated yesterday. At 11:30 A. M. the tickers were nineteen minutes behind the market and at 11:45 were twenty-one minutes behind, the day's greatest lag. At that point, however, the tickers began to creep up on the market and by 1 o'clock were entirely clear and were printing such quotations as developed. Handling a day in which the sales were well above the 5,000,000-share mark, the entire record of printing the day's transactions was completed by 3:10 P. M. Some pool managers still grumble because the big blocks which they turn over are not recorded, but they are in the minority. During the last month or so even these big blocks appeared so late on the tickers that any expected market effect was entirely lost.

Holiday Causes Changes.

This week is the first in a year in which no announcement concerning the Federal Reserve Bank's rediscount rate will be made on Thursday. The regular meeting of the bank's directors was held yesterday because of the Thanksgiving Day holiday on Thursday. Incidentally, no change was made in the rate. The holiday also will disturb the regular sequence in the issuance of Federal Reserve statistics, which usually come out on Thursday afternoons. Brokers' loans, the weekly gold movement and the statement of condition of the New York Federal Reserve Bank and of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks combined will be announced on Friday afternoon. The announcement that no change had been made in the rediscount rate, coming out at the beginning of the week, caused a surprise in many brokerage houses yesterday.

MONEY.

Monday, Nov. 26, 1928.

Money market turned firm with the approach of month-end demands, Stock Exchange call funds moving up to 7½ per cent., highest since Nov. 2, from renewal at 6½, and interval of 7. Maturity funds were lightly traded, little business going in the short dates at 7 per cent. Commercial paper and acceptances were quietly firm and unchanged.

The $6.50 Cumulative Participating Preferred Stock is entitled to cumulative dividends of $6.50 per share per annum, payable quarterly February 1st, May 1st, August 1st and November 1st. The $6.50 Cumulative Participating Preferred Stock, without par value, has preference as to dividends and assets over the Common Stock of the Corporation and is redeemable as a whole, or in part, at the option of the Corporation at any time upon thirty days' notice at $125.00 per share and accrued and accumulated dividends. Upon liquidation or dissolution, the $6.50 Cumulative Participating Preferred Stock is entitled to receive, in priority over the Common Stock, an amount equal to $100 per share, together with all dividends accrued or in arrears thereon, plus, in case such liquidation or dissolution be voluntary, a premium of $25 per share. The $6.50 Cumulative Participating Preferred Stock has no voting power except upon failure of the Corporation to pay when due four successive quarterly dividends, in which case the registered holders of the Preferred Stocks may elect three directors in addition to the five directors elected by the registered holders of the Common Stock. The Corporation, without the affirmative vote or written consent of the holders of at least two-thirds of the shares of the outstanding Preferred Stocks shall not authorize or issue any stock or class of stock having priority or preference over the Preferred Stocks as to earnings or assets. The Preferred Stock is issuable by the Board of Directors in series, from time to time, at a dividend rate not exceeding $8 per share per annum, subject to the provisions stated above, but all series are to be of equal rank.

Mr. Harley L. Clarke, President of the Corporation, summarizes from his letter of November 21, 1928, as follows:

Business: Public Utilities Securities Corporation was organized under the laws of the State of Delaware in October, 1928, with broad powers to acquire, principally for long term investment, securities of various kinds and especially the Common Stocks of successful and progressive public utility companies. The revenue of the corporation will be derived from dividends and interest upon its investments, commissions received in connection with financial transactions and profits realized from the sale of securities owned.

Investments: The initial investments of Public Utilities Securities Corporation will be in the following companies:

American Gas & Electric Company	Empire Power Corporation	Southeastern Power & Light Company
American Power & Light Company	General Gas & Electric Corporation	Southern California Edison Company
Brooklyn Union Gas Company	Louisville Gas & Electric Company	Standard Gas & Electric Company
Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation	Middle West Utilities Company	United Gas Improvement Company
Commonwealth Power Corporation	North American Company	United Light & Power Company
Consolidated Gas Company, New York	Pacific Gas & Electric Company	Utilities Power & Light Corporation
Consolidated Gas, Electric Light & Power Co., Baltimore

The market value as of November 15, 1928 of the securities presently to be owned was over $8,500,000 which is equal to more than $213.00 per share for each of the 40,000 shares of $6.50 Cumulative Participating Preferred Stock presently to be outstanding. The investments may be changed from time to time.

Participation Feature: Whenever dividends are declared and paid on the Common Stock, the Cumulative Participating Preferred Stock as a class shall be entitled, in addition to the cumulative dividend at the annual rate designated, to a like aggregate amount so declared and paid on the Common Stock, provided that the amount of such additional dividends on the Cumulative Participating Preferred Stock shall not exceed $2.00 per share in any calendar year.

Earnings: The estimated earnings of the Corporation based on dividends paid in cash and stock during the current year on the stocks presently to be acquired, after deductions for estimated expenses, amount to more than $687,000. In estimating these earnings, stock dividends are included at the market price on the date paid. This amount is more than 2.64 times the annual dividend charges of $260,000 on this issue of 40,000 shares of $6.50 Cumulative Participating Preferred Stock.

Directors:

HARLEY L. CLARKE, President, Utilities Power & Light Corporation
WILLIAM F. INGOLD, Pynchon & Co.
WM. T. BRUCKNER, Vice-President, Continental National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago
WALTER S. HAMMONS, President, W. S. Hammons & Co.
CHARLES W. HIGLEY, President, Hanover Fire Insurance Company

Purpose of Issue: The proceeds from the sale of the $6.50 Cumulative Participating Preferred Stock will be used for the acquisition of stock interests in certain electric light and power and gas operating, holding, and investment companies and for other corporate purposes.

This information, while not guaranteed, is taken from sources which we believe to be reliable.

All legal matters relating to the issuance of this stock have been passed upon by Messrs. Davisson & Monice, New York City, for the Bankers, and by Messrs. BOND FLOTATIONS.

Securities of Utility and Other Companies to Be Offered by Investment Bankers.

Three public utility offerings, the largest for $10,000,000; one car-equipment issue and two real estate mortgage issues constitute the new bonds to be placed on the market today by New York banking groups.

Public Service of Northern Illinois.

A $10,000,000 issue of Public Service Company of Northern Illinois first lien and refunding mortgage 4½ per cent bonds, series D, will be offered today by Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc. The bonds will mature on Nov. 1, 1978. They are priced at 94½ and interest, to yield about 4.80 per cent. The company serves 298 communities adjacent to Chicago, and its net earnings for the year ended on Sept. 30 totaled $13,563,305.

North American Waterworks.

Offering will be made today of $2,800,000 North American Water Works and Electric Corporation ten-year 6 per cent convertible gold bonds, series A, at 98½, to yield more than 6.20 per cent, by Emery, the Peck & Rockwood Company, the Pearsons-Taft Company, R. E. Wilsey & Co. and Henry D. Lindsley & Co. The proceeds will be used to reimburse the company for a portion of the cost of the acquisition of new properties. The bonds are convertible into class A common stock.

Continental States Utilities.

A new issue of $1,000,000 one-year 5½ per cent secured gold notes of the Continental States Utilities, Inc., will be offered today by a group composed of the Century Trust Company of Baltimore, L. S. Carter & Co., Inc., and the First Guardian Company, Inc., Chicago. The notes are priced at 99 and interest, to yield 6.50 per cent. The company owns 95 per cent. of the preferred stock and 99 per cent of the common stock of the Three States Telephone Company of Illinois, and on the completion of this financing will own all of the stock of the Southern Gulf Utilities Company.

North American Car.

Freeman & Co. and Blyth, Witter & Co. will offer today at prices to yield 5.20 per cent a new issue of $1,200,000 North American Car Equipment Trust 5 per cent certificates, series J, payable semi-annually in instalments of $40,000 each from June 1, 1929, to Dec. 1, 1943. The certificates, issued under the Philadelphia plan, are guaranteed by the North American Car Corporation and secured through assignment to the trustee of title to 300 forty-ton standard refrigerator cars and 300 all-steel tank cars.

Madison 52d Corporation.

S. W. Straus & Co. will offer at 98 and interest, to yield more than 6.17 per cent, an issue of $1,350,000 first leasehold mortgage 6 per cent sinking fund gold bonds of the Madison 52d Corporation, secured by a ninety-nine year leasehold and a twenty-four story office building to be erected at the southwest corner of Madison Avenue and Fifty-second Street, this city. The bonds will mature on Nov. 1, 1947.

Madison Square Building.

The Greenebaum Sons Securities Corporation today will offer an issue of $775,000 first mortgage 6 per cent building and leasehold serial bonds secured by the Madison Square Building and leasehold estate on land at 119 to 123 West Madison Street, Chicago. The bonds will mature from 1930 to 1940 and are priced to yield 5.5% to 6 per cent.

NEW STOCK ISSUES.

Shares of Corporations to Be Offered for Public Subscription.

New financing for the newly formed Associated Rayon Corporation totaling $21,000,000 is announced for today by Speyer & Co. and Lehman Brothers. The offering consists of $20,000,000 of 6 per cent cumulative convertible preferred stock of $100 par value and 100,000 shares of no par value common stock in units of one share of preferred and one-half share of common, priced at $105 a unit. A block of $5,000,000 of preferred and 25,000 shares of common stock will be sold in European markets through Lazard Speyer-Elissen of Berlin and Frankfort-am-Main, Germany, and Teixeria de Mattos Brothers of Amsterdam.

Associated Rayon, which starts business with assets of $60,000,000, wil be controlled by Vereinigte Glanzstoff-Fabrican, leading producer of rayon in Germany. The latter company has unconditionally guaranteed payment of dividends on the issue of convertible preferred stock for four years to end on Dec. 1, 1932. Each share of this stock may be converted into two shares of common up to Dec. 1, 1934. The issue is callable as a whole or in part on any dividend date on thirty days' notice at $115 a share.

Utility Equities Corporation.

Offering of $16,500,000 of stock of the Utility Equities Corporation will be made today by a banking group headed by the Chase Securities Corporation and Stone & Webster and Blodget, Inc., and including Brown Brothers & Co., the First National Corporation of Boston and Cassatt & Co. The offering comprises 165,000 shares of $5.50 dividend priority stock and a like amount of common stock, in units of one share of each class of stock priced at $100 a unit. Each share of priority stock is convertible into three shares of common. The corporation was organized by the bankers in the syndicate to buy, sell and hold securities of public utility and other companies.

Crowe Manufacturing Corporation.

An issue of 47,000 shares of the Crowe Manufacturing Corporation's no par value common stock will be offered today by McClure & Madden at $12.50 a share. The proceeds will be used to acquire the business and assets of a predecessor corporation, the Crowe Manufacturing Corporation of Kentucky, and for additions to plant. The company manufactures circular saws.

Public Utilities Securities Corp.

Offering of a new issue of 40,000 shares of Public Utilities Securities Corporation $6.50 cumulative participating preferred stock will be made today at $98.50 a share, to yield 6.60 per cent. The offering syndicate is headed by Pynchon & Co. and includes West & Co., W. S. Hammons & Co. and the Federal Securities Corporation. Proceeds of the offering will be used to acquire stock interests in certain public utility companies and for other corporate purposes. After receiving $6.50 a year, each share of preferred stock will share earnings with the common stock up to $2 a share.

Ohio Cities Water Corporaton.

An issue of 5,000 shares of Ohio Cities Water Corporation $6 cumulative preferred stock, Series A, of no par value, will be placed on the market today at $95 a share. The bankers making the offering are Hawes & Co., Inc., of St. Louis and Craigmyle & Co. of New York. The proceeds will be used to reimburse the company in part for expenditures in connection with the acquisition of the Marion Water Company and the Ohio Cities Water Company.

Merritt-Chapman and Scott.

The first step in the recapitalization of the Merritt-Chapman and Scott Corporation will be taken this week with an offering of a new issue of $2,500,000 Series A 6½ per cent cumulative preferred stock with common stock-purchase warrants attached. The stock will be offered by Hemphill, Noyes & Co., Lage & Co. and Peabody, Smith & Co., Inc. Proceeds of the sale will be applied to predemption of the company's bonds, all of which have been called for retirement of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock, and for other corporate purposes.

Widlar Food Products Company.

Offering will be made shortly of 50,000 shares of common stock of the Widlar Food Products Company by E. W. Clucas & Co. Widlar Food Products was formed recently to acquire all the common stock of the Widlar Company, which now owns the entire common stock of the American Pickle Company and the C. W. Brand Realty Company.

Westvaco Chlorine Products.

Taylor, Ewart & Co. will offer shortly an issue of common stock of the Westvaco Chlorine Products Corporation.

$59,627,500 New Securities Offered to Investors Today

A total of $59,627,500 of new securities will be offered publicly today by New York banking firms and syndicates. The issues are made up of $42,502,500 of stocks and $17,125,000 of bonds.

The bond offerings are classified as follows:

Public utility	$13,900,000
Real estate	2,125,000
Industrial	1,200,000

MUNICIPAL LOANS.

Announcements and Awards of Securities Issued for Public Works.

The principal issue to be sold today is that of $2,015,000 Hudson River Regulating District (N. Y.) 4½ per cent bonds, due on July 1, 1935 to 1965. Bids will be opened at 1 P. M. in the office of State Controller Morris S. Tremaine in Albany.

Toledo, Ohio.

The City of Toledo, Ohio, which on Oct. 9 last sold an issue of $1,000,000 bonds as 4s and 4¼s on a 4.294 per cent basis, has issued a call for bids, to be opened on Dec. 14 on a new issue of $1,818,835 various improvement bonds. Bidders are asked to name the interest rate. The issue will mature serially on Nov. 1, 1930 to 1944.

Worcester, Mass.

The City of Worcester, Mass., awarded yesterday an issue of $1,000,000 temporary notes, due $500,000 each on March 15, 1929, and April 22, 1929, to the First National Bank of Boston at a discount of 4.174 per cent.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

A new issue of $605,000 City of Wilkes-Barre (Pa.) 4¼ per cent improvement bonds has been scheduled for award on Dec. 18. The bonds will mature serially on Oct. 1, 1929 to 1958.

Clinton, Okla.

Reoffering of an issue of $600,000 City of Clinton (Okla.) water works bonds, due serially in from one to twenty-five years, has been set for Dec. 12. The issue was scheduled originally for sale by the city on Sept. 25. This time bidders will name the interest rate at not to exceed 4¾ per cent.

Beacon, N. Y.

Award of an issue of $200,000 City of Beacon (N. Y.) bonds, due on June 1, 1931 to 1948, was made yesterday to F. L. Putnam & Co. at a price of 100.53 for the bonds as 4.20s. Lehman Brothers bid 100.199 for the bonds as 4.20s.

Whitney-Parsons Bonds Deposited.

Holders of Whitney-Parsons Pulp and Lumber Company 7 per cent. twenty-year income bonds have been advised by a committee representing first consolidated mortgage 5 per cent bonds that a new agreement has been drawn up providing for deposit of income bonds. First consolidated bonds aggregating about $846,000 have been deposited out of $1,000,000. The prior mortgage is being foreclosed, a final decree has been entered and the property probably will be sold at auction soon.

The following information has been furnished by Mr. Hugh J. Pritchard, President of Utility Equities Corporation:

BUSINESS: Utility Equities Corporation has been organized under the laws of Delaware by Chase Securities Corporation, Stone & Webster, Inc. and their associates, for the purpose, among others, of holding, buying, and selling securities of public utility and other companies in the United States and foreign countries, principally equities of public utility holding and/or operating companies (dividend paying or non-dividend paying) in large or small blocks as the Directors may deem advisable. Diversity or permanency of holdings are not necessarily primary purposes of this Corporation. In view of the character of the proposed business, the Corporation expects to derive larger earnings from appreciation in the value of securities than from dividends or interest thereon. Continuance of the substantial growth in the public utility industry to meet the steadily increasing public and industrial demands for electric light and power and gas service should afford favorable opportunities for this Corporation.

ASSETS: There have been purchased from the organizers (at a price in excess of cost to the organizers but below present market price) with the proceeds of sale of Common Stock of the Corporation (other than the shares now being offered) and of the warrants mentioned below, and the Corporation has in addition contracted to purchase with a portion of the proceeds of the shares being offered, shares of common stock of public utility holding companies having on November 22, 1928 a total market value in excess of $8,000,000. Audited statements of the Corporation's affairs will be published annually but the nature of the Corporation's business may make it inadvisable to publish complete lists of its security holdings at any given time.

CAPITALIZATION: Upon completion of this financing the Corporation will have no funded debt and the capitalization will be as follows:

	Authorized	Presently to be Outstanding
$5.50 Dividend Priority Stock, no par value	165,000 shs.	165,000 shs.
Common Stock, no par value	1,320,000 shs.*	495,000 shs.

* Of this amount 495,000 shares are reserved for conversion of the Priority Stock now offered and 330,000 shares are reserved for the exercise of warrants, acquired by the organizers, to subscribe at any time for Common Stock up to this amount at $20 per share. Such organizers will also participate in underwriting commissions on this offering.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The proceeds from the sale of this Priority Stock and Common Stock now offered are to be used to acquire additional holdings, including stocks contracted for as above mentioned, or for other corporate purposes.

EQUITY: This Priority Stock will be followed by Common Stock (exclusive of the 165,000 shares of Common Stock now offered with this Priority Stock) for which $5,500,000 has been paid, which initial cash payment will be in excess of 25% of the Corporation's paid in capital and surplus.

MANAGEMENT: The administration of the Corporation's affairs will be actively handled by the President under the co-operative direction of the Board of Directors which will comprise the following:

ALBERT H. WIGGIN, Chairman of the Board, The Chase National Bank of the City of New York
CHARLES A. STONE, Chairman of the Board, Stone & Webster, Inc.
DANIEL G. WING, Chairman of the Board, The First National Bank of Boston
HALSTEAD G. FREEMAN, President Chase Securities Corporation
BAYARD F. POPE, President, Stone & Webster and Blodget, Inc.
MURRAY W. DODGE, Vice-President, Chase Securities Corporation
RAY MORRIS, Brown Brothers & Co.
ROBERT K. CASSATT, Cassatt & Co.
ALLAN M. POPE, President, The First National Corporation, of Boston
ELLERY S. JAMES, Brown Brothers & Co.
F. HIGGINSON CABOT, JR., Vice-President, Stone & Webster, Inc.
HUGH J. PRITCHARD, President of the Corporation
T. JOHNSON WARD, Cassatt & Co.

PRIORITY STOCK PROVISIONS: Among other rights and privileges the holders of the Priority Stock shall be entitled to one vote for each share held. The Charter, except with the affirmative vote or written consent of the holders of at least two-thirds of the shares of Priority Stock, (a) limits the creation or guarantee of indebtedness of

11 ARMORED TRUCKS DELIVER CITY BONDS

ISSUE 75 PER CENT. SOLD

Bulk Placed Here, but Securities Will Be Shipped to Syndicate Members Throughout Country.

The National City Company, as syndicate managers for the syndicate of fifty-seven banks which received the award of the issue of $55,000,000 City of New York 4¼ per cent corporate stock and serial bonds last Tuesday, took delivery of the certificates yesterday. Eleven armored trucks left the Municipal Building at 11 A. M. with the certificates and proceeded to the National City Company building, at 52 Wall Street, just across the street from the National City Bank, 55 Wall Street. Delivery was made without incident.

Controller Berry received nine checks from the bankers covering the payment of $55,000,000, principal amount of the bonds; the premium of $461,999.45 and incidental interest. Owing to the fact that the insurance liability on a single armored truck is limited to $5,000,000, the load was equally divided between the eleven trucks. The whole, however, could easily have been stored in one corner of one of the trucks.

The banking syndicate, which is nation-wide in scope, will receive deliveries in turn from the National City Company. Although the bulk of the bonds have been placed in this city, shipments will be made to syndicate members in Chicago, Boston, Detroit, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Albany, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Seattle and San Francisco.

At the offices of the National City Company yesterday it was said that the issue was more than 75 per cent. sold. About $700,000 of the corporate stock, due 1978, remains and less than $12,000,000 of the serial bonds, due 1929 to 1968.

SOFIA TO PAY LOAN OF 1910.

Agreement as to Interest and Amortization Reported.

An agreement on service of interest and amortization of city of Sofia 4½ per cent loan of 1910 has been reached between a delegate of the municipality and representatives of holders of the loan at a meeting in Antwerp, according to advices received by Bertron, Griscom & Co., international bankers.

Payments will be made in Belgium at the counter-value of Swiss francs, at banks designated for the purpose, and are to be computed on a gold basis at the following rates:

P. C.	Coupons Due Bet. May 1, and May 1,
35	1928	1931

100 for subsequent maturity.

Beginning on May 1, 1958, holders will recover the integral amount of their contracted rights. Bonds drawn by lot prior to Sept. 14, 1928, as well as coupons due prior to that date and not collected, will be payable as heretofore.

The agreement applies to holders of bonds bearing coupons which have not been canceled, while holders of bonds which have not been recouponed or of coupons which have been canceled may obtain new coupon sheets if they can prove that they acquired their bonds prior to July 8, 1922. This regulation must be complied with before July 1, 1929.

FOR NICKEL PLATE ISSUE.

I. C. C. Authorizes $11,275,000 in Refunding Mortgage Bonds.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — Authority has been granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission to the Nickel Plate line to issue $11,275,000 in refunding mortgage bonds, Series C, to reimburse its treasury for capital expenditures not heretofore capitalized.

The bonds were desired to meet cash requirements to Dec. 31, 1928, estimated at $5,648,394, and to pay a short-term note for $5,000,000. Under a plan proposed by the line, the form of the bond is to be amended by reducing the redemption price from 103 per cent of par and accrued interest to 102 per cent.

With the commission's approval, it will sell the bonds to the Guaranty Company of New York at not less than 91 per cent. of par and accrued interest. On this basis the average annual cost to the Nickel Plate will be about 4.99 per cent.

The commission explained that the note for $5,000,000 was issued without its authority in renewal of a note given in connection with the applicant's acquisition of stock of the Wheeling & Lake Erie.

"The authority granted," it was declared, "is not to be construed as a commitment on our part as to the legality of that acquisition, which we now have under investigation."

Sao Paulo Bonds Drawn.

Speyer & Co. announced yesterday that $900,000 principal amount of State of Sao Paulo fifteen-year 8 per cent sinking fund gold bonds, due July 1, 1936, had been drawn for redemption on Jan. 1, 1929, at 105 per cent. They also announced that $48,500 of the State of Sao Paulo forty-year 6 per cent sinking fund gold loan of 1925 had been drawn for payment on the same date.

INTERNATIONAL NICKEL READY TO REORGANIZE

Large Majority of Stock Deposited and Plan Is Expected to Be Effective by Next Monday.

The International Nickel Company has notified holders of its preferred and common stocks that it is assured that by Nov. 30 a large majority of both preferred and common stock will have been deposited for exchange for preferred and common stock of the International Nickel Company of Canada, Ltd., pursuant to the plan of reorganization.

The plan was outlined in the company's letter to stockholders on Oct. 30, whereby 7 per cent preferred stock is issued in lieu of the present 6 per cent preferred stock and six shares of common stock are issued for each present share of common stock. It is contemplated that the plan will be declared operative not later than next Monday.

Non-deposited stock is chiefly that standing of record in brokers' names and where the beneficial owners are unknown to the company and cannot be directly communicaetd with. Nov. 30 is the last day fixed for acceptance of deposits. Certificates of deposit are listed for trading on the New York, Montreal and Toronto Stock Exchanges.

The notice is signed by Charles Hayden, chairman of International Nickel; Robert C. Stanley, president; J. P. Morgan & Co. and the Royal Trust Company as depositaries, and Sullivan & Cromwell as counsel.

REPUBLIC STEEL TO EXPAND

Company Announces Pending Issue of $6,500,000 Stock.

Special to The New York Times.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Nov. 26.—The Republic Iron and Steel Company today announced plans for additional financing intended to involve issuance of 100,000 shares of new common stock, to net the company $6,500,000. Proceeds will be used in part for plant extensions, including electrification of the Youngstown properties, additions to plants in the Birmingham district and exploitation of the tube welding process acquired through purchase of Steel and Tubes.

Each common shareholder of record on Dec. 15 will have the right to subscribe for one share of the new common for each six shares of the present stock now owned. The new stock must be paid for by Jan. 3.

The company has increased its board of directors from eleven to fourteen members by adding Phillip Wick of Youngstown, Myron A. Wick and William G. Mather of Cleveland. It is believed these additions to the board are in preparation for further consolidations. The next step in Republic's expansion, it is believed here, will be in acquisition of Central Alloy Steel Company of Canton and Massillon. Both Phillip Wick, a new director of Republic, and C. S. Eaton, Cleveland, are members of the board of Central Alloy.

Are You Keeping Pace with this Changing World?

"This is Televox—Calling Central 4000"

At a power plant far hidden in the hills no watchman stands on guard—no watchman except Televox...

"What's wrong?" demands the superintendent. Televox immediately reports in buzzer code the exact location of the break!

Symbolic is Televox of the astounding changes wrought in business by the super-machines—changes that affect entire industries—changes that require constant watchfulness on the part of the investor, to the end that behind his funds may be placed enduring values—always.

Televox—the radio—the airplane—the mechanical robots that sell postage stamps and chewing gum—all these are outstanding examples of an era of change and progress. In this era S. W. STRAUS & CO. has contributed its own part toward the upbuilding of America's prosperity. This Company has underwritten and sold to the investing public thousands of loans based on improvements which have changed the skylines of the larger cities in the United States and Canada.

In considering the sound diversification of your investments, you naturally will include real estate bonds. You will wish to know that the securities you choose are founded on properties so located that they are destined to enhance in value and in earning power.

If you require railroad, industrial or public utility bonds, you will wish to make sure that the bonded corporations are keeping pace with this changing world—in assets, earnings and reserves.

If you favor foreign bonds, you must know that they are sound and stable—amply protected by the earning power of a prosperous people.

Public Service Company
OF NORTHERN ILLINOIS
First Lien and Refunding Mortgage 4½% Gold Bonds, Series D
Due November 1, 1978
Price 94.50 and Interest, Yielding about 4.80%

The following is summarized from a letter of Mr. Samuel Insull, Chairman of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois:

Business: The Public Service Company of Northern Illinois serves 298 communities adjacent to Chicago, including the wealthy suburban territory tributary to the City, and the surrounding widely diversified manufacturing districts. Electric service is rendered in 295 communities, gas in 96, water in 5, and heat in 4. On December 31, 1927, the Company had 388,336 customers.

Security: The First Lien and Refunding Mortgage Bonds of the Company, including the present issue, in the opinion of counsel, will be secured (a) by a first mortgage collateral lien on the power plant of the Waukegan Generating Company (a wholly owned subsidiary), through pledge of substantially all of the latter's Capital Stock and all of its $10,245,000 principal amount of First Mortgage Bonds to be outstanding, upon completion of the present financing, (b) by the pledge of $39,500,000 principal amount of the Company's First and Refunding Mortgage Gold Bonds, or over 61% of the Company's aggregate net principal amount of underlying and underlying divisional bonds issued and outstanding, and (c) by a direct mortgage lien on all of the Company's permanent property now owned or hereafter acquired subject only to prior lien bonds from time to time outstanding.

Equity: The First Lien and Refunding Mortgage Gold Bonds precede (as of November 1, 1928) $20,000,000 principal amount 5% Debentures, 100,000 shares of outstanding Preferred Stock paying $6 per share per annum, and 63,576 shares of outstanding Preferred Stock paying $7 per share per annum, and 344,584 shares of outstanding Common Stock paying $8 per share per annum, all having a combined market value, as indicated by recent quotations, of over $100,000,000. In addition 53,137 shares of Common Stock have been sold, payments for which should be completed from time to time prior to May 2, 1929.

MARKETS IN LONDON, PARIS AND BERLIN

British Exchange Opens Quiet, but Wall Street Stimulates Industrial Shares.

LONDON MONEY IS DEARER

Paris Is Weak on Heavy Selling—Berlin Opens Dull, With Losses General.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The stock markets began the week quietly and the tone as a whole was steady to dull.

Activity in the industrial market was chiefly confined to shares largely dependent on the New York market. International Nickel shares opened with a rise from $211 to $220 after today's New York opening. They subsequently reached $224 in the street. Mond Nickel shares also rose sharply to £7¼ and were quoted at £7⅞ after hours. Canadian Marconi shares opened without a rise at about £2⅛, but under the stimulus of Wall Street they reached £3⅛ in the house and were reported at an even higher price after hours.

The New York exchange developed a firmer tendency, New York offering dollars more freely than for some time past, and the rate, at 4.85⅛, closed well above the London gold export point on the basis of the Bank of England's selling price. On the other hand, the German exchange continued to move against sterling and the sale of £333,000 bar gold, announced by the Bank of England was understood to have been made to German buyers. Money was in good demand and borrowers occasionally found it necessary to pay 4½ per cent for fresh accommodations for the night. The discount quotations were unaltered.

Paris Shows Declines.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—Heavy selling took place on the Bourse today in view of the month-end liquidation. The markets showed general weakness, which caused considerable concern and experts after a most careful analysis were unable to find a satisfactory explanation. Declines also occurred on the Curb Market.

Among rentes, threes closed at 65.10; 1917 5s, 79.40; 1918 6s, 79.20; 1915 5s, 92.25; 1920 amortizable 5s, 108.75; 1928 5s, 90.90 and 6s, 106.

Berlin Opens Depressed.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—The Boerse opened dull today on account of the offers of premium stocks and the lack of orders from foreign countries, which now are also engaged with preparations for the month-end settlements. The impression that the end of the Ruhr lockout would be postponed for at least three or four weeks also had a depressing effect.

Additional discouraging factors were the speech of Herr Curtius, Minister for Economic Affairs, before his party associates, and the unintelligibility of the new form of the official foreign trade report, which makes comparisons almost impossible. Most stocks dropped two to three points. Even Dye Trust shares, favorites during the past week, were severely hit.

Trading at the closing hour was almost at a standstill, but the tendency remained confident. The money market was unchanged, with call money at 5 to 7.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Foreign exchanges were buoyantly higher yesterday, sterling, francs, marks and guilders being the leaders. Business showed a substantial increase over that of any recent session, the activity being ascribed to covering month-end commitments abroad.

Sterling rose 5-32 cent, to $4.84 13-16, and $4.85 3-16 for cables, highest reached by the pound since early October, when it started the reaction that brought several allotments of gold from abroad.

New Issue

$1,200,000

North American Car Equipment Trust

5% Equipment Trust Gold Certificates Series "J"

Principal and dividends to be unconditionally guaranteed by the NORTH AMERICAN CAR CORPORATION

To be issued under the Philadelphia Plan

THE NEW YORK TRUST COMPANY, NEW YORK, Trustee

To be dated December 1, 1928. Principal to be payable semi-annually in serial instalments of $40,000 each from June 1, 1929 to December 1, 1943, both inclusive. Payable to bearer (with optional registration as to principal) in denomination of $1,000. Certificates and dividend warrants (June 1 and December 1), to be payable at the principal office of the Trustee in the City of New York.

At the option of the North American Car Corporation, certificates are to be redeemable on any dividend date at 101% of their face amount and accrued dividends, in accordance with the terms of the Lease and Agreement. Both principal and dividends are to be paid without deduction of normal Federal income tax not in excess of 2% per annum and the Corporation agrees to reimburse to the holders of these certificates the Pennsylvania State Tax (not to exceed 4 mills annually) upon application as set forth in the indenture.

Mr. H. H. Brigham, President of the North American Car Corporation, has written us a letter covering the issuance of these certificates, from which we summarize as follows:

"These certificates are to be secured through assignment to the Trustee of title to the following equipment:

300 New 42½ ft. 40-ton standard refrigerator cars. 390 All steel tank cars.

The American Appraisal Company has currently certified that these cars have a total sound value of in excess of $1,537,067 or more than 128% of the face value of the certificates to be issued.

Pending transfer of title to these cars, cash to the full face amount of the certificates will be deposited with the Trustee, to be withdrawn as cars are delivered.

The North American Car Company commenced business in 1908 and on February 1, 1926, all the assets owned by it were acquired by the North American Car Corporation. Its business consists primarily in the ownership, operation and leasing of tank cars, refrigerator cars and Palace Poultry cars. The Corporation and its controlled subsidiaries, the Palace Poultry Car Company and North American Equipment Corporation now own 2,662 tank cars (including the 390 cars under this Trust), 1,478 refrigerator cars (including the 300 cars under this Trust) and 600 Palace Poultry cars. In addition the corporation owns well equipped car building and repair shops at Chicago; Coffeyville, Kansas; West Tulsa, Okla., and North Judson, Indiana, where repairs are made upon its own cars and general car repairing is done for railroads and private car owners.

There are no mortgages or encumbrances on any of the Corporation's plants or real estate, the only funded indebtedness of the Corporation consisting of $5,500,000 Equipment Trust obligations (including these Series "J" Certificates), bearing dividends at the rate of 4½% and 5% and secured by liens on 3,813 of its cars, including the 690 cars of this issue, the revenue from which largely exceeds both principal and dividend requirements. The Company has never had an unprofitable year since the time of its organization in 1908. The net earnings of the Corporation available for fixed charges, depreciation and taxes for the fiscal years ended January 31 were as follows:

Earnings as above for the eleven months ending December 31, 1928 are estimated by the Corporation to be $1,103,074.

The Corporation has outstanding 20,000 shares of $6.00 First Preferred Stock, Series A, of no par value and 113,849 shares of no par value Common Stock, upon which annual dividends are being paid at the rate of $2.50 per share. The Common Stock of the Corporation is listed on the Chicago Stock Exchange and is now selling at approximately $55.00 per share, representing a value of in excess of $6,261,695.00.

The purposes of this financing are to provide additional equipment to take care of the increasing business of the Corporation, which shows healthy and steady growth, and the profitable use of the added capital to be acquired by this issue is assured."

We offer these Certificates subject to issuance as planned, and subject to the approval of the issue by counsel, and to prior sale.

At Prices to yield 5.20%

It is expected that temporary or definitive certificates will be delivered on or about December 10, 1928.

Let your Dollars GROW with New York

If you believe that New York City will grow during the next twenty years, that well-situated Manhattan real estate will increase in value, that the demand for living and business accommodations will continue, why not invest a portion of your surplus so that it will grow with New York City?

French Plan Units represent "shares in New York" because they constitute a participating ownership in New York real estate and in large income-producing buildings which must increase in value as New York grows, which must prosper as New York prospers.

You can acquire "shares in New York" through the investment of any convenient sum—$100 to $100,000—under the French Plan. Your investment pays 6%, and, in addition you receive all profits distributed from the operation of the property until every dollar of your original investment has been repaid to you in full. Then you share equally with the Fred F. French Investing Company, Inc., in the ownership of the building and receive 50% of all profits distributed from its operation thereafter.

In this manner you share fully in all profits—both from the inevitable increase in land value and from the growing earning power of the property—and you share in these profits above your normal interest return and beyond your original investment.

Thousands of discriminating investors have invested millions of dollars under the French Plan and are now participating generously in the profits earned by their "shares in New York."

What investment is more certain to grow in value? Where can your surplus dollar earn a more generous return for you?

TWO COMPANIES ADD TO DIVIDEND RATES

Borg-Warner to Pay 2% Stock Quarterly—Gliddon Common Votes 12½-Cent Extra.

INDEPENDENT OIL BASIS UP

Second Increase in Three Months Gives Shares $2 a Year—American Solvents Earnings Rise.

Special dividends declared yesterday by prominent corporations included a 2 per cent dividend in common stock ordered by the Borg-Warner Corporation in addition to the regular quarterly cash payment of $1 a share on common. The stock dividend is to be paid regularly at each quarter, placing the shares on an 8 per cent. stock dividend basis in addition to the $4 cash payments made annually.

The Gliddon Company of Cleveland declared an extra dividend of 12½ cents and a regular quarterly payment of 37½ cents on common stock, these declarations marking resumption of dividends on common, omitted since April 1, 1927, when 50 cents was paid. The quarterly dividend of 37½ cents places the common stock on a $1.50 annual basis.

The second dividend increase in the last three months was declared by the Independent Oil and Gas Company, which announced a quarterly payment of 50 cents a share, placing the issue on a $2 annual basis. In the preceding quarter 37½ cents was paid, while the dividend declaration prior thereto was 25 cents a share.

American Solvents and Chemical Corporation resumed dividends on participating preferred stock by authorizing a distribution of 75 cents a share. Action was deferred on accumulated preference stock dividends of $6 a share for further consideration, although prospects for 1928 are said to indicate earnings of $6.50 a share applicable to preference stock and $2 a share on common.

The Power Corporation of Canada declared an initial dividend of $1 a share on common stock, placing the issue on a $4 annual basis. The Pruett-Schaffer Chemical Company ordered an initial payment of 50 cents a share on convertible preference stock, or at the rate of $2 annually.

Dividends were omitted by the Security Mortgage Company on $25 par preferred stock, the last payment having been made June 30, 1928.

SPECIAL DIVIDENDS PLANNED.

Two Payments in Stock, an Initial, an Increase, a Resumption Expected.

Dividend increases, resumptions, subscription rights and the liquidation of accruals are being considered by the directors of various companies and announcement of definite action in a number of instances will be made this week, it was learned yesterday.

The Hershey Chocolate Company is expected to inaugurate dividends on common stock at the rate of $4 annually. The company's earnings in 1928 will amount to about $6.50 a share on common. Earnings in the first nine months were about $2,769,000 on common stock, or $4.26 a share on the 640,000 shares outstanding.

A stock dividend in addition to the regular quarterly payment of $1 will be declared by the directors of Dunhill International, Inc., at a meeting later in the week, Wall Street heard. An offering of stock subscription rights is also contemplated, it was said. The present Dunhill organization was instituted in 1923 to concentrate the various Dunhill operations in this country and abroad. The stock is traded on the New York Stock Exchange and the London Stock Exchange.

Directors of Robert Reis & Co. will shortly announce plans for the payment of arrears of $35 a share on its preferred stock, it is understood.

The directors of the International Business Machines Company will meet today for dividend action and, according to Wall Street reports, will declare a stock dividend and increase the regular annual rate from $5 to $6.

The directors of the Porto Rican American Tobacco Company are said to be considering resumption of dividends on the Class A shares, which are cumulative at the rate of $7 annually. The directors will meet on Dec. 6.

MUNICH LOAN IN LONDON.

£1,625,000 Bonds of German City to Be Offered Thursday at 94.

The City of Munich, Germany, has contracted for a loan of £1,625,000 from Lazard Brothers of London, it was announced yesterday in a cablegram received by Ludwig Bendix & Co. from the Munich banking firm of H. Aufhaeuser & Co. The bonds, bearing a 6 per cent interest rate, will be offered in the London market at 94 on Thursday. They will mature in twenty-five years.

Munich in the past has floated loans in the American market, but has been drawn to London by the somewhat lower rates now prevailing there. The proceeds of the new loan will be devoted to the municipal hydroelectric and gas works. A part of the loan has been reserved for offering in Holland.

CHANGES FOR MEXICO OIL.

Two Moves Proposed to Make Capitalization $2,500,000.

Stockholders of the Mexico Oil Corporation will vote on Dec. 5 on a proposal to reduce the company's capitalization from $15,000,000 to $1,500,000 by changing the par value of a share from $10 to $1, and on Dec. 12 they will vote on a plan to increase the capitalization of $1,500,000 to $2,500,000 by authorizing the issuance of 1,000,000 additional $1 shares.

In a letter to stockholders, the directors state that subject to approval of the plan, they have entered into an agreement for the corporation to sell 100,000 shares of the proposed new stock and have given an option on 400,000 additional shares. They have further obligated the corporation to spend not less than 90 per cent of the money received from the sale of stock in the drilling of wells.

WILLYS-OVERLAND VOTES STOCK BONUS

Also Issues Rights for New Common Shares, Which Will Participate in Dividend.

PAYMENT TO BE 5 PER CENT

Price for Coming Shares to Be $25 Each—Regular Quarterly of 30 Cents Declared.

Besides declaring a stock dividend of 5 per cent on common stock and the regular quarterly cash dividend of 30 cents a share on that stock, the directors of the Willys-Overland Company announced yesterday an offering to stockholders of new common stock at $25 a share in the ratio of one new share for every 7.5 shares owned. The new common stock will carry the 5 per cent stock dividend.

Payment for the new stock must be made by Dec. 26, on which date the subscription rights expire. The stock dividend of 5 per cent and the regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share are payable on Feb. 1 to common shareholders of record on Jan. 18.

It was announced that controlling interests in the company had agreed to take up their rights and that the remainder had been underwritten at the offering price. Upon payment of the stock dividend and after the sale of the new stock, Willys-Overland will have outstanding 3,000,000 shares of common stock, against 2,526,402 shares at the present time.

President John N. Willys has written to stockholders saying: "The directors have decided at this time to capitalize a small part of the $45,000,000 that has been expended out of earnings in the past six years for the purpose of rehabilitating equipment, developing product and providing additional capacity at the Toledo, Elmira, Pontiac and Elyria plants.

"Sales for 1928 should reach approximately 325,000 cars, the largest in the company's history, and a gain of 85 per cent over 1927. Export business has played a prominent part in the gains this year, and for the coming year foreign sales are certain to be even more prominent by virtue of the strides we are making in the British Isles, Germany, France and other countries."

Segal Lock Holders to Meet.

A special meeting of stockholders of the Segal Lock and Hardware Company is being planned for Jan. 25 for the purpose of authorizing an increase in the company's capitalization made necessary by the recommendation of the directors to split the common stock in the ratio of three shares for one. The company reports that its plant is working at capacity and orders on hand are said to be fully six months ahead of production.

$20,000,000 6% Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock. 100,000 Shares Common Stock (no par value).

Delivery will be made in the form of transferable Depositary's Receipts, described below, calling for Preferred Stock and for one-half share of Common Stock for each share of Preferred Stock.

Each share of Convertible Preferred Stock may be converted into 2 shares of Common Stock at any time up to and including December 1, 1934. In case any of the Preferred Stock is called, the conversion privilege will cease on the fifth day prior to the date of redemption. The Charter includes provisions designed to safeguard the conversion privilege.

Convertible Preferred Stock, par value $100 per share; preferred as to assets and dividends over the Common Stock; dividends (cumulative from December 1, 1928) payable quarterly March 1, June 1, September 1 and December 1; callable, as a whole or in part, on any dividend date at $115 per share and accrued dividends, on thirty days' previous notice; entitled in liquidation to $115 per share and accrued dividends. Dividends exempt from present normal Federal income tax.

Payment of Convertible Preferred Stock dividends unconditionally guaranteed for four years ending December 1, 1932, by Vereinigte Glanzstoff-Fabriken, Aktiengesellschaft, Elberfeld, Germany.

Transfer Agents: Preferred Stock, Interstate Trust Company; Common Stock, American Exchange Irving Trust Company.
Registrar: Preferred Stock and Common Stock, The Commercial National Bank & Trust Company of New York.

Depositary's Receipts for $5,000,000 Preferred Stock and 25,000 shares of Common Stock have been withdrawn for sale abroad.

Dr. F. Blüthgen, President of Associated Rayon Corporation and Managing Director of Vereinigte Glanzstoff-Fabriken, Aktiengesellschaft, has summarized his letter, dated November 24, 1928, (copies of which may be obtained from the undersigned) as follows:

CAPITALIZATION.

	Authorized	To be outstanding
6% Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock (par value $100)	$40,000,000	$20,000,000
Common Stock (no par value)	*2,000,000 shares	1,200,000 shares

* Includes 400,000 shares reserved for conversion of 6% Convertible Preferred Stock in its entirety.

Associated Rayon Corporation has been organized under the laws of the State of Maryland, primarily for the purpose of acquiring securities of companies in the rayon and allied industries in the United States and abroad. The Corporation will be controlled through stock ownership by Vereinigte Glanzstoff-Fabriken, Aktiengesellschaft, the leading producer of rayon in Germany, and its affiliated companies.

Associated Rayon Corporation will acquire from Vereinigte Glanzstoff-Fabriken, Aktiengesellschaft and its affiliated companies, in exchange for 1,200,000 shares of Common Stock and for about $5,000,000 in cash, shares of the following companies:

Germany:
Vereinigte Glanzstoff-Fabriken, Aktiengesellschaft
J. P. Bemberg, Aktiengesellschaft
Austria:
Erste Oesterreichische Glanzstoff-Fabrik A.G.
Italy:
"Snia Viscosa" Società Nazionale Industria Applicazioni Viscosa
Japan:
Asahi Kenshoku Kabushiki Kaisha
Netherlands:
N. V. Nederlandsche Kunstzijdefabriek (Enka)
N. V. "Maekubee" Maatschappij tot Exploitatie van Kunstzijdefabrieken in het Buitenland
United States:
American Bemberg Corporation
American Glanzstoff Corporation
American Enka Corporation

The shares to be acquired will constitute a substantial interest in each of the above companies.

The value of the above shares, at present market prices, is about $45,000,000, and, in addition, the Corporation will have in its treasury about $15,000,000 in cash from the proceeds of this financing; the total assets of the Corporation will thus be about $60,000,000, or about $300 per share of Convertible Preferred Stock to be presently outstanding.

The income of Associated Rayon Corporation from dividend-paying stocks to be presently acquired, from the investment, as planned, of the greater part of the cash to be received, and from interest on the balance of such funds will, it is estimated, be considerably in excess of the dividend requirements of this issue of Convertible Preferred Stock.

The payment of Dividends on the Preferred Stock will be unconditionally guaranteed for four years ending December 1, 1932, by Vereinigte Glanzstoff-Fabriken, Aktiengesellschaft, the net earnings of which, after deducting income from securities to be acquired by Associated Rayon Corporation and all charges except depreciation, other reserves and the management's share in profits, were for the year ended December 31, 1927, about $3,380,000. The value of the capital stock of Vereinigte Glanzstoff-Fabriken, Aktiengesellschaft, at present market prices, is over $100,000,000.

Vereinigte Glanzstoff-Fabriken, Aktiengesellschaft and J. P. Bemberg, Aktiengesellschaft together produce about 60% of the total rayon manufactured in Germany. The Austrian and Italian companies and N. V. Nederlandsche Kunstzijdefabriek are the largest producers in their respective countries, and the Japanese company is one of the most important in that country. These companies have shared substantially in the extraordinary growth of the industry and, in order to provide for increased plant facilities and working capital, they have from time to time given to their stockholders valuable rights to subscribe for additional stock.

American Bemberg Corporation, which began operation in October, 1926, and American Glanzstoff Corporation, which began operation in August of this year, have plants, located near Elizabethton, Tennessee, with an aggregate capacity of over 30,000 pounds per day. American Enka Corporation is now constructing at Asheville, North Carolina, a plant with a capacity of about 20,000 pounds per day. These companies will, in my opinion, occupy an important place in the American rayon industry, particularly in the production of rayon of high quality.

The Board of Directors of Associated Rayon Corporation will include members of Speyer & Co. and Lehman Brothers, New York, and representatives of Teixeira de Mattos Brothers, Amsterdam, and Lazard Speyer-Ellissen G.m.b.H., Berlin and Frankfort-on-Main.

Conversions from foreign currencies have been made at par of exchange.

American Exchange Irving Trust Company, New York, will issue transferable Depositary's Receipts exchangeable on December 1, 1929, or earlier at the option of the undersigned, for Preferred Stock and for one-half share of Common Stock for each share of Preferred Stock called for by the Receipts. Pending delivery of the Stock, the dividends thereon will be payable to the holders of the Receipts.

All legal proceedings in connection with the issuance of the above Preferred and Common Stock are subject to the approval of Messrs. Sullivan & Cromwell.

We offer Depositary's Receipts for the above Preferred and Common Stock, if, as and when issued and received by us, in

$105 and accrued dividends per unit.

We reserve the right to close the subscription at any time without notice and to reject any application or to allot a smaller amount than applied for. Amounts due on allotment will be payable at the office of Speyer & Co., 24 & 26 Pine Street, in New York funds, on or about December 7, 1928, as called for, against delivery of Depositary's Receipts.

SUCCESSOR NOT NAMED

Under His Administration the Road Has Shown Progress and Dividends Resumed.

Edward F. Pearson, for more than ten years president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, resigned last night at the regular meeting of the board of directors because of ill health. His resignation was accepted. No successor has as yet been chosen, officials of the road said. They would not disclose the names of those who are receiving consideration for the post.

At the same time it was announced that the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on preferred stock payable January 2, 1929, to stockholders of record Dec. 7 had been declared and that the regular quarterly dividend of $1 a share on common stock payable Jan. 2, 1928, to stockholders of record Dec. 7, 1928, had also been declared.

Mr. Pearson, who succeeded the late Howard Elliott as head of the New Haven on April 24, 1917, has been in poor health for some months and has been taking a rest cure recently at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore. Although his health has improved materially, it is understood that, having seen the road through a difficult period of rehabilitation since the expiration of Government control, he now feels that it is time to turn the work of operation over to others.

Mr. Pearson had been with the New Haven only about a year when he became president. Born in Rockville, Ill., and educated at Cornell University, most of his earlier work with railroads was in the construction of terminals and freight yards.

Among Western railroad executives he was known as "Terminal" Pearson, because he took such interest in this phase of railroading and had built the first "hump" freight yard on the Pacific Coast. Before he came to the New Haven as vice president in charge of operations and construction he had been connected with the St. Paul, the Missouri Pacific, and the Texas & Pacific. He had constructed terminals at St. Louis, Kansas City, New Orleans and Chicago.

During the war period, Mr. Pearson was Federal manager of the New Haven.

Mr. Pearson's tenure of office in the New Haven has been one of progress. Under his leadership the road has resumed payment of dividends on common stock for the first time since 1913, when they were suspended following an uneconomic acquisition on a large scale of steam and electric railroads and steamship lines in New England. Since 1920 the road has shown a practically steady increase in gross and net earnings. This year the road gave proof of its efficient operation by increasing its monthly net returns despite lower gross returns.

In recent years Mr. Buckland's duties have increased considerably. Unlike Mr. Pearson, who usually has remained in his New Haven offices, Mr. Buckland is frequently in New York.

BOSTON, Nov. 26 (AP).—The Boston Herald will say tomorrow that it has learned that Edward G. Buckland, vice president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, has been mentioned as the successor to Edward J. Pearson, whose resignation as president of the road was accepted tonight by the directors.

RAIL EQUIPMENT SALES INCREASE IN VOLUME

Wheeling & Lake Erie to Build Locomotives—Many Orders Are Placed—Inquiries Grow.

Rail equipment buying is very active at present, according to Railway Age. Wheeling & Lake Erie will build five six-wheel and five eight-wheel switching locomotives in its own shops. The Steel Company of Canada has ordered from the Electric Motive Company a 300-horsepower plant to be used in converting a steam locomotive to gas-electric drive. Louisville & Nashville is inquiring for 750 automobile cars and 300 box cars.

The Seaboard Air Line plans to buy 200 all-steel hopper cars. Missouri Pacific is inquiring for 100 steel underframes. Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific is inquiring for 250 ballast cars. The Hercules Powder Company, Wilmington, has ordered from the American Car and Foundry Company five steel underframes and steel parts for rebuilding five Rodger ballast cars.

Green Bay & Western is inquiring for four or five combination baggage and mail cars. Colorado & Southern has placed an order with the Pullman Car and Manufacturing Corporation for one gas-electric rail motor car to be equipped with a 400-horsepower Electric Motive Company power plant. Northwestern Pacific has ordered five motor coaches and five trailer coaches from the St. Louis Car Company. Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha has ordered from the Electric Motive Company eight gas-electric power plants for installation in car bodies to be built by the Pullman Car and Manufacturing Corporation.

The Chicago & Northwestern has ordered 100 steel underframes for wooden caboose cars from the American Car & Foundry Company and fourteen gas-electric power plants from the Electric Motive Company for installation in car bodies to be built by the Pullman Car and Manufacturing Corporation. Northwestern is also inquiring for 200 steel ballast cars. Western Pacific is inquiring for 50 tank cars, in addition to a previous inquiry for 50 flat and 250 automobile cars. Chicago & Eastern Illinois may buy 200 single sheathed automobile cars in addition to 100 previously ordered.

H. S. P. Nichols to Retire Dec. 1.

H. S. Prentiss Nichols, assistant general counsel of the Pennsylvania Railroad, will retire from active railroad service on Dec. 1. Under Federal control of the railroads he was assistant general solicitor for the Pennsylvania's Eastern lines. When this control terminated he was appointed assistant general counsel of the system.

Holding Corporations—earn profits for investors

LEARNING that a New York Financial holding corporation had earned 14% on capital employed in its first year, we recommended its stock for purchase. These shares in two years sold at a 400% advance.

Merging companies showed earnings of 18% on capital employed and we urged stock of the new consolidation for purchase. That stock's market value quadrupled in two years.

In each case earnings were the sign post pointing the way to profits in price appreciation alone. We now recommend:

Bankinstocks Holding Corporation

This company, as its name signifies, is an investor in stocks of banks, financial and insurance companies. Such stocks have first rating because the institutions they represent form the foundation of the business structure.

Bankinstocks Holding Corporation showed earnings on average capital well in excess of the two companies mentioned above. These impressive results demonstrate the ability of the corporation's management. And they should be reflected in the market value of the corporation's stock.

The Company agrees to reimburse certain taxes, in Pennsylvania and Connecticut not exceeding 4 mills, in Maryland not exceeding 4½ mills, in District of Columbia, California, Kentucky, Kansas and Michigan not exceeding 5 mills, in Iowa not exceeding 6 mills, and certain taxes in Massachusetts and Oregon not exceeding 6% of the income derived from these bonds, when properly paid by the bondholders, all as set forth in the trust agreement. Farmers Loan & Trust Company, New York City, Trustee.

THESE BONDS HAVE BEEN LISTED ON THE CHICAGO STOCK EXCHANGE

Up to November 1, 1930, into 40 shares of Class A Common Stock per $1,000 bond;
Thereafter up to November 1, 1931, into 35 shares of Class A Common Stock per $1,000 bond;
Thereafter up to November 1, 1932, into 30 shares of Class A Common Stock per $1,000 bond;
Thereafter up to November 1, 1933, into 27 shares of Class A Common Stock per $1,000 bond.
At the time of such conversion, cash adjustment will be made for accrued interest and accrued dividends.

Mr. Royce W. Gilbert summarizes a letter to the bankers as follows:

Business and Territory: North American Water Works and Electric Corporation, incorporated as North American Water Works Corporation under the laws of Delaware, will furnish through operating subsidiaries electric light and power and water services to over 169 communities in Maine, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, West Virginia, Maryland, Kentucky and Arkansas, and ice service to 27 communities in Georgia, North Carolina and Kentucky. The utility properties serve a population estimated to exceed 375,000 in territories where opportunities for expansion of the system's business are favorable. Water and/or electricity are furnished to approximately 66,500 customers. Electric current is distributed over 225 miles of transmission lines, and 730 miles of distributing lines. During 1927, over 26,600,000 K.W.H. were distributed. The water properties have a distributing system aggregating about 780 miles of mains and 3,818 hydrants. The Corporation's ice system includes eighteen manufacturing plants, having an aggregate daily capacity of over 1,060 tons and adequate delivery equipment. The territory served has a population of about 370,000 and includes Wilson, Rocky Mount, Goldsboro, Kinston, Henderson, Fayetteville and Elizabeth City, North Carolina, Savannah, Georgia, and Corbin, Kentucky. The Corporation's sales during 1927 were about 125,000 tons.

Capitalization:
(After giving effect to present financing)

	Authorized	To be presently Outstanding
Ten Year 6% Convertible Secured Gold Bonds, Series A (this issue)	*	$2,800,000
$7.00 Preferred Stock (no par value)	100,000 shs.	25,000 shs.
Common Stock, Class A (no par value)	500,000 shs.	none
Common Stock, Class B (no par value)	500,000 shs.	120,000 shs.

In addition, there will be $15,469,000 of funded debt and $1,867,000 of preferred stocks of subsidiaries, taken at liquidation values, outstanding with the public on completion of present financing.
*Series A Bonds limited to $2,800,000 and other series limited by the provisions of the trust indenture.
Including 112,000 shares held for conversion of these bonds.

Earnings: Consolidated earnings of the corporation and its subsidiaries for the twelve months ended June 30, 1928, adjusted to give effect to the elimination of certain non-recurring charges, to the elimination of properties not now owned but formerly jointly operated, and to certain rate increases now authorized or effective, as certified to by Messrs. Barrow, Wade, Guthrie & Co., are as follows:

Gross Earnings, including other income	$3,756,799
Operating Expenses, Maintenance, Taxes (except Federal Taxes)	2,138,788
Net Earnings	$1,618,011
Prior Charges of Subsidiaries for Interest and Dividends, and minority interest	985.120
Balance	$ 632,891
Annual Interest Requirements on these bonds	168.000
Balance for Depreciation, Dividends, etc.	$ 464,891

The above balance is more than 3.75 times the annual interest requirements on these bonds, which will constitute the only funded debt of the corporation. Of the above net earnings, approximately 78% are derived from electric light and power and water services.

Security: These bonds will constitute the only funded debt of the corporation and will be secured by the deposit of all or substantially all of the common stocks of Keystone Water Works and Electric Corporation, and Central Atlantic Water Works and Electric Corporation, and 80% of the common stock of Maine State Water & Electric Company, which corporations will own substantially all the common stocks of the operating subsidiaries. The valuation of the physical properties, as determined by independent engineers, plus additions to date, show a depreciated sound value of $23,798,000. The balance after deducting all prior obligations of subsidiaries and minority interest, equals $6,000,000, or over $2,100 per $1,000 bond of this issue.

Purpose of Issue: The proceeds of these bonds and of certain subsidiary securities will be used to reimburse the company for a portion of the cost of the acquisitions of properties.

These bonds are offered when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to approval of counsel. Legal details incident to this issue will be passed upon by Messrs. Chapman and Cutler. It is expected that temporary bonds will be ready for delivery on or about December 5, 1928.

RAILROADS REPORT GAINS IN OCTOBER

New York Central Increases Operating Income for First Time This Year.

COAL CARRIERS IMPROVING

Net Earnings of All Lines in 1928 to Surpass Those of 1927 and Be Second Only to 1926.

Reports from railroads in many parts of the country yesterday showed that October was a record month in point of prosperity and that net earnings of all roads this year will surpass the total of $1,085,485,000 reache last year, and run second to the record figure of $1,231,790,000 established in 1926.

In recent months the Eastern railroads, with the chief exception of the New York Central, have been rivaling the Western roads in reporting monthly increases. In October the New York Central joined the procession with a notable increase in net income, after having shown decreased returns for every previous month this year. Roads in the Southern group, which to date have consistently reported lower earnings, provided some interesting increases in October.

Anthracite Roads Gain.

Anthracite roads, such as the Lehigh Valley and the Delaware & Hudson, joined the Lackawanna in reporting the first increases for the year. What Western railroads reported also showed gains.

The New York Central reversed its previous performances of the year by reporting an increase of $2,843,041 in gross revenue for October, which increase was almost all retained, with the result that net operating income increased $2,070,389 The operating ratio was 73.7 in October, against 78.7 in October, 1927, and for the first ten months of the year the ratio was 75.7, against 75.6 in the same period last year.

The Pennsylvania, which several times this year has increased monthly net despite decreased gross returns, reported an increase of $4,538,275 in gross and an increase of $3,882,596 in net. The New Haven increased its net by $1,032,239, although its gross increased only $661,764 in October. In previous months this road has increased its net in the face of lower gross.

Like other roads in the Van Sweringen group, the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Pere Marquette increased their net in October. The Erie and the Nickel Plate already have reported similar results. Other Eastern roads to gain were the Wabash, the Reading and the Wheeling.

Results in the South.

In the South the Southern Railway system reported gains in gross and net returns. The Florida East Coast, however, continued to show decreases.

DELAYS C. & O. CASE ON PERE MARQUETTE

I. C. C. Grants Minority Stockholders Time for Study of Proposed Purchase Price.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—At the request of minority stockholders of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad Company, postponement until tomorrow morning was granted today by C. D. Mahaffie, director of finance of the Interstate Commerce Commission, of the hearing on the application by that company to pay $133.33 a share to the New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Company, or "Nickel Plate," for control of the Père Marquette. The minority's request was presented by Henry W. Anderson, counsel, after exhibits relating to the value of Père Marquette stock and the proposed transfer were presented by counsel for the Chesapeake & Ohio. H said an opportunity to study them was desired.

The Chesapeake & Ohio is to be supported in its petition by representatives of Virginia, West Virginia and others. Giving notice of intervention in its favor this morning were Lester E. Hooker for the Virginia Corporation Commission; the West Virginia Public Service Commission, including the Governor and Attorney General; Logan Coal Operators' Association, represented by James D. Francis; Citizens Committee of Richmond, headed by John C. Easley; Charleston, W. Va., Citizens Committee, and the Kanawha Coal Operators' Association, by Colonel W. M. Wiley.

The application of the Chesapeake & Ohio is for modification of an order of the commission several months ago authorizing that road to acquire control of the Père Marquette at a price not exceeding $110 a share. When the original application was filed, the Chesapeake & Ohio had an option to buy at that price 174,000 shares of Père Marquette common stock from the Nickel Plate. That option expired before the commission decided the case. The price of Père Marquette stock is now around $153 a share on the New York Stock Exchange.

In June the Chesapeake & Ohio got a contract from the Nickel Plate to buy the stock at $133.33 a share. Easley; Charleston (W. Va.) Citizens the average market price from Jan. 1 to the day before the contract was made.

The Chesapeake & Ohio has authority to issue about 200,000 shares of its own common stock to its stockholders at par, or $100 a share, for the purpose of paying for the Père Marquette stock, providing a fund of $20,000,000. The request of the Chesapeake & Ohio is now being made for authority to issue 300,000 shares at par instead of 200,000.

Crowe Manufacturing Corporation

A Delaware Corporation

Common Stock

CAPITALIZATION

(Upon completion of this financing)

	Authorized and Outstanding
Common Stock (without par value)	100,000 Shares

Mr. J. M. Crowe, President, summarizes his letter as follows:

BUSINESS AND HISTORY

The Crowe Manufacturing Corporation manufactures and distributes Crowe Safety Saws, which are portable, circular saws, designed especially for cutting stone and wood and powered by electric or compressed air motors. Exclusive, patented safety features to safeguard the user have enabled Crowe Saws to be approved by the Underwriters Laboratories, also by many State Industrial Commissions and Labor Departments, and by various Safety Committees. Manufacturing facilities are centrally located at Cincinnati, Ohio. The manufacture of Crowe Safety Saws was previously carried on by the Crowe Manufacturing Corporation, a Kentucky corporation, all the assets and the business of which have been acquired by the Delaware Corporation.

MARKETS AND USERS

The high cutting rate of Crowe Safety Saws, with the savings in time and labor thus made possible, and the safety features found only in Crowe Saws, result in their being needed wherever any quantity of sawing must be done or where speed is essential. Crowe Saws are now in use by the following representative corporations:

New York Central R. R.	Union Pacific R. R.	Pennsylvania R. R.
General Electric Co.,	National Cash Register Co.,	Dwight P. Robinson Co.,
Geo. A. Fuller Co.,	Fisher Body Co.,	Island Creek Coal Co.,
American Can Co.,	General Motors Export Co.,	E. I. duPont deNemours & Co., Inc.
Atlantic Refining Co.,	Eastman Kodak Co.,	U. S. Navy Department

This, by no means a complete list, shows Crowe Saws to be in demand in practically every industrial field, on railroads, in the steel industry, on heavy and light construction, and in mining and manufacturing of all kinds. This broad field of usefulness means not only a large demand for Crowe Saws, but a stable demand.

In the United States, distribution is handled by jobbing houses and local agents. Foreign distribution is accomplished by representatives located in the important countries. Among these are Alfred Herbert & Co., Ltd., in England; H. P. Gregory & Co., Ltd., in Australia; H. Brinneisen & Cie., in France; and Mitaui & Co., Ltd., in Japan. A more extensive foreign sales organization is being organized, following the present plan of obtaining sales through local organizations.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE

Proceeds from the sale of this stock will be used in acquiring the assets and business of the predecessor corporation, and to expand the Corporation's sales organization and increase its manufacturing capacity.

EARNINGS

Crowe Saws have been perfected less than a year, during which time over 2,000 saws have been built and sold. A careful analysis of production, distributing and overhead costs indicate that the sale of 15,000 Crowe Saws a year will result in annual net earnings for the Corporation of around $1,000,000, or approximately $8.80 per share on 100,000 shares of common stock after deducting Federal Income Tax of 12%. The margin of profit is safeguarded by the strong patent situation and the sale of 15,000 Crowe Saws a year is conservative, when the many fields in which the Saws are needed are kept in mind.

MANAGEMENT

Mr. J. M. Crowe, President, will be assisted in the management of the Corporation by Mr. S. S. McClure, formerly Production Engineer with Celluloid Corporation, as General Manager. Mr. W. P. Murphy, formerly Sales Manager in Canada for an internationally known corporation, will have charge of the sales organization.

This stock is offered for delivery when, as and if issued, and when legal details have been approved by Messrs. Simpson, Thacher & Bartlett, New York, counsel for the Bankers and by Messrs. Mackey & Mackey, Cincinnati, Ohio, and Mr. Jerome Simmons, New York, counsel for the Corporation.

The Corporation agrees to make application in due course to list this stock on the New York Curb Market.

The Century Trust Company of Baltimore, Trustee

The following is summarized by Mr. S. J. Bennett, Vice-President and General Manager of the company, from his letter to us:

BUSINESS: Continental States Utilities, Inc., incorporated under the laws of the State of Maryland, owns 95% of the Preferred stock and over 99% of the Common stock of the Three States Telephone Company, an Illinois Corporation, and in addition, will own on completion of this financing all of the stock of The Southern Gulf Utilities Company. The operating companies, whose securities will be pledged under the Trust Agreement, furnish local and long distance telephone service to four groups of communities in the States of Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas with a combined population in excess of 125,000. The system comprises eighty exchanges and approximately 11,966 stations and through direct and indirect interconnection with the Bell system and with independent companies, nation-wide long distance service is available to all subscribers.

PROPERTIES AND TERRITORY: The properties in Texas comprise 64 exchanges located in the vast agricultural territory between Dallas and Houston, northeast of Dallas and northeast of Houston. The central office of the Company is located at Corsicana and from this point its lines extend in all directions.

These properties serve one of the most productive agricultural areas in the United States. It has long been the leading cotton producing section of the country and is also widely known as a cattle, oil and gas producing territory.

The Arkansas-Oklahoma group includes 16 exchanges in the farming section of Western Arkansas and the east central part of Oklahoma.

SECURITY: These notes will, in the opinion of counsel, constitute the direct obligation of the Continental States Utilities, Inc., and in addition will be specifically secured by the deposit with the Trustee of 95% of the Preferred Stock and over 99% of the Common Stock of the Three States Telephone Company and all of the Common Stock except Directors Qualifying Shares of The Southern Gulf Utilities Company. Both of these companies will be entirely free from funded debt and have no outstanding stock senior to the pledged shares. The Continental States Utilities, Inc., covenants that it will not pay any dividends on its Common Stock and that it will not permit any of its constituent companies to mortgage or pledge any of their assets as long as any of these notes are outstanding.

CAPITALIZATION:

	Authorized	Outstanding
One Year 5½% Secured Notes (this issue)	$1,000,000	$1,000,000
7% Preferred Stock ($100 par value)	2,500,000	*31,200

* Issued in connection with the acquisition of properties.
 10,000 Shares held in Treasury.

VALUATION: The properties now owned together with those being acquired have been recently appraised by Messrs. Victor A. Dorsey & Co., Engineers, Chicago. The reproduction value as shown by this appraisal is $2,386,275. The depreciated value is $1,935,034.

EARNINGS: The combined earnings of the properties now owned, together with those being acquired, for the twelve months ended August 31, 1928, as reported by Messrs. Edward Gore & Co., Certified Public Accountants, Chicago, are as follows: Gross Earnings, $287,887.03; Operating Expenses, Maintenance and Local Taxes, $157,429.25. Net earnings available for Interest, Depreciation and Federal Taxes, $130,457.78; Annual Interest requirements on these notes, $55.000.

Net earnings as shown above were over 2.37 times the annual interest requirements on these notes. Approximately 28% of the gross earnings is derived from toll service.

GENERAL: No mortgage may be placed upon the Company's property while these notes remain outstanding. No additional funded debt may be created unless net earnings for 12 out of the preceding 14 months shall be at least 2½ times annual interest requirements on total funded debt to be outstanding.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The proceeds of these notes will be used to retire outstanding obligations of subsidiaries, in the acquisition of additional properties, and for other corporate purposes.

MANAGEMENT: The operation of these properties is in the hands of capable and efficient telephone men, many of whom have been connected with the properties for many years.

All legal details in connection with this issue will be passed upon by Messrs. Tenney, Harding, Sherman and Rodgers, Attorneys, Chicago, for the Company and Messrs. Knapp, Tucker & Thomas, Baltimore, for the Bankers. The properties have been examined and appraised by Messrs. Victor A. Dorsey and Company, Engineers, Chicago. The books and accounts have been examined and audited by Messrs. Edward Gore & Co., Certified Public Accountants, Chicago.

LOANS ON STOCKS GAIN IN THE WEEK

Condition Report of Member Banks Shows Gain in Loans and Discounts.

BORROWINGS ARE LESS

Government Security Holdings Decline $10,000,000 in New York District.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The Federal Reserve Board's condition statement of 631 reporting member banks in leading cities as of Nov. 21 shows an increase for the week of $118,000,000 in loans and discounts and a decrease of $57,000,000 in borrowings from Federal Reserve banks, accompanied with relatively small changes in deposits and investments.

Loans on stocks and bonds, including United States Government obligations, were $157,000,000 above the Nov. 14 total at all reporting banks, an increase of $140,000,000 being reported by member banks in the New York district, of $12,000,000 in the Boston district and of $11,000,000 in the Cleveland district, and a decrease of $9,000,000 by reporting banks in the Minneapolis district.

"All other" loans and discounts increased $8,000,000 at reporting banks in the Chicago district, and declined $16,000,000 in the New York district, $9,000,000 in the Boston district, $3,000,000 in the Philadelphia district, $6,000,000 each in the Cleveland and St. Louis districts and $39,000,000 at all reporting banks.

Holdings of United States Government securities declined $10,000,000 at reporting banks in the New York district and $21,000,000 at all reporting member banks, while holdings of other bonds, stocks and securities declined $7,000,000 in the New York district and increased $17,000,000 in the Chicago district, $6,000,000 in the Richmond district and $14,000,000 at all reporting banks.

Net demand deposits, which at all reporting banks show an increase of only $2,000,000, increased $87,000,000 at reporting banks in the New York district, and declined $29,000,000 in the San Fransisco district, $28,000,000 in the Atlanta district, $10,000,000 in the Kansas City district, $9,000,000 in the Dallas district and $8,000,000 in the Boston district. Time deposits declined $10,000,000 in the New York district and $3,000,000 at all reporting banks.

The principal changes in borrowings from Federal Reserve banks for the week were reductions of $23,000,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, $18,000,000 at Philadelphia, $13,000,000 at Cleveland, and $6,000,000 at Richmond, and increases of $10,000,000 at Chicago and $6,000,000 at Kansas City.

A summary of the principal assets and liabilities of the 631 reporting member banks, together with changes during the week and year ended Nov. 21, 1928, follows:

75% OF GIANNINI STOCK EXCHANGED FOR NEW

Privileges Close Here, but Holders Abroad Have More Time in Trans America Plan.

More than 75 per cent of the stock of the Bancitaly Corporation and the Bank of Italy of San Francisco had been exchanged for Trans America Corporation certificates up to 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the exchange privileges closed. A longer time has been granted for holders abroad to exchange their stock, so that the amount is expected to be greatly increased.

The plan became effective on the deposit of 51 per cent of the stock, which took place several weeks ago. At the Bancitaly Corporation's offices here it was said yesterday that when all the exchanges had been tabulated it probably would be found that substantially all of the stock had been deposited. When the market supply of the old stocks has dried up the Curb Exchange will strike from its list the 5,200,000 shares of Bancitaly and the San Francisco Stock Exchange will do the same with the shares of the Bank of Italy. After that the shares of the Trans America Corporation, the holding company, capitalized at $250,000,000, will be the only Giannini enterprise in which a public market will be maintained.

The Trans America Corporation has 10,000,000 shares of $25 par value authorized and it is expected that on the completion of the exchanges 8,700,000 shares will be outstanding.

BANK IN MACON, GA., CLOSES

Fourth National Is Shut After a Run of Withdrawals.

MACON, Ga., Nov. 26 (AP).—The Fourth National Bank of Macon, one of the largest financial institutions in Central Georgia, closed its doors today after a two-hour run of withdrawals. Leon S. Dure, president said the bank's Board of Directors at a special meeting had decided to close the doors and take steps toward reorganization of the institution.

The bank, which was organized more than twenty years ago, had a capital of $500,000, deposits of approximately $9,000,000 and resources listed at more than $11,000,000.

President Dure said it was shown to be the "sense and determination" of the bank's directors to organize a new bank, "capable and willing to take care of the depositors fully and promptly, if such a payment is desired, and continue to serve the people of Macon and the people of this territory."

Officers of the bank declined to comment on the cause of the run, which began soon after the opening hour. At one time about 2,000 persons, including depositors, stood in the vicinity of the bank. The run proceeded in an orderly manner.

SECURITY TRANSFER & REGISTRAR COMPANY
39 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
Transfer Agent and Registrar

We summarize below information furnished to us by Officers and Directors of the Company:

HISTORY: The Cessna Aircraft Company, incorporated under the laws of the State of Kansas on September 27, 1927, is the outgrowth of seventeen years of research and practical experience in the development of aviation by Clyde V. Cessna.

In aviation circles, the name of Clyde V. Cessna needs no introduction. Whenever any phase of flying or building of aircraft is discussed, his name is interwoven.

It stands out like Edison in Electricity, Carnegie in Steel, or Rockefeller in Oil; for he has had as mighty a hand in the shaping and advancement of his science as they in theirs.

Thru the close application of aero-dynamics and the designing of planes that combine speed, safety and performance, the name of Clyde V. Cessna has for the past seventeen years been among the leaders of the aircraft industry.

Prior to organizing the Cessna Aircraft Company, Mr. Cessna was President of the Travel Air Manufacturing Company, Wichita, Kansas.

CESSNA RECORDS FOR 1928: In September Pilot Earl Rowland won the Class A Cross Country Derby from New York to Los Angeles, with a Cessna Monoplane powered with a 110 H. P. Warner Motor.

Pilot Earl Rowland won the Closed Course Event No. 2 with a Cessna Monoplane at Los Angeles, Sept. 14th.

Pilot Schultz in a Cessna Monoplane was the first strictly commercial plane of any type to cross the line at Mines Field, Los Angeles, in Class B Cross Country Derby.

Pilot Earl Rowland won the race at LeRoy, New York, October 13th with a Cessna Monoplane.

PROPERTIES AND FINANCIAL CONDITION: The Manufacturing plant, hangars and airport are located in the central part of Wichita, Kansas, on twelve acres of land owned in fee by the Company. New Buildings were constructed and new equipment installed in January, 1928, the last word in respect to aircraft production.

Under date of October 27, 1928, the Wichita Real Estate Board appraised the land and buildings at $55,000.00. According to statement submitted as of September 30th, 1928, current assets are three times more than current liabilities.

PRODUCT: The Cessna Cantilever Cabin Monoplane combines all that is good in airplane construction with new features and inventions by the genius whose name it bears.

Features:

(1) Cantilever Wing Construction.

The Cessna patented wing construction with no struts, gracefully tapers and is of full cantilever principle. These wings insure more speed with less resistance than any other wing made of equal surface.

(2) The fuselage is made of molyb denum tubular steel throughout. It has three times the strength of ordinary fuselage material.

(3) The Tail Skid is another Cessna patented feature and guarantees greater control of the ship on the ground. This remarkable feature is operated from the control and in conjunction with the use of the rudder. It is lighter in weight than any other type of skid.

(4) A newly designed landing gear has been developed and patented by Mr. Cessna, that operates on the split axle principle, giving the maximum ground clearance. It includes a highly efficient shock absorber placed well up in the body of the ship where it offers no resistance. Through the efficiency of this gear, all jars and jumps are absorbed and the plane hugs the ground on landing. All parts can be seen from the pilot's seat.

PRODUCTION SCHEDULE: The production program for 1929 contemplates the building of four, six, and eight place full cantilever cabin-type monoplanes, to serve the air transportation field. The first six place monoplane now under construction will be completed in time for display at the Chicago show.

The Company is now negotiating for ten large cabin monoplanes, part six place 100 H. P. and part eight place, powered with the Pratt & Whitney Wasp 410 H. P. Transport ships of 12 and 14 passenger type are expected to be in production by June, 1929.

There has been manufactured and delivered more than 50 cabin type planes during 1928 and the estimated production for 1929 is approximately 25 planes per month.

And Abraham Lincoln defended the bridge

On April 21st, 1855, three locomotives, two tenders and eight passenger cars rolled timorously over a wooden bridge spanning the Mississippi, freighted with hopes and visions of a new world which was to be made possible through this conquest of the Father of Waters by railroad transportation.

¶ Two weeks later, a Mississippi river packet, the "Effie Alton" caught fire and was swept against the bridge. The flames spread. In a few hours, the wooden span was in ashes, as were the hopes of the railroad backers, for the packet company promptly brought suit against the bridge owners.

¶ Packets then were symbolic of an established order. Wooden railroad bridges represented a new and untried order. The lawsuit, it was confidently predicted, would go against the new order.

¶ A young lawyer, Abraham Lincoln by name, defended the owners of the burned bridge. With prophetic vision, he declared that some day the people who would pass over the railroad bridge would far outnumber those who would pass under it, and after trial and appeal, the courts held with the young lawyer that with the railroad lay the possibilities of the greatest good to the greatest number.

¶ The Missouri Pacific Railroad, heirs to a dramatic history in which Abraham Lincoln played his part, has been one of the pioneer lines in the development of the great railroad industry which now unites a continent with bands of steel. When on the Fourth of July in 1851, ground was broken for its first line, from St. Louis to Jefferson City, two freedoms were memorialized, that of the Nation and that of a new transportation. Thirteen years later, Lincoln, as President of the United States, signed the right of way for a transcontinental railroad. A few short years later two lines of rail met and the Atlantic and Pacific clasped hands.

¶ The dauntless spirit of the pioneers has characterized the Missouri Pacific from its inception.

¶ In 1927, when the tawny Mississippi burst its bounds, strewing ruin and desolation, this railroad gave another demonstration of its indomitable courage and efficient power to render service under stress.

STANDARD OIL GROUP FORMS EXPORT BODY

PREPARED TO JOIN OTHERS

Aims at Membership in General Association Under Webb Act, Announcement Says.

As a step toward participation in a general export association representing the oil industry of the United States, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, through five of its affiliated companies, has organized the Standard Oil Export Corporation, it was announced yesterday. The new organization will function individually until the joint export body is set up, after which it "will be eligible to take membership representing those interests in the general association."

The plan for the new export unit of the Standard of New Jersey was explained in the following statement:

"About a month ago announcement was made that certain American petroleum companies had under consideration a proposal for the formation, under the Webb act, of an export association to deal in crude petroleum and its products. As a step toward the consummation of this proposal, five operating units affiliated with the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey have today joined in causing to be incorporated under the laws of Delaware the Standard Oil Export Corporation, with an authorized capital of 100 shares of no par value stock. The member companies are the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, a Delaware corporation (which is the New Jersey company's main operating subsidiary); the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, the Humble Oil and Refining Company, the Carter Oil Company and Stanco, Inc., all of which are engaged in export trade.

"The new company will constitute the Webb export association of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey interests. The officers of the export corporation are to be D. L. Harper, president; W. R. Mook, vice president; C. T. White, secretary; M. H. Eames, assistant secretary; R. F. Resor, treasurer, and C. B. Millard and Ph. Berau, assistant treasurers, all of New York."

The plans for the organization of the general export body are progressing rapidly. All the important oil interests of the country engaged in the export business will be represented and the most important of these interests will be represented in the management or directorate.

OVER-COUNTER MARKET SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Bank Shares Are Strong and Active—Industrials in Abundant Supply—Chain Stores Quiet.

Trading in the over-the-counter market yesterday showed an improvement over the previous trading day. Industrials were in abundant supply and active, although the group closed quiet with most issues strong and active, while insurance shares also developed a firmer tone. Chain store stocks were quiet, as were bonds and sugar shares.

In the industrial group, A. O. Smith common and Crowell Publishing common were leaders with good gains. Others showing advances included National Bakeries preferred, Ruberoid, Segal Lock and Hardware common and preferred, Crosse & Blackwell and Hercules Powder new. Newport was a weak spot. Declines were also marked against American Safesbook preferred, Industrial Acceptance common and preferred, Superheater and Babcock & Wilcox.

City Bank was an outstanding feature of strength in its section. Others showing gains were Central Union, Guaranty, U. S. Trust, Brooklyn, Chase, Bank of Europe Trust, Hanover, Chemical, Bankers, Title Guarantee and Trust, Nassau National, Seaboard, Chelsea Exchange, Bank of New York & Trust and Farmers Loan and Trust.

Among the insurance shares, Aetna Life, Globe and Rutgers, Boston, Lloyd's Plate Glass and Travelers were much higher. Gains were also scored by Columbia National Life, St. Paul Fire and Marine, Aetna Fire, Fidelity and Casualty of New York and American Alliance.

In the chain store group, Neisner commons and Piggly Wiggly Western States A made slight gains, as did Isaac Silver common. Declines of a point were made by Isaac Miller common, Nedick's, Bohack common and Leonard, Fitzpatrick & Mueller common.

American Chatillon Stock Sold.

The unsold portion of the issued capital stock of the American Chatillon Corporation has been acquired by a banking group including Blake Brothers & Co., de Saint Phalle & Co. and Maynard, Oakley & Lawrence. Proceeds of the sale will go to the treasury of the company. It is understood that this will enable the company to complete its building plans and have a surplus of more than $3,000,000 and a working capital of more than $2,000,000.

STOCKS IRREGULAR ON CURB EXCHANGE

Oils Strong, Utilities Mixed, New Highs in Marconi, Canadian and Marine Shares.

TRADING IS PROFESSIONAL

Much More Attention Is Devoted to Specialties in Various Groups.

Trading on the Curb Exchange was largely professional yesterday, with much more attention devoted to specialties in various groups, while the list as a whole was highly irregular and not very active as contrasted with recent markets. The Marconi stocks were the centre of interest, Canadian Marconi and Marconi Marine going to new highs in active trading, while Marconi Wireless eased in a large turnover.

The utilities were mixed, American Superpower easing while United Gas Improvement, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore and Electric Bond and Share advanced. The oils were strong as a rule, Gulf Oil, Houston Gulf Gas and Standard of Indiana advancing, while Standard of Kentucky declined. New highs were reached by Prairie Oil, Prairie Pipe and Plymouth Oil.

Radio-Keith-Orpheum netted lower in broad trading, Haxeltine weakened and Warner Brothers preferred reached a new low in the amusement group. Consolidated Film Industries went to a new high. Noranda rose to a new high in the mines and Hudson Bay was firm. New International Nickel of Canada went to a high and Mond Nickel also gained. Kimberley-Clark was strong in the paper section.

Ford of Canada was active and gained after covering an unusually small range for the issue. Filene's advanced a score of points to a high record. Dow Chemical was quoted more than 90 points over its last previous price, closing 1 point short of 200. New du Pont shares went to a new high, but closed with a small gain. New highs were set by Woodworth, Ross Stores, Ryan Consolidated and Nathan Strauss, while broad gains were made by Niles-Bement-Pond, Evans Loading, American Cyanamid, Blumenthal, Hart Parr A preferred, United States Foil B, Toddy Corporation and Southern Asbestos. Butler Brothers, Celanese and Rainbok Luminous eased.

Bronze Companies Are Merged.

Merger of the Roman Bronze Works, Inc., of Brooklyn and the American Art Foundry, Inc., of Astoria, L. I., was announced yesterday by the General Bronze Corporation. The merged concerns will operate as the statuary division of the General Bronze Corporation.

UNITED STATES REALTY AND IMPROVEMENT COMPANY
GEORGE A. FULLER COMPANY AND SUBSIDIARY COMPANIES

Executive Offices: 111 Broadway, New York City

THE GEORGE A. FULLER COMPANY is one of the largest and most successful building organizations in America. More than One Billion Dollars of building contracts have been successfully executed by this Company, within twenty-five years. By reason of their large and varied experience, the executives constitute a pre-eminent authority on the improvement of real estate.

Moreover, the large volume of this Company's business, together with its strong financial standing and valuable connections, gives it the power to purchase on the most advantageous terms. These facts, together with the suggestion that it is prepared to assist in the financing of sound building construction contracts, make it advisable for those contemplating the improvement of real estate to call upon this organization.

The officials of the Company, suggest that the present is an exceedingly propitious time to carry through the improvement of real estate. The near future, it is believed, will bear witness to the correctness of this advice.

Every Audit Should Be A Detailed Audit

The leaders in practically every field of business now regard the Detailed Audit as an absolute necessity. The Reserve Cities Bankers Association, and most of the Credit Associations throughout the country, stand on record as preferring it to the Balance Sheet Audit.

Offering an expert and independent study in detail of the items represented in mass by balance-sheet figures, the Detailed Audit not only verifies, but clarifies. It digs beneath the figures and reveals the buried facts.

Every audit should be a Detailed Audit. It brings to light avoidable leaks and wastes. It finds the flaws in accounting, in credit and collection methods. It presents the cause, and the effect, of financial policies. It points to possibilities for greater profits.

Free from the qualified statements of the Balance Sheet Audit, the Detailed Audit is the ideal basis for credit. Complete in its presentation of the facts behind the figures, it is the only basis for executive plans and action which lead to progress and success.

COTTON FUTURES CONTINUE TO RISE

HEAVY DEMAND FROM MILLS

Outside Buying Also Increases, Western Interests Appearing —Exports Large.

The advancing movement of last week in cotton was resumed on the Cotton Exchange yesterday and new high prices were recorded when near months sold around 20¾ cents, about $2 a bale higher than on Saturday. After opening up $1 a bale, a broadening speculative and trade demand forced prices steadily higher under the largest volume of business so far this season. Quotations reached the highest levels of the day in closing dealings with a net gain of 25 to 37 points.

Out of the local certificated stock of only 7,000 bales, notices for 4,000 bales were circulated, but deliveries exerted little influence on the course of the market. Liquidation of the larger percentage of speculative long accounts in the December position had been accomplished in advance of notice day, leaving price fixing by many mills to be done in the coming few weeks' trading in the spot delivery. Action of the market in the last ten days, with increasing commission house participation in cotton, created marked activity among both domestic and foreign spinning interests. Mills that failed to call raw material in the period of low prices in the last two or three months, when the marketing movement was at its maximum in the South, have been securing cotton at a higher level. A large quantity of price-fixing based on December still remains to be done before trading in the spot month ceases, and the trade demand for December yesterday was on a scale which kept pace with the outside buying in later deliveries.

From the opening of the market, the accumulation of May contracts by speculative interests, which was the feature during the rise last week, took so many contracts from the market that reactions were confined to a few points all day. While each sharp pulse found scattered lots for sale on scale limits and frequent setbacks followed, new buying appeared from local and Western sources which called for contracts and quickly advanced the list into new high territory.

Exports aggregated 88,000 bales for the first two days of the week, bringing clearances 440,000 bales ahead of the quantity shipped to Nov. 26, 1927.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Day.
December	20.60	20.84	20.56	20.81-84	20.45-47
January	20.58	20.74	20.45	20.72-74	20.36-40

COTTON EXCHANGE SEATS UP

$50,000 Bid Brings No Offer—Metal Memberships Resold.

The demand for memberships on the New York Cotton Exchange, which resulted in the sale of four seats Saturday at $38,000, $42,000, $43,000 and $45,000 respectively, was continued yesterday, with $50,000 bid for a seat, but none offered.

Negotiations have been completed for the sale of a New York Produce Exchange membership for $29,000, an advance of $500 over the last previous sale and a new high record.

The first resale of a seat on the National Metal Exchange, which will open for trading next Monday, was announced yesterday when two seats changed hands at $3,000, an advance of $500 over the price at which memberships were sold when the exchange was organized last Summer. August Schierenberg bought the seat of Carl Mayer for another, and Kenneth S. Guiterman purchased the seat of Tobias Wilson for another.

WHEAT PRICES RISE AS PRESSURE EASES

Statistical Position of the Market Is Now Held to Be Decidedly Bearish.

VISIBLE SUPPLY INCREASES

Short Covering in Corn Brings a Bulge and the Close Is Higher.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—There was no material pressure on the wheat market today but there was evidence of persistent absorption of May on the decline by houses with Eastern connections. The local element were inclined to fight the advances, but came in toward the last and the finish was within a fraction of the top with net gains of ½ to ¾ cent. Liquidation by scattered longs in the December delivery has not been as much in evidence during the last few days as the trade anticipated although the open interest in that option was cut down 16,500,000 bushels in a week. At the same time the open interest in the March and May increased practically the same amount.

The statistical position remains decidedly bearish and a local house figures that exporting countries of the world have 244,000,000 bushels in excess of Broomhall's estimate of import requirements. Winnipeg gained ⅝ to ½ cent on futures, with low grades of cash grain ¼ to 1 cent higher as compared with the future. Liverpool closed ⅛ to ¼ penny higher. Buenos Aires and Rosario were off ½ cent for the day, with December at Buenos Aires $1.11⅝ and Rosario $1.09⅝.

The trade was rather surprised by a decrease of 645,000 bushels in the domestic visible supply, the total being 134,609,000 bushels against 135,254,000 bushels the previous week and 91,117,000 bushels last year. Export demand at the seaboard and at Winnipeg was limited.

Primary arrivals today 2,670,000 bushels; week ago, 2,063,000 bushels; last year, 2,184,000 bushels. Shipments, 795,000 bushels; week ago, 1,143,000 bushels; last year, 1,329,000 bushels.

Houses with foreign connections sold corn early, and the local element followed as weather conditions over Sunday were decidedly favorable for field work, but the surplus in the pit was absorbed on resting orders and by local bulls. A bulge of 1⅝ cents from the inside figures followed when shorts tried to cover. Sellers of offers helped along the upturn in protecting themselves.

The close was at net gains of 1 to 1⅜ cents.

Primary receipts today, 1,869,000 bushels; week ago, 1,657,000 bushels; last year, 903,000 bushels. Shipments, 585,000 bushels; week ago, 682,000 bushels; last year, 666,000 bushels.

CONSULTS STOCK EXCHANGE

Committee From Chicago Board of Trade Holds Conference Here.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—A satisfactory conference between officials of the Chicago Board of Trade and of the New York Stock Exchange was reported from New York today. The news was wired by President Samuel P. Arnot of the Chicago Board of Trade to Secretary Fred H. Clutten. Mr. Arnot is chairman of a committee which, with Thomas Y. Wickham and Silas H. Strawn, has been in New York several days conferring with officials of the Exchange about possible trading in stocks on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Before the official announcement was given out members of the Board of Trade had assumed that Jerome B. Rockwood, who recently sold his membership in the board for $17,500, only to buy it back for $45,000 today, must have some good reason for his act.

BUST OF STRONG PRESENTED

National Bank of Belgium Makes Gift to Federal Reserve Bank Here.

A bronze bust of the late Governor Strong of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York was presented to the bank yesterday in behalf of the National Bank of Belgium and was assigned to a permanent place at the northern end of the Board of Directors' room. The bust is the work of the Belgian sculptor F. de Soete, and bears an inscription telling of the feeling of gratitude held by the Belgian bank toward Mr. Strong. In October, 1926, the Federal Reserve Bank, largely as a result of negotiations carried on by Mr. Strong, advanced a credit of $10,000,000 to the Belgian bank at the time of stabilization of Belgian currency.

The bust was presented by Prince de Ligne, the Belgian Ambassador to the United States, and was accepted by Gates W. McGarrah, Chairman of the Board of the Federal Reserve Bank, in the presence of all the senior officers and most of the directors of the bank. Two sons of Mr. Strong, Benjamin Jr. and Philip, also attended the ceremonies in the board room of the Reserve Bank.

E. J. Sieler Jr. Goes to New Bank.

Edward J. Sieler Jr. has been appointed assistant vice president of the new Lefcourt-Normandie National Bank, resigning as national bank examiner to accept the post. A. E. Lefcourt, chairman of the board, also announced the organization of an advisory board for the bank, to be composed of sixteen men, as follows: Robert B. Essylstein, Arthur I. Gardner, Charles P. Goldsmith, Sam H. Harris, Charles Hoffman, I. D. Karpas, Felix Lilienthal, I. Miller, Nathan M. Ohrbach, Louis S. Rose, Arthur Siegman, Emil M. Sostman, Arthur Steinweg, Arthur Tarshis, A. Traina and John Zanft.

$50,000,000 ALLOTTED FOR HOLIDAY SPENDING

Banks Call Loans to Meet Large Withdrawals for Thanksgiving —Reports Late This Week.

Banks in New York began yesterday to prepare for withdrawals by their depositors of $50,000,000 of currency to be spent in connection with Thanksgiving. Most bankers estimated the withdrawals at that figure. The preparations were reflected in a tightening in the loan market, which sent the call-money rate up to 7½ per cent, against 6½ per cent at the end of last week. No appreciable change in the rate is expected now until after the holiday.

Data bearing on the money market and also on loan trends, usually issued by the Federal Reserve Bank after the close of the market on Thursday, will not be available this week until Friday afternoon on account of the holiday. The statistics to be released on Friday include the brokers' loans, the weekly international gold movement and the statement of condition of the New York Federal Reserve Bank and the twelve Federal Reserve banks combined. The directors of the Federal Reserve Bank, who meet regularly on Thursday afternoons, held their meeting yesterday instead. They made no change in the bank's rediscount rate of 5 per cent.

First Year of Bankers Life.

Clarence Hodson & Co., Inc., fiscal agents for the Bankers National Life Insurance Company of Jersey City, announced yesterday that the latter company reports a total paid business in force of $10,506,206, representing 8,000 policy holders for the first year of its operation, which ended Nov. 3, 1928. Outstanding business to date is more than $13,000,000, the report said. The company has representatives in seventeen States and the District of Columbia and agencies in fifteen States.

Two Savings Banks Increase Rates.

The Broadway Savings Bank and the Italian Savings Bank have increased their dividend rates to depositors to 4½ per cent, as against the rate of 4 per cent formerly paid. The increases were in line with a general policy of savings banks in New York of advancing their rates, partly as a result of competition for funds by the stock market.

Instalment Plan for Airplanes.

Purchases of airplanes on the instalment plan are made possible under a system developed at Baltimore by the Commercial Credit Company, which has just organized a special airplane division, headed by T. W. Mitchell in two twelve-passenger planes have been delivered on the partial payment plan and are now engaged in commercial work on Middle Western airways.

URGE NON-PARTISAN TARIFF COMMISSION

Business Leaders Propose Quasi-Judicial Board With Full Power to Adjust Rates.

COMMITTEE TO FRAME BILL

Plan Would Transfer Duty Fixing Power From the President to Experts Serving for Life.

Creation of a non-partisan, quasi-judicial body endowed with the power to adjust tariff rates in keeping with changes in economic conditions is the ideal at which the National Tariff Conference, sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers, is aiming in its desire to take the tariff out of politics, according to John E. Edgerton, president of the association, who presided at the conference at the Waldorf yesterday. A committee empowered to investigate the practical side of the creation of such a body was authorized in a resolution adopted and Mr. Edgerton was instructed to name the committee. For the first time, it was said, representatives of agricultural interests were present at the conference in addition to the many industrial representatives.

The committee to be named, Mr. Edgerton explained, will confer with President Coolidge, President-elect Hoover, the House Ways and Means Committee, the Senate Finance Committee and other sources of information in working out a practical plan.

"After drafting the plan," Mr. Edgerton continued, "the committee will submit the result to another conference, where a bill covering the suggestions will be drawn up and introduced into Congress."

Changes contemplated at present, he said, include the appointment of a commission of experts, including practical business men and economists, who would serve life terms. They might operate either as a court or on a basis similar to the Interstate Commerce and Federal Trade Commissions. Given a basic tariff law by Congress, the new body would have full authority to adjust rates as economic conditions dictated. An avenue for quick action in regulating duties thus would be available to all industry, including agriculture.

More Flexibility Desired.

"The flexible tariff provision of the present law would be rendered more flexible under the change we contemplate and the President would be relieved from participation in its operation. It was the general sense of those present that the President has too many demands upon him already and should not be burdened with the flexible tariff law," Mr. Edgerton added. "After all, such action as the President takes is dependent upon reports from the present Tariff Commission."

General dissatisfaction with the operation of the Tariff Commission under the current law was expressed at the conference, it was said, and those present agreed that its political basis and lack of power to enforce its findings were responsible for miniature of Congress in operation making the commission ineffectual.

"It has been simply a sort of miniature of Congress in operation," Mr. Edgerton told the gathering. "The personnel of that commission has not always been of the quality that would be a guarantee of effective action, as was anticipated.

"The commission has not measured up by any means. That is the fault of the way the commission was set up, or at least that is the way it is generally regarded."

Considering the strong possibility of a special session of Congress, the committee to be named by Mr. Edgerton will be instructed to complete its findings, if possible, by next March, in order that any bill drafted may be presented at such a session. There will be no effort made to introduce a measure in the short session next month, he added.

Resolution of Conference.

The resolution authorizing appointment of the committee was introduced by Colonel C. F. H. Johnson of the Botany Consolidated Mills, Inc., of New York and seconded by Joseph Bancroft of Joseph Bancroft & Son, Inc., of Wilmington, Del. It read as follows:

"That a committee be appointed by the chairman to investigate the question of how a Tariff Commission may become an effective functioning body and with this object in view to consult the Ways and Means Committee, the Senate Finance Committee, the President, the President-elect or such other effective bodies or organizations as in their judgment may be helpful and report back to this body at a meeting to be called by the chairman."

The cement industry and the shoe industry, which face keen competition through the free importation of such products, were cited as examples of the need for a commission which could investigate and act speedily on questions where changes endanger the prosperity of an American industry.

Among the 100 representatives present at the conference were Chester H. Gray, Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation; Philip Le Boutillier, chairman of the Tariff Committee of the National Retail Dry Goods Association; William Burgess, former member of the Tariff Commission, of Trenton, N. J., and representatives of cement, textile, leather, steel, glass, chemical and other industries.

CORPORATION REPORTS.

Statements for Various Periods From Industrial and Other Companies.

The Borg & Warner Corporation reports for the ten months of 1928 a net income of $3,939,960, which, after the deduction of preferred dividends for the period, left a balance of $3,855,360, equal to $9.46 a share earned on 410,000 shares of common stock.

National Cash Register Company.

The National Cash Register Company reports for the ten months ended on Oct. 31 a consolidated net profit of $5,907,629, after depreciation, Federal taxes and other charges, equivalent, under the participating provisions of the shares, to $3.94 a share earned on 1,100,000 shares of common A stock and 400,000 shares of common B stock. This compares with $5,300,261 or $3.53 a share in the first ten months of the previous year. Net profit for the first ten months of 1928, if applied directly to the class A stock, was equal to $5.37 a share, against $4.82 a share in the same period last year.

Punta Alegre Sugar.

The Punta Alegre Sugar Company shows for the year ended Sept. 30 a net loss of $508,890 after interest, depreciation, taxes and other charges. In the previous year net profit after interest, depreciation, taxes and estimated loss of $850,000 on liquidation of sugar refining contract was $312,549, equal after subsidiary preferred dividend to 76 cents a share on 381,537 shares of stock.

Skelly Oil Company.

The Skelly Oil Company for October reports net earnings of $704,118 after all charges, including depletion, depreciation and reserve for Federal income tax, equivalent to 64 cents a share. This compares with $689,654 in September and $661,663 in August. Net earnings for the first ten months of 1928 were $3,166,525, or $2.89 a share.

Paramount Cab Manufacturing.

A. S. Freed, president of the Paramount Cab Manufacturing Company, announced yesterday that October production was 50 per cent greater than that of September. He estimated November's output at 33 1-3 per cent above October.

HUPP-CHANDLER TERMS.

Plans for Merger on Cash or Exchange Basis to Be Announced Soon.

Definite plans for the consolidation of the Hupp Motor Car Company and the Chandler-Cleveland Motors Corporation have not been worked out, but announcement of the terms will be made shortly, according to information received in Wall Street yesterday from Cleveland. It is reported that the Chandler stock will be acquired on a basis that will give holders at least $28 a share for common and $33 a share for preferred.

The Hupp interests, it is understood, are prepared to offer an exchange of stock if an agreement is not reached on a cash offer. According to Wall Street reports, one share of Hupp may be offered for three shares of Chandler common and one share of Hupp for two and a half shares of Chandler preferred.

TWO CARGO SHIPS SOLD.

Shipping Board Disposes of Last of Laid-Up Pacific Fleet.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The cargo steamers Diablo, 9,656 tons, and Mohinkis, 9,637 tons, the last two government-owned ships in the laid-up fleet on the Pacific Coast, were sold today by the Shipping Board to the General Engineering & Dry Dock Company of San Francisco for $25,000 each, payable 25 per cent. cash and the balance in five equal annual installments.

The purchaser agreed to substitute new engines for the present turbine engines in the Mohinkis and either reciprocating or Diesel engines in the Diablo. The estimated cost of the engines is $100,000 for each ship.

German Official to Return Home.

Professor Wickard von Moellendorff, president of the German Bureau of Standards, is sailing for Germany tonight on the North German Lloyd liner Columbus, after a four weeks' visit to America. Professor von Moellendorff has visited Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Chicago and Detroit, studying American industrial conditions. He was accompanied by Dr. Max Ilgner, assistant financial executive of the German dye trust, who will remain here for several days.

Vitrite for American Solvents.

Announcement was made yesterday that the American Solvents and Chemical Corporation has joined an international syndicate that will control the purchase and sale of vitrite, a mineral product used as an absorbing and decolorizing agent. American Solvents will have exclusive rights to the product in the United States and Canada. Deposits of vitrite in India are controlled by the syndicate.

Negotiating Ice Cream Merger.

Negotiations for the consolidation of twelve large ice cream and dairy products companies in some of the principal cities of Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas are being carried on by George F. Forman & Co. and Moore, Leonard & Lynch. An offering of common stock will be made upon consummation of the proposed consolidation.

PAPER COMPANY EXPANDS.

International Has Plans for Still More Mills in South.

Rapid expansion of the International Paper Company in the South is indicated by the recent acquisition of two Kraft paper mills in Louisiana and one in Mississippi, with additional mills under construction in Arkansas and at Mobile, Ala. The company has now decided to build still another Kraft paper mill in the Carolinas, giving the organization a total daily capacity of about 900 tons of Kraft paper and board, making it the world's largest factor in this branch of the industry.

Supplementing these activities, the International Paper Company is also expanding rapidly in the southern paper bag field, and as a result now ranks as one of the leading manufacturers of paper bags. Plants operated by subsidiaries are also producing cement bags, grocery and candy bags, bags for the millinery and notion trades, sacks for the charcoal, coal and flour industries and bags for a large number of other uses.

Proposes Stock Increase by Servel.

Frank E. Smith, President of Servel, Inc., has sent a letter to holders of voting trust certificates representing preferred and common stock, submitting a plan to increase the authorized common stock from 900,000 to 1,600,000 shares. "In my judgment, he wrote, "it is important that the company have additional common stock in its treasury which may be used by its Board of Directors from time to time for the purpose of retiring obligations or preferred stock, for expansion through the acquisition of affiliated companies or otherwise, or for other corporate purposes." No immediate increase in the outstanding stock is contemplated.

TO USE RAINBOW SIGNS.

General Outdoor Advertising in Deal With Luminous Products Co.

George L. Johnson, Chairman of the General Outdoor Advertising Company, and his associates have exercised an option to purchase a substantial interest in Rainbow Luminous Products, Inc., for $5,000,000. The Rainbow company owns eight patents covering its products in the use of argon, helium, xenon, krypton and other rare gas mixtures which produce distinctive colors through electrification in glass tubes.

"All of the patents under which the new improved commercial products of the Rainbow companies are manufactured have been recently issued," Mr. Johnson says. "This assures protection of processes and products over a long period of years. There is also assurance of a permanent market for the commercial products through long-term contracts with the principal outdoor advertising companies in the United States."

PUBLIC UTILITY NOTES.

The Wisconsin Gas and Electric Company, a North American subsidiary, has just placed in service a $600,000 addition to the Racine gas plant, equipped with gas-coke ovens of the vertical type and the first of its kind in the United States. An eighty-five-mile high-pressure gas line has been completed to extend gas service to small cities, villages and farms, adding 3,000 new customers.

The Toledo Edison Company has completed its purchase of the Archbold Electric Service Company.

The Niagara, Lockport and Ontario Power Company has applied to the Public Service Commission for approval of a franchise granted by Holley, Orleans County, under which the company will extend its electric distribution line and supply to the municipal lighting plant in Holley.

The Mohawk-Hudson Power Corporation has applied to the Public Service Commission for consent to the acquisition of more than 10 per cent of the capital stock of the Chautauqua Gas Light Company of Amsterdam at $75 a share, the petition stating that the company has entered into an agreement with holders of at least 35 per cent of the Amsterdam company.

Holiday Shopping Gains Headway.

Something of a record for early holiday shopping by consumers is being set up, according to department store executives here. Ordinarily it is the week after Thanksgiving which sees the first active wave of consumer shopping, but gift purchasing promises to be considerably ahead when that period is reached this year. All in all, there is much to justify the expectation that the total holiday volume will set a new record, exceeding that of last year by a substantial percentage. Buying of seasonal apparel also took a spurt over the week end.

Desire Duty on Shoes.

Directors of the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association have put themselves on record as strongly opposed to a duty on hides and skins, and favoring a reasonable import levy on shoes to offset differences between foreign and domestic labor costs. It is their contention that a duty on hides and leather would increase the cost of shoes to American consumers without benefiting the farmers of the country. This position has been taken following a long study of the situation by the Tariff Investigation Committee, headed by J. Franklin McElwain. The desire for a reasonable impost on shoes is based on the difference in wages here and abroad.

Testing Bureau for Retail Group.

Establishment of a bureau of fabric research was announced yesterday by the Associated Dry Goods Corporation of New York. The bureau, which will ultimately deal with a wider variety of goods than textiles, will analyze new purchases and customers' claims and develop merchandise standards. It will be headed by Miss Lillian Edgerton, who has been connected for some years with James McCreery & Co. The Associated Dry Goods Corporation is composed of Lord & Taylor, James McCreery & Co., Hahne & Co., Newark; J. N. Adam & Co., Buffalo; Stewart & Co., Baltimore; Stewart Dry Goods Company, Louisville; Powers Mercantile Co., Minneapolis, and the William Hengerer Company, Buffalo, N. Y.

Sales Buying Features Coats.

Some improvement is noted in the coat trade, in line with the temperature drop of the last few days. Most of the buying, however, is of sales merchandise for retail events during the next week or so and also for January sales. The supply available continues equal to the demand, little or no difficulty being reported by retailers, although manufacturers' stocks are not extra large. It is figured, however, that the later buying for sales after the turn of the year may encounter some scarcity as producers are now giving their attention almost entirely to Spring lines.

Toy Demand Starts Well.

Indications are that the present season will shape up as the best in years as far as toys are concerned. Reorders already are developing nicely and shortages of a number of items are being freely predicted. Both department and chain stores are doing an earlier business than usual in toys, and, in addition to reorders, requests urge delivery of merchandise already on order. In the higher priced playthings the electric train outfits are strongly featured and are meeting with a greater response than last year. A trend toward pushing scientific toys is noted in the offering of an elaborate microscope outfit at a popular price.

Spring Silk Bookings Ahead.

Booking of orders for Spring silks continues at a good pace, and leading producers are now credited with a backlog of orders that compares very well with last year at this time. Manufacturing schedules are being stepped up and promise to show gains for some weeks. Prints by far dominate the situation and original patterns and colorings are in strong demand and are meeting with rapid exploitation in the resort wear and early Spring garment lines. Contrast is an outstanding feature of the color treatment of the new prints. The outlook for sheer silks, including chiffons and georgettes, is considered excellent.

Advance Sweate. Buying Fair.

Men now on the road with recently opened lines of sweaters for Fall, 1929, are turning in a fair volume of orders on heavy "shakers," sport coats and other staple lines. Pull-overs are also moving fairly well in both crew and V-neck effects. Blacks and navies are the favored colors. Prices for the new season are no higher than last year's, with here and there a reduction, and this is apparently giving buyers confidence in making their early commitments. For Spring delivery, orders are coming in fairly well for men's and women's slipovers, especially the latter. So-called baby "shakers" are doing especially well for Spring.

Handkerchief Outlook Good.

Excellent business in handkerchiefs for 1929 is presaged by the fine sales volume that has been rolled up so far this year and is swelling daily. Many handlers of these lines are having the best season in years. Domestic goods, in particular, are selling better than for a long while, and this was said yesterday to be due in part to the cutting off of a good portion of the Porto Rican supply by the storm that devastated the island some time ago. General reorders so far have been numerous, with boxed goods and the better grades both moving well. Children's goods of colored silk, set off with printed nursery characters and other motifs of interest to young folks, are being reordered actively.

Gray Goods Tone Strong.

Trading in gray goods was more active here yesterday, and the undertone of the market was further strengthened by the rise in cotton. Large sales of 38½-inch 64-60s were reported at 7¾ cents. Buyers paid 9 cents for spot 39-inch 68-72s, with some houses holding them an eighth higher for January-March delivery. Ten cents was paid for 39-inch 72-76s, and there was further trading in 80-squares of that width at 11 cents. Sheetings, though firmer, were none too active. Sales of 40-inch 2.85s were made at 11¾ to 11½ cents, while 8½ cents was paid for 37-inch 48-square, four-yard goods. Quite a nice business was done in fine-yarn fancies, and in the specialties active buying of 37½-inch 64-104, 4.37-yard sateens was reported. Southern goods brought 11 cents. In the East they sold at 11¾ to 11½ cents.

Opera Singer Fined for Speeding.

Dreda Aves, Metropolitan Opera singer, who lives at the Hotel Ansonia, Broadway and Seventy-third Street, was fined $25 in Traffic Court yesterday by Magistrate Macrery. The singer received a summons for speeding on the Harlem River Speedway at 165th Street last Saturday.

TRADING IN RUBBER DULL.

Market Closes Barely Steady—Only Price Changes Are Downward.

Trading in crude rubber futures on the Rubber Exchange was dull and the price movement narrow yesterday. Opening fairly steady, the market dipped a little and then closed barely steady with prices in seven deliveries unchanged to 20 points down. Sales amounted to 453 contracts, most of them turned in in the first and closing hours.

London made slight recoveries at the close after a dull session which opened with declines of ⅛d to ¼d. Spot and December closed unchanged at 8¾d; January unchanged at 8¾d; January-March, ⅛d down at 8¾d; April-June, unchanged at 9d; July-September, unchanged at 9¼d. Singapore was quiet with prices unchanged to ⅛d lower. Stocks in London were cut 2,470 tons to 18,724 tons at close of last week.

Prices on the local exchange were:

COMMODITY PRICES.

Spot cotton continued to feature the cash markets again yesterday and, following up the advantage registered in last week's market, was marked up 40 points to 21 cents, highest since July 28. Grains also contributed their share in improvement, wheat, corn, rye and oats moving higher. Other articles were uniformly unchanged over last Saturday.

Yesterday's closing wholesale cash prices for commodities, in the New York market unless otherwise noted, were:

COTTONSEED OIL.

Cottonseed oil was moderately stronger in yesterday's trading on the New York Produce Exchange. Prices at the close were from 2 to 5 points higher. Sales totaled 17,000 barrels. There was a sustained buying movement during a good part of the day, which met comparatively light offerings.

LIVE STOCK AT CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Hogs were 5 cents to 15 cents higher, due to smaller receipts than expected, but the finish was weak, and purchases of only 1,000 by shippers were about the smallest on record for a Monday. A top of $8.75 was made early, or 20 cents above Saturday, but later it was hard to get above $8.60. The day's average was 10 cents higher at $8.50. Main sales of 160 to 200 pound averages were at $8 to $8.65, with 200 to 250 pound kinds $8.40 to $8.70 and 250 to 350 pound butchers at $8.40 to $8.75. Packers bought 27,100, with 5,000 left over. Receipts, 36,000 with 36,000 estimated for tomorrow.

Cattle advanced 25 cents to 50 cents for main sales, receipts being about half of what they were a week ago. Best steers sold up to $16.75, with bulk of beef cattle at $10.75 to $15. Receipts, 15,000. Fat lambs were steady to 25 cents lower, with the finish at the bottom. Bulk of natives sold at $12.85 to $13.25, with a top of $13.50. Sheep were steady at $5.50 to $6.50. Receipts, 15,000.

LIVE STOCK AND MEATS.

These prices were reported yesterday in the New York and Jersey City markets by the United States Department of Agriculture.

CATTLE.

Steers in limited supply, active, strong; spots higher; medium 1,000 to 1,450 pound weights, $13@15.50; common 1,000-pound grassers, $11.50. Liberal receipts cows, active, steady to 25c higher; few good $9@10; medium, $7.75@8.75; all cutters $5.50@6.50. Bulls firm; medium bologna, $6.75@8.75; common light weights $7.50@8.50.

CALVES.

Vealers fairly active, steady to 50c lower; good to choice, $15.50@18; medium, $12.50@15; cull and common, $8@11.50; common Southern calves, $6.

SHEEP.

Lambs slow, quality plain, mostly 25c lower; good to choice, $13@13.75; State lambs up to $13.25; medium $12@12.50; cull and common largely $9; fat ewes $5@7.

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

Despite the issuance of 121 notices against December contracts, raw sugar futures on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange were firmer yesterday. Initial quotations were from 1 point higher to 1 point lower. The notices circulated freely, but after noon they were stopped. Cuban interests and trade shorts bought December. Business in withdrawals in the refined market was good, while new business was fair.

Cocoa.

After expecting a large number of tenders against December cocoa, prices for futures firmed slightly on the New York Cocoa Exchange yesterday when they totaled only 43.

SILK FUTURES DECLINE.

Silk futures declined gradually in trading on the National Raw Silk Exchange yesterday, prices at the close showing losses of one to three cents a pound. Traders seemed uncertain as to the outlook, so that orders were rather scarce while those that came in were too strictly limited to permit very large swings in either direction. Sales were confined to four months, and reached a total of 130 bales. At noon, November went off the board, issuance of twelve transferable notices on the last day having failed to stimulate trading.

Cables from Yokohama indicated an advance of two to six yen a bale in silk futures in the primary market there yesterday. Spot silk at Kobe and Yokohama held steady at 1,350 yen a bale.

The range of prices for futures on the New York market yesterday was as follows:

	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.

Too Much Stretch in Hosiery Yarn.

Although considerable progress has been made during the past several months in turning out acceptable full-fashioned hosiery of artificial silk to retail at $1, it was said here yesterday that production of really good hose of this type is awaiting the development of a yarn that can be shrunk sufficiently to preserve a maximum of tensile strength. Most of the rayon and other yarns of this type, it was further said, are still too elastic to provide this maximum. Rapid strides in this direction are being made in certain quarters, and it was said to be possible that production of the yarn of the desired quality is just around the corner.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Butter.

Receipts Nov. 24, 4,636 packages. Pretty sharp bidding and in sufficient supplies made a very strong feeling with prices ½c higher on top grades with other qualities showing slight improvement. A number of short held and Summer made stock had to be used because of the shortage of fresh butter.

WALKER TO INSPECT BROOKLYN PARK SITE

Tour Tomorrow Also to Cover Shore Road and Coney Island Av. for Survey of Projects.

In the company of borough officials, Mayor Walker plans to make a tour of inspection in Brooklyn tomorrow, starting at 3 P. M. from a point in Brooklyn not yet designated, it was learned yesterday at the City Hall. The trip, which will be made by motor car, has a threefold purpose. The Mayor plans to visit the Shore Road, part of which would be re-zoned to permit the erection of apartment houses under a proposal before the Board of Estimate. He also wants to view the progress of work on the widening of Coney Island Avenue, where malls are being removed from the centre of the roadway. The third point to be visited, according to the schedule, is the site of the proposed Marine Park, on Jamaica Bay, development of which has been urged by Brooklyn property owners.

The Mayor will be accompanied on the tour by Borough President James J. Byrne, Borough Consulting Engineer Philip P. Farley, Public Works Commissioner Henry Hesterberg and Park Commissioner James J. Browne, it was said.

The proposed waterfront park, which would encompass more than 1,200 acres, with frontage on the bay of 20,000 feet, according to the preliminary outline of the Brooklyn Department of Parks, would cost from $30,000,000 to $50,000,000 to develop. A comprehensive plan for the project is being prepared by engineers of the Board of Estimate and the Park Department, the Mayor told a delegation, headed by former United States Senator William M. Calder, which visited him recently at the City Hall to urge the start of development work.

GASOLINE PRICES LOWER.

Both Refinery and Service Station Figures in Week.

Motor gasoline prices were lower during the week ended Nov. 24, according to the Oil, Paint and Drug Reporter. Prices at four principal refinery centres averaged 9.81 cents a gallon, against 9.94 cents the week before and 7.19 cents last year. Service station prices in ten principal marketing centres averaged 20.47 cents, against 20.57 cents the preceding week and 17.84 cents last year.

Crude oil at the well was unchanged, averaging in ten principal fields $1.69 a barrel, against $1.32 last year. Domestic crude production from the beginning of the year to Nov. 24, according to the above authority, has totaled 790,029,000 barrels, against 813,496,000 barrels in the corresponding period of 1927.

RHODE ISLAND MILLS CUT WAGES 5 PER CENT.

11,600 Employes of Four Companies Affected by Move to Equalize Pay With Competitors.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 26 (AP).—Four Rhode Island mill companies, controlling eight plants and employing about 11,600 workers, today announced reductions in wages declared to be necessary in equalizing pay here with that of other New England textile centres.

While the announcement did not state the amount of the cut, it was learned through the Lonsdale Company that it would be 5 per cent. The reduction goes into effect Dec. 3 with the Lonsdale Company, J. & P. Coats (R. I.), Inc., the Manville-Jenckes Company and the Valley Falls Company.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Nov. 26 (AP).—Francis J. Gorman, first vice president of the United Textile Workers of America, issued a statement through the local offices of the organization today in which he said that a special meeting of the emergency board would be called to decide what action would be taken by the workers in regard to the 5 per cent wage reduction announced in Rhode Island mills today.

EAST SIDE RESALES A MARKET FEATURE

PLOT VALUED AT $1,100,000

Dyckman Block of Apartments Sold to Operator—Brown Enlarges West Side Holdings.

One of the largest deals this season in the easterly Yorkville section, which has been the scene of exceptional activity by operators and builders since Jan. 1, was closed yesterday with the purchase by Dr. Stuart L. Craig of two choice corner plots, one being the northeast corner of First Avenue and Seventy-second Street and the other the northeast corner of York Avenue and Seventy-ninth Street.

Both properties were acquired from the Dualin Holding Corporation, which purchased both of them within the past two weeks through Howard LeC. Roome, Inc., broker, in the present resale to Dr. Craig.

The First Avenue parcel includes the old flats at 1,344-1,348 First Avenue and 401-403 East Seventy-second Street, 76.8 feet on the avenue by 113 on the street. The other parcel includes the property at 1,498-1,508 York Avenue, fronting 157.8 feet by 98 feet on Seventy-ninth Street.

The holding price of the two plots was reported by the Roome firm as $1,100,000. In part payment the Dualin concern took from Dr. Craig the plot on the northwest corner of East End Avenue and Eighty-fifth Street, occupied by two converted flats, fronting 48 feet on the avenue by 98 on Eighty-fifth Street, and overlooking Carl Schurz Park and the East River.

One of Largest Recent Sales.

This sale, it is said, has probably been exceeded recently in value only by the transaction a short time ago in which L. Gordon Hamersley bought several properties from the Schulte Real Estate Company, including plots on East End Avenue, Eighty-third and Eighty-sixth Streets and York Avenue and also the sale of the Italian Hospital property to Eliot Cross and the Rhoades-Kennedy Corporation.

The Esbro Associates, Inc., operators, purchased the five-story double tenement at 303 East Thirty-ninth Street on a plot 25.6 by 65.4½ feet adjoining the northeast corner of Second Avenue. Edward C. Sternlight was the broker.

On the west side, Frederick Brown, operator, acquired title to 339 West Fifty-seventh Street, a five-story building on a plot 20 by 100.5 feet.

Mr. Brown owns 331-337 and 341, adjoining, and 334-346 West Fifty-eighth Street, abutting. With the latest purchase he has a holding fronting 128 feet on Fifty-seventh Street and 138 feet on Fifty-eighth Street. He assembled the site of the American Woman's Club and also owns the abutting southeast corner of Ninth Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street.

The title of 339 was passed by Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Bickley to the 1926 Holding Corporation of 565 Fifth Avenue, representing Mr. Brown.

Dyckman Block Front Sold.

In the Dyckman section, where there has been considerable speculative activity, a block front of "walk-up" apartments passed to new ownership.

The property, which is on Dyckman Street between Seaman and Payson Avenues, consists of two five-story apartments with stores on a plot 200 by 150 feet. They were purchased by Joseph F. A. O'Donnell, operator, from the Fandun Realty Company.

According to H. J. Rogers, the broker in the transaction, the property was held at $850,000 and the two buildings show a gross annual rent return of $115,000.

Another block front deal is reported pending in the same vicinity.

OTHER MANHATTAN SALES

Deals in Business and Other Parcels Reported Yesterday.

In the upper west side section, the two five-story flats at 471-473 West 145th Street, 75 by 99.11 feet, at the northwest corner of Convent Avenue, were purchased by Fred Horling from the Ravalon Realty Company.

A plot fronting about 170 feet on the north side of 187th Street, between Riverside Drive and Northern Avenue, extending to both of those thoroughfares, with frontages of about 100 feet on each, was purchased by the Hudsoncliff Building Corporation from Mary Kranichfeld.

The six-story apartment house at 97-111 Post Avenue, southeast corner of 204th Street, in the Dyckman section, covering a plot 200 by 150 feet, was sold to the Sophgin Realty Company, headed by Sophie D. Nagin of Brooklyn, by the Post-King Corporation, Harold L. Bailey, president.

The six-story loft structure at 43-47 East Tenth Street, plot 60.10 by 94.9 feet, was bought by William C. Tobey and others from the F. Hoffman estate.

The five-story building at 400 West Fourteenth Street, 50 by 103 feet, at the southwest corner of Ninth Avenue, was purchased by the 400 West Fourteenth Street Corporation from Arthur H. Kelly.

The six-story loft building at 14-16 Lispenard Street, 50 by 94 feet, has been sold by the Otto Gerdau Company to the Libilmun Realty Company, composed of C. M. Cortelyou, R. Walsh and D. C. Evans.

The Beekman Hill Realty Corporation sold the two five-story tenements at 928-930 Second Avenue, 50 by 100 feet, between Forty-ninth and Fiftieth Streets, to Luigi Sferraza.

The four-story tenement at 223 East Seventy-eighth Street, 13.10 by 102.3 feet, was bought by the Kass Realty Corporation, Irving Bachrach, from Frida Gidaly.

James L. Van Sant purchased from Arnoff & Schleifstein a plot 100 by 114 feet on the south side of 229th Street, 105 feet west of Paulding Avenue. The broker was E. Califano.

QUEENS REALTY SALES.

Transactions Reported Yesterday in Various Properties.

Fred G. Randall, as president of the Dongan Associates, sold four parcels near the Elmhurst station of the Long Island Railroad to the Foster Construction Company, Joseph Popkin, president. The parcel comprises the northeast and northwest corners of Dongan Avenue at Broadway, with a frontage of 278 feet on the latter. The buyers have built large apartments in the Thomson Hill and other sections of Queens, as well as in Manhattan. They plan to bring the property just acquired to grade and to erect apartments with stores on the Broadway frontage. Two six-story elevator apartment houses are planned for the remainder of the property. The Paris Agency acted as co-broker.

Northern Successors, Inc., sold a six-room frame and stucco house on the west side of 205th Street, south of Fifty-third Avenue, Flushing, to Arthur and Vivian Stephens of Little Neck. Quinlan, Terry & Johnson, Inc., were the brokers.

CONSTRUCTION HERE AHEAD OF LAST YEAR

Total in Metropolitan Area From Jan. 1 to Nov. 23 Exceeds All of 1927 by $346,400.

LAST WEEK RECORD OF 1928

Residential Structures Led With $12,053,400, or 50 Per Cent of the Aggregate.

New construction work in the metropolitan district has already exceeded in cash estimates the total construction volume for the year 1927. According to the Dodge reports the total value of new building work from Jan. 1 to Nov. 23 was $1,392,965,000; last year's total was $1,392,618,600. This gives an increase for the present year of $346,400.

During the week of Nov. 17 to 23, contracts valued at $20,870,900 were let on new building and engineering work in this area, being a gain of more than $1,000,000 over the total for the preceding week.

Residential buildings led with $12,053,400, or 50 per cent of the total. Educational projects amounted to $4,101,600, or 20 per cent; commercial buildings had a total of $2,309,000, or 11 per cent, and public works and utilities amounted to $1,069,300, or 5 per cent.

New work in contemplation during the past week represented the highest weekly total on record this year for the metropolitan territory. The total, $76,844,300, brought the daily average of new work contemplated since Jan. 1 to $8,088,000, or more than $2,000,000 ahead of the daily average of new contemplated work reported during the first eleven months last year.

JERSEY BUILDING SLACKENS.

Permits for Year to June 30, 1928, Show Drop From Preceding Year.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 26 (AP).—Twenty-six New Jersey municipalities in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1928, issued 27,742 permits for construction and alteration of buildings at an estimated cost of $163,670,033, as compared with $165,278,775, the total for the previous year. The annual report of the Department of Labor shows that 5,775 permits in the last period were for residences offering accommodations for 12,998 families, at a cost of $91,279,671. Permits for non-residential buildings totaled 9,229, at a cost of $52,512,818. There were 9,792 permits for repairs, alterations and additions at a cost of $18,871,327, with 2,946 permits for installations which cost $3,006,217.

Newark led the State in building activities. The 752 permits for residential buildings provided accommodations for 4,613 families. The 1,543 permits for non-residential buildings represented an investment of $14,064,340. There were 234 residential permits in Jersey City, providing for 1,354 families, while 411 non-residential permits involved a cost of $7,996,595. Hoboken had the least building of any municipality in the two years. In 1928 there were two residential permits and thirty-six non-residential, compared with three residential and twenty-three non-residential in 1927.

Building in Atlantic City made provision for 122 families, compared with 289 the year previous; Bayonne, 448 families, compared with 711; Elizabeth, 1,294, compared with 1,827; New Brunswick, 273, compared with 162; Passaic, 529, compared with 380, and Paterson, 719, compared with 1,278.

PATENTS BUILDING METHOD.

George Martin Devises Slab and Concrete Construction.

George Martin of Brooklyn has obtained patents on a method of building construction by which he says a cement and practically fireproof house can be erected at the cost of a frame house.

According to the inventor, the method is to construct a building of cement slabs, tongue and grooved on all four edges, representing brick.

There are two anchorages embedded in backs of slabs made even with the back, leaving room for anchors. The slabs before being placed in position are dipped in a tar product; also a dye, giving any color required. The tar also helps to bind the slabs to the cement.

The interior of the house is made damp-proof by applying a German patented material. This does away with lathing, furring and a coat of heavy mortar.

These slabs are used for a finished outside form anchored to a wooden back form. After this is done, concrete is poured in and allowed to set. The inside form is then removed. The inventor says there is no upkeep to this kind of house.

BRONX. BRONX. BRONX.

Builders of a Bigger and Better BRONX

He Swapped Aladdin's Lamp For an Electric Light

Hon. Albert Goldman

NO one thinks of the amazing growth of The Bronx without thinking of Albert Goldman.

"The Commissioner of Plant and Structures of The City of New York" is a long title. But rarely has a man so greatly merited the title, and the opportunities and responsibilities that go with it!

It was Albert Goldman's genius for getting things done—modernly, efficiently—that made him throw away his Aladdin's Lamp to assume charge of the N. Y. Edison Company's huge Bronx Plant.

As Founder and First President of the Bronx Rotary Club, and of the Board of Trade, he raised the beacon-light of Progress Through Cooperation.

His fraternal, civic and philanthropic connections are legion. Seemingly, there isn't a single enterprise concerning the Betterment of the Bronx that does not command his enthusiastic devotion and helpful service.

* * * * * * *

When the Bronx can boast of such leaders as Albert Goldman it is easy to have faith in its future. As specialists in East Bronx Home and Apartment sites the Daniels Realty Organization has seen that faith vindicated. We have seen thousands of ambitious families answer the call of this "Community Opportunity".

We have seen these families prosper. We have shared their joys and triumphs! And we are grateful, indeed, for this privilege of helping them build lifetime happiness on the sound and sure foundation of HOME OWNERSHIP in THE BRONX.

Our Developments in EAST BRONX
Consist of the Following Properties:

1. EAST BRONX HOMESITES—On Eastern Boulevard & 177th St.
2. CASTLE HILL HEIGHTS—
3. CASTLE HILL HOMESITES—

TRADE FACILITIES BUILDING

Ultra-Modern Housing for Manufacturers and Distributers

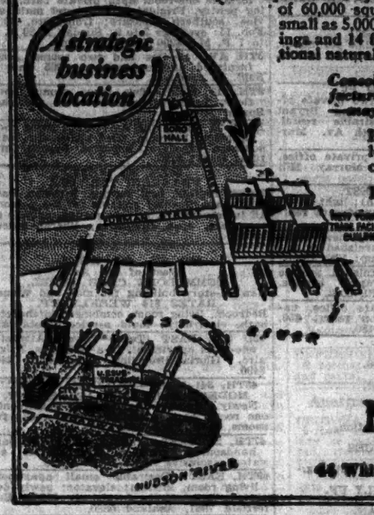
More Economical and Less Restrictive than Ownership

Years ahead in design and services

Fifteen-ton truck elevators for local shipments and the building's free railroad freight handling service unite ground floor accessibility with upper floor advantages throughout the building. The tenant's handling costs and liability end at his door. All handling under cover. Building's sidings have direct connections with ten trunk line railroads.

Unobstructed floors and the exclusion of service areas from rentable space decrease tenants' space requirements by 15 to 25 per cent. Single floors of 60,000 square feet, divisible into units as small as 5,000 square feet. Unusual surroundings and 14 foot story heights provide exceptional natural lighting.

A strategic business location



Consolidation of all departmental activities—manufacturing, distributing, sales, executive, clerical—may be fittingly accomplished at this location.

High speed passenger elevators, an impressive entrance lobby and recreational facilities. Office building dignity combined with factory utility.

Four blocks from Borough Hall, Brooklyn, with its unequalled rapid transit service; 14 minutes from Wall Street. A central metropolitan location with the rural advantage of adjacent residential districts. Employer and employes may walk to work.

SALESMEN.

I will give you fully qualified real estate prospects, and transport these prospects to improved property 4 miles from the New Hudson River Bridge—a property endorsed by prominent men and being managed and sold by one of the oldest real estate firms in the Metropolitan District; these prospects will be seated in a comfortable auditorium on the property and thorough competent lecturers sold the merits of that property.

I WILL

I WILL

then turn those prospects over to you; 90% sold, for you to show property and I will help you close sales.

YOU WILL receive large cash commissions for your efforts. Remember the commissions are cash—debit accounts cannot buy Christmas presents.

I WILL

show you clearly how this is being done at a meeting Wednesday night of this week at 8 P. M. sharp, 10th floor, 130 West 42d St.

Reservations taken by telephone. Wisconsin 5442.

REFEREE'S SALES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK.—In the matter of 2800 UNIVERSITY AVENUE CORP., bankrupt.—No. B45500. A meeting of creditors will be held at the office of HAROLD P. COFFIN, Referee in Bankruptcy, on Dec. 7, 1928, at 10:30 A. M., at No. 217 Broadway, City of New York, for the purpose of considering the offer made by John Hefter to purchase the following described premises owned by the bankrupt, to wit:

ALL that certain lot, piece or parcel of land, situate, lying and being in the Borough of the Bronx, County of Bronx, in the City and State of New York, known as Lots numbered 548 to 567 inclusive, on a certain map entitled "Map of property of the Van Cortlandt Estate, situate between Broadway and Sedgwick Avenue south of Van Cortlandt Park in the 34th Ward, Borough of the Bronx, New York City," made by Geo. E. Lovell, C. E. and C. S., dated April 26, 1912, and filed in the office of the Register of New York County as map number 1628;

BEGINNING at a point on the corner formed by the intersection of the westerly side of Orloff Avenue and the southerly side of Van Cortlandt Park South; running thence southerly along the westerly side of Orloff Avenue, 150.19 feet to the corner formed by the intersection of the westerly side of Orloff Avenue and the northerly side of Gale Place; thence westerly at right angles to the last mentioned course along the northerly side of Gale Place, 249.15 feet to a point; thence northerly along the easterly side of Gale Place as it turns, 92.92 feet to the southerly side of Van Cortlandt Park South; thence easterly along the southerly side of Van Cortlandt Park South, 249.15 feet to the point or place of beginning, for the sum of $42,000, as follows:

$14,000 by taking the premises subject to a first mortgage, now a lien against the same; $22,500 by taking the premises subject to a second mortgage, now a lien against the premises, and the sum of $5,500 in cash, all interest on mortgages and taxes for the current year to be adjusted as of the date of closing title, and premises to be conveyed free and clear of all liens or encumbrances except the above mentioned two mortgages; commission at the rate of 2½% on the said purchase price of $42,000 to be paid on the day of closing; offer stipulates that may be made for said property, and in the event that no better offer is made at the said meeting on the said 7th day of December, 1928, then the said Harold P. Coffin, Referee herein, will be authorized to sell the said property upon the terms and conditions hereinabove set forth.

HAROLD P. COFFIN,
Referee in Bankruptcy.
Dated, New York City, Nov. 26th, 1928.

BANKRUPTCY NOTICES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, Southern District of New York.—In the matter of CROWN MUSIC CO., Bankrupt.—In bankruptcy, No. 45174.—Upon the annexed petition of E. C. Mills, the trustee herein, duly verified the 14th day of November, 1928, and upon the offer of the Richmond Music Supply Corp., annexed to the said petition, and it appearing that the prayer of the said petition is reasonable and proper,

NOTICE is hereby given to all the known creditors of the above-named bankrupt show cause before me at my office, No. 7 Day Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 17th day of November, 1928, at 12 o'clock noon, why the offer of the Richmond Music Supply Corp. to purchase the trustee's right, title and interest of the trustee in and to all of the assets and property of the Crown Music Co., consisting of the stock and all merchandise, accounts, bills and notes receivable, furniture, fixtures and equipment, goodwill, trade-marks, trade-names, the use of the corporate name, copyrights, plates, &c., for the sum of $35,000.00, or any higher bid, should not be accepted, and why the Court should not approve the said offer and direct the performance of the terms thereof, or any higher bid, and sufficient reason appearing therefore,

LET service hereof be made by mailing a copy of this order to each of the known creditors of the above named bankrupt, and directed to their last known place of business or address on or before the 17th day of November, 1928, and by publishing a copy of this order in the Daily Record and in the New York Times on the 17th day of November, 1928, and again on the 24th day of the same month, to wit, November 24th, 1928.

Dated, New York, November 14th, 1928.
PETER B. OLNEY JR., Referee.

SIX ON SHIP HURT IN STORM.

Freighter Millpool at Portland, Me., After Perilous Atlantic Trip.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 26.—With six seamen injured and her battered decks testifying to the fury of two hurricanes she had passed through; the freighter Millpool was in port today after a twenty-three-day voyage from Fowey, England, that ordinarily would have been made in sixteen.

The story of the freighter's fight to keep afloat was told today by Captain S. E. Batson, who said the steamer would have foundered but for the oil that was pumped upon the water for eighteen hours.

"We had heavy gales all the way," Captain Batson said. "After a succession of bad storms there came the first hurricane, then the second."

The freighter frequently intercepted S O S calls from other ships far away, he said. Later, when the Millpool's plight warranted a call for aid the freighter's crew preferred to fight their battle themselves.

During one of the hurricanes Arthur Hird, a seaman, was caught by an inboarding sea and tossed from the trunk deck to the hull deck. One of his arms was broken and it was set by shipmates. Five others were injured before the danger was over. Hird was taken to a hospital here when the steamer docked.

CHINA RELIEF FUND RESUMES ACTIVITY

Warring Generals Promise That Famine Sufferers Will Get Aid Intended for Them.

RED CROSS GAVE UP EFFORT

Directors Are Asked to Rejoin in Drive Dr. Cadman Started to Raise $10,000,000.

After appealing in vain to the American Red Cross to give aid to millions of Chinese who are facing death from famine due to civil war the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, President of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, and associates are reorganizing the China Famine Relief Fund to try to save the starving Orientals. The China Famine Relief Fund originally launched a campaign to raise $10,000,000, and actually raised about $300,000.

Like the American Red Cross, it found that it was impossible to distribute relief in the famine regions of war-torn China, where the Generals of opposing armies would give no guarantees that relief supplies would not be appropriated by their troops.

The Red Cross, according to local Red Cross officials, still extends no helping hand to China because it has been unable to obtain any guarantees from the opposing Chinese Generals that relief supplies would go to the non-combatant famine sufferers. It is acting on advice of the State Department, it was explained.

The China Famine Relief Fund, according to Dr. Sidney L. Gulick, representing a committee of the Federal Council of Churches, has received assurances from the warring Generals that relief sent to the famine sufferers by that relief organization will be distributed where it is intended. So the China Famine Relief Fund has opened new headquarters at 205 East Forty-second Street, with Major B. O. Lively as its executive director.

New Leaders Invited.

It has sent out invitations to a "considerable group of new leaders, important business men and others," according to Dr. Gulick, to accept membership on its Board of Directors. When a sufficiently large number of those invited have accepted membership, the China Famine Relief Fund will hold a meeting to elect officers and to map out its program for raising relief and distributing it among the famine sufferers.

Under the leadership of Dr. Cadman the China Famine Relief Fund was organized and set out to raise a $10,000,000 relief fund at the time that China was torn by civil war. The organization encountered first one difficulty and then another and decided in July to send John L. Baker, for many years American adviser to the Chinese Department of Communications (transportation) to China to make a survey of conditions in the famine areas and report on what he thought should be done.

Mr. Baker returned to New York about a month ago and made his report. It is on the basis of his report largely, according to Dr. Gulick, that the China Famine Relief Fund has decided to renew its activities on behalf of the famine-stricken Chinese. Not only on the advice of Mr. Baker but also on the advice of the International Famine Relief Commission is the China Famine Relief Fund reorganizing for a fresh effort.

Harbord to Be Invited Back.

Following its initial effort to distribute relief, the China Famine Relief Fund lost some of its directors who withdrew when it seemed impossible that the fund would make any headway because of the situation in China.

General James G. Harbord, President of the Radio Corporation of America, served as chairman of the fund at the time of its organization. Dr. Cadman was elected permanent chairman and General Harbord has since withdrawn. He will be invited to serve on the reorganized directorate, it is understood.

At the local offices of the American Red Cross it was explained that the Red Cross had withdrawn from relief work in China following its efforts of 1920 and 1921, when it distributed $1,214,000 in relief. At that time it gave work to 1,840,200 persons in the famine regions. Chinese who were facing starvation were put to work and paid in rice, clothes or money. In that way the Red Cross employed gainfully those facing starvation and succeeded in building 850 miles of roadways, of which 200 miles were through heavy mountain country, digging 3,650 wells and planting 40,000 trees.

Major Lively to whom Judge John Barton Payne wrote a letter explaining the attitude of the American Red Cross on the China famine relief question, received the letter, according to Dr. Gulick, who said that only Major Lively was in a position to discuss its contents. Major Lively had left the offices of the China Famine Relief Fund and he could not be reached last night at his home in White Plains.

Red Cross Has No Plans.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The American Red Cross has no plans for undertaking relief work for starving peoples in China and has no step in that direction in contemplation, Judge John Barton Payne, head of that organization, said today. As for the reasons for this position, he referred inquirers to church leaders in New York City, who, it is understood, are contemplating renewing efforts to raise a fund for China relief. Judge Payne, it was explained, recently sent a letter to church leaders outlining the attitude of the Red Cross.

If this letter is made public, Judge Payne preferred that it should come from those to whom it was addressed rather than by the Red Cross.

When the plight of thousands of starving Chinese first became known several months ago, the Red Cross made inquiry of the State Department as to the situation and was informed that, in the opinion of competent observers on the scene, supplies forwarded from the United States might be taken by the military and never reach the people.

Standard Oil Schooner Burns.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Nov. 26.—The Standard Oil Company motor schooner Chita, commanded by Captain Knight-Simmons, was destroyed by fire at Port of Spain, Trinidad, on Friday. Ten men were injured. The captain was ashore at the time of the fire.

ALTERED SHIP GETS TEST ON SATURDAY

Courageous First of Federal Fleet to Be Changed by Gibbs to Diesel Electric Drive.

WILL PERFORM IN HARBOR

Defiance and Triumph Also Will Be Ready Shortly for Trial of Their New Machinery.

The cargo ship Courageous, first of three of the government-owned fleet whose conversion from steam propulsion to Diesel electric drive was undertaken by Gibbs Brothers, naval architects and engineers, will be tested Saturday in New York harbor and if found satisfactory will shortly enter the merchant service.

The work has been done at the plant of the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock Company at Kearny, N. J., while similar programs of reconstruction are under way on the steamships Defiance and Triumph at the government shipyards at Norfolk and Boston, respectively. In shipping circles the program is considered one of the most important government projects in modernizing the fleet that was created by the war-time emergency.

The principal changes on the Courageous are the addition of eleven feet to its length and the installation of equipment that increases the ship's speed from ten to fourteen knots. Four Diesels, four electric generators and one motor were installed. A large diameter propeller was installed, designed to make sixty revolutions per minute. The ship is now 468 feet 6 inches long, 56 feet beam and 38 feet deep, and her deadweight tonnage is 10,500. She has a grain capacity of 606,627 cubic feet.

The main propelling power is generated by four McIntosh & Seymour Diesel engines, each of which has eight cylinders generating 1,200 brake horsepower per engine at 250 revolutions per minute. Each engine is directly coupled to a direct current propulsion generator. Only one propulsion motor is needed, as the ship is driven by a single screw, and this motor is a General Electric double-armature type, capable of delivering 4,000 shaft horsepower at sixty revolutions per minute.

The generators and propulsion motor are entirely enclosed, ventilation ducts and supply fans being provided to conduct air from the open decks direct to the machinery and then out to the open air. The propulsion equipment is controlled by the Ward-Leonard system with a hand-wheel operated reversing rheostat in the engine room and a control stand in the pilot house connected to a similar rheostat. A Sperry gyrocompass and "metal mike" help provide safe navigation.

The Defiance and the Triumph will soon be ready for their tests. The electric equipment of these ships is being installed by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

ALLEGED SEA GAMBLING BAFFLES LOS ANGELES

Ship Anchored Just Outside the 12-Mile Limit Is Visited by Hundreds From Shore.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26 (AP).—The Monfalcone, alleged gambling ship, has opened for business thirteen miles offshore, and its position apparently has baffled law enforcement officers. It was reported 200 people visited the ship Saturday night.

Visitors to the ship last night said that roulette wheels, dice, black jack and chuckaluck tables and money wheels were in full operation and another crowd was present.

Los Angeles County officials say that since the boat was off the Orange County coast it was outside their jurisdiction, while Orange County officials were doubtful if they had any legal right to interfere with a vessel b ond the twelve-mile limit.

Although it has been suggested the boat might be reached through checking up its papers, no move in that direction has been instituted.

"What is this talk of a gambling ship?" inquired the owner of a group of small boats which carried passengers to a fishing barge anchored half-way between the shore and the Monfalcone. "I have carried 200 fishermen to the barge, but if they have gone on to another ship, I know nothing of it."

Visitors to the ship said it was manned by a twelve-man crew with a licensed master aboard.

CONTEST FOR SHIP'S BAND.

Five College Orchestras to Compete for Service on Caronia.

Dance orchestras of five colleges will compete before a group of music critics Saturday afternoon, Dec. 8, in the ballroom of the Junior League Club, 133 East Sixty-first Street, the stake being selection as ship's orchestra when the Cunarder Caronia sails Dec. 27 on the first of her series of Winter trips to Havana. The contestants will represent Yale, Princeton, Columbia, New York University and Amherst.

The contest was arranged by Mark Haight of the Franco-Belgique Tours Company, who has organized several groups of college students for trips aboard the Caronia during the Christmas holidays. Students at Smith, Vassar, Yale, Princeton and Columbia have signed for the cruise thus far. Mr. Haight is a Yale graduate, '25, and was on the stage in support of Billie Burke, Elsie Ferguson and George Arliss.

The orchestra competition will be combined with a tea dance for the college groups which will come to New York to inspect the Caronia next week. College orchestras have been used by transatlantic lines in tourist third cabin, but never, it is believed, on ships in the West Indies service.

Three Die in Fumigated Ship.

BOSTON, Nov. 26 (AP).—Fumigating gas caused the deaths of three members of the crew of the steamship F. J. Luckenbach during the night. The bodies were found in the men's bunks today when the vessel was brought to Commonwealth Pier after having been fumigated in drydock yesterday. The men were Walter S. Demarcus, 38 years old, an assistant engineer; Angel Bass, 34, ship's carpenter, and A. Montediavo, 42, boatswain. All three were from New York. Other members of the crew had shore leave.
